Administrator Bruce Quits Job Under Fire

Indicates Pressure In His Statement

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin County Administrator Alan Bruce resigned under fire today with a salvo of his own at a variety of targets, including a government he said seeks to hire the "lowest common denominator" and a judicial system he said unwisely keeps Angela Y. Davis jailed.

Bruce, who turned 48 yesterday, announced he would quit his $29,410-per-year post on July 1, after this year's budget hearings are over. He has been county administrator for the past 10 years and was assistant to former administrator Donald Jensen for four years before that. (See story on page 22 for Bruce's career.)

Bruce indicated he had been pressured into resigning in the wake of his own demand for the resignation of Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, whom he charged with inept administration of the county health department.

Last week, the board of supervisors cleared Dr. Albrecht of the charges, expressing dismay at Bruce's conduct of the Albrecht affair, then called him into closed session.

In a prepared statement of resignation Bruce said:

"It is obvious now that I have been provoking your board into forcing me to turn in my uniform (before it turned into a strait-jacket). Having reached this conclusion, I feel a great happy sense of relief, freedom, light heartedness and opening of new horizons."

On Miss Davis, Bruce had this comment: "I must say that I am happy to remove myself from an establishment of which the judicial branch has not yet found a way to release Angela Davis on bail. What more obvious step could there be to lay the groundwork for a fair trial and incidentally permit some relaxation of onerous and costly security measures?"

On local government, Bruce warned that jealousies among the various small districts and local agencies with overlapping boundaries and responsibilities are leading to inefficiency and may force a regional, multipurpose agency to take over. "All unknowingly, they (local elected officials) may be about to preside over the demise of local government," said Bruce.

He criticized the supervisors for "non-reocgnition and even demeaning of outstanding performance by key county officers." He said that "at times, the movement towards the lowest common denominator seems to be encouraged, rather than striving for excellence."

Bruce said the supervisors have recognized the need to protect environment but he exhorted them to do more to preserve the coastline for public use. He warned against concentration of population in West Marin along the San Andreas Fault.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste moved to accept the resignation, and John F. McInnis seconded the motion. The supervisors accepted the resignation almost routinely by a 4-to-0 vote. Michael Wornum was in Sacramento on Golden Gate Bridge District business.

McInnis acknowledged that Bruce had exceptional ability in budget matters but said that Bruce failed to accept gracefully the policy decision of the board of supervisors.

Chairman Louis H. Baar said public confidence in Bruce has been diminishing.

Baptiste, however, maintained the right of the administrator to speak up instead of being a rubber stamp for the supervisors. "I hope that any chief administrative officer we have will be as strong a person as Alan Bruce has been," said Baptiste.

Bruce said he has no immediate plans after July 1. "My wife and I are seriously discussing taking an extended trip to Europe for six or nine months, unless some absolutely fabulous job offer comes up." He said he would prefer to roam in Europe for a while before getting back to work. He and his wife plan to continue living in San Anselmo.

A Landmark Bus Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court issued four major decisions today upholding bussing to achieve school integration and establishing up-to-date new guidelines for the courts to follow.

The decisions were unanimous. All were written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

The key opinion came in a North Carolina case where the state had challenged a federal district judge's order that bussing be increased in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg area to bring about racially balanced schools.

Burger said transfers were an integral part of many desegregation plans and "to be effective such a transfer arrangement must grant the transferring student free transportation."

The court also upheld zone pairings and a certain amount of deliberately imposed "racial balance" if needed to eliminate "all vestiges of state-imposed" segregation.

"School authorities have wide discretion in formulating school policy," Burger wrote, "and, as a matter of educational policy school authorities may well conclude that some kind of racial balance in the schools is desirable quite apart from any constitutional requirements."

"However," Burger said, "if a state-imposed limitation on a school authority's discretion operates to inhibit or obstruct the operation of a unitary school system or impede the disestablishing of a dual school system, it must fall."

"State policy must give way when it operates to hinder vindication of federal constitutional guarantees," Burger ruled.

The court discarded the administration's assertion that school assignment plans should be "color blind."

"That requirement, against the background of segregation, would render illusory the promise of the original school 1954 desegregation decision."

Appeal Judge To Study Prejudice

Justice Winslow Christian of the State Court of Appeal has set a hearing for 9 a.m. tomorrow to determine whether the latest judge in the Angela Y. Davis-Ruchell Magee case is prejudiced.

Justice Christian, 45, was appointed yesterday by Chief Justice Donald R. Wright of the State Supreme Court after attorneys in the case failed to agree on a judge to decide whether Judge Alan A. Lindsay should be disqualified.

Attorneys for Miss Davis had challenged Judge Lindsay on April 1 saying he was a white racist and could not give the 27-year-old black Communist a fair hearing.

Lindsay had been appointed by Chief Justice Wright to hear motions made by Miss Davis's attorneys asking that she be released on bail and that charges against her be dismissed.

Miss Davis and Magee are charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy, stemming from the August shoot-out at the Civic Center in which Judge Harold J. Haley and three other people died.

Lindsay was the fourth judge assigned to the case. Two Marin jurists, E. Warren McGuire and Joseph G. Wilson, earlier handled preliminary matters, but later they and the other three Marin Superior Court judges withdrew because of their friendship with the late Judge Haley.

An Inyo County judge, John P. McMurray also withdrew when Magee claimed he was prejudiced.

Lindsay, an Alameda County Superior Court judge, refused to follow McMurray's path, however, saying he could give Miss Davis and Magee a fair hearing.

Justice Christian said in an order filed today that he will listen only to legal arguments tomorrow in a Marin Hall of Justice courtroom and will not take evidence unless he deems it necessary.

He further said that he will listen to only one attorney for each side and that the lawyers will be limited to 45 minutes each.

Asst. Atty. General Albert W. Harris Jr., prosecutor in the case, yesterday objected to holding a hearing.

Harris accused Miss Davis of reasoning that "even if unnecessary a hearing should be granted to assure her public that Miss Davis is receiving a fair trial. This is not so much an argument as a threat: If my demands are denied I will denounce the system. "No defendant should be given favored treatment in order to assure

The new mayor and his wife, Alta, have been residents of Corte Madera for 13 years. They residen at 126 Granada Drive.

Prior to his election to the town council, Norville served as president of the Marin Estates Homeowners Association. He is the elected representative of the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Norville works as a supervisor of corporate tool engineering for Hexcel Corporation of Dublin, Calif. A Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve, Norville holds 11 decorations and awards for 14 years active duty aboard ships in China, Japan, Korea and the United States.

Moderate Turnout In Voting

A light to moderate turnout was reported late this morning by Marin and Southern Sonoma county precincts except on the Tiburon Penninsula where voter turnout in the Reed School District was termed heavy by poll workers.

The Reedelection, sparked by a bitter campaign to recall Chairman Gordon C. Wright, showed 119 out of 700 voters had cast ballots at Reed School and 158 out of 720 had voted at the Kimball S. Palm Residence on West Shore Road.

Besides the recall, Reed voters will elect trustees to fill two board seats.

In San Rafael, where voters were asked to elect a mayor from two candidates; two councilmen from a slate of six and unopposed city clerk, attorney and treasurer, the vote was termed light.

The San Rafael City Hall precinct reported 79 voters out of 449 registered.

Voters in San Rafael also will be deciding on four charter amendments and three seats on the San Rafael Board of Education.

In Mill Valley turnout was light for the uncontested race for two trustee vacancies on the Mill Valley School District board.

Park School reported 37 persons out of 800 had cast ballots by 11 a.m. and at the Mill Valley Methodist Church a worker said the first voter appeared at 8:45 a.m. although the poll, like others in Marin and Sonoma counties, had opened at 7 a.m. They will close at 8 p.m. A total of 23 persons had voted at the church by 11 a.m. out of a total of 850 registered voters.

Elsewhere in Marin, 24 out of 642 voters had cast ballots at SACRAMENTO — Legislation to prohibit the Golden Gate Bridge District from building its $17 million ferry system for at least one year has been introduced by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek.

The senator said that he introduced the measure at the request of Senate President pro tempore James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

Mills had been urged to introduce the measure by the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, which has been campaigning for months to stop the district's ferry plans. The chamber has objected that ferries will be too expensive for the number of passengers carried, and that vessels instead should be leased from Harbor Carriers, operator

Russ Hodges, Voice Of Giants, Is Dead

Russ Hodges, the voice of the New York and San Francisco Giants for 22 years and one of the greats of sportscasting history, died last night at the age of 60.

He was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital after collapsing, apparently from a heart attack, in his Mill Valley home, at 109 Shelly Drive.

The veteran of a 41-year career at the microphone that included broadcasting every major sport, had retired from full-time sportscasting last November, when he said, "the traveling, the constancy, the physical and mental punishment of play-by-play just caught up with me." An autopsy was to be held today, but Hodges had a recent history of heart trouble.

An eight-year resident of Marin County, first in Sausalito and then Mill Valley, Hodges moved to the Giants' front office in a public relations capacity following his retirement, although he still handled an occasional broadcast for KSFO.

Hodges's career began in 1929 at the University of Kentucky, but he became famous in 1951, when he was at the microphone as Bobby Thompson hit the "home run heard round the world" to give the New York Giants the pennant over the Brooklyn Dodgers. For fully

Bizarre Kidnap Threat To Blow Up Consulate

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) —A kidnaper holding an Austrian woman official hostage to back his demands for $1.16 million today let his 6 p.m. deadline slip by without blowing up the Austrian general consulate building.

Since sometime Monday night, 48-year-old massage salon owner Fernand Mueller has holed up behind 2 1-2 tons of sandbags with Dr. Luise Kneissl, the elderly director of the Austrian Social Services Bureau, police said. They said they had set up floodlights and were prepared for a long siege.

They said they were able to talk with Mueller by telephone, but would not disclose whether he had set a new deadline.

None of Mueller's demands have been met.

The four-story building where Mueller barricades himself is in Hottingen, a residential district on Zurich's northeast side.

It houses the Social Services office, the consulate and, on the second floor, Mueller's massage parlor, and several apartments.

Police cleared residents from both the house and surrounding

Envoy Request

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Pakistani government asked India today to oust rebel Bengali diplomats from its mission in Calcutta. It said failure to do so would be interpreted as an "unfriendly act."

Pakistani High Commissioner (Ambassador) Sajia Hyder delivered the request to the External Affairs Ministry in New Delhi. The note said Pakistan's deputy high commissioner (consul) in New Delhi, Mahdi Masud, was being assigned to take over the Calcutta mission.

A spokesman for the Indian External Affairs Ministry said the request "will be given due consideration." He had no other comment.

The appeal was Pakistan's first public reaction since about 50 Bengali staff members, headed by mission chief Mohammed Hossain Ali, declared their loyalty to the secessionist Bengalis of East Pakistan last Sunday.

Death Sentences

Manson, 36, rocked slowly back and forth on his heels staring straight ahead and the three young women stood in silence with their hands clasped Monday as they were sentenced formally to death for the Tate-Labianca murders.

"I accept this court as my father," Manson, who has spent 23 of his 36 years in jails or reform schools, told Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older.

"I have always done the best in my life to uphold the law of my father," the cult leader said. "I accept the judgment of my father."

Older ordered Manson removed to San Quentin and the three women to the California Institute of Women at Frontera, Calif., pending appeals expected to last from three to five years.

Manson and Miss Atkins, however, will be returned here shortly for another trial in the slayings of musician Gary Hinman and Hollywood stuntman Donald "Shorty" Shea.

Nixon Goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon said Monday night his goal in Indochina is to leave behind a South Vietnam capable of defending itself.

Nixon told the 80th Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution "the verdict of history will hinge upon how we stop" the war.

"Shall we move now in a way that ends the death toll only for Americans and only for a brief time?" Nixon said. "Or shall we act in a more difficult but wiser way, to leave behind a South Vietnam able to defend itself against Communist aggression and a Southeast Asia where peace is possible over the long term?

"I believe that Americans will support the wiser course, so that our grandchildren can remember the 1970s just as we remember thE 1770 —as a decade of honor, of hope, of new birth for America."

Nixon was the first president to address the DAR in 17 years.

Teachers Barred

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Parents still embittered by the recently settled 11-week teachers strike stood outside schools Monday and barred entrance to about 100 teachers.

Mrs. Carole A. Graves, black president of the predominantly white Newark Teachers Union (NTU) said: "We are insisting that they be let in. The whole purpose of this strike was the right to work without job interference."

About 4,000 of the city's 4,400 teachers showed up for work Monday. All schools officially remained open during the strike, but half the teachers and half the 78,000 students stayed away.

Most of the teachers turned away were strikers returning to schools in predominantly black areas where sentiment ran strongest against the strike.

IRS Warns On Withholding Under Payment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Many taxpayers may find next April that taxes withheld from their pay will not cover their actual bills, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Those running the risk, the IRS said Monday, should ask their employers to increase withholding.

IRS spokesmen said under-withholding can occur because rates have been adjusted to allow for the 13 per cent standard deduction taken by those who can gain nothing by itemizing their deductions. The ceiling on the standard deduction is $1,500, and since the withholding is spread out over the entire year, the total can prove to be considerably less than the individual will wind up having to pay.

The IRS said those who anticipate itemizing deductions in excess of 13 per cent of their salaries do not have to worry about being underwithheld.

Under-withholding would be most likely to occur for persons earning $11,500 a year or more, the IRS said.

Harris Keynoter For Earth Day

David Harris, a national symbol of draft resistance, will give the keynote address at Sonoma State College's Earth Day observance Thursday at noon.

Harris, husband of folk singer Joan Baez and former Stanford University student body president, was paroled March 15 after serving 20 months in prison for refusal to be inducted into the Armed Forces. His appearance will be sponsored by the World Peace Organism.

In addition to Harris' speech in front of The Commons, the Earth Day celebration will include displays, films, lectures and discussions dealing with the need for positive environmental action.

Egypt Warning

GENEVA (UPI) — Egypt warned the United States and the Soviet Union today that their failure to agree on a comprehensive test ban treaty on nuclear weapons may force some non-nuclear countries to acquire atomic weapons of their own.

Cairo's negotiator at the Geneva disarmament conference, Hussein Khallaf, said an increasing number of such states "are or will be reaching the stage of nuclear proficiency." Whether they will turn into nuclear powers, he said, depends only on political decision."

Khallaf said it is becoming increasingly clear that on-site inspections to monitor a complete test ban no longer are necessary because of advances in long-range seismological detection of underground explosions. The United States insists on such inspections, the Soviet Union opposes them.

Mock Attack

TOKYO (UPI)—The Soviet destroyer steamed serenely through the Tsushima Strait between Japan and South Korea. Suddenly, three Japanese F86F fighter jets swooped down, buzzed the unsuspecting Russians at about 500 feet and snapped away with their cameras in a mock attack.

The incident occurred on March 10, during a war game conducted by the Japanese Self Defense Air Force and the Naval Defense Force. The defense ministry had said nothing about it until today, when the report appeared in the Tokyo Shimbun Newspaper.

Defense Agency Director Yasuhiro Nakasone said today the mock attack on the Soviet vessel was "a mistake on our part." He said the Japanese government apologized to the Russians the next day, and the Russians had chalked it off to human error.

Castro View

MIAMI (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro said Monday night President Nixon wants to patch up U.S. relations with Cuba but "there's not a chance" this will happen.

In a speech marking the 10th anniversary of his government's victory over the American-supported Bay of Pigs invasion by Cuban exiles, Castro rejected any U.S. overtures for stabilizing relations.

He also repeated his stand that Cuba would rather stay out of the Organization of American States (OAS) than be readmitted and declared that Cuba will continue supporting revolutionary movements in Latin America.

"A revolutionary wave is sweeping over the continent and seriously threatening imperialist domination," Castro said in remarks broadcast by Radio Havana and monitored in Miami.

Body Found; Is Believed Kate Webb's

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A body believed to be that of Catherine M. (Kate) Webb, United Press International bureau manager in Phnom Penh, has been found in a battle area 55 miles southwest of the capital.

Miss Webb, 28, and five other persons have been officially listed as missing since April 7. They were covering a battle on Highway 4 when Cambodian paratroop positions were overrun by Communist forces.

Advancing Cambodian troops found several bodies in the area last Friday. In accordance with Cambodian military procedure, all the bodies were burned on the spot but a Cambodian officer who had previously seen Miss Webb said she was among the dead.

Missing with Miss Webb were Toshiihi Suzuki, correspondent for the Japanese newsreel agency Nihon Denpa news; Chhim Sarath, UPI translator-driver in Phnom Penh; Cambodian freelance photographer Tea Kim Hieng and two Cambodian interpreters. Their fate was not known.

Two Cambodian army officer who found the body conferred at length with UPI representatives today and identified it as that of Miss Webb. One of the officers, Capt. Ouk Chan, said he had seen Miss Webb during an action about three months ago in the same general area.

Ouk Chan said the body bore a bullet wound in the chest. He said he and Lt. Ny Vanty cremated the body on the scene in accordance with Cambodian military custom.

Several other correspondents, including Robin Mannock of the Associated Press, escaped during the April 7 battle. Mannock, who was wounded in the assault, said Miss Webb told him when they reached the Cambodian positions along the road "I'm just going up to have a look. And then I'm going back to Phnom Penh."

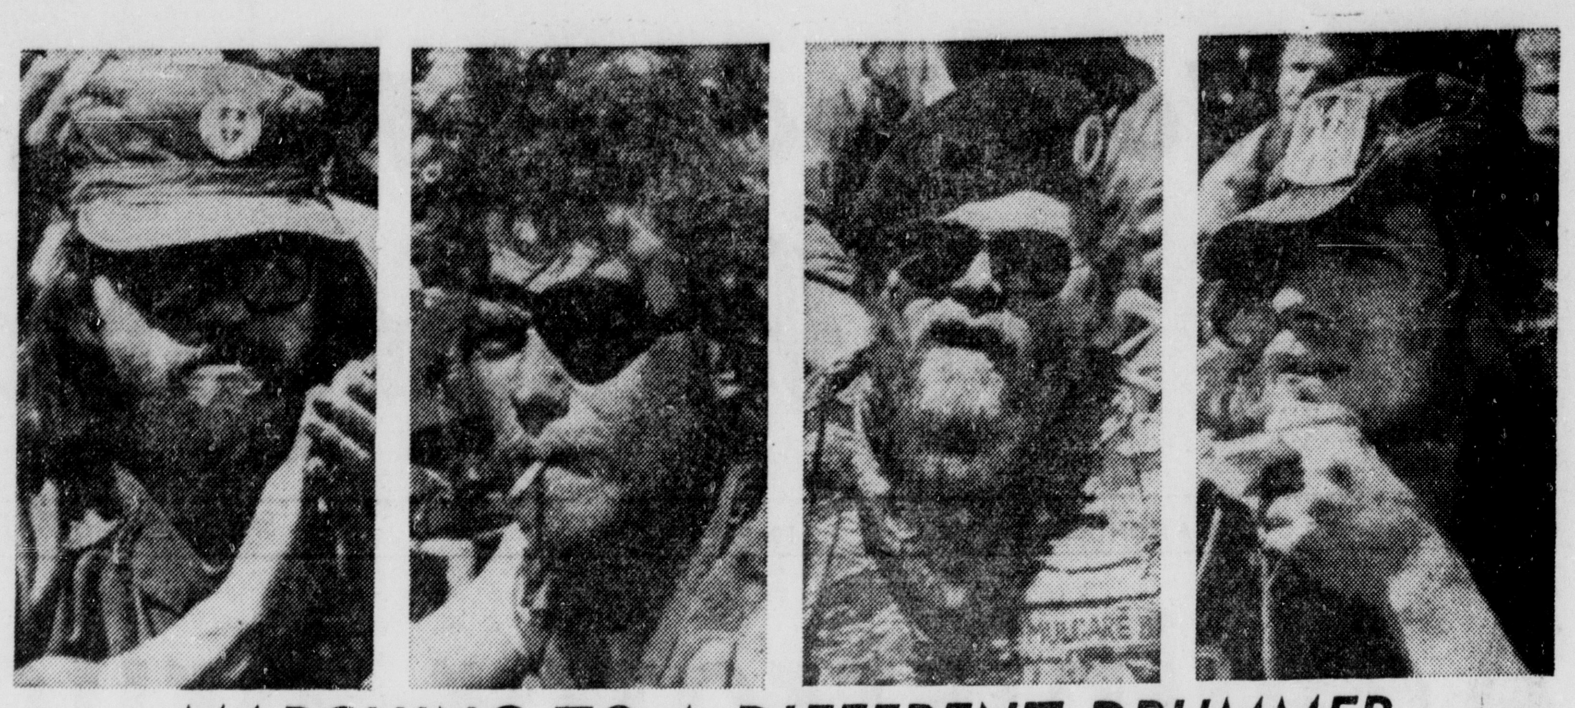
He said she moved forward several hundred yards and then the Communists opened fire on the Cambodian positions and minutes later overran the area.

Some other witnesses to the battle said they believed Miss Webb was captured by troops wearing North Vietnamese uniforms. However, all attempts to find if she was taken captive had proven fruitless.

Nine other correspondents have been killed in Cambodia and 17 previously have been reported missing.

Kate Webb —she insisted on being called Kate, not Catherine — was a gentle girl, feminine and quiet-spoken. But she also was brave, firm of action and was accepted in the man's world of reporting the war as a fine journalist.

As one of her competitors put it a few weeks ago, Kate was "a girl who looks as if she might lead the war cry for some girl's boarding school. But there it is. Kate is a murmur. But listen carefully. She knows what she's talking about."



MARCHING TO A DIFFERENT DRUMMER

Four faces in a crowd of Vietnam veterans protesting the war's continuation in Washington yesterday told the story of their dissent. As one vet, James Pursewell, 22, put it, "I lost my youth in Vietnam, and that's why I'm against this war." He was among 1,000 veterans against the war who began a weeklong vigil encamped at the foot of the Capitol. The demonstrators were largely peaceful though some were bitter over being denied entrance to Arlington National Cemetery to pay homage to fallen comrades.

Units Pose For A Shau Valley Push

SAIGON (UPI) —American helicopters killed 12 North Vietnamese troops and spotted the bodies of another 18 Communists killed in U.S. air strikes in probing operations preparatory to the Allied drive into the A Shau Valley, military spokesmen said today.

Military sources said the main force of South Vietnamese units were maneuvering outside the 35-mile-long valley waiting for orders to move in. Thousands of U.S. and South Vietnamese troops were set for the offensive but no large units had gone in as yet.

Reconnaissance teams from both the South Vietnamese and U.S. armies kept up hit and run strikes into the valley Monday, probing for Communist weak points in preparation for the main invasion force, officers said.

Helicopter units of the 101st Airborne Division Monday attacked 18 miles southwest of the former imperial capital of Hue. The area is 12 miles east of the main part of the valley.

The helicopter crewmen reported no casualties in their air-to-ground battle in which 12 Communist troops were killed. Military sources said the 18 dead North Vietnamese spotted by the same chopper crews had been killed by jet fighterbomber strikes, 51 of which were called in over the past week.

U.S.-Israeli Talks In Critical Stage

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said today Israel was asking the United States for guarantees that Russian and Egyptian troops would not cross the Suez Canal if Israel makes a partial withdrawal in an effort to defuse the newest Mideast crisis.

The Israeli reports said the U.S.-Israeli talks had reached the "make or break" point.

The new crisis blew up when Egypt, Syria and Libya formed an Arab Federation to consolidate their strength against Israel and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat announced there would be no more negotiations with Israel, no abandoning of one inch of Arab territory and no relinquishing of bargaining on the Palestine question.

It began growing last week when the United States disclosed that the Soviet Union had begun supplying Egypt with new MIG23 planes said to be able to outperform the American F4 Phantom, Israeli military sources said today Soviet technicians have begun building a naval base at Mersa Matruh, 170 miles west of Alexandria, Egypt.

The New York Times reported today the United States is in the process of delivering 12 .943 F4s to Israel and is considering Tel Aviv's requests for more. It said the decision was taken by the Nixon administration to maintain Israel's balance of power and convince Israeli leaders that differences of opinion would not halt the flow of advanced arms to Israel.

At the same time the Soviet news agency Tass accused the United States of building up its military potentials in the Mediterranean in direct proximity of the seats of tension in the Middle East. It cited reports the U.S. Navy was sending in the aircraft carrier Itrepid, plus antisubmarine forces and a helicopter unit with the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Israeli diplomatic sources said Israel's terms for reopening the Suez Canal were taken to Washington by deputy Premier Yiegal Allon for discussion with U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers at a working luncheon today.

The terms were said to call for a limited Israeli withdrawal and not abandonment of the entire Sinai Desert, plus Israeli representation on any international patrols overseeing demilitarization of the Canal Zone. They also were said to be outside the mediation mission of U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

U.N. Secretary General Thant took note of the growing crisis Monday and warned that "now is the last chance for peace in the Middle East."

Soviet Air Base Action In Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI)—The Soviet Union has begun setting up a jet fighter base in Ceylon at the request of the government of Prime Minster Siramavo Bandaranaike, diplomatic sources said today. The base would be the first Soviet military installation in non-Communist Asia.

The sources said Soviet crews arrived in secret the past weekend and are staying in a remote hotel five miles from Colombo's military and civil airport where the MIG17 base will be located.

The first of the Soviet jets were expected to arrive immediately, the sources said. Diplomatic circles were uncertain of the details of the Moscow-Colombo agreement and whether the base was permanent or temporary.

Nor was it immediately clear what role the Soviets would play in the Ceylon's student uprising which Mrs. Bandaranaike's government was struggling against. Several other foreign countries have already sent arms and equipment to Ceylon to help put down the rebellion.

But it was known that one of Ceylon's most pressing needs was air support for the island nation's ground forces. Air support so far against the two-week-old rebellion has been limited.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Envoy Request

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Pakistani government asked India today to oust rebel Bengali diplomats from its mission in Calcutta. It said failure to do so would be interpreted as an "unfriendly act."

Pakistani High Commissioner (Ambassador) Sajia Hyder delivered the request to the External Affairs Ministry in New Delhi. The note said Pakistan's deputy high commissioner (consul) in New Delhi, Mahdi Masud, was being assigned to take over the Calcutta mission.

A spokesman for the Indian External Affairs Ministry said the request "will be given due consideration." He had no other comment.

The appeal was Pakistan's first public reaction since about 50 Bengali staff members, headed by mission chief Mohammed Hossain Ali, declared their loyalty to the secessionist Bengalis of East Pakistan last Sunday.

Death Sentences

Manson, 36, rocked slowly back and forth on his heels staring straight ahead and the three young women stood in silence with their hands clasped Monday as they were sentenced formally to death for the Tate-Labianca murders.

"I accept this court as my father," Manson, who has spent 23 of his 36 years in jails or reform schools, told Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older.

"I have always done the best in my life to uphold the law of my father," the cult leader said. "I accept the judgment of my father."

Older ordered Manson removed to San Quentin and the three women to the California Institute of Women at Frontera, Calif., pending appeals expected to last from three to five years.

Manson and Miss Atkins, however, will be returned here shortly for another trial in the slayings of musician Gary Hinman and Hollywood stuntman Donald "Shorty" Shea.

Bill To Give ABAG Teeth Is Introduced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to transform the Association of Bay Area Governments into a regional planning district — with power to enforce its plans — has been introduced for ABAG by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek.

The measure was ABAG's legislative counter to a bill previously introduced by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, to create a new regional planning agency in the Bay Area. Knox's agency would be run by a directly elected board, contrary to ABAG's insistence that it run any new regional agency.

The association, a voluntary group of city councilmen and county supervisors, now has no power to enforce its plans and no power to force local governments to belong to it. In Sonoma County, for example, voters today are balloting on a measure to withdraw from ABAG.

Nejedly also introduced a bill to give ABAG power over regional planning for water quality controls. This also was a counter to a separate bill by Knox creating a new regional sewerage planning agency.

Nejedly told the Independent-Journal that he had not read the bills yet. He siad he had introduced them at ABAG's request on ⅛riday —the last day to introduce bills this session.

Transformation of ABAG into a regional planning district under a 1963 law would require approval by two-thirds of the region's 91 city councils and by two-thirds of the nine boards of supervisors.

Reconstituted as a statutory agency, ABAG then could finance itself with a maximum property tax of one-half cent per $100 assessed valuation.

Creek Sweep Supported By Mill Valley Council

Councilmen said they heartily endorsed the foot-by-foot cleanup, planned for May 22, and said a city truck could be used by the work crew.

Pat Briggs, representing the environmental task force of the Marin Alternative, said several service groups have pledged to supply volunteer workers for the 10 a.m. to noon creek sweep.

Trash collected would be recycled if possible, she said, through Whole Systems, Inc., which plans to begin door-to-door collection of refuse in Mill Valley and Alto next month.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

REZONING — Instructed staff to prepare an ordinance rezoning two acres owned by J. C. Novak at 477 Cascade Drive from planned residential to single-family residential, one-acre lots.

PLAN — Approved a general development plan for a 188-unit apartment development on Richardson Bay near Sabella's restaurant. Applicant Sanford N. Diller now must receive final approval from the city planning commission for his 14.95-acre development.

DUPLEX — Asked the city attorney to investigate the building of a garage and studio at 10 Manor Terrace to see if it violates the city zoning ordinance. Some neighbors have complained that a legal nonconforming duplex on the property is being expanded by construction of the studio.

POND — Approved the concept of a pond in a park to be built and given to the city in connection with Peter Heywood's 68-unit apartment project at Sycamore Avenue and La Goma Street.

METERS — Postponed for further study a plan to eliminate four parking meters in the city hall parking lot to allow for more employee parking.

BOND ISSUE — Adopted an ordinance setting June 29 for a $1.8 million capital improvements bond issue.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the public library to consider items from last night's agenda.

Sewer Work Rate Hikes Criticized

Two irate property owners and two trade organizations last night complained to the Mill Valley City Council about recent increases in sewer connection fees but won no reduction.

The council said it was sympathetic to their plight but refused to reconsider a March 15 emergency ordinance raising sewer connection fees for homes from $235 to $335 and for businesses from $365 to $500.

NO NOTICE

One homeowner, John E. Nicholson, of 57 Sycamore Avenue, complained that no notice was given of an impending fee increase.

He said he understood the council passed the ordinance so the increased fees would apply to the Shelter Ridge apartments, which were almost ready to apply for building permits.

About $20,000 was collected by the city as a result of the new fees, most of it from the Shelter Ridge project, said councilman Jerome C. Hauke.

Nicholson said he thought "a lot of little fish were caught with the big one (Shelter Ridge). I resent this."

Kent O. Seymour, a real estate agent representing Maybelle M. Dore, owner of an office building at 448 Miller Avenue, said his client understood there would be a $15 fee to add a bathroom for one of her tenants.

When a permit and an inspection were requested, however, the contractor was informed of the $500 fee, Seymour said.

"Since the bathroom only cost $725, I doubt very much if Mrs. Dore will go ahead with it," Seymour said.

ALSO OBJECTING

Also objecting to the fee increase, were David G. Greenlee, executive manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, and Samuel H. De Lisle, executive director of the Plumbing, Heating and cooling contractors association.

Mayor George E. Wickham, however, said the fees were under consideration four or five months ago and a hearing on the council's March 15 action was advertised to the public.

Nicholson said he objected to the ethics in adopting the new fee schedule with little warning and councilman Hauke agreed.

"I concur that you were treated unethically and in a hurried fashion," he said. "But we needed that money. All we can do is apologize."

"You can do more than that," Nicholson retorted. "You can change your policies so this doesn't happen again."

Silent Protest Wins In Subdivision Case

A silent majority got its message across to the San Rafael City Council last night.

A group of about 40 residents of the Makin Grade area attended the council's meeting in opposition to a proposed five-lot subdivision on Lower Toyon Drive.

An attorney spoke for them, and the group remained silent through the meeting and exited silently when the council rejected the subdivision proposal.

At issue was an appeal of planning commission disapproval of the subdivision plan.

The owner of the property proposed for subdivision, Gibraltar Savings and Loan Association of Northern California, argued that its subdivision plan was essentially the same as one approved by the council in 1965.

That approval expired when the previous owners of the property failed to submit a detailed master plan of the subdivision to the city's planning commission within a year.

San Francisco attorney W. M. Pinney Jr., representing Gibraltar, urged the council to overrule the planning commission, saying there was no substantial change from the subdivision approved in 1965.

But San Rafael attorney Herbert K. Walton Jr., representing the silent residents of Upper Toyon Drive and Estates Court, noted that the 1965 approval was given nine months before adoption of the city's slope ordinance, which set width requirements based on the percentage of slope of the property.

Each of the five lots in the propsoed subdivision was less than the minimum width required by the slope ordinance.

Pinney said he had no answer when Councilman John A. Miskimen asked what the hardship was that required five lots.

The council denied the appeal unanimously.

The San Rafael City Council also:

BIDS — Awarded a contract for resurfacing tennis courts at Boyd and Gerstle parks to Malott and Peterson-Grundy of San Francisco for $3,454, lowest of five bids, and a contract for grading at Boyd Park to the only bidder, Piombo Brothers of San Rafael, for 69 cents a cubic yard, up to the $5,000 budgeted for the project.

APPEAL — Reversed planning commission denial of a use permit for construction of three buildings by Holiday Magic Inc. at 529 Jacoby Street. The council conditioned its approval of the use permit with the requirement that the property be included in a drainage assessment district, plans for which should be completed this summer.

ZONING — Rezoned property at 100 Channing Way from high rise to planned community to permit development of a 254-unit apartment complex, and approved revised planned community master plans at 4040 Civic Center Drive;replacing previously proposed movie theater, furniture store, retail shop and service station with a motel, restaurant, office building and service station, and at 4050-4100 Redwood Highway, replacing a previously planned service station and commercial-apartment building with a restaurant and parking area, as well as previously approved residential buildings, a commercial building and commercial building with apartments above.

FIRE ZONE — On the recommendation of building inspector Jack Coates, moved eastern boundary of fire zone 1 from Irwin Street to Hetherton Street, with the other boundaries, roughly Second, E and Fourth Streets, remaining unchanged. Miskimen voted against the move, saying the entire fire zone, which requires higher construction standards, should be eliminated. The other councilmen agreed with Coates that elimination of the zone should not be considered until after discussions with fire insurance underwriters.

ROAD — Agreed to a two-year extension, until June 30, 1974, of a joint powers agreement with Marin County for improvements to South San Pedro Road.

FIRE TRUCK — Approved specifications and called for bids to be opened May 26 for a new fire department pumping engine. Estimated cost of the truck is $40,000.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for May 3 on an ordinance designed to protect San Rafael shorelines and waterways.

BOARD — Announced three positions on the San Rafael Library Board will be filled at the council's next meeting, May 3. City Mgr. James H. McCown said James H. Mayer and Bryce W. Anderson, whose terms are expiring, have expressed interest in being reappointed. Chairman Eleanor G. Murray has retired.

BONDS — Adjourned to 7 p.m. today to open bids for the sale of $1,105,000 worth of sewer bonds.

Sonoma Water Agency Plans Round On Aqueduct Financing

By M. STREET BROOKS

Sonoma Water Agency directors voted yesterday to set up a tri-district meeting May 12 in Novato to review financing for the proposed $47.7 million Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct.

Gordon Miller, chief engineer of the Sonoma agency, said he would contact directors of the Marin Municipal Water District and the North Marin Water District to arrange the conference.

Miller was responsible Thursday for introduction in the Assembly of legislation to permit Marin Municipal to finance its $21.6 million share of the project without voter approval of bond issues.

The first bill would allow the Marin district to borrow $18 million from the Sonoma agency. The district would then repay the agency from revenue over a 20-to-30-year period.

If the first bill failed to pass, a second would allow creation of a special district, incorporating Marin Municipal, the Sonoma agency and the North Marin district. Voters in the consolidated district would then be asked to approve a $47.7 million bond issue.

Marin Municipal directors have undertaken a reassessment of the project aimed at determining if an aqueduct is really wanted. Other methods of satisfying future water needs are under consideration, as are the consequences of any abandonment of the project.

The bills enabling Marin Municipal directors to bypass the voters in funding the project was introduced Thursday by Assemblyman Frank P. Belotti, R-Eureka, after Robert Beckus, a lobbyist for the Association of Bay Area Governments and other organizations, carried them to Belotti's office from the office of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Bagley had refused earlier to introduce the bills on the ground they appeared to violate a pledge by the water district to finance the project in a series of bond elections.

Beckus was chosen as messenger, Miller said, because he was acquainted with a member of the Sonoma Water Agency's board of directors.

There is now opposition to the proposed methods of financing among members of the Marin Municipal board and director Eugene A. Miller said he will make a motion at the board's April 28 meeting to oppose the bills in favor of local approval — or rejection — at a proposed November bond election and subsequent bond votes.

"I had to keep the door open," Gordon Miller said yesterday of the introduction of the bills. "I felt that we had to stay together until we got a chance to meet and decide what to do. We've got a project here that has to keep moving."

Miller said the legislation would be the only way to guarantee financing for the project.

"Our board favors the revenue bonding approach," he said.

Miller said water use projections in Sonoma indicate water rationing might be necessary in 1972 and would be "almost certain" in 1973.

The project is scheduled for completion in 1974, and Miller said that if the bills were not introduced during the current legislative session, it would set work back one year.

Fine, Probation In Pot Case

Jack Martin Kelly, 22, and Ruth M. Herr, 30, both of Tamalpais Valley, were fined $250 each yesterday in Marin Superior Court for a misdemeanor conviction of possessing marijuana.

Judge E. Warren McGuire also placed Kelly on probation for two years and Mrs. Herr for one year.

The pair earlier had pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to felony charges of cultivating the weed, but their attorneys and Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales stipulated yesterday that they had pleaded to possession charges, which were then declared misdemeanors by Judge McGuire.

They were arrested Feb. 2 when drug agents raided their residence with a search warrant obtained after marijuana plants were seen growing near a door of the house.

Surplus Car Sale By City Of Novato

The City of Novato will sell six surplus sedans at public auction at 10 a.m. Saturday at the city hall parking lot, Sherman Street and De Long Avenue.

The cars will be available for inspection Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and from 8 a.m. until auction time Saturday, the city reported.

Hearing Set On Check Fraud

Valerie Dray, 18, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent to a charge of check fraud yesterday in Marin Municipal Court after it was reported that her case was not acceptable to juvenile court.

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Miss Dray, who is also known as Valerie Sheele, was arrested Feb. 3 when she attempted to cash a $50 money order at a San Rafael Tavern. Police said the check had been stolen from Payless Drug Store in San Rafael the day before.

FIRE ZONE — On the recommendation of building inspector Jack Coates, moved eastern boundary of fire zone 1 from Irwin Street to Hetherton Street, with the other boundaries, roughly Second, E and Fourth Streets, remaining unchanged. Miskimen voted against the move, saying the entire fire zone, which requires higher construction standards, should be eliminated. The other councilmen agreed with Coates that elimination of the zone should not be considered until after discussions with fire insurance underwriters.

ROAD — Agreed to a two-year extension, until June 30, 1974, of a joint powers agreement with Marin County for improvements to South San Pedro Road.

FIRE TRUCK — Approved specifications and called for bids to be opened May 26 for a new fire department pumping engine. Estimated cost of the truck is $40,000.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for May 3 on an ordinance designed to protect San Rafael shorelines and waterways.

BOARD — Announced three positions on the San Rafael Library Board will be filled at the council's next meeting, May 3. City Mgr. James H. McCown said James H. Mayer and Bryce W. Anderson, whose terms are expiring, have expressed interest in being reappointed. Chairman Eleanor G. Murray has retired.

BONDS — Adjourned to 7 p.m. today to open bids for the sale of $1,105,000 worth of sewer bonds.

On January 1, 1971 Medicare again raised the deductibles and other amounts that you must pay for medical care. But Blue Cross/65 has again expanded benefits to cover these cost increases—at no increase in cost to you. Blue Cross/65 remains just $4 a month, payable quarterly.

For new members who apply before their 65th birthday or within 90 days after, Blue Cross/65 is available the year around.

But, for those who are more than 90 days past 65, the Plan will be open for a limited time only—from now through June 1. Don't miss out.

Remember, for only $4 a month Blue Cross/65 not only fills gaps in the Medicare program when hospitalized, but also provides benefits not covered by Medicare, including hospital and surgical care outside the United States.

Now, before June 1, complete and mail the coupon.

Nixon War Policy Called 'Morally Impoverished'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., charged today that President Nixon's Indochina policy is "morally impoverished." He said Congress should change that policy and force an end to the war by Dec. 31 of this year.

"The assumption is that if we can support the Thieu-Ky regime's continuing the war, but have fewer Americans die while Asian blood continues to be spilled, then this war is somehow less wrong, and more tolerable," Hatfield testified at new Senate hearings on the war.

"I believe such a policy is morally impoverished ... In order to end the fighting, we must set the withdrawal date (of U. S. forces) and seek the establishment of a cease-fire."

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S. D., who is jointly sponsoring with Hatfield a proposal calling for a Dec. 31 total pullout, received cheers and shouts of approval when he appeared and testified in behalf of the end-of-the-year disengagement.

McGovern was leadoff witness at the start of three days of hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on proposals to end the war.

Shouts of "right on!" and other remarks came from an estimated 100 vets in the audience as McGovern said that the United States was guilty of "crimes against humanity" every day the war continued.

But the veterans hissed and booed Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., when Case—a member of the committee—questioned McGovern.

He received boos when he told McGovern he questioned the statement by the South Dakotan that the United States should admit it made a mistake in Vietnam.

Pounding his fist on the table, Case shouted to Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to "keep order here."

McGovern refused to alter his statement "We have been in error," he said. "We can't go on telling the American people this is a great venture ... and the honor of the United States is at stake there."

The veterans stood up and cheered, whistled and shouted as McGovern entered the room.

"I submit that America will be a greater, more self confident, and more respected nation if ... we exercise our constitutional responsibilities to terminate support for a war that we know is wrong," McGovern testified in calling for a Dec. 31 cutoff.

"Mr. Nixon's Vietnamization policy virtually guarantees that our prisoners will remain in their cells, that our troops will remain in danger, that the negotiations will be stalled, and that the killing will continue.".

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., who proposes disengagement within 30 days, underscored arguments of McGovern, saying that only by setting a firm date for total withdrawal could negotiations proceed on a ceasefire and on return of war prisoners.

Five Indicted In Giant Stock Scheme

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A former president of a New Jersey bank was indicted today along with four stockbrokers in connection with an alleged scheme involving the purchase —partly with bank funds—of more than $200 million worth of stocks.

The former bank president named in an indictment by a federal grand jury was Douglas James Schotte, 39, Lincroft, N.J. He formerly was head of the Eatontown (N.J.) National Bank. He was accused of illegal use of more than $10 million in bank funds to purchase stock in 26 corporations.

According to the 177-page indictment, returned at Newark, N.J., and announced by Attorney General John N. Mitchell, the scheme involved the purchase of more than $200 million worth of common stocks over a 13-month period from July 1, 1969, to August 7, 1970.

The Eatontown National Bank was closed Aug. 8, 1970, by federal bank examiners.

The stockbrokers indicted were:

—William A. Certilman, 35, Scarsdale, N.Y., formerly employed by the brokerage firm of T. P. O. Inc., New York City, as its supervisor of branch operations.

—Bertram E. Cutler, 44, Bricktown, N.J., and James Perry, 30, Paramus, N.J., both former employees of T.P.O. Inc.

—Emmett W. Cox, Jr., 49, Oakhurst, N.J., employed by the brokerage firm of Thompson, McKinnon and Auchincloss of Asbury Park, N.J. Cox was an under sheriff of Monmouth County in 1946 and 1965.

All five defendents were charged with conspiracy and with 168 counts of misapplication of funds.

The grand jury charged that they conspired to misapply $10,260,999 in funds of the Eatontown bank by having Schotte purchase common stocks in the name of the bank and then issue cashiers' checks to pay for them.

The indictment also charged that illegal bank loans totalling more than $1 million were made to the brokers. Certilman was alleged to have received $568,698, Cox $345,590, Perry $150,764, and Cutler $69,632.

The brokers received more than $400,000 in commissions from misapplied bank funds in return for handling Schotte's stock transactions, the grand jury charged.

SCHOOLS

the Court upheld in its entirety the district judge's orders requiring the bussing of 23,000 more children than had been transported the previous year. He had been reversed on bussing younger pupils by the 4th U.C. Circuit Court of Appeals.

"The remedial techniques used in the district court's order were within that court's power to provide equitable relief," Burger said. "implementation of the decree is well within the capacity of the school authority."

The opinion noted: "an objection to transportation of students may have validity when the time or distance of travel is so great as to risk either the health of the children or significantly impinge on the educational process."

District courts, it added, "must weigh the soundness of any transportation plan" in light of today's guidelines.

Besides the cases involving Charlotte-Mecklenburg and the North Carolina bussing law, the Court decided two cases from Georgia and Alabama.

The Georgia Supreme Court struck down on June 15 a plan by the Clarke County, Ga., Board of Education for corss-bussing of white and black children. School authorities in the district, which includes Athens, were working for a 20 to 40 per cent white-black ratio in each school.

Burger, reversing the state supreme court, held that the school board "as part of its affirmative duty to disestablish the dual school system, properly took into account the race of its elementary school children in drawing attendance lines."

The Alabama case was appealed by Negro parents of Mobile County, after the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals approved a desegregation plan under which about 25 per cent of the 71,000 students would attend all-black schools. The plan supposedly embodied the neighborhood school concept.

Burger said the record showed the circuit court "felt constrained to treat the eastern part of metropolitan Mobile in isolation from the rest of the school system and that inadequate consideration was given to the possible use of bus transportation and split zoning."

The decision of the 5th Circuit was therefore reversed.

Antiwar March Wins Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Board of Supervisors by a 5-3 vote, gave approval Monday to a resolution recognizing an anti-war march in San Francisco.

The resolution reaffirmed the city policy in favor of an immediate cease fire and the withdrawal of American troops from Southeast Asia.

Saturday, the day the Peace Action Coalition is holding the march, was designated in the resolution as a "day of public determination to end the war in Vietnam."

Hearing Set On Unity Plan

A public hearing on amendments to the state-approved unification plan for the San Rafael and Dixie school districts will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the San Rafael High School auditorium, the Marin County Committee on School District Organization announced.

Amendments to the plan, which was rejected by voters several years ago, include increasing Dixie teachers' pay to bring it into line with San Rafael teachers and a proposal to cut the proposed unified school board from seven members to five.

Under state law, the two districts must hold a unification election in June 1972.

Korean Pullout

WASHINGTON (UPI) —South Korea plans to withdraw soon up to 15,000 of the approximately 50,000 troops it has in South Vietnam, it was disclosed Tuesday.

HODGES

two minutes afterward, Hdges screamed into the microphone, "The Giants win the pennant! The Giants win the pennant!"

It was also in New York that Hodges's trademark phrase "Bye, Bye, Baby" came into being. He brought it with him when the Giants moved to San Francisco in 1958, and used it everytime a Giant hit a home run.

Hodges was one of the last of the "old school" of sportscasters capable of broadcasting several sports. Even after joining the Giants in 1949, he continued to call fights, basketball games and football games.

His greatest love by far, however, was baseball, and the major league teams he announced for included the Yankees, the Cincinatti Reds and the Chicago Red Sox. One of his proudest accomplishments was that he had seen every one of Willie May's 628 career home runs prior to this season.

Horace Stoneham, owner and president of the Giants, said, "I was associated with Russ for more than 20 years and always found him to be a gentleman and a fine sportscaster." He said the announcer's death was "a great personal loss."

Lon Simmons, who began his broadcasting career under Hodges and became the No. 1 Giants announcer when he retired, was obviously shaken. "I've missed Russ since he decided to retire as an active broadcaster. Now I'll miss him even more," he said. "We had one argument in 13 years, and Russ just told me to meet him in the bar in five minutes. I did and it was forgotten."

National League president Charles Feeney said it was "a tremendous loss to me, to the city and to baseball. He was one of the finest men I knew."

Hodges is survived by his wife, Gay; a son Pat, of Burlingame, and a daughter, Judy, now living in Florida.

Services will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley. The family prefers contributions to a favorite charity.

others that all are traded equally."

Justice Christian, who was appointed to the appellate court in 1966 by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, was also called to Marin County in December when San Quentin convict Magee challenged Judge Wilson.

Justice Christian ruled that no evidence had been presented to substantiate Magee's claim, but Judge Wilson later voluntarily withdrew.

Christian, a Stanford Law School graduate, is a former Sierra County Superior Court judge and was once district attorney in that county.

Scott's Oscar In A Locked Cabinet

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George C. Scott's unwanted Oscar sits in a locked cabinet and it will stay there until the actor or a bonafide representative signs for it, a spokesman for the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences said today.

The producer of "Patton," Frank McCarthy, accepted the award at the presentations last Thursday, but returned the award to the Academy immediately after the presentation, on Scott's request.

BRIDGE

of the Tiburon commuter ferry and bay cruises.

The district's teeterboard day in Sacramento had its brighter moment, however, as its transit plans were endorsed by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. His warm endorsement of the plans came in a hearing on them by the Senate Public Utilities and Corporations Committee.

Behr's endorsement was seen as significant because he was the only one of the committee's seven members whose senatorial district includes the bridge district.

Senate protocol generally provides that the fate of local matters are up to senators whose districts are involved. Behr's endorsement thus was expected to assure committee endorsement of the transit plans.

The chairman of the committee, Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, told the Independent-Journal that he expected the committee to endorse the plans. The district probably will need new legislation in future years to finance the plans, he said.

The plans envision a $331 million system of conventional buses and ferries in the immediate future, followed by addition of a bus rapid transit system using tunnels in downtown San Francisco and a second deck on the bridge.

Nejedly's bill, however, would bar the district for one year from acquiring, constructing or improving "any mode of transportation" except bus transit.

The urgency measure would become effective immediately upon passage by two-thirds votes in each house and signature by the governor.

The committee hearing on the transit plans failed to evoke expected criticism of the plans. Both Mills and the committee's staff had objected in recent weeks that the plans failed to consider rail transit fairly.

Mills was the only one of the committee's seven members absent. He left as district officials began presenting their plan, and he did not return.

The district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins of San Francisco, noted that Marin's population was too low to support a rail system. "You have to solve today's problem today," Jenkins said of the interim bus and ferry system.

Behr said the interim system was "the most sensible and early solution" to traffic congestion. "It will do the job, and in fact is the only system that can do the job in the time it has to be done," Behr declared.

He said that "the vast majority of the public has confidence in it (the bridge district)."

Alquist quizzed district officials on where they expected to raise almost $100 million they will need for the bus transit plan. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said "we have to make a positive assumption and try to get it."

Alquist observed that "one of our problems is always to regard capital outlay as a 'cost,' but when business does it, it's an 'investment.'" He noted that the bridge had cost $35 million, but had yielded "tremendous returns."

Alquist said his committee may make a field trip to inspect the bridge, but set no date for a further hearing on the district's plans.

The 1969 law that ordered the plans drawn required their submission to the 1971 Legislature. The law provided that the district would be free to pursue its plans if the Legislature did not act on them within 120 days.

buildings and sealed off the area. Mueller claimed to have 66 pounds of explosives and 75 gallons of gasoline, police said.

They said he also claimed to have an assault rifle and ammunition and threatened to shoot anyone on the street in the area after noon today.

Police said Mueller apparently had suffered a mental breakdown. He made his demand for cash as "compensation for all of the injustice, loss of freedom and defamation he has had to suffer over the past 30 years at the hands of Zurich, Swiss and military officials," police said.

Arraignment In Burglary

Randolph William McCarley, 21, of San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglary.

A hearing on defense motions was set for April 28.

McCarley was arrested March 30 on a warrant charging him with burglarizing a residence at 15 Indian Road, San Rafael, Jan. 4.

OBITUARIES

Elizabeth C. Jaros Dies At 94

Elizabeth Caldwell Jaros, 94, died Sunday at the Tamalpais Retirement Home in Greenbrae following a short illness. No funeral is planned.

The daughter of a Confederate soldier who fought under the command of Gen. Jeb Stuart, Mrs. Jaros was born in 1877 in Arlington, Va.

She was a personnel director for 72 nurses in a Red Cross hospital unit during World War I, caring for the Allied wounded in Germany, France and Poland. In Podgoritza, she met Dr. Joseph F. Jaros, a captain. They were married in 1921.

Mrs. Jaros wrote books when she found time from her church work and helped establish a public library in the Chicago suburb of Riverside. One of her works, her family reports, a treatise on parent-child relationships, was quoted on radio by Eleanor Roosevelt and admired by Bertrand Russell.

Following the death of her husband, she moved in 1953 to a house near the Greenbrae home of her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Duval Jaros.

She kept house for herself until she was 87, was active in St. Mary's Guild of St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross, and was never known to turn down a bridge game.

Beside her son and two grandchildren, Mrs. Jaros is survived by a sister, Jane Ranson, Virginia's first female attorney.

Inurnment will be in Arlington, Va.

the Neil Cummins School in Corte Madera where voters will elect two trustees out of a field of three for the Larkspur School District board.

In the San Anselmo School District contest, where voters will elect two trustees out of a field of three, the city hall precinct reported a "super-light turnout" with 35 out of 914 voters casting ballots as of 10 a.m.

In the Kentfield School District, the Wade Thomas School poll reported 72 voters out of 892 had turned out to cast ballots for two candidates out of a field of four.

In Southern Sonoma, voter turnout was light with 34 out of 450 voters casting ballots at Cotati School for the Cotati School District board race where two trustees will be elected.

Four Drivers Sentenced

Four persons were sentenced Thursday for drunken driving by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court.

Key Factors In Approach Crash

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The death of 10 persons in a single collision on the San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge was cited today as justification for limiting the maximum speed capability of all cars to 80 miles an hour.

The National Transportation Safety Board, in a detailed analysis of the July 1970 collision of two cars on the approach, concluded that fewer would have died if one of the cars — going at least 100 miles an hour — had been going 20 miles an hour slower. There would then have been more time for evasive action, according to the analysis.

The board also recommended immediate closing to intracity traffic of the 19th Avenue interchange on the approach, at least until it is widened to freeway standards.

The board's recommendation on speed controls said that the limit should be "a speed no greater than the highest fixed legal speed limits of any state," which it added was 80.

Its report said that the accident may have been caused by a combination of high speed, alcohol, overloading one of the vehicles and an unexpected merger of a third vehicle at 19th Avenue.

The southbound speeding car skidded 321 feet into the northbound lanes. Its engine was found 272 feet beyond the point of impact.

Citing the approach roadway's narrow lanes and lack of a median barrier, the board noted that it had not been improved since it opened in 1937.

State highway officials stalled widening it for 15 years in an unsuccessful attempt to tie the project to a new freeway in San Francisco, but after the accident agreed to schedule the project next year.

The board said that 409 accidents occurred on the roadway during the past five years.

Official In Bribe Acquitted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A jury in U. S. District Court has acquitted Harold Gilbert Ellis, a former Hamilton Air Force Base building contracts official, of taking a bribe.

The jury returned the innocent verdict to charges of soliciting and receiving a bribe Friday in Judge Robert F. Peckhan's courtroom.

Ellis, 42, of 655 Midway Boulevard, Novato, was arrested last June by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents who said that they had watched him accept $175 from a Santa Rosa businessman in a Novato shopping center parking lot.

The Santa Rosan had tipped off the FBI that Ellis had offered to certify that his firm had installed $3,600 worth of pipe at Hamilton, when the work had not been done.

Humorist Nash Is Reported Critical

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Poet and humorist Ogden Nash, who once claimed the couplet "Candy is dandy but liquor is quicker" would be his only lines to survive him, remains near death today at the Johns Hopkins hospital.

Admitted to a hospital here March 13th for abdominal surgery, Nash, 68, took a turn for the worse over the weekend. He was transferred to Hopkins yesterday for treatment with a machine designed to take over the work of his kidneys—which a hospital spokesman said temporarily had failed. His condition still was listed as critical.

Special Items Cut By Education Board

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Board of Education last night lopped about $56,000 from the local taxpayers' $1.5 million share of the county schools office's $4 million budget proposed for fiscal 1971-72.

The meeting, which began with some board members announcing their intention to keep the tax rate at this year's level of 21 cents per $100 assessed valuation, ended with expressions of disbelief at the meagerness of the cuts.

With employee salary requests and smaller budget items still to be considered, the county schools office tax rate estimated for Next year now stands at 23.7 cents.

That figure, Asst. Supt. Byron W. Mauzy told the board, would produce county revenues totaling about $1,492,000 which will be added to state and federal funds of $2,452,000. This year's 21 cent figure raised $1,216,862 in a total budget of $3,669,327.

Teachers have requested a 5-per cent cost-of-living hike plus salary schedule changes which if approved would add a combined total of $58,000 to the budget or about one cent on the tax rate.)

In trimming the special education terms last night, the board scotched staff requests for a part-time psychologist, physical education teacher, teacher's aide for the trainable mentally retarded program, a part-time nutritionist, a rain shelter at Marindale School and $5,000 to be cut from the Magnolia Park School program.

The cuts also included one existing teaching position at the Marin County Juvenile Hall.

The remaining budget items to be considered by the board at its May 3 meeting include the headstart, children's center and preschool programs which have a combined total of about $460,000 — of which $150,000 is local money.

Left untouched by the board was a staff proposal to increase the county schools' vocational training program from $194,211 this year to $257,628 next year.

The program, called the Regional Occupational Program, offers training in a wide range of occupations to provide basic job skills.

The $63,000 increase is slated for a new business office training course in Marin City at a cost of $25,000, a reserve of about $18,000 and expanded programs in the original seven courses which range from auto mechanics to plastics technology.

Horseshoe Combat For Twin Cities

The Corte Madera Town Council and the Larkspur City Council will engage in "ancient and honorable, nonviolent and nonlethal combat" by competing in a horseshoe contest during the Twin Cities Fourth of July celebration.

The Corte Madera Town Council last night accepted "with enthusiasm" the formal challenge issued by the celebration committee. Each council will provide 2 two-man teams July 3 at Corte Madera Town Park.

The challenge was read at the town council meeting last night and plans for arduous practice sessions were outlined. Town Manager Ronald E. Bartels offered to serve as "towel boy."

It was not determined which of the five councilman will act as a substitute during the contest, but preliminary competition among the Town's Councilmen is anticipated.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

MEMBERS — Appointed Grant E. Waggoner of Tiburon to the Sanitary Commission; reappointed Jack Hauser and C.W. Thomas to the Planning Commission. Their terms would have expired May 1.

NOISE — Put over to May 3 a proposed ordinance regulating sound transmission in apartment units.

TAMALPAIS DRIVE — Set a special meeting of all town commissions May 4 to meet with the architect on the landscape criteria for Tamalpais Drive reconstruction.

HANDI-KUP — Agreed to a 90-day extension to allow the Handi-Kup Co. time to reevaluate the existing cooling system. The plant has been emitting steam near Highway 101 due to an inefficient cooling tower which the company hopes to revise.

ASSESSMENT DISTRICT — Unanimously approved resolutions forming and beginning work on a special assessment district for Hawthorne Lane residents and appointing Arthur N. Morrison and Sherrod S. Davis as engineer and attorney. Work is estimated to cost the town $3,300 and the residents $13,000 for paving, culverts and a fireline.

SAN QUENTIN — Approved a resolution urging tighter security measures at the prison and transfer of the "disproportionate fiscal burden" of related costs from the county to the state.

YOUTH WEEK — Proclaimed the first week of May as Youth Week in Corte Madera, in accordance with a request from the Elks Club.

BILLS — Opposed an assembly bill which would limit town's control over development through use permits and zoning variances; opposed an assembly bill that would authorize strikes by public employees; opposed a Senate bill that would require building inspectors to be licensed; and opposed an assembly bill that would put the cost of printing and handling candidates' statements on public agencies rather than the candidates.

Flournoy Named To Workmen's Appeals Board

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — James L. Flournoy, unsuccessful Republican candidate for secretary of state last year, has been appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan to a $33,396 seat on the State Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board.

Flournoy, 55, a Los Angeles attorney long active in Republican politics, will succeed George A. Jackson of Los Angeles, whose term expired.

Flournoy was defeated in his election bid last November by Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr. Flournoy was the first Negro ever to be nominated by a major political party for statewide office in California.

Land Prezoning Plan Moves Ahead

The Corte Madera Town Council last night gave preliminary approval — amid public warnings that it watch its step — to prezoning for residential use 73 acres of unincorporated land in the eastern portion of town. (Another Corte Madera council story, page 1.)

A 642-unit housing development has been proposed for the land south of the Koch Luggage plant. Annexation of the area to the town was approved last week by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission.

A standing-room-only audience of approximately 65 persons crowded the council's meeting room at town hall to hear details of the proposal. Highlighting the session were remarks by:

A geologist, Earl W. Hart of 6 Vista Court, Corte Madera, who called the area "a can of worms geologically" and said he was "concerned about the stability" of parts of the land.

Another resident, Reg MacDonough of 25 Sonora Way, who referred to the prezoning as "a shotgun wedding" because "we want the land so we can develop it the way we want, but we don't really want what we have to have to get it."

Worried residents who voiced concern about overcrowding schools and overloading highway arteries with additional traffic from the proposed development.

Speakers from the audience repeatedly admonished councilmen to handle the planning of the development with care.

After listening to the hour-long public discussion of the prezoning, councilmen unanimously approved initiation of a general plan amendment to prezone the land R-2, (medium density residential use). The amendment is expected to be adopted at the meeting May 3.

Residents expressed frustration that more specific details concerning the development were not available. The developers, E. C. Harter and Odenthal Investment Co. of Orinda, have presented only conceptual plans for the housing units.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst sketched a general picture of the development which will be built over a 10-year period. It will consist of apartments, clusters of townhouses and a large number of condominiums in the moderate-income housing price range, Colthurst said.

He said the key to development lies in obtaining acquisition of an abandoned railroad right-of-way so access can be provided from Paradise Drive to the development, tentatively called Madera Del Presidio.

When asked what the advantage of annexation would be to Corte Madera, James W. McClintock, chairman of the planning commission, said, "Basically, the only advantage is that we will have some control over what goes in there." The Planning Commission approved the prezoning last month.

Presently, the unincorporated land comes under the county's jurisdiction.

Under existing zoning, McClintock said, it would be possible for the county to allow approximately 3,100 units to be built on the land. (The proposed development would cluster 642 units on the same amount of land).

"I'm not going to insult your intelligence by saying we're going to gain a tax base from this development. We're not," McClintock said. "I do not anticipate that this type of development will be a burden to the taxpayers, but it's not going to cut your taxes back either."

He repeated that annexation would give the town control over development of the land, adding, "If it's developed in the county, it could be most anything — flea markets or what have you."

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels told the gathering Corte Madera has "extremely tight design review standards" and "we wouldn't have this kind of control with the county."

One suggestion from the audience was to prezone the land R-1 which has a lower density ratio than the proposed R-2. However, Colthurst said existing town ordinances make no provision for design review control in R-1.

The next suggestion, to revise the ordinances, went unheeded.

Councilman Robert P. Simmons did not take part in the discussion or vote. He earlier disqualified himself from participation in proceedings because of a conflict of interest; he is the accountant for the developer.

Bomb Blasts Bank's Facade In Berkeley

BERKELEY (UPI) —The Ashby Ave. branch of the Bank of America was shaken by an explosion which was almost a carbon copy of one there about six weeks ago.

There were no injuries reported and a police spokesman said there were no suspects.

As was the case with the March 3 blast, about 10 windows were broken in the front of the bank and 4 in a Chinese restaurant across the street. Wooden facing also was blown off the front facade of the bank.

"I think they got the same damn boards," the spokesman said.

Police scaled off the area while they investigated the 3:30 a.m. PST blast.

The business of auto safety.

Auto safety is everyone's concern. But it's our business.

And we think the attention that's being paid to auto safety now is a good thing. Because it will result in better driving for everyone.

And, frankly, better driving for everyone means better business for us.

We say Buick is something to believe in. That's why we're trying to make it easy to be safe by putting in safety features that work by themselves. You don't have to do anything to make them work.

Like side guard beams. And the energy absorbing steering column. And the cargo guard between the trunk and back seat. They start "working" even before you get in the car.

But two safety features, two of the most vital, are worthless unless you do something first.

Seat and shoulder belts.

Unfastened they do nothing. And you've seen enough statistics to know what a difference they can make. So use them.

But that's not all you can do. Because the most effective safety feature of all can't be added to our cars or anybody else's.

That feature is you. And the way you drive.

Which should be defensively. And rested. And sober.

We're all in this together. And together we can solve the auto safety problem once and for all.

And the time is now.

Nixon War Policy Called 'Morally Impoverished'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., charged today that President Nixon's Indochina policy is "morally impoverished." He said Congress should change that policy and force an end to the war by Dec. 31 of this year.

"The assumption is that if we can support the Thieu-Ky regime's continuing the war, but have fewer Americans die while Asian blood continues to be spilled, then this war is somehow less wrong, and more tolerable," Hatfield testified at new Senate hearings on the war.

"I believe such a policy is morally impoverished ... In order to end the fighting, we must set the withdrawal date (of U. S. forces) and seek the establishment of a cease-fire."

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S. D., who is jointly sponsoring with Hatfield a proposal calling for a Dec. 31 total pullout, received cheers and shouts of approval when he appeared and testified in behalf of the end-of-the-year disengagement.

McGovern was leadoff witness at the start of three days of hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on proposals to end the war.

Shouts of "right on!" and other remarks came from an estimated 100 vets in the audience as McGovern said that the United States was guilty of "crimes against humanity" every day the war continued.

But the veterans hissed and booed Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., when Case—a member of the committee—questioned McGovern.

He received boos when he told McGovern he questioned the statement by the South Dakotan that the United States should admit it made a mistake in Vietnam.

Pounding his fist on the table, Case shouted to Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to "keep order here."

McGovern refused to alter his statement "We have been in error," he said. "We can't go on telling the American people this is a great venture ... and the honor of the United States is at stake there."

The veterans stood up and cheered, whistled and shouted as McGovern entered the room.

"I submit that America will be a greater, more self confident, and more respected nation if ... we exercise our constitutional responsibilities to terminate support for a war that we know is wrong," McGovern testified in calling for a Dec. 31 cutoff.

"Mr. Nixon's Vietnamization policy virtually guarantees that our prisoners will remain in their cells, that our troops will remain in danger, that the negotiations will be stalled, and that the killing will continue."

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., who proposes disengagement within 30 days, underscored arguments of McGovern, saying that only by setting a firm date for total withdrawal could negotiations proceed on a ceasefire and on return of war prisoners.

Five Indicted In Giant Stock Scheme

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A former president of a New Jersey bank was indicted today along with four stockbrokers in connection with an alleged scheme involving the purchase —partly with bank funds—of more than $200 million worth of stocks.

The former bank president named in an indictment by a federal grand jury was Douglas James Schotte, 39, Lincroft, N.J. He formerly was head of the Eatontown (N.J.) National Bank. He was accused of illegal use of more than $10 million in bank funds to purchase stock in 26 corporations.

According to the 177-page indictment, returned at Newark, N.J., and announced by Attorney General John N. Mitchell, the scheme involved the purchase of more than $200 million worth of common stocks over a 13-month period from July 1, 1969, to August 7, 1970.

The Eatontown National Bank was closed Aug. 8, 1970, by federal bank examiners.

The stockbrokers indicted were:

—William A. Certilman, 35, Scarsdale, N.Y., formerly employed by the brokerage firm of T. P. O. Inc., New York City, as its supervisor of branch operations.

—Bertram E. Cutler, 44, Bricktown, N.J., and James Perry, 30, Paramus, N.J., both former employees of T.P.O. Inc.

—Emmett W. Cox, Jr., 49, Oakhurst, N.J., employed by the brokerage firm of Thompson, McKinnon and Auchincloss of Asbury Park, N.J. Cox was an under sheriff of Monmouth County in 1946 and 1965.

All five defendents were charged with conspiracy and with 168 counts of misapplication of funds.

The grand jury charged that they conspired to misapply $10,260,999 in funds of the Eatontown bank by having Schotte purchase common stocks in the name of the bank and then issue cashiers' checks to pay for them.

The indictment also charged that illegal bank loans totalling more than $1 million were made to the brokers. Certilman was alleged to have received $568,698, Cox $345,590, Perry $150,764, and Cutler $69,632.

The brokers received more than $400,000 in commissions from misapplied bank funds in return for handling Schotte's stock transactions, the grand jury charged.

SCHOOLS

the Court upheld in its entirety the district judge's orders requiring the bussing of 23,000 more children than had been transported the previous year. He had been reversed on bussing younger pupils by the 4th U.C. Circuit Court of Appeals.

"The remedial techniques used in the district court's order were within that court's power to provide equitable relief," Burger said. "implementation of the decree is well within the capacity of the school authority."

The opinion noted: "an objection to transportation of students may have validity when the time or distance of travel is so great as to risk either the health of the children or significantly impinge on the educational process."

District courts, it added, "must weigh the soundness of any transportation plan" in light of today's guidelines.

Besides the cases involving Charlotte-Mecklenburg and the North Carolina bussing law, the Court decided two cases from Georgia and Alabama.

The Georgia Supreme Court struck down on June 15 a plan by the Clarke County, Ga., Board of Education for corss-bussing of white and black children. School authorities in the district, which includes Athens, were working for a 20 to 40 per cent white-black ratio in each school.

Burger, reversing the state supreme court, held that the school board "as part of its affirmative duty to disestablish the dual school system, properly took into account the race of its elementary school children in drawing attendance lines."

The Alabama case was appealed by Negro parents of Mobile County, after the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals approved a desegregation plan under which about 25 per cent of the 71,000 students would attend all-black schools. The plan supposedly embodied the neighborhood school concept.

Burger said the record showed the circuit court "felt constrained to treat the eastern part of metropolitan Mobile in isolation from the rest of the school system and that inadequate consideration was given to the possible use of bus transportation and split zoning."

The decision of the 5th Circuit was therefore reversed.

Antiwar March Wins Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Board of Supervisors by a 5-3 vote, gave approval Monday to a resolution recognizing an anti-war march in San Francisco.

The resolution reaffirmed the city policy in favor of an immediate cease fire and the withdrawal of American troops from Southeast Asia.

Saturday, the day the Peace Action Coalition is holding the march, was designated in the resolution as a "day of public determination to end the war in Vietnam."

Hearing Set On Unity Plan

A public hearing on amendments to the state-approved unification plan for the San Rafael and Dixie school districts will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the San Rafael High School auditorium, the Marin County Committee on School District Organization announced.

Amendments to the plan, which was rejected by voters several years ago, include increasing Dixie teachers' pay to bring it into line with San Rafael teachers and a proposal to cut the proposed unified school board from seven members to five.

Under state law, the two districts must hold a unification election in June 1972.

Korean Pullout

WASHINGTON (UPI) —South Korea plans to withdraw soon up to 15,000 of the approximately 50,000 troops it has in South Vietnam, it was disclosed Tuesday.

two minutes afterward, Hdges screamed into the microphone, "The Giants win the pennant! The Giants win the pennant!"

It was also in New York that Hodges's trademark phrase "Bye, Bye, Baby" came into being. He brought it with him when the Giants moved to San Francisco in 1958, and used it everytime a Giant hit a home run.

Hodges was one of the last of the "old school" of sportscasters capable of broadcasting several sports. Even after joining the Giants in 1949, he continued to call fights, basketball games and football games.

His greatest love by far, however, was baseball, and the major league teams he announced for included the Yankees, the Cincinatti Reds and the Chicago Red Sox. One of his proudest accomplishments was that he had seen every one of Willie May's 628 career home runs prior to this season.

Horace Stoneham, owner and president of the Giants, said, "I was associated with Russ for more than 20 years and always found him to be a gentleman and a fine sportscaster." He said the announcer's death was "a great personal loss."

Lon Simmons, who began his broadcasting career under Hodges and became the No. 1 Giants announcer when he retired, was obviously shaken. "I've missed Russ since he decided to retire as an active broadcaster. Now I'll miss him even more," he said. "We had one argument in 13 years, and Russ just told me to meet him in the bar in five minutes. I did and it was forgotten."

National League president Charles Feeney said it was "a tremendous loss to me, to the city and to baseball. He was one of the finest men I knew."

Hodges is survived by his wife, Gay; a son Pat, of Burlingame, and a daughter, Judy, now living in Florida.

Services will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley. The family prefers contributions to a favorite charity.

others that all are traded equally."

Justice Christian, who was appointed to the appellate court in 1966 by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, was also called to Marin County in December when San Quentin convict Magee challenged Judge Wilson.

Justice Christian ruled that no evidence had been presented to substantiate Magee's claim, but Judge Wilson later voluntarily withdrew.

Christian, a Stanford Law School graduate, is a former Sierra County Superior Court judge and was once district attorney in that county.

Scott's Oscar In A Locked Cabinet

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George C. Scott's unwanted Oscar sits in a locked cabinet and it will stay there until the actor or a bonafide representative signs for it, a spokesman for the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences said today.

The producer of "Patton," Frank McCarthy, accepted the award at the presentations last Thursday, but returned the award to the Academy immediately after the presentation, on Scott's request.

BRIDGE

of the Tiburon commuter ferry and bay cruises.

The district's teeterboard day in Sacramento had its brighter moment, however, as its transit plans were endorsed by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. His warm endorsement of the plans came in a hearing on them by the Senate Public Utilities and Corporations Committee.

Behr's endorsement was seen as significant because he was the only one of the committee's seven members whose senatorial district includes the bridge district.

Senate protocol generally provides that the fate of local matters are up to senators whose districts are involved. Behr's endorsement thus was expected to assure committee endorsement of the transit plans.

The chairman of the committee, Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, told the Independent-Journal that he expected the committee to endorse the plans. The district probably will need new legislation in future years to finance the plans, he said.

The plans envision a $331 million system of conventional buses and ferries in the immediate future, followed by addition of a bus rapid transit system using tunnels in downtown San Francisco and a second deck on the bridge.

Nejedly's bill, however, would bar the district for one year from acquiring, constructing or improving "any mode of transportation" except bus transit.

The urgency measure would become effective immediately upon passage by two-thirds votes in each house and signature by the governor.

The committee hearing on the transit plans failed to evoke expected criticism of the plans. Both Mills and the committee's staff had objected in recent weeks that the plans failed to consider rail transit fairly.

Mills was the only one of the committee's seven members absent. He left as district officials began presenting their plan, and he did not return.

The district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins of San Francisco, noted that Marin's population was too low to support a rail system. "You have to solve today's problem today," Jenkins said of the interim bus and ferry system.

Behr said the interim system was "the most sensible and early solution" to traffic congestion. "It will do the job, and in fact is the only system that can do the job in the time it has to be done," Behr declared.

He said that "the vast majority of the public has confidence in it (the bridge district)."

Alquist quizzed district officials on where they expected to raise almost $100 million they will need for the bus transit plan. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said "we have to make a positive assumption and try to get it."

Alquist observed that "one of our problems is always to regard capital outlay as a 'cost,' but when business does it, it's an 'investment.' " He noted that the bridge had cost $35 million, but had yielded "tremendous returns."

Alquist said his committee may make a field trip to inspect the bridge, but set no date for a further hearing on the district's plans.

The 1969 law that ordered the plans drawn required their submission to the 1971 Legislature. The law provided that the district would be free to pursue its plans if the Legislature did not act on them within 120 days.

buildings and sealed off the area. Mueller claimed to have 66 pounds of explosives and 75 gallons of gasoline, police said.

They said he also claimed to have an assault rifle and ammunition and threatened to shoot anyone on the street in the area after noon today.

Police said Mueller apparently had suffered a mental breakdown. He made his demand for cash as "compensation for all of the injustice, loss of freedom and defamation he has had to suffer over the past 30 years at the hands of Zurich, Swiss and military officials," police said.

'Earth Week' At San Marin High

Students at San Marin High School, Novato, will observe "Earth Week" with two days of activity, Thursday and Friday, including talks and special events.

The schedule for both days will be devoted to ecology with Thursday designated "problem day" and Friday "solution day", according to the Ecology Action Club, sponsor of the events.

Richard L. Harriman, executive assistant to Paul R. Ehrlich, Stanford biology professor, will open activity at 8:30 a.m. Thursday with a talk about "the population crisis and ecopolitics" at the school gymnasium.

The roster of speakers for the two days includes State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, and two Marin supervisors, Arnold M. Baptiste and Michael Wornum.

There will be a series of special events at noon Thursday including eating of a meal representing one person's share of the world's food supply, and a funeral for birds who died in the San Francisco Bay oil spill.

There will be a "pollution solution bike race" at 11:45 a.m. Friday and the club is urging students to walk, ride a bicycle, jog or run to school each day, rather than travel by car.

The club suggested students get sponsors for their Friday walk who will pay from 10 to 25 cents for each mile they cover, with the funds to go for the sprinkler system and landscaping around the flagpole.

An ecology art contest, can smashing and aluminum collecting contests will be judged at noon Thursday. There will be sale of health foods and ecology buttons, posters and SR sticker, each day.

Speakers at Thursday's sessions and their topics will be Milton Feldstein, executive director of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, air pollution; D. D. Olander, University of California at Berkeley, and Robert Peterson, Atomic Energy Commission, power; Peter Rogers, assistant director State Water Resources Control Board, and William Nelson, North Marin County Water District, water pollution.

Behr, water pollution; Roger Bockrath and Dennis Baldwin, organizers and directors of Survival Inc., and Peter Giddings, television weather forecaster, solid waste; Dr. William Kortum and Bruce Wolf, regional western representative, Nature Conservancy, land use.

Draft Violation Conviction Found 'Without Basis'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal court reversed the Selective Service Act convictions of actor Sterling Hayden's son Monday and criticized the way he was denied standing as a conscientious objector.

Christian Hayden, 23, had been convicted of failure to report for a pre-induction physical examination and failure to report for induction.

The U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals found he had applied for conscientious objector status when he registered in 1964 and that the denial of his claim was "without basis in fact."

The actor's son has said since that he will not accept the two years of "alternate service" required of objectors.

Mortuaries Hit By Union Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—All of San Francisco's mortuaries were closed today because of a labor contract dispute involving the 77-member Mortuary Employes Union.

The union struck 24 large funeral homes Monday and the others shut down.

J. Richard Thesing, attorney for the owners, declared: "A strike against one is a strike against all."

Union members first asked $245 more a month, but have scaled that down. Owners have offered a contract calling for $50 more a month this year, another $50 the next year and $60 more for the pact's final year.

Existing wage scales were not available.

Thesing raised the possibility that funeral firms in nearby counties may care for bodies during the walkout.

Nine Die In Try To Defuse Shell

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nine school children were killed and four injured when they tried to defuse a World War II artillery shell they found last week.

The children discovered the unexploded shell April 15 during a playtime recess near the yard of the Minkovsky Elementary School in the Ukraine, according to the provincial newspaper Komsomolskaya Znamya (Youth League Banner).

Boys, 7 and 10, Held In Tot's Brutal Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Homicide inspectors have turned two young boys over to the juvenile division in connection with the "crucifixion" death of a 20-month-old boy whose bruised body was found tied to a makeshift cross.

The nude, sheet-draped body of Noah Alba, who had disappeared from a city park six days ago, was found Monday in a dark, cluttered basement by officers who were led to the scene by the two suspects, ages 7 and 10.

One officer called it "the most gruesome crime scene I have ever met. There were horrible bruises and something resembling scrape marks all over the body."

Homicide Lt. Charles Ellis said it appeared the child had been dead since last Wednesday. He said he had been bound hand and foot to the makeshift cross and the body was covered with bruises and scratches.

Ellis would not release the identities nor permit pictures of the two youngsters being held. As he spoke to newsmen, the ruddy-faced, touseled haired pair read a picture book in another room.

"They have admitted their part in the killing of Noah Alba," Ellis said, but added officers have determined no motive.

A massive police search began after the toddler walked away from Alta Vista Park where he had gone for an outing with his mother, Mrs. Lawrence Alba, 21. Police checked dozens of tips before a woman in the park neighborhood called Monday and said she knew two youngsters who might know of the child's whereabouts

Officers contacted the boys, who in turn led them to the suspects. They in turn led to the basement of a three-story apartment building several blocks from where Noah disappeared.

William J. Carter of Tiburon has been named sound director for the 54th annual Mountain Play, "Playboy of the Western World", by J. M. Synge.

Carter of 3330 Paradise Drive, is vice president of the Mountain Play's board. He has been associated with the company for the past nine years.

Robin Jackson of Mill Valley directs the play which is now being rehearsed.

Council Agrees To Limit Each Home To 4 Dogs

An ordinance that would limit four dogs to a home was agreed upon last night by the Petaluma City Council after receiving complaints of residents keeping veritable kennels.

Police Chief Larry D. Higgins and Animal Control Officer William Matthews said they had received a complaint from Joe Duisman 325 Coronado Drive, that a neighbor at 321 Coronado Drive was keeping 14 dogs.

Matthews said he was powerless to correct the situation since the city has no ordinance regarding animals other than requiring licensing. Higgins recommended the four-dog limitation such as has been enacted in Rohnert Park and Santa Rosa.

Matthews said he found the home and yard to be very clean and the dogs noiseless on his visits, but Duisman complained the animals are noisy at feeding times and that he feared they would draw flies during the summer.

The council directed City Atty. Edouard E. Robert to prepare the necessary ordinance, but rejected his suggestion that cats also be included in the restrictions.

The Petaluma City Council Also:

WATER POLLUTION — Heard Arthur Cerini of the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery ask that the council request the regional water quality corol board to permit the use and discharge of salt water from the Petaluma River on an emergency basis when machinery fails at the plant. City Engineer David A. Young said he felt the request would be rejected since only rain water can legally be dumped directly into the river, but said he would pose the question to district engineers.

TAXES — Accepted a tax rate statement to be sent to voters prior to the $2 million sewer bond election June 8. Financial consultants reported the tax rate for the bonds would be 9 cents per $100 assessed valuation in 1972-73 and be at a maximum of 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation in 1977-78.

ROOF — Approved the installation of a corrugated aluminum roof over outdoor kennels at the animal control center at a cost of $140.

PUMP STATION — Awarded the construction contract for the Magnolia Avenue Pump Station to the low bidder, Knudsen and Richardson of Calistoga, at $61,324. It had been estimated to cost $58,000.

POPULATION — Received official notice that Petaluma's population was 26,850 on March 1, 1971.

SUMMER PLAN — Approved the reduction of the summer playground program from 10 to nine weeks since interest wanes in the latter part of the summer andagreed to establish an additional supervised playground at La Tercera School.

PARK PLAN — Authorized Councilman Fred V. Mattei to work with Donald Campbell, landscape architect and member of the Petaluma Valley Hmeowners Association, in planning the development of La Tercera Park. Mattei said the association has volunteered to supply free labor to build the park.

COMPUTERS — Heard Finance Director Cecil G. Gealta recommend against further consideration of joining the Sonoma County Data Processing Center, saying it would be too costly and an inconvenience in travel. He said he was studying other possible methods of computerizing city operations.

Key Factors In Approach Crash

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The death of 10 persons in a single collision on the San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge was cited today as justification for limiting the maximum speed capability of all cars to 80 miles an hour.

The National Transportation Safety Board, in a detailed analysis of the July 1970 collision of two cars on the approach, concluded that fewer would have died if one of the cars — going at least 100 miles an hour — had been going 20 miles an hour slower. There would then have been more time for evasive action, according to the analysis.

The board also recommended immediate closing to intracity traffic of the 19th Avenue interchange on the approach, at least until it is widened to freeway standards.

The board's recommendation on speed controls said that the limit should be "a speed no greater than the highest fixed legal speed limits of any state," which it added was 80.

Its report said that the accident may have been caused by a combination of high speed, alcohol, overloading one of the vehicles and an unexpected merger of a third vehicle at 19th Avenue.

The southbound speeding car skidded 321 feet into the northbound lanes. Its engine was found 272 feet beyond the point of impact.

Citing the approach roadway's narrow lanes and lack of a median barrier, the board noted that it had not been improved since it opened in 1937.

State highway officials stalled widening it for 15 years in an unsuccessful attempt to tie the project to a new freeway in San Francisco, but after the accident agreed to schedule the project next year.

The board said that 409 accidents occurred on the roadway during the past five years.

Horseshoe Combat For Twin Cities

The Corte Madera Town Council and the Larkspur City Council will engage in "ancient and honorable, nonviolent and nonlethal combat" by competing in a horseshoe contest during the Twin Cities Fourth of July celebration.

The Corte Madera Town Council last night accepted "with enthusiasm" the formal challenge issued by the celebration committee. Each council will provide 2 two-man teams July 3 at Corte Madera Town Park.

The challenge was read at the town council meeting last night and plans for arduous practice sessions were outlined. Town Manager Ronald E. Bartels offered to serve as "towel boy."

It was not determined which of the five councilman will act as a substitute during the contest, but preliminary competition among the Town's Councilmen is anticipated.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

MEMBERS — Appointed Grant E. Waggoner of Tiburon to the Sanitary Commission; reappointed Jack Hauser and C.W. Thomas to the Planning Commission. Their terms would have expired May 1.

NOISE — Put over to May 3 a proposed ordinance regulating sound transmission in apartment units.

TAMALPAIS DRIVE — Set a special meeting of all town commissions May 4 to meet with the architect on the landscape criteria for Tamalpais Drive reconstruction.

HANDI-KUP — Agreed to a 90-day extension to allow the Handi-Kup Co. time to reevaluate the existing cooling system. The plant has been emitting steam near Highway 101 due to an inefficient cooling tower which the company hopes to revise.

ASSESSMENT DISTRICT — Unanimously approved resolutions forming and beginning work on a special assessment district for Hawthorne Lane residents and appointing Arthur N. Morrison and Sherrod S. Davis as engineer and attorney. Work is estimated to cost the town $3,300 and the residents $13,000 for paving, culverts and a fireline.

SAN QUENTIN — Approved a resolution urging tighter security measures at the prison and transfer of the "disproportionate fiscal burden" of related costs from the county to the state.

YOUTH WEEK — Proclaimed the first week of May as Youth Week in Corte Madera, in accordance with a request from the Elks Club.

BILLS — Opposed an assembly bill which would limit town's control over development through use permits and zoning variances; opposed an assembly bill that would authorize strikes by public employees; opposed a Senate bill that would require building inspectors to be licensed; and opposed an assembly bill that would put the cost of printing and handling candidates' statements on public agencies rather than the candidates.

Land Prezoning Plan Moves Ahead

The Corte Madera Town Council last night gave preliminary approval — amid public warnings that it watch its step — to prezoning for residential use 73 acres of unincorporated land in the eastern portion of town. (Another Corte Madera council story, page 1.)

A 642-unit housing development has been proposed for the land south of the Koch Luggage plant. Annexation of the area to the town was approved last week by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission.

A standing-room-only audience of approximately 65 persons crowded the council's meeting room at town hall to hear details of the proposal. Highlighting the session were remarks by:

A geologist, Earl W. Hart of 6 Vista Court, Corte Madera, who called the area "a can of worms geologically" and said he was "concerned about the stability" of parts of the land.

Another resident, Reg MacDonough of 25 Sonora Way, who referred to the prezoning as "a shotgun wedding" because "we want the land so we can develop it the way we want, but we don't really want what we have to have to get it."

Worried residents who voiced concern about overcrowding schools and overloading highway arteries with additional traffic from the proposed development.

Speakers from the audience repeatedly admonished councilmen to handle the planning of the development with care.

After listening to the hour-long public discussion of the prezoning, councilmen unanimously approved initiation of a general plan amendment to prezone the land R-2, (medium density residential use). The amendment is expected to be adopted at the meeting May 3.

Residents expressed frustration that more specific details concerning the development were not available. The developers, E. C. Harter and Odenthal Investment Co. of Orinda, have presented only conceptual plans for the housing units.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst sketched a general picture of the development which will be built over a 10-year period. It will consist of apartments, clusters of townhouses and a large number of condominiums in the moderate-income housing price range, Colthurst said.

He said the key to development lies in obtaining acquisition of an abandoned railroad right-of-way so access can be provided from Paradise Drive to the development, tentatively called Madera Del Presidio.

When asked what the advantage of annexation would be to Corte Madera, James W. McClintock, chairman of the planning commission, said, "Basically, the only advantage is that we will have some control over what goes in there." The Planning Commission approved the prezoning last month.

Presently, the unincorporated land comes under the county's jurisdiction.

Under existing zoning, McClintock said, it would be possible for the county to allow approximately 3,100 units to be built on the land. (The proposed development would cluster 642 units on the same amount of land).

"I'm not going to insult your intelligence by saying we're going to gain a tax base from this development. We're not," McClintock said. "I do not anticipate that this type of development will be a burden to the taxpayers, but it's not going to cut your taxes back either."

He repeated that annexation would give the town control over development of the land, adding, "If it's developed in the county, it could be most anything — flea markets or what have you."

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels told the gathering Corte Madera has "extremely tight design review standards" and "we wouldn't have this kind of control with the county."

One suggestion from the audience was to prezone the land R-1 which has a lower density ratio than the proposed R-2. However, Colthurst said existing town ordinances make no provision for design review control in R-1.

The next suggestion, to revise the ordinances, went unheeded.

Councilman Robert P. Simmons did not take part in the discussion or vote. He earlier disqualified himself from participation in proceedings because of a conflict of interest; he is the accountant for the developer.

Bomb Blasts Bank's Facade In Berkeley

BERKELEY (UPI) —The Ashby Ave. branch of the Bank of America was shaken by an explosion which was almost a carbon copy of one there about six weeks ago.

There were no injuries reported and a police spokesman said there were no suspects.

As was the case with the March 3 blast, about 10 windows were broken in the front of the bank and 4 in a Chinese restaurant across the street. Wooden facing also was blown off the front facade of the bank.

"I think they got the same damn boards," the spokesman said.

Police scaled off the area while they investigated the 3:30 a.m. PST blast.

Official In Bribe Acquitted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A jury in U. S. District Court has acquitted Harold Gilbert Ellis, a former Hamilton Air Force Base building contracts official, of taking a bribe.

The jury returned the innocent verdict to charges of soliciting and receiving a bribe Friday in Judge Robert F. Peckhan's courtroom.

Ellis, 42, of 655 Midway Boulevard, Novato, was arrested last June by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents who said that they had watched him accept $175 from a Santa Rosa businessman in a Novato shopping center parking lot.

The Santa Rosan had tipped off the FBI that Ellis had offered to certify that his firm had installed $3,600 worth of pipe at Hamilton, when the work had not been done.

Humorist Nash Is Reported Critical

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Poet and humorist Ogden Nash, who once claimed the couplet "Candy is dandy but liquor is quicker" would be his only lines to survive him, remains near death today at the Johns Hopkins hospital.

Admitted to a hospital here March 13th for abdominal surgery, Nash, 68, took a turn for the worse over the weekend. He was transferred to Hopkins yesterday for treatment with a machine designed to take over the work of his kidneys—which a hospital spokesman said temporarily had failed. His condition still was listed as critical.

Special Items Cut By Education Board

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Board of Education last night lopped about $56,000 from the local taxpayers' $1.5 million share of the county schools office's $4 million budget proposed for fiscal 1971-72.

The meeting, which began with some board members announcing their intention to keep the tax rate at this year's level of 21 cents per $100 assessed valuation, ended with expressions of disbelief at the meagerness of the cuts.

With employee salary requests and smaller budget items still to be considered, the county schools office tax rate estimated for Next year now stands at 23.7 cents.

That figure, Asst. Supt. Byron W. Mauzy told the board, would produce county revenues totaling about $1,492,000 which will be added to state and federal funds of $2,452,000. This year's 21 cent figure raised $1,216,862 in a total budget of $3,669,327.

Teachers have requested a 5 per cent cost-of-living hike plus salary schedule changes which if approved would add a combined total of $58,000 to the budget or about one cent on the tax rate.)

In trimming the special education terms last night, the board scotched staff requests for a part-time psychologist, physical education teacher, teacher's aide for the trainable mentally retarded program, a part-time nutritionist, a rain shelter at Marindale School and $5,000 to be cut from the Magnolia Park School program.

The cuts also included one existing teaching position at the Marin County Juvenile Hall.

The remaining budget items to be considered by the board at its May 3 meeting include the headstart, children's center and preschool programs which have a combined total of about $460,000 — of which $150,000 is local money.

Left untouched by the board was a staff proposal to increase the county schools' vocational training program from $194,211 this year to $257,628 next year.

The program, called the Regional Occupational Program, offers training in a wide range of occupations to provide basic job skills.

The $63,000 increase is slated for a new business office training course in Marin City at a cost of $25,000, a reserve of about $18,000 and expanded programs in the original seven courses which range from auto mechanics to plastics technology.

Flournoy Named To Workmen's Appeals Board

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — James L. Flournoy, unsuccessful Republican candidate for secretary of state last year, has been appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan to a $33,396 seat on the State Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board.

Flournoy, 55, a Los Angeles attorney long active in Republican politics, will succeed George A. Jackson of Los Angeles, whose term expired.

Flournoy was defeated in his election bid last November by Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr. Flournoy was the first Negro ever to be nominated by a major political party for statewide office in California.

BUICK BARGAIN DAYS ARE HERE

Buick Bargain Days are saving days.

A bargain price on a stripped-down car is no bargain.
But a Buick or Opel at a bargain is something else again.
Because we're not selling some special stripped-down model.
We're selling Buicks and Opels, the same great cars we've sold all year.

With one difference. The deals have never been better.
Which means that you can move out in a new Buick or Opel at a price that's hard to believe.
When Buick talks about a bargain, we give you something to believe in.

BUICK MOTOR DIVISION

GM MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Your Buick-Opel dealer will give you better reasons to buy a new car now than anybody else.

The business of auto safety.

Auto safety is everyone's concern. But it's our business.

And we think the attention that's being paid to auto safety now is a good thing. Because it will result in better driving for everyone.

And, frankly, better driving for everyone means better business for us.

We say Buick is something to believe in. That's why we're trying to make it easy to be safe by putting in safety features that work by themselves. You don't have to do anything to make them work.

Like side guard beams. And the energy absorbing steering column. And the cargo guard between the trunk and back seat. They start "working" even before you get in the car.

But two safety features, two of the most vital, are worthless unless you do something first.

Seat and shoulder belts.

Unfastened they do nothing. And you've seen enough statistics to know what a difference they can make. So use them.

But that's not all you can do. Because the most effective safety feature of all can't be added to our cars or anybody else's.

That feature is you. And the way you drive.

Which should be defensively. And rested. And sober.

We're all in this together. And together we can solve the auto safety problem once and for all.

And the time is now.

Adoption Of Janetta Joy Thrills The Entire Family

By DOROTHY NEWELL

A happy racially-mixed 10-month-old girl is living in the family of S. Sgt. and Mrs. Norman Nix in Novato as a result of their adoptiong of her through the Children's Home society of California.

This is Bay Area Adoption Week, and the Children's Home Society is stressing the need for adoptive homes for children 3 years or older, children with medical problems and black or racially mixed children, according to Mrs. Susan Deininger, social worker who assisted the Nix family with their adoption.

She said there are no rigid requirements, but they try to understand each family for what they have to offer as a unique unit. Important is a stable marriage and that the parents are emotionally healthy individuals.

The Nixes asked the Children's Home Society for a racially mixed girl, and nine months later Janetta Joy, then two weeks old was taken into their home. When the baby arrived, they were asked not to make an immediate decision, but the entire family was so thrilled, Mrs. Nix said, they took her immediately.

THE FAMILY is not a typical one. They have two other children, Glen, 11 years old, and Ynasmin Elaine, 7, both born in England when the Nixes lived there where Sergeant Nix was stationed with the Air Force. Their family also includes a nephew, 15 year old Garyl Graham of Texas, who is living with them for the third year, and a foster son, Greg Jones, 19, whom they have had since he was 17.

Her feeling for children left alone is shown when Elayne Nix speaks of Greg. An ad in a newspaper said, "17 year old black boy needs home. Call the Marin County Civic Center." She said she just could not think of a black boy homeless and alone and called immediately without asking her husband. Informed that the boy was not a delinquent but did not have a foster home, she then told her husband and asked that they take him on a trial basis. Their expectations were met, and he has proved to be a very fine boy, she related. Now when he works he still comes "home" to see them.

Sergeant and Mrs. Nix grew up in the same neighborhood in Texas where their mothers were friends. Ruth Elayne Woodson married Sergeant Nix and when he went into the Air Force, she went to Huston-Tillotson College in Austin, Tex., where she received her teaching credential. This busy mother, who is a sixth grade teacher at Pacheco School, says all she has time for now is teaching and taking care of her family.

Her husband is stationed in Hartford, Conn., and will retire when he returns to Hamilton Air Force Base this fall. She praised her husband highly and noted that Sergeant Nix, contract administrator for the Air Force has been involved with youth for many years. He was president of the Pacheco Parent-Teacher Association, worked with the Little League for Hamilton and Loma Verde and was on the Novato Citizen's Committee. He had been stationed at Hamilton since 1966, but is spending this last year in the Air Force in Connecticut. He has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal for Meritorious service.

Her husband and his family are very pleased that Janetta Joy resembles her father, Mrs. Nix said.

Ynasmin and Glen are both students at Pacheco school. Glen, a sixth grader, says it's not so great having a mother teach in his school as she can watch everything he does but he is not in her class and has been tested for the gifted children program. Proudly she says, he wants to go on to become a lawyer and says she will have to work for quite some time in order to get the children through college, as retirement salary for a sergeant is not enough.

A TYPICAL morning at the Nix home finds Glen fixing the baby bottles, to be taken with her to the baby sitter for the day and his own lunch, Ynasmin makes lunch for herself and her mother and Garyl, a student at Novato High School, sets the table and fixes breakfast. "I like to do the cooking, but the youngsters wash the dishes," Mrs. Nix said, referring to the other meals.

As in any family, there is the continual driving of youngsters somewhere. But with the help of friends and neighbors, they get the youngsters to their various activities — Garyl to a track meet, Glen to a little league practice, and Ynasmin to a swimming lesson.

Does she have any baby sitting problems? Mrs. Nix says she never forces the youngsters to baby sit; they do so only if they volunteer. But Garyl baby sits for the neighbors to earn extra spending money.

A FEW TOYS on the floor kept the baby happy and busy while Mrs. Nix told of the concern and love of the baby by the other youngsters. As an example, she said one day the baby had a temper tantrum and she threatened to spank her. Ynasmin informed her mother that "If you think it's going to get to that, you take her back to the home."

Mrs. Nix feels that white families should not adopt black or racially-mixed children. She said she feels that the white

ADOPTION WEEK in the Bay Area, Sunday through Saturday, has a special meaning for the family of S/Sgt. and Mrs. Norman Nix of Novato. They have an adopted daughter, Janetta Joy, 10 months old, who was placed in their home when she was two weeks old. Mrs. Nix and Garyl, holding the baby, watch as Glen and Ynasmin fill the bottles with milk. Mrs. Nix, a busy mother who also teaches sixth grade at Pacheco School, gets plenty of help at home from the family.

'Earth Week' At San Marin High

Students at San Marin High School, Novato, will observe "Earth Week" with two days of activity, Thursday and Friday, including talks and special events.

The schedule for both days will be devoted to ecology with Thursday designated "problem day" and Friday "solution day", according to the Ecology Action Club, sponsor of the events.

Richard L. Harriman, executive assistant to Paul R. Ehrlich, Stanford biology professor, will open activity at 8:30 a.m. Thursday with a talk about "the population crisis and ecopolitics" at the school gymnasium.

The roster of speakers for the two days includes State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, and two Marin supervisors, Arnold M. Baptiste and Michael Wornum.

There will be a series of special events at noon Thursday including eating of a meal representing one person's share of the world's food supply, and a funeral for birds who died in the San Francisco Bay oil spill.

There will be a "pollution solution bike race" at 11:45 a.m. Friday and the club is urging students to walk, ride a bicycle, jog or run to school each day, rather than travel by car.

The club suggested students get sponsors for their Friday walk who will pay from 10 to 25 cents for each mile they cover, with the funds to go for the sprinkler system and landscaping around the flagpole.

An ecology art contest, can smashing and aluminum collecting contests will be judged at noon Thursday. There will be sale of health foods and ecology buttons, posters and SR sticker, each day.

Speakers at Thursday's sessions and their topics will be Milton Feldstein, executive director of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, air pollution; D. D. Olander, University of California at Berkeley, and Robert Peterson, Atomic Energy Commission, power; Peter Rogers, assistant director State Water Resources Control Board, and William Nelson, North Marin County Water District, water pollution.

Rudolph Platzek, planning director, Association of Bay Area Governments, Baptiste, and Roger Strawick, Standard Growth Properties, land use; Novato Planning Commissioner Beverly Ehreth and Albert J. Solnit, Marin County Planning Department, local problems; and Albert Hall, wildlife biologist, U.S. Forest Service, wildlife.

Speakers at Friday's sessions and their topics will be: Thomas A. Knight, executive director, Planned Parenthood, Marin County, overpopulation; Sen. Behr, water pollution; Roger Bockrath and Dennis Baldwin, organizers and directors of Survival Inc., and Peter Giddings, television weather forecaster, solid waste; Dr. William Kortum and Bruce Wolf, regional western representative, Nature Conservancy, land use.

Draft Violation Conviction Found 'Without Basis'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal court reversed the Selective Service Act convictions of actor Sterling Hayden's son Monday and criticized the way he was denied standing as a conscientious objector.

Christian Hayden, 23, had been convicted of failure to report for a pre-induction physical examination and failure to report for induction.

The U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals found he had applied for conscientious objector status when he registered in 1964 and that the denial of his claim was "without basis in fact."

The actor's son has said since that he will not accept the two years of "alternate service" required of objectors.

Mortuaries Hit By Union Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—All of San Francisco's mortuaries were closed today because of a labor contract dispute involving the 77-member Mortuary Employes Union.

The union struck 24 large funeral homes Monday and the others shut down.

J. Richard Thesing, attorney for the owners, declared: "A strike against one is a strike against all."

Union members first asked $245 more a month, but have scaled that down. Owners have offered a contract calling for $50 more a month this year, another $50 the next year and $60 more for the pact's final year.

Existing wage scales were not available.

Thesing raised the possibility that funeral firms in nearby counties may care for bodies during the walkout.

Nine Die In Try To Defuse Shell

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nine school children were killed and four injured when they tried to defuse a World War II artillery shell they found last week.

The children discovered the unexploded shell April 15 during a playtime recess near the yard of the Minkovsky Elementary School in the Ukraine, according to the provincial newspaper Komsomolskaya Znamya (Youth League Banner).

Boys, 7 and 10, Held In Tot's Brutal Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Homicide inspectors have turned two young boys over to the juvenile division in connection with the "crucifixion" death of a 20-month-old boy whose bruised body was found tied to a makeshift cross.

The nude, sheet-draped body of Noah Alba, who had disappeared from a city park six days ago, was found Monday in a dark, cluttered basement by officers who were led to the scene by the two suspects, ages 7 and 10.

One officer called it "the most gruesome crime scene I have ever met. There were horrible bruises and something resembling scrape marks all over the body."

Homicide Lt. Charles Ellis said it appeared the child had been dead since last Wednesday. He said he had been bound hand and foot to the makeshift cross and the body was covered with bruises and scratches.

Ellis would not release the identities nor permit pictures of the two youngsters being held. As he spoke to newsmen, the ruddy-faced, touseled haired pair read a picture book in another room.

"They have admitted their part in the killing of Noah Alba," Ellis said, but added officers have determined no motive.

A massive police search began after the toddler walked away from Alta Vista Park where he had gone for an outing with his mother, Mrs. Lawrence Alba, 21. Police checked dozens of tips before a woman in the park neighborhood called Monday and said she knew two youngsters who might know of the child's whereabouts

Officers contacted the boys, who in turn led them to the suspects. They in turn led to the basement of a three-story apartment building several blocks from where Noah disappeared.

Sound Director For Tam Play

William J. Carter of Tiburon has been named sound director for the 54th annual Mountain Play, "Playboy of the Western World", by J. M. Synge.

The play will be performed at 2 p.m., May 23 and 30.

Carter of 3330 Paradise Drive, is vice president of the Mountain Play's board. He has been associated with the company for the past nine years.

Broadcast quality sound equipment will use live Irish country music for the play. Carter constructed similar professional equipment for the Tiburon Cove Players.

Council Agrees To Limit Each Home To 4 Dogs

An ordinance that would limit four dogs to a home was agreed upon last night by the Petaluma City Council after receiving complaints of residents keeping veritable kennels.

Police Chief Larry D. Higgins and Animal Control Officer William Matthews said they had received a complaint from Joe Duisman 325 Coronado Drive, that a neighbor at 321 Coronado Drive was keeping 14 dogs.

Matthews said he was powerless to correct the situation since the city has no ordinance regarding animals other than requiring licensing. Higgins recommended the four-dog limitation such as has been enacted in Rohnert Park and Santa Rosa.

Matthews said he found the home and yard to be very clean and the dogs noiseless on his visits, but Duisman complained the animals are noisy at feeding times and that he feared they would draw flies during the summer.

The council directed City Atty. Edouard E. Robert to prepare the necessary ordinance, but rejected his suggestion that cats also be included in the restrictions.

The Petaluma City Council Also:

WATER POLLUTION — Heard Arthur Cerini of the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery ask that the council request the regional water quality corol board to permit the use and discharge of salt water from the Petaluma River on an emergency basis when machinery fails at the plant. City Engineer David A. Young said he felt the request would be rejected since only rain water can legally be dumped directly into the river, but said he would pose the question to district engineers.

TAXES — Accepted a tax rate statement to be sent to voters prior to the $2 million sewer bond election June 8. Financial consultants reported the tax rate for the bonds would be 9 cents per $100 assessed valuation in 1972-73 and be at a maximum of 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation in 1977-78.

ROOF — Approved the installation of a corrugated aluminum roof over outdoor kennels at the animal control center at a cost of $140.

PUMP STATION — Awarded the construction contract for the Magnolia Avenue Pump Station to the low bidder, Knudsen and Richardson of Calistoga, at $61,324. It had been estimated to cost $58,000.

POPULATION — Received official notice that Petaluma's population was 26,850 on March 1, 1971.

SUMMER PLAN — Approved the reduction of the summer playground program from 10 to nine weeks since interest wanes in the latter part of the summer andagreed to establish an additional supervised playground at La Tercera School.

PARK PLAN — Authorized Councilman Fred V. Mattei to work with Donald Campbell, landscape architect and member of the Petaluma Valley Hmeowners Association, in planning the development of La Tercera Park. Mattei said the association has volunteered to supply free labor to build the park.

COMPUTERS — Heard Finance Director Cecil G. Gealta recommend against further consideration of joining the Sonoma County Data Processing Center, saying it would be too costly and an inconvenience in travel. He said he was studying other possible methods of computerizing city operations.

HELEN HELP US!

Taking Four Horoscopes A Day Seriously Can Cause Conflicts

DEAR HELEN:

My girl uses the daily horoscopes to run my life. She reads them in the morning and evening papers, gets a "telephone-scope," and also listens to a different one on radio. So she's got four going for her every day, and one usually works on another so I come up looking like a bum.

Like yesterday, I was supposed to 1. Watch my temper. 2. Treat loved ones with more consideration. 3. Strive for success and 4. Forget business for fun in the evening.

Well, I didn't take her out, having to study for a test instead, so she said that proved I have no consideration, which made me mad, so she brought up "temper." How can you "strive for success" with all this against you?

Will you please tell her, Helen, that "horrorscopes" are not to take seriously? — STAR-CROSSED

DEAR GIRL FRIEND OF S.C.:

Those brief generalized "star-tracts" are for entertainment only. When you take them so seriously they cause fights, it's time to "abhor-a-score," or at least limit yourself to one a day, and read with a smile. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm the original goof-up. Every decision I make becomes a total disaster.

Last year I did drugs because I couldn't seem to do anything right.

Well, my parents found out. Mom cried and wondered where she had failed, and finally left the room bawling.

Three months later my boy friend asked me to run away to Mexico and marry him. We kept it secret, and I sneaked out and met him as much as possible, but it was no good, what with my folks suspecting "the worst," and trying to ground me, so I finally told my husband I was cutting loose. He's furious, but probably won't tell anyone because it would get him in trouble, me being underage.

Now I've met another boy who is real nice, but I've only just begun to be free and don't want anything permanent. The other day he said he'd picked out an apartment and he expects me to marry him as soon as I graduate in June. I don't know how I got myself in this third mess before I was out of the second.

Anyway, I'm off drugs. What do I do now? — "17"

DEAR 17:

First things first: You're off drugs. Why? Though you don't give your parents much credit, they must have done something right, for after they found out, you quit.

How about giving them another go at straightening up your life? You need adult help for an annulment and mature advice on avoiding another entanglement. A giant step in growing up is to admit mistakes and concede friends are necessary. (And parents can be the best friends of all, if you let them.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My family had to move in with my sister and brother-in-law because of money reasons. We share the bills.

The problem is my sister's smoking. She can smoke a whole pack in one sitting. There's a dense fog in the house every day. Our eyes water, our lungs clog, we lose our appetites and feel nauseous. She says, "It's my life," but Helen, it's ours too. How can we live with a chain smoker? — H.M.B.

DEAR H:

It's not only your sister's life, but her house. If she wants to shorten one and fog up the other, family disapproval won't change her (though a good scare from her doctor might). Start house-hunting. — H.

Racially Mixed Placed After Careful Study

family does not give enough pride in a black child's own self and the identity is not there.

The Children's Home Society believes simple generalizations about this subject are not possible; it's very individual. They place racially mixed children with Caucasian families after a careful study has revealed that they can help the child know and live with both of his races.

There are 22 Children's Home Society offices within California. The three local ones are Oakland, San Francisco and Santa Rosa. Three auxiliary chapters in Marin and one in Petaluma are active supporters of the Children's Home Society.

THE SOCIETY is supported by private donations, the auxiliaries and fees not exceeding $750 from adoptive parents used to help pay foster families, medical personnel and counseling to the adoptive parents and biological parents.

Even though there is a great demand for adoptive parents for the older children, children with medical problems and black and racially-mixed children, there are sufficient homes and a parent waiting list for healthy, Caucasian infants, Mrs. Deininger said.

It's Countdown To Charity Ball

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —Eventually it happens to you if you work with a charitable or similar organization. You're asked to serve on a committee for a fund-raising event. And you accept, figuring you owe it to the community, to your conscience, and besides it won't be all THAT much work.

How wrong you are. Ask Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., or Mrs. Alan Jay Lerner. But then, consider too the good feeling after say a whole year of telephoning, the seemingly endless strategy meetings, the interruptions in the household,- when the culmination is a sizeable net profit for a cause.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Lerner are among the many volunteers now at the countdown stage of one of New York's major fund-raising events, a dinner dance Wednesday to raise funds for Irvington House, a privately supported institute for research into rheumatic fever and allied diseases.

Mrs. Roosevelt, the honorary chairman, has been involved with fund-raising for this institute, affiliated with the New York Medical Center, for 20-some years. Irvington House is now in its 50th year.

Mrs. Lerner, petite brunette wife of the author-lyricist-producer, is one of her committee women and commentator for the hair fashion show that will be part of the entertainment at the Hilton Hotel event.

"I CANNOT tell you the many hours you will spend on the telephone," said Mrs. Roosevelt, telling what it's like. She and Mrs. Lerner, former newspaper and magazine reporter-writer, were discussing final details of the ball as they sat in the library of the Roosevelt apartment on Park Avenue.

The two would be interviewed only in the name of charity. They said they wanted no personal publicity, although both agreed that some socially prominent and wealthy women "flit" from charity to charity just to get their names in the paper.

"I realize the image some people have," said Mrs. Roosevelt, a petite blonde formerly married to Robert Sarnoff, chairman of the board and president of RCA. "I can tell you I wouldn't be idle anyway. I've got plenty to do with two houses and the children. I assure you it's only to raise money.

"THE ALTERNATIVE is to work with children and I'm not equipped to do taht as well as our many unsung volunteers. This is my way of contributing. The $75,000 we hops to raise — in other years the dance has raised that much — is not to be sneezed at."

"If a woman is 'idle' you won't find her working on a charity," said Mrs. Lerner. "It's the old saying about ask a busy woman if you want something done."

The two agreed you can't just decide to have a dinner dance, hire a ballroom, call all your friends to buy tickets and have a successful event. There's got to be a gimmick, something that even husbands will get into black tie for —"one of the biggest problems is getting husbands to go, especially if it's a 'forced' evening. Men like to move around."

To make the Irvington House event different, the fund-raisers decided to have a "bal rouge et noir", with the models drawn from the social world, agreeing to get their hair toned either red or black or variations of the two. That gave them a chance to ask Roux, the hair color manufacturers, to help finance the event. The firm also is giving some advanced medical equipment to aid in rheumatic fever research.

THE DANCE also will feature buffet-style dinner and a casino, which ought to help get the men moving around.

Putting her energies to work for other is ingrained in Felicia Roosevelt. One of her ancestors was Jacob Schiff, the philanthropist. Her father was Paul Felix Warburg, financier and Philanthropist also. And in addition to Irvington House, she's active with Project Hope.

Some other suggestions the women made for successful fund-raising:

—Select committee women who will work, not just lend their names.

—Have an executive secretary who really can run the office and knows the people involved in the event.

—Start an event on time. "You can't expect many over 35 to stick around after 11 o'clock," said Mrs. Roosevelt," but the older people are your financial supporters."

Single Sex College Role

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite the co-educational trend of recent years, the "single sex" college has a vital role in American education, particularly for women, according to an Ohio educator.

"To be a successfully educated person in America today does not necessarily mean the same thing for men and women," says Dr. Paul Weaver, president of Lake Erie College, Painesville, Ohio.

"The fact is that most of our college and university programs have been designed to educate men for their role in life. I believe it is better for women to attend institutions organized for their own unique needs."

Weaver, who pioneered such collegiate innovations at all-women Lake Erie College as sending a class abroad for an entire semester of study, said the co-ed often finds herself in what is still basically a male environment.

This contrasts, he said, with an education designed solely to prepare her for her feminine role in later life, either as homemaker or career woman.

Wash Synthetic Hair Wisely

NEW YORK (UPI)—A wig made of synthetic "hair" can sometimes go for as long as three months without washing. But when you do wash it, according to authorities in the wig industry, use cool water for sudsing and for rinsing. Other instructions:

Wash the wig with a mild soap —baby shampoo or one of the cold water soaps will do.

Adoption Of Janetta Joy Thrills The Entire Family

LITTLE JANETTA Joy Nix shows her happiness when her toy Snoopy is given to her mother, Mrs. Norman Nix of Novato. A racially-mixed child, Janetta Joy was adopted by the Nix family through the Children's Home Society of California, which is concentrating on the adoption of racially-mixed and older children, who are harder to place than Caucasian youngsters.

By DOROTHY NEWELL

A happy racially-mixed 10-month-old girl is living in the family of S. Sgt. and Mrs. Norman Nix in Novato as a result of their adoptiong of her through the Children's Home society of California.

This is Bay Area Adoption Week, and the Children's Home Society is stressing the need for adoptive homes for children 3 years or older, children with medical problems and black or racially mixed children, according to Mrs. Susan Deininger, social worker who assisted the Nix family with their adoption.

She said there are no rigid requirements, but they try to understand each family for what they have to offer as a unique unit. Important is a stable marriage and that the parents are emotionally healthy individuals.

The Nixes asked the Children's Home Society for a racially mixed girl, and nine months later Janetta Joy, then two weeks old was taken into their home. When the baby arrived, they were asked not to make an immediate decision, but the entire family was so thrilled, Mrs. Nix said, they took her immediately.

THE FAMILY is not a typical one. They have two other children, Glen, 11 years old, and Ynasmin Elaine, 7, both born in England when the Nixes lived there where Sergeant Nix was stationed with the Air Force. Their family also includes a nephew, 15 year old Garyl Graham of Texas, who is living with them for the third year, and a foster son, Greg Jones, 19, whom they have had since he was 17.

Her feeling for children left alone is shown when Elayne Nix speaks of Greg. An ad in a newspaper said, "17 year old black boy needs home. Call the Marin County Civic Center." She said she just could not think of a black boy homeless and alone and called immediately without asking her husband. Informed that the boy was not a delinquent but did not have a foster home, she then told her husband and asked that they take him on a trial basis. Their expectations were met, and he has proved to be a very fine boy, she related. Now when he works he still comes "home" to see them.

Sergeant and Mrs. Nix grew up in the same neighborhood in Texas where their mothers were friends. Ruth Elayne Woodson married Sergeant Nix and when he went into the Air Force, she went to Huston-Tillotson College in Austin, Tex., where she received her teaching credential. This busy mother, who is a sixth grade teacher at Pacheco School, says all she has time for now is teaching and taking care of her family.

Her husband is stationed in Hartford, Conn., and will retire when he returns to Hamilton Air Force Base this fall. She praised her husband highly and noted that Sergeant Nix, contract administrator for the Air Force has been involved with youth for many years. He was president of the Pacheco Parent-Teacher Association, worked with the Little League for Hamilton and Loma Verde and was on the Novato Citizen's Committee. He had been stationed at Hamilton since 1966, but is spending this last year in the Air Force in Connecticut. He has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal for Meritorious service.

Her husband and his family are very pleased that Janetta Joy resembles her father, Mrs. Nix said.

Ynasmin and Glen are both students at Pacheco school. Glen, a sixth grader, says it's not so great having a mother teach in his school as she can watch everything he does but he is not in her class and has been tested for the gifted children program. Proudly she says, he wants to go on to become a lawyer and says she will have to work for quite some time in order to get the children through college, as retirement salary for a sergeant is not enough.

A TYPICAL morning at the Nix home finds Glen fixing the baby bottles, to be taken with her to the baby sitter for the day and his own lunch, Ynasmin makes lunch for herself and her mother and Garyl, a student at Novato High School, sets the table and fixes breakfast. "I like to do the cooking, but the youngsters wash the dishes," Mrs. Nix said, referring to the other meals.

As in any family, there is the continual driving of youngsters somewhere. But with the help of friends and neighbors, they get the youngsters to their various activities — Garyl to a track meet, Glen to a little league practice, and Ynasmin to a swimming lesson.

Does she have any baby sitting problems? Mrs. Nix says she never forces the youngsters to baby sit; they do so only if they volunteer. But Garyl baby sits for the neighbors to earn extra spending money.

A FEW TOYS on the floor kept the baby happy and busy while Mrs. Nix told of the concern and love of the baby by the other youngsters. As an example, she said one day the baby had a temper tantrum and she threatened to spank her. Ynasmin informed her mother that "If you think it's going to get to that, you take her back to the home."

Mrs. Nix feels that white families should not adopt black or racially-mixed children. She said she feels that the white

ADOPTION WEEK in the Bay Area, Sunday through Saturday, has a special meaning for the family of S/Sgt. and Mrs. Norman Nix of Novato. They have an adopted daughter, Janetta Joy, 10 months old, who was placed in their home when she was two weeks old. Mrs. Nix and Garyl, holding the baby, watch as Glen and Ynasmin fill the bottles with milk. Mrs. Nix, a busy mother who also teaches sixth grade at Pacheco School, gets plenty of help at home from the family.

Dior Midis Have Vanished Fall Collection At The Knee

By ALINE MOSBY

"Yes it's a retreat," cheerfully admitted one of the Dior assistant designers who worked on the show, not even bothering to use any cover-up phrases such as "withdrawal." "The midi-maxi is finished."

If the knee-hovering dresses and coats and array of hot pants in the "Miss Dior" and "Dior Boutique" lines are any preview of what will be in July's Dior winter high fashion show, then this famous fashion house will have made the quickest pullback from a style in the history of women's clothing since Eve. Last January, the Paris designers had insisted they shorten skirts only for spring as a bow to the warm weather

DIOR AND a few other high fashion houses and French manufacturers of both deluxe and inexpensive ready-to-wear are displaying their 1971-72 winter wares to buyers from around the world for a week beginning today. Whether the majority of the manufacturers will return to mid-knee styles remained to be seen.

Jacques Rouet, director of Dior, refused to say whether the house buried its midi-maxi styles in view of its U.S. market. The long look met resistance in America although it was, and still is, popular in Europe.

THE SECOND noticeable point of the Dior ready-to-wear show was that it was full of shorts, confouncing some fashion critics who insisted hot pants would be a summer craze only. The Dior show had knitted shorts almost hidden by knitted or leather tunics. For evening there was a parade of one-piece crepe and printed satin shorts "dresses" with long sleeves, high necks and belts.

The only leg-covering dress in the Dior ready-to-wear collection was a leather maxi-skirt buttoned up the front. Even the coats bared half of the knee to winter winds and did not even meet the top of the mannequins' boots.

The midi look also vanished for evening with lame narrow belted dresses hitting mid-knee. Long gowns were shown only for formal affairs.

Cape Capers

The cape caper - with a short story underneath - was Erika Elias' contribution to the Design America collection for Hooker Chemical's Rucaire fabrics. The cape and short shorts jumper suit were done in bright yellows, blues and greens. The print was hearts and flowers.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

DEAR HELEN:

My girl uses the daily horoscopes to run my life. She reads them in the morning and evening papers, gets a "telephone-scope," and also listens to a different one on radio. So she's got four going for her every day, and one usually works on another so I come up looking like a bum.

Like yesterday, I was supposed to 1. Watch my temper. 2. Treat loved ones with more consideration. 3. Strive for success and 4. Forget business for fun in the evening.

Well, I didn't take her out, having to study for a test instead, so she said that proved I have no consideration, which made me mad, so she brought up "temper." How can you "strive for success" with all this against you?

Will you please tell her, Helen, that "horrorscopes" are not to take seriously? — STAR-CROSSED

DEAR GIRL FRIEND OF S.C.:

Those brief generalized "star-tracts" are for entertainment only. When you take them so seriously they cause fights, it's time to "abhor-a-score," or at least limit yourself to one a day, and read with a smile. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm the original goof-up. Every decision I make becomes a total disaster.

Three months later my boy friend asked me to run away to Mexico and marry him. We kept it secret, and I sneaked out and met him as much as possible, but it was no good, what with my folks suspecting "the worst," and trying to ground me, so I finally told my husband I was cutting loose. He's furious, but probably won't tell anyone because it would get him in trouble, me being underage.

Now I've met another boy who is real nice, but I've only just begun to be free and don't want anything permanent. The other day he said he'd picked out an apartment and he expects me to marry him as soon as I graduate in June. I don't know how I got myself in this third mess before I was out of the second.

Anyway, I'm off drugs. What do I do now? — "17"

DEAR 17:

First things first: You're off drugs. Why? Though you don't give your parents much credit, they must have done something right, for after they found out, you quit.

How about giving them another go at straightening up your life? You need adult help for an annulment and mature advice on avoiding another entanglement. A giant step in growing up is to admit mistakes and concede friends are necessary. (And parents can be the best friends of all, if you let them.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My family had to move in with my sister and brother-in-law because of money reasons. We share the bills.

The problem is my sister's smoking. She can smoke a whole pack in one sitting. There's a dense fog in the house every day. Our eyes water, our lungs clog, we lose our appetites and feel nauseous. She says, "It's my life," but Helen, it's ours too. How can we live with a chain smoker? — H.M.B.

DEAR H:

It's not only your sister's life, but her house. If she wants to shorten one and fog up the other, family disapproval won't change her (though a good scare from her doctor might). Start house-hunting. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Racially Mixed Placed After Careful Study

family does not give enough pride in a black child's own self and the identity is not there.

The Children's Home Society believes simple generalizations about this subject are not possible; it's very individual. They place racially mixed children with Caucasian families after a careful study has revealed that they can help the child know and live with both of his races.

There are 22 Children's Home Society offices within California. The three local ones are Oakland, San Francisco and Santa Rosa. Three auxiliary chapters in Marin and one in Petaluma are active supporters of the Children's Home Society.

THE SOCIETY is supported by private donations, the auxiliaries and fees not exceeding $750 from adoptive parents used to help pay foster families, medical personnel and counseling to the adoptive parents and biological parents.

Even though there is a great demand for adoptive parents for the older children, children with medical problems and black and racially-mixed children, there are sufficient homes and a parent waiting list for healthy, Caucasian infants, Mrs. Deininger said.

It's Countdown To Charity Ball

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —Eventually it happens to you if you work with a charitable or similar organization. You're asked to serve on a committee for a fund-raising event. And you accept, figuring you owe it to the community, to your conscience, and besides it won't be all THAT much work.

How wrong you are. Ask Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., or Mrs. Alan Jay Lerner. But then, consider too the good feeling after say a whole year of telephoning, the seemingly endless strategy meetings, the interruptions in the household,- when the culmination is a sizeable net profit for a cause.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Lerner are among the many volunteers now at the countdown stage of one of New York's major fund-raising events, a dinner dance Wednesday to raise funds for Irvington House, a privately supported institute for research into rheumatic fever and allied diseases.

Mrs. Roosevelt, the honorary chairman, has been involved with fund-raising for this institute, affiliated with the New York Medical Center, for 20-some years. Irvington House is now in its 50th year.

Mrs. Lerner, petite brunette wife of the author-lyricist-producer, is one of her committee women and commentator for the hair fashion show that will be part of the entertainment at the Hilton Hotel event.

"I CANNOT tell you the many hours you will spend on the telephone," said Mrs. Roosevelt, telling what it's like. She and Mrs. Lerner, former newspaper and magazine reporter-writer, were discussing final details of the ball as they sat in the library of the Roosevelt apartment on Park Avenue.

The two would be interviewed only in the name of charity. They said they wanted no personal publicity, although both agreed that some socially prominent and wealthy women "flit" from charity to charity just to get their names in the paper.

"I realize the image some people have," said Mrs. Roosevelt, a petite blonde formerly married to Robert Sarnoff, chairman of the board and president of RCA. "I can tell you I wouldn't be idle anyway. I've got plenty to do with two houses and the children. I assure you it's only to raise money.

"THE ALTERNATIVE is to work with children and I'm not equipped to do taht as well as our many unsung volunteers. This is my way of contributing. The $75,000 we hops to raise — in other years the dance has raised that much — is not to be sneezed at."

"If a woman is 'idle' you won't find her working on a charity," said Mrs. Lerner. "It's the old saying about ask a busy woman if you want something done."

(UPI Telephoto)

The two agreed you can't just decide to have a dinner dance, hire a ballroom, call all your friends to buy tickets and have a successful event. There's got to be a gimmick, something that even husbands will get into black tie for —"one of the biggest problems is getting husbands to go, especially if it's a 'forced' evening. Men like to move around."

To make the Irvington House event different, the fund-raisers decided to have a "bal rouge et noir", with the models drawn from the social world, agreeing to get their hair toned either red or black or variations of the two. That gave them a chance to ask Roux, the hair color manufacturers, to help finance the event. The firm also is giving some advanced medical equipment to aid in rheumatic fever research.

THE DANCE also will feature buffet-style dinner and a casino, which ought to help get the men moving around.

Putting her energies to work for other is ingrained in Felicia Roosevelt. One of her ancestors was Jacob Schiff, the philanthropist. Her father was Paul Felix Warburg, financier and Philanthropist also. And in addition to Irvington House, she's active with Project Hope.

Some other suggestions the women made for successful fund-raising:

—Select committee women who will work, not just lend their names.

—Have an executive secretary who really can run the office and knows the people involved in the event.

—Start an event on time. "You can't expect many over 35 to stick around after 11 o'clock," said Mrs. Roosevelt," but the older people are your financial supporters."

Donna Gunning Will Be Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Gunning of Novato are announcing the engagement of their daughter Donna Lee to Stephen Albert Graves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert V. Graves of San Anselmo.

Donna is the sister of James Edward Gunning. She was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. She is employed at Ross Dept. Store in Novato.

Stephen is the brother of Carol Ann Graves of Fremont. Mrs. E. G. Harrington of San Anselmo is his grandmother. The future bridegroom was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, attended College of Marin and is attending Sonoma State College. He is employed at Cala Foods in Fairfax.

Single Sex College Role

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite the co-educational trend of recent years, the "single sex" college has a vital role in American education, particularly for women, according to an Ohio educator.

"To be a successfully educated person in America today does not necessarily mean the same thing for men and women," says Dr. Paul Weaver, president of Lake Erie College, Painesville, Ohio.

"The fact is that most of our college and university programs have been designed to educate men for their role in life. I believe it is better for women to attend institutions organized for their own unique needs."

Weaver, who pioneered such collegiate innovations at all-women Lake Erie College as sending a class abroad for an entire semester of study, said the co-ed often finds herself in what is still basically a male environment.

This contrasts, he said, with an education designed solely to prepare her for her feminine role in later life, either as homemaker or career woman.

Wash Synthetic Hair Wisely

NEW YORK (UPI)—A wig made of synthetic "hair" can sometimes go for as long as three months without washing. But when you do wash it, according to authorities in the wig industry, use cool water for sudsing and for rinsing. Other instructions:

Wash the wig with a mild soap —baby shampoo or one of the cold water soaps will do.

Almanac for Tues. & Wed. Indented paragraphs are to come and are indicated as inserts no.s 1-4.

Today is Tuesday, April 20, the 110th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

Movie comedian Harold Lloyd was born April 20, 1894.

On this day in history: In 1903 Andrew Carnegie gave $1.5 million for construction of the Hague Peace Palace in The Netherlands.

In 1926 a picturegram of a bank check sent from London to New York by RCA was honored and cashed. It marked the first time a bank honored a check not actually in its possession.

In 1968 a South African Airways jetliner crashed in Southwest Africa, killing 122 persons.

A thought for today: Novelist Thomas Wolfe said, "There is no spectacle on earth more appealing than that of a beautiful woman in the act of cooking dinner for someone she loves."

Innocent Plea In Burglary

Mark Rolland McCready, 19, of Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge that he burglarized the Sausalito Cruising Club Jan. 19.

Jury trial was set for the week of June 7.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Be Merciful If Your Partner Sometimes Short Of Perfection

The trouble with human beings is that we don't know what's good for us. This is a limitation that does not affect bridge columnists, but then whoever said that bridge columnists are human beings? I couldn't make such strong statements, of course, if I didn't have a bridge hand to prove it all.

LOW FROM DUMMY

West led the jack of hearts, and declarer played low from the dummy. East was delighted with the lead and played the eight of hearts to encourage a continuation. It is clear that East was only human. West obediently continued with the ten of hearts, and South ruffed. Declarer drew a round of trumps with the ace, cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond in dummy and ruffed another low heart.

South next ruffed his last diamond in dummy and returned the king of hearts. East covered with the ace of hearts, and South shrewdly discarded a club.

NO WAY OUT

There was no way out for East. If East returned a diamond, dummy would ruff while South discarded another club; and if East returned a club, dummy's king would win a trick. Either way South was sure to make his contract.

Now let us all assume the superhuman superiority of the bridge columnist by returning to the first trick. If East knew what was good for him he would play his lowest heart to discourage a heart continuation. West would shift to a low club, and East would win with the jack.

WITH A SPADE

East could then get out safely with a spade or a diamond, and South would be doomed. With their two tricks safely stashed away, the defenders cannot be caught in an end play.

The point of this little discussion is that it's much easier to find the perfect defense when you can see all 52 cards than when you're actually playing a hand. If your partner sometimes drops a trick short of perfection, be merciful.

By ALINE MOSBY

"Yes it's a retreat," cheerfully admitted one of the Dior assistant designers who worked on the show, not even bothering to use any cover-up phrases such as "withdrawal." "The midi-maxi is finished."

If the knee-hovering dresses and coats and array of hot pants in the "Miss Dior" and "Dior Boutique" lines are any preview of what will be in July's Dior winter high fashion show, then this famous fashion house will have made the quickest pullback from a style in the history of women's clothing since Eve. Last January, the Paris designers had insisted they shorten skirts only for spring as a bow to the warm weather

DIOR AND a few other high fashion houses and French manufacturers of both deluxe and inexpensive ready-to-wear are displaying their 1971-72 winter wares to buyers from around the world for a week beginning today. Whether the majority of the manufacturers will return to mid-knee styles remained to be seen.

Jacques Rouet, director of Dior, refused to say whether the house buried its midi-maxi styles in view of its U.S. market. The long look met resistance in America although it was, and still is, popular in Europe.

THE SECOND noticeable point of the Dior ready-to-wear show was that it was full of shorts, confouncing some fashion critics who insisted hot pants would be a summer craze only. The Dior show had knitted shorts almost hidden by knitted or leather tunics. For evening there was a parade of one-piece crepe and printed satin shorts "dresses" with long sleeves, high necks and belts.

The only leg-covering dress in the Dior ready-to-wear collection was a leather maxi-skirt buttoned up the front. Even the coats bared half of the knee to winter winds and did not even meet the top of the mannequins' boots.

The midi look also vanished for evening with lame narrow belted dresses hitting mid-knee. Long gowns were shown only for formal affairs.

Cape Capers

The cape caper - with a short story underneath - was Erika Elias' contribution to the Design America collection for Hooker Chemical's Rucaire fabrics. The cape and short shorts jumper suit were done in bright yellows, blues and greens. The print was hearts and flowers.

Roles Double Cast For Britten Opera

"The Turn of the Screw," the Benjamin Britten opera to be presented by the Sonoma State College Opera Workshop, will have several of the six roles double cast, according to director Peggy Donovan-Jeffrey.

Performances in the Fred Warren Memorial Auditorium on Rohnert Park campus are scheduled at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, with a 2:30 p.m. matinee Friday.

The leading role of the governess will be sung by Bonnie Landfield of Mill Valley and Victoria Kincaid of Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Landfield attended the Juilliard School of Music in New York City and was soloist with the Temple University Concert Choir. Her professional experience includes appearances with the Rittenhouse Opera Company in Pennsylvania, the Lake George Opera Festival and Princeton Opera Club. The Britten opera will mark her local debut.

A graduate in music from Stanford University, Miss Kincaid is a graduate student at Sonoma State and has sung previously with the Opera Workshop.

The key roles of the two children, Flora and Miles, will be sung by a brother and sister, Elisabeth Engen, 13, and Charles Engen, 12. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Engen of Tiburon. Both have sung six years with the Winifred Baker Children's Chorus.

Also cast as Flora is Mara Finerty, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Finerty of Terra Linda. She has sung five years with the Winifred Baker Children's Chorus.

Double cast in the role of Mrs. Grose are Lorie Kutsko of Sausalito and Mary Harmon Beard of Cotati, wife of the assistant professor of German at Sonoma State.

Mrs. Kutsko sang two years with the San Francisco Opera chorus and was a Bay Area finalist in Metropolitan Opera auditions in 1969. She has appeared in musical comedy in Boston, New York, Chicago, Bermuda and in summer stock.

A graduate in music from Stanford University, Mrs. Beard studied voice in Stuttgart, Germany. She was one of 25 singers selected from throughout the U.S. for the Boris Goldovsky Opera Institute at Sonoma State last summer.

The role of Miss Jessel will be sung by Linda Sommer of San Rafael. Mrs. Sommer studied music one year at La Sierra College near Los Angeles and five years at the Musik Akadamie Vienna. She has appeared on Austrian television and sang operettas two years with the Biel Stadtheater Switzerland.

The role of Quint will be sung by Victor Parker, a Petaluma school teacher and graduate of Chico State College. He also was a member of the Goldovsky Opera Institute last summer. He has traveled in 22 countries with the Choir of the Seven Seas and has appeared professionally with the Oakland Symphony. As an apprentice singer, he will be heard in five operas with the Santa Fe Opera Company this summer.

City Hears Delay On Special Vote Is Unavoidable

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—City Attorney Thomas O'Connor told the Board of Supervisors Monday that it will be impossible to hold a special election in June on the question of a height limit for San Francisco buildings.

A special election has been called for in a 45,000-signature petition circulated by dress manufacturer Alvin Duskin, who believes high-rise buildings spoil the skyline. The petition calls for a vote on imposing a 72-foot limit.

O'Connor said all the necessary legal steps to arrange a special election cannot be completed any earlier than Aug. 3.

The supervisors have yet to decide whether to call a special election on the issue.

Scalp Cuts

Sarah Wirt, 7, of 50 Monte Vista, Mill Valley was treated at 3:45 p.m. Sunday at Marin General Hospital for scalp cuts suffered in an auto accident, the hospital reported yesterday. No additional information was available.

OPERA LEADS — Bonnie Landfield (left) as the governess and Elisabeth Engen as Flora will be heard this week at Sonoma State College in Britten's Gothic-Victorian opera "The Turn of the Screw."

New Standards Of Safety Urged For High Rises

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Attempts to evacuate modern high rise office buildings or apartments in case of fire frequently are little more than open invitations to panic, injury and death, according to federal safety experts.

Arthur F. Sampson, commissioner of public building safety, told newsmen Monday that new safety procedures are needed for buildings higher than 15 stories. He suggested selective evacuation of endangered parts of buildings, either to the outside or safe areas inside, and said persons in relatively safe areas should stay put to avoid overcrowding stairs.

Sampson said new buildings often pose greater danger from fire, heat and smoke than pre-World War II skyscrapers because the windows fit tighter, they are fully air conditioned and most offices are loaded with foam rubber that produces a black smoke when it burns.

Spanish Organist To Play

Spanish organist Julio M. Garcia Llovera, organist at the Church of St. Marine in Hamburg, Germany, will present his second concert in the United States on April 30 at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo. It will be open to the public without charge.

He will present his first concert in this country in Washington, D.C. and will perform on May 2 at St. Ignatius Church in San Francisco.

Born in 1923 in Madrid, Llovera was organist of the Metropolitan Cathedral of El Pilar in Zaragoa, Spain, until 1961, when he left to study for his doctorate in musicology at the University of Heidelberg.

He is an authority on early music of Spain and won the highest prizes in organ as a master scholar of Muset, baroque authority, at the University of Barcelona and Madrid.

The organist has performed in every major European city, has made recordings and is one of the few European organists who have played extensively behind the Iron Curtain.

Program For New Students

Santa Rosa Junior College will host and information program for prospective students Friday at 6 p.m.

Campus tours including the recently completed Plover Library will be conducted first with group discussions scheduled for 7:45 p.m. at the Doyle Student Center.

Information will be given on entrance and graduation requirements, scholarships and financial aids. A question and answer period has been planned and the evening will conclude with folk music entertainment in the student center.

Harold Messenger Novato Candidate

Harold A. Messenger, 39, former Novato deputy finance officer, has confirmed reports that he has applied for the vacant seat on the Novato City Council.

Nine residents are seeking the seat vacated by Douglas M. Merrill, only five of them identified, because the Novato City Council has withheld their names.

Messenger, purchasing agent for the Novato Unified School District, worked as deputy finance officer for the city from June, 1967, until last fall. He said his experience as a city employee would be helpful on the council, because "I worked for the city, know the employees and inner workings."

He said he was prompted to seek the job because "I feel I have more to contribute than I can as a private citizen. I would like to be in a position to do it."

Messenger, who has never been a candidate for public office, felt the council could "just as soon" have revealed the names of applicants as not.

"But I respect the councilmen's privilege of making their decision, leaving it up to the individual," he said. "I suppose they did it for the benefit of those who were unsuccessful, but if you're in the public light, you have to be in position to accept embarrassment."

Candidates previously identified, are: Betty J. Machado, former candidate; Lee C. Wise, manager of Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s Novato branch; planning commissioner John E. Schoonover, and attorney David Price Jones.

The council is scheduled to name the new council member April 27. If it fails to make a choice within 30 days of Merrill's resignation, there will have to be an election.

Campus Forum Set Thursday

Sonoma State College will host its second campus-community forum Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

A panel of college and community representatives will discuss the topic, "Who Needs a Liberal Education?"

Panel members will be Jane Faust, Rohnert Park resident and member of several civic commissions; Dr. George McCabe, professor of psychology; Helen Rudee, Santa Rosa representative of the Sonoma County Board of Education; Ignazio A. Vella, chairman of the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors; and Dr. Yvette Fallandy, dean of the college faculty.

The program is sponsored by the college's student lectures and concerts committee.

TRUE ECONOMY ISN'T MORE MILES TO THE GALLON. IT'S MORE YEARS TO THE CAR.

These days, a lot of people think the way to save a little money is to buy a small cheap car.

To save a lot of money, buy a Volvo.

Volvos are built to last. While we can't guarantee how long, we do know Volvos hold up an average of eleven years in Sweden. So once you get your Volvo paid for, you should be able to hang on to it for a few years.

Then you can bank the money you'd normally spend on car payments. Not counting interest, that's almost $1000 a year.

This is the basic difference between a Volvo and an economy car.

Economy cars are for people who are interested in economy. Volvos are for people who are interested in money.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Be Merciful If Your Partner Sometimes Short Of Perfection

The trouble with human beings is that we don't know what's good for us. This is a limitation that does not affect bridge columnists, but then whoever said that bridge columnists are human beings? I couldn't make such strong statements, of course, if I didn't have a bridge hand to prove it all.

LOW FROM DUMMY

West led the jack of hearts, and declarer played low from the dummy. East was delighted with the lead and played the eight of hearts to encourage a continuation. It is clear that East was only human. West obediently continued with the ten of hearts, and South ruffed. Declarer drew a round of trumps with the ace, cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond in dummy and ruffed another low heart.

South next ruffed his last diamond in dummy and returned the king of hearts. East covered with the ace of hearts, and South shrewdly discarded a club.

NO WAY OUT

There was no way out for East. If East returned a diamond, dummy would ruff while South discarded another club; and if East returned a club, dummy's king would win a trick. Either way South was sure to make his contract.

Now let us all assume the superhuman superiority of the bridge columnist by returning to the first trick. If East knew what was good for him he would play his lowest heart to discourage a heart continuation. West would shift to a low club, and East would win with the jack.

WITH A SPADE

East could then get out safely with a spade or a diamond, and South would be doomed. With their two tricks safely stashed away, the defenders cannot be caught in an end play.

The point of this little discussion is that it's much easier to find the perfect defense when you can see all 52 cards than when you're actually playing a hand. If your partner sometimes drops a trick short of perfection, be merciful.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

Albert Burton Fierstine, 27, of Greenbrae, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge he burglarized a Mill Valley residence March 27.

Jury trial was set for the week of June 28.

Fierstine was arrested when police said they found him inside the home of Thomas J. Zilka of 15 Escalon Drive.

ALMANAC

Almanac for Tues. & Wed. Indented paragraphs are to come and are indicated as inserts no.s 1-4.

Today is Tuesday, April 20, the 110th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

Movie comedian Harold Lloyd was born April 20, 1894.

On this day in history: In 1903 Andrew Carnegie gave $1.5 million for construction of the Hague Peace Palace in The Netherlands.

In 1926 a picturegram of a bank check sent from London to New York by RCA was honored and cashed. It marked the first time a bank honored a check not actually in its possession.

In 1968 a South African Airways jetliner crashed in Southwest Africa, killing 122 persons.

A thought for today: Novelist Thomas Wolfe said, "There is no spectacle on earth more appealing than that of a beautiful woman in the act of cooking dinner for someone she loves."

Innocent Plea In Burglary

Mark Rolland McCready, 19, of Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge that he burglarized the Sausalito Cruising Club Jan. 19.

Jury trial was set for the week of June 7.

FINANCES IN A MESS?

Don't feel like the Lone Ranger, most people need some help. This ad is unusual, we don't loan money and are not selling business opportunities. It is just that we feel there are times when sitting down with a successful person who is not emotionally involved in your problems, but can study them objectively? car be the answer or at least the start to solving your situation. I have a formula for climbing out of debt and starting to build financial security that might be the answer you have been looking for. If you and I think we can help you there's a small fee based on how much I have to do. No obligation on either person's part. You may not think I can help you or I may not think you're willing to be helped. One interview will tell us and it will take 15 to 30 minutes. Call my executive secretary, Mrs. Marty Conley, for an appointment. 454-8232.

Roles Double Cast For Britten Opera

"The Turn of the Screw," the Benjamin Britten opera to be presented by the Sonoma State College Opera Workshop, will have several of the six roles double cast, according to director Peggy Donovan-Jeffrey.

Performances in the Fred Warren Memorial Auditorium on Rohnert Park campus are scheduled at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, with a 2:30 p.m. matinee Friday.

The leading role of the governess will be sung by Bonnie Landfield of Mill Valley and Victoria Kincaid of Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Landfield attended the Juilliard School of Music in New York City and was soloist with the Temple University Concert Choir. Her professional experience includes appearances with the Rittenhouse Opera Company in Pennsylvania, the Lake George Opera Festival and Princeton Opera Club. The Britten opera will mark her local debut.

A graduate in music from Stanford University, Miss Kincaid is a graduate student at Sonoma State and has sung previously with the Opera Workshop.

The key roles of the two children, Flora and Miles, will be sung by a brother and sister, Elisabeth Engen, 13, and Charles Engen, 12. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Engen of Tiburon. Both have sung six years with the Winifred Baker Children's Chorus.

Also cast as Flora is Mara Finerty, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Finerty of Terra Linda. She has sung five years with the Winifred Baker Children's Chorus.

Double cast in the role of Mrs. Grose are Lorie Kutsko of Sausalito and Mary Harmon Beard of Cotati, wife of the assistant professor of German at Sonoma State.

Mrs. Kutsko sang two years with the San Francisco Opera chorus and was a Bay Area finalist in Metropolitan Opera auditions in 1969. She has appeared in musical comedy in Boston, New York, Chicago, Bermuda and in summer stock.

A graduate in music from Stanford University, Mrs. Beard studied voice in Stuttgart, Germany. She was one of 25 singers selected from throughout the U.S. for the Boris Goldovsky Opera Institute at Sonoma State last summer.

The role of Miss Jessel will be sung by Linda Sommer of San Rafael. Mrs. Sommer studied music one year at La Sierra College near Los Angeles and five years at the Musik Akadamie Vienna. She has appeared on Austrian television and sang operettas two years with the Biel Stadtheater Switzerland.

The role of Quint will be sung by Victor Parker, a Petaluma school teacher and graduate of Chico State College. He also was a member of the Goldovsky Opera Institute last summer. He has traveled in 22 countries with the Choir of the Seven Seas and has appeared professionally with the Oakland Symphony. As an apprentice singer, he will be heard in five operas with the Santa Fe Opera Company this summer.

OPERA LEADS — Bonnie Landfield (left) as the governess and Elisabeth Engen as Flora will be heard this week at Sonoma State College in Britten's Gothic-Victorian opera "The Turn of the Screw."

City Hears Delay On Special Vote Is Unavoidable

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—City Attorney Thomas O'Connor told the Board of Supervisors Monday that it will be impossible to hold a special election in June on the question of a height limit for San Francisco buildings.

A special election has been called for in a 45,000-signature petition circulated by dress manufacturer Alvin Duskin, who believes high-rise buildings spoil the skyline. The petition calls for a vote on imposing a 72-foot limit.

O'Connor said all the necessary legal steps to arrange a special election cannot be completed any earlier than Aug. 3.

The supervisors have yet to decide whether to call a special election on the issue.

Scalp Cuts

Sarah Wirt, 7, of 50 Monte Vista, Mill Valley was treated at 3:45 p.m. Sunday at Marin General Hospital for scalp cuts suffered in an auto accident, the hospital reported yesterday. No additional information was available.

New Standards Of Safety Urged For High Rises

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Attempts to evacuate modern high rise office buildings or apartments in case of fire frequently are little more than open invitations to panic, injury and death, according to federal safety experts.

Arthur F. Sampson, commissioner of public building safety, told newsmen Monday that new safety procedures are needed for buildings higher than 15 stories. He suggested selective evacuation of endangered parts of buildings, either to the outside or safe areas inside, and said persons in relatively safe areas should stay put to avoid overcrowding stairs.

Sampson said new buildings often pose greater danger from fire, heat and smoke than pre-World War II skyscrapers because the windows fit tighter, they are fully air conditioned and most offices are loaded with foam rubber that produces a black smoke when it burns.

Spanish Organist To Play

Spanish organist Julio M. Garcia Llovera, organist at the Church of St. Marine in Hamburg, Germany, will present his second concert in the United States on April 30 at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo. It will be open to the public without charge.

He will present his first concert in this country in Washington, D.C. and will perform on May 2 at St. Ignatius Church in San Francisco.

Born in 1923 in Madrid, Llovera was organist of the Metropolitan Cathedral of El Pilar in Zaragoa, Spain, until 1961, when he left to study for his doctorate in musicology at the University of Heidelberg.

He is an authority on early music of Spain and won the highest prizes in organ as a master scholar of Muset, baroque authority, at the University of Barcelona and Madrid.

The organist has performed in every major European city, has made recordings and is one of the few European organists who have played extensively behind the Iron Curtain.

Program For New Students

Santa Rosa Junior College will host and information program for prospective students Friday at 6 p.m.

Campus tours including the recently completed Plover Library will be conducted first with group discussions scheduled for 7:45 p.m. at the Doyle Student Center.

Information will be given on entrance and graduation requirements, scholarships and financial aids. A question and answer period has been planned and the evening will conclude with folk music entertainment in the student center.

Harold Messenger Novato Candidate

Harold A. Messenger, 39, former Novato deputy finance officer, has confirmed reports that he has applied for the vacant seat on the Novato City Council.

Nine residents are seeking the seat vacated by Douglas M. Merrill, only five of them identified, because the Novato City Council has withheld their names.

Messenger, purchasing agent for the Novato Unified School District, worked as deputy finance officer for the city from June, 1967, until last fall. He said his experience as a city employee would be helpful on the council, because "I worked for the city, know the employees and inner workings."

He said he was prompted to seek the job because "I feel I have more to contribute than I can as a private citizen. I would like to be in a position to do it."

Messenger, who has never been a candidate for public office, felt the council could "just as soon" have revealed the names of applicants as not.

"But I respect the councilmen's privilege of making their decision, leaving it up to the individual," he said. "I suppose they did it for the benefit of those who were unsuccessful, but if you're in the public light, you have to be in position to accept embarrassment."

Candidates previously identified, are: Betty J. Machado, former candidate; Lee C. Wise, manager of Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s Novato branch; planning commissioner John E. Schoonover, and attorney David Price Jones.

The council is scheduled to name the new council member April 27. If it fails to make a choice within 30 days of Merrill's resignation, there will have to be an election.

Campus Forum Set Thursday

Sonoma State College will host its second campus-community forum Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

A panel of college and community representatives will discuss the topic, "Who Needs a Liberal Education?"

Panel members will be Jane Faust, Rohnert Park resident and member of several civic commissions; Dr. George McCabe, professor of psychology; Helen Rudee, Santa Rosa representative of the Sonoma County Board of Education; Ignazio A. Vella, chairman of the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors; and Dr. Yvette Fallandy, dean of the college faculty.

The program is sponsored by the college's student lectures and concerts committee.

TRUE ECONOMY ISN'T MORE MILES TO THE GALLON. IT'S MORE YEARS TO THE CAR.

These days, a lot of people think the way to save a little money is to buy a small cheap car.

To save a lot of money, buy a Volvo.

Volvos are built to last. While we can't guarantee how long, we do know Volvos hold up an average of eleven years in Sweden. So once you get your Volvo paid for, you should be able to hang on to it for a few years.

Then you can bank the money you'd normally spend on car payments. Not counting interest, that's almost $1000 a year.

This is the basic difference between a Volvo and an economy car.

Economy cars are for people who are interested in economy. Volvos are for people who are interested in money.

FINANCES IN A MESS?
Don't feel like the Lone Ranger, most people need some help. This ad is unusual, we don't loan money and are not selling business opportunities. It is just that we feel there are times when sitting down with a successful person who is not emotionally involved in your problems, but can study them objectively? car be the answer or at least the start to solving your situation. I have a formula for climbing out of debt and starting to build financial security that might be the answer you have been looking for. If you and I think we can help you there's a small fee based on how much I have to do. No obligation on either person's part. You may not think I can help you or I may not think you're willing to be helped. One interview will tell us and it will take 15 to 30 minutes. Call my executive secretary, Mrs. Marty Conley, for an appointment. 454-8232.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Prostate Gland Enlargement Affects Men As They Grow Older

The prostate is part of the sexual apparatus of a man. It consists of a network of branching glands that contract to eject the sperm. The structure is found at the outlet of the urinary bladder where the secretions easily pass thru many openings into the urethra — the tube that leads to the outside. At birth, the gland is the size of an eraser on a pencil. During puberty it enlarges, and by adulthood, it is the size and shape of a horse chestnut. After the age of 40, it again begins to enlarge in one of 10 males. With advancing years, more and more men are affected so that by the age of 80 the incidence is one out of every two. But prostatic enlargement does not necessarily mean trouble. We are referring to a benign process and not that which is due to inflammation or malignancy.

PROSTATE TROUBLE starts with urinary manifestations. This is understandable because the gland is located at the outlet of the bladder and the enlarged parts may extend into the urethra and block the flow of urine.

At first, the urinary stream lacks force and the bladder does not feel completely emptied. The victim strains to void and this becomes a problem when the urge to urinate comes more frequently. By this time, the man may find it necessary to get up one or more times during the night.

AS THE STRUCTURE gets larger and larger, there is a possibility of a complete shut off of urine — a painful emergency. Most men suspect trouble long before this occurs and consult their physician.

There is a standard procedure for diagnosing prostate trouble. Only half of those with difficulties require surgery. Many medicines and hormones have been advocated to shrink the gland, but none have been too successful.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal).

NERVOUSNESS AND BREATHING

V.S. writes: Can nervous tension cause shortness of breath on exertion?

REPLY

Yes, and even more so when sitting quietly. The individual feels he cannot take a deep breath, which differs from the panting associated with heart and lung disorders. This symptom is common in many different neuroses, such as psychoneurosis and neurocirculatory asthenia.

GAGS ON VITAMIN

J.D.W. writes: Our 3-year-old daughter has geographic tongue. She is not able to swallow a vitamin capsule because it makes her gag. Is there any other way of getting vitamins into her?

REPLY

Make sure she receives a well-balanced diet and she will not need a vitamin supplement. The geographic tongue should not interfere with swallowing.

TIRED, BUT CAN'T SLEEP

A.L. writes: Why does a person who is overtired have trouble getting to sleep?

REPLY

In many instances, he is overtired because he did something exciting or of great importance. It takes time to unwind after such episodes. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on insomnia.

NITPICKER CAN'T SLEEP

J.E.M. writes: Does the inability to sleep and being overly critical of acquaintances constitute a neurotic personality?

REPLY

Yes, inasmuch as a neurotic personality covers a multitude of "sins."

Today's Health Hint — Never lift with the knees straight, always bend them.

Recovery Of Frozen Infant: A 'Miracle'

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)— Little Charla Johnson may need some surgery on her left hand but her doctors consider it remarkable that the 7-month-old child is even alive after being frozen in temperatures of 50 below zero.

Charla was found wrapped in insulated bunting under a pine tree near Fairbanks three months ago, apparently left there by her mother, Mrs. Wilma Johnson, who had collapsed while trying to crawl to a nearby house. Mrs. Johnson, who was being treated for a nervous breakdown, died the same day the child was abandoned.

The baby's body was frozen rigid. Her heartbeat was down to 40 and her temperature was too low to measure.

Dr. W. H. James and Dr. William H. Doolittle held out very little hope for her survival. They doused her in 100-degree water to thaw her and at one point during treatment, she stopped breathing but was revived by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Charla's father, Joe Johnson, a civil service employee with the Army, said Monday it had been "a lifelong dream to come to Alaska," and he added, "we finally got up the courage to come."

The Johnsons, who had only been in Alaska a year, came from Bel Air, Md., about 20 miles north of Baltimore.

The first winter, according to Johnson, was the worst on record for cold and snow during the month of January.

Johnson said his neighbors had been "wonderful" during the ordeal. Typical was the check for $161 from inmates of the state jail in Fairbanks with a note saying, "We know how it is to lose loved ones."

Johnson, who has a 3-year-old daughter and sons aged 11, 13, and 17, said he expects that surgery will be required on Charla's left hand, which has had a partial amputation of two fingers.

"We are still not real sure how her hands are going to turn out," he said. He described Charla as "very alert."

"The doctors told me it was a miracle," he said. "I had a lot of prayers behind me."

Tribunal Stays Execution Of William Archerd

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— California's Supreme Court has stayed the execution of a convicted triple murderer pending rulings by the U. S. Supreme Court.

The decision on Monday affected William Archerd, 58, who was scheduled to die Wednesday in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber for killing two wives and a nephew with insulin injections.

In question is what the federal court will rule on a contention that California law violates the U.S. Constitution's 14th Amendment by not giving juries standards on how to decide death sentences and life imprisonment. Another case before the U.S. court questions whether the death penalty is cruel and unusual punishment.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

State Ratifies Vote Amendment

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California, over the mild objections of Gov. Ronald Reagan, has become the 20th state to ratify a proposed constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 in all elections.

Another 18 states—38 in all—must ratify the measure before it can become the 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The California Senate voted final legislative approval Monday to a ratification resolution, acting quickly and dramatically as two dozen teen-age spectators sat silently in the back of the chamber.

The vote was 25-10.

The resolution was sponsored by Senate Democratic Caucus Chairman Mervyn M. Dymally, who represents the Watts community of Los Angeles.

"I don't think there is any need to belabor the point," Dymally said. "Ten years ago I proposed such a measure. I'm pleased that after 10 years we're moving in that direction."

Now, 18-year-olds can vote in federal elections—for President and for Congress. They were assured this right last year by the U.S. Supreme Court. But the minimum age for voting in state and local elections in California—as in most states—is 21.

Proponents of lowering the voting age to 18 in all elections have pointed out that it would cost an extra $5 million for California next year to print separate ballots .

Each legislative house also has approved a state constitutional amendment to lower the California voting age to 18 in all elections. But final legislative approval is awaiting a decision on whether to place the issue before voters in June or November next year. California voters must approve any amendment to the state Constitution.

Reagan told a news conference after Congress passed the U.S. constitutional amendment on March 23 that "it is just another one of those instances where the federal government has imposed on what I think is a state's right—the right to determine its own voting qualifications."

The Senate's action Monday was a routine concurrence in technical amendments added to the ratification resolution when it cleared the Assembly last Thursday on a 52-14 vote. The measure was approved by the Senate the first time on a 22-12 vote.

Nineteen Democrats and six Republicans voted for the measure Monday. One Democrat and nine Republicans voted against it.

Among the Republicans voting no were Sen. Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, immediate past chairman of the GOP State Central Committee, and Senate Republican Floor Leader Fred L. Marler Jr. of Redding.

The U.S. Census Bureau says approximately 8 per cent of the nation's population is 18 to 20.

The other states which have ratified the amendment are Alaska, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Tennessee, Vermont and Washington.

GAS TAX BILLS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Separate legislative committees have approved differing versions of bills extending the statewide sales tax to gasoline for public transit financing.

One measure by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, was approved by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee on a split voice vote and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

The Senate Public Utilities Committee approved a separate bill by Senate leader James Mills, D-San Diego, and sent it to the Finance Committee.

The five-cent-on-the-dollar sales tax would be extended to gasoline purchases under terms of both measures. Passage of the plan would mean the present $1 worth of gasoline would cost $1.05.

Under present law, the state general fund gets four cents of the sales tax while one cent is returned to the counties and cities where it was raised.

World's Largest Tanker Launched

KURE, Japan (UPI)—The world' largest tanker glided slowly from her building slip in a launching ceremony held early today.

The mammoth oil carrier, 372,400 deadweight tons, was built in the shipyard of Ishikawajima-Harima heavy industries. It was named the Nisseki Maru.

Ordered by Tokyo tanker Co., it is 1,110 feet long and 172.8 feet wide.

MEDI-CAL ISSUE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A proposal to drop false teeth from Medi-Cal has brought Gov. Ronald Reagan's program to revamp health care services for the needy up against bipartisan opposition.

The manager of the administration-sponsored bill, Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, commented Monday after the bill's first hearing, before the Assembly Health Committee, that he feared the bill would be killed unless dentures were restored.

"It is my feeling that this bill wouldn't get out of this committee without false teeth," he said.

Campbell, chairman of the committee, said another hearing would be held next week. He added he would probably put off calling for a vote on the measure until even later.

It would cost another $25 million to continue including dentures in the list of Medi-Cal services, newsmen were told by Dr. Earl Brian, state Medi-Cal chief.

Whether or not he would accept an amendment restoring false teeth depended both on Campbell and the governor's office, Brian said.

Present law allows payment for dentures, but the administration as part of its economy cutbacks has restricted payment to just the repair of false teeth.

Detection Of Cavities By Radio?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Look, Mom, no cavities. But I got a radio in my mouth."

That may be what children will say in the future after a visit to the dentist's office, the California Dental Association was told Monday.

Dr. Irvin Glickman of Boston said dentists can now put a radio and battery into a false tooth to record how the teeth work against each other.

"Recordings are made on an oscillograph which indicate where the teeth contact during chewing and swallowing," Glickman said.

About 1,200 dentists and dental assistants are registered for the meeting's scientific lectures and discussions.

A national health leader praised San Francisco as among the pioneer cities to initiate fluoridation of water, but said it was unfortunate the city's record was not matched by the rest of the state.

"Since 1952 when this Bay city commenced fluoridation, practically an entire generation has grown up receiving the benefits of this unprecedented health measure," said Dr. C. Gordon Watson, executive director of the American Dental Association.

Watson said the effectiveness of San Francisco's program was shown in statistics related to dental costs per child in the Head Start program.

The figures indicated that annual dental costs under the Head Start program were $6 in San Francisco, compared with $70 in Berkeley and $85 in San Joaquin County, neither of which has fluoridated water supplies.

The association's House of Delegates earlier adopted a set of guidelines for fluoridating a community's water supply. About 41 per cent of California cities now use fluoridated water.

Dr. R. Thomas Duncan of San Jose, co-author of the guidelines, said they are intended to give direction to association efforts "to provide the benefits of fluoridated communal water supplies to all the people of California."

Fired Senior Typist Blasts Superiors

A senior typist in the Marin County Health Department, who was fired on March 19, charged yesterday she was the victim of a "reign of terror" and "Gestapo tactics."

Frances I. Jennings, who was fired from the tuberculosis unit, appealed yesterday to the Marin County Personnel Commission.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, testified Mrs. Jennings was dismissed because of insubordination, quarreling with other employees and disrupting the office.

In his opening statement yesterday, Mrs. Jenning's attorney, Richard H. Breiner, declared that she has been an efficient and conscientious worker since April 1968. He said Dr. Albrecht and assistant Frank E. Kirby fired her because she began reporting to County Administrator Alan Bruce about alleged "padding" of health department statistics.

Breiner also charged that Kirby had tape-recorded telephone conversations with Mrs. Jennings, but this Kirby denied.

Dr. Albrecht testified that her former assistant, Dr. Patricia Hallinan, had complained about Mrs. Jennings, saying she was suffering from "delusions of persecution" and was a "paranoid schizophrenic."

Deputy County Counsel Thomas G. Hendricks, representing Dr. Albrecht, paraded a series of witnesses during yesterday's seven-hour hearing in an effort to show that Mrs. Jennings was quarrelsome and spent considerable time on conversations not connected with the job.

The hearing was to resume at the Civic Center this afternoon, when Breiner planned to call a long list of witnesses to back up his claim that Mrs. Jennings was the victim of harrassment. The attorney said Dr. Albrecht and her staff launched "a reign of terror" and "Gestapo tactics" to get rid of Mrs. Jennings.

Among Mrs. Jennings' supporters is Dr. Hallinan, who quit as assistant to Dr. Albrecht last October.

Attorney Breiner said that Dr. Hallinan's "paranoid schizophrenic" description of Mrs. Jennings was made in March of 1970 as an off-hand observation. Since then, Mrs. Jennings has proved to be an effective and dedicated employee, said Breiner.

Mother Of Player Sends Chou Red Roses

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The mother of Glenn Cowan, 19, a member of the American table tennis team that toured mainland China, sent Premier Chou En-lai a bouquet of roses Monday.

Mrs. Fran Cowan, 48, a widow, said in a message with the flowers:

"Thank you for the wonderful hospitality shown my son Glenn Cowan and his teammates. If you are ever in Los Angeles, please be my guest."

The long-haired Cowan said after the trip he could "very easily" mediate Sino-American problems between the Asian leader and President Nixon.

Mrs. Cowan sent her flower order by cable to a member of the Florists' Transworld Delivery Association in Hong Kong. However, a spokesman for the flower organization said it was not known if the order could be delivered in mainland China. delivered in mainland China.

Hearing Is Tonight On Park Plaza

William Spangle's controversial park plaza plan, a proposal to turn much of the heart of Sausalito's downtown area now largely a parking lot into a park will be the subject of a public hearing before the Sausalito City Council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The three-stage plan won approval from the Sausalito Planning Commission earlier this month.

The council will also consider proposals by City Manager Albert St. Cyr to raise parking fees in Municipal Lot. No. 1 from 50 to 75 cents an hour and to keep the lot open in the evenings during the tourist season from May to October. The city manager is also recommending the city hike parking fines and all three proposals are designed to provide Sausalito with additional revenue to finance a proposed $1,763,622 city budget for 1971-72.

London is building 1,600 new double-decker buses which will be operated by one person, eliminating conductors who collected fares.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Prostate Gland Enlargement Affects Men As They Grow Older

The prostate is part of the sexual apparatus of a man. It consists of a network of branching glands that contract to eject the sperm. The structure is found at the outlet of the urinary bladder where the secretions easily pass thru many openings into the urethra — the tube that leads to the outside. At birth, the gland is the size of an eraser on a pencil. During puberty it enlarges, and by adulthood, it is the size and shape of a horse chestnut. After the age of 40, it again begins to enlarge in one of 10 males. With advancing years, more and more men are affected so that by the age of 80 the incidence is one out of every two. But prostatic enlargement does not necessarily mean trouble. We are referring to a benign process and not that which is due to inflammation or malignancy.

PROSTATE TROUBLE starts with urinary manifestations. This is understandable because the gland is located at the outlet of the bladder and the enlarged parts may extend into the urethra and block the flow of urine.

At first, the urinary stream lacks force and the bladder does not feel completely emptied. The victim strains to void and this becomes a problem when the urge to urinate comes more frequently. By this time, the man may find it necessary to get up one or more times during the night.

AS THE STRUCTURE gets larger and larger, there is a possibility of a complete shut off of urine — a painful emergency. Most men suspect trouble long before this occurs and consult their physician.

There is a standard procedure for diagnosing prostate trouble. Only half of those with difficulties require surgery. Many medicines and hormones have been advocated to shrink the gland, but none have been too successful.

NERVOUSNESS AND BREATHING

V.S. writes: Can nervous tension cause shortness of breath on exertion?

REPLY

Yes, and even more so when sitting quietly. The individual feels he cannot take a deep breath, which differs from the panting associated with heart and lung disorders. This symptom is common in many different neuroses, such as psychoneurosis and neurocirculatory asthenia.

GAGS ON VITAMIN

J.D.W. writes: Our 3-year-old daughter has geographic tongue. She is not able to swallow a vitamin capsule because it makes her gag. Is there any other way of getting vitamins into her?

REPLY

Make sure she receives a well-balanced diet and she will not need a vitamin supplement. The geographic tongue should not interfere with swallowing.

TIRED, BUT CAN'T SLEEP

A.L. writes: Why does a person who is overtired have trouble getting to sleep?

REPLY

In many instances, he is overtired because he did something exciting or of great importance. It takes time to unwind after such episodes. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on insomnia.

NITPICKER CAN'T SLEEP

J.E.M. writes: Does the inability to sleep and being overly critical of acquaintances constitute a neurotic personality?

REPLY

Yes, inasmuch as a neurotic personality covers a multitude of "sins."

Recovery Of Frozen Infant: A 'Miracle'

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)— Little Charla Johnson may need some surgery on her left hand but her doctors consider it remarkable that the 7-month-old child is even alive after being frozen in temperatures of 50 below zero.

Charla was found wrapped in insulated bunting under a pine tree near Fairbanks three months ago, apparently left there by her mother, Mrs. Wilma Johnson, who had collapsed while trying to crawl to a nearby house. Mrs. Johnson, who was being treated for a nervous breakdown, died the same day the child was abandoned.

The baby's body was frozen rigid. Her heartbeat was down to 40 and her temperature was too low to measure.

Dr. W. H. James and Dr. William H. Doolittle held out very little hope for her survival. They doused her in 100-degree water to thaw her and at one point during treatment, she stopped breathing but was revived by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Charla's father, Joe Johnson, a civil service employee with the Army, said Monday it had been "a lifelong dream to come to Alaska," and he added, "we finally got up the courage to come."

The Johnsons, who had only been in Alaska a year, came from Bel Air, Md., about 20 miles north of Baltimore.

The first winter, according to Johnson, was the worst on record for cold and snow during the month of January.

Johnson said his neighbors had been "wonderful" during the ordeal. Typical was the check for $161 from inmates of the state jail in Fairbanks with a note saying, "We know how it is to lose loved ones."

Johnson, who has a 3-year-old daughter and sons aged 11, 13, and 17, said he expects that surgery will be required on Charla's left hand, which has had a partial amputation of two fingers.

"We are still not real sure how her hands are going to turn out," he said. He described Charla as "very alert."

"The doctors told me it was a miracle," he said. "I had a lot of prayers behind me."

Tribunal Stays Execution Of William Archerd

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— California's Supreme Court has stayed the execution of a convicted triple murderer pending rulings by the U. S. Supreme Court.

The decision on Monday affected William Archerd, 58, who was scheduled to die Wednesday in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber for killing two wives and a nephew with insulin injections.

In question is what the federal court will rule on a contention that Califoria law violates the U.S. Constitution's 14th Amendment by not giving juries standards on how to decide death sentences and life imprisonment. Another case before the U.S. court questions whether the death penalty is cruel and unusual punishment.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

State Ratifies Vote Amendment

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California, over the mild objections of Gov. Ronald Reagan, has become the 20th state to ratify a proposed constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 in all elections.

Another 18 states—38 in all—must ratify the measure before it can become the 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The California Senate voted final legislative approval Monday to a ratification resolution, acting quickly and dramatically as two dozen teen-age spectators sat silently in the back of the chamber.

The vote was 25-10.

The resolution was sponsored by Senate Democratic Caucus Chairman Mervyn M. Dymally, who represents the Watts community of Los Angeles.

"I don't think there is any need to belabor the point," Dymally said. "Ten years ago I proposed such a measure. I'm pleased that after 10 years we're moving in that direction."

Now, 18-year-olds can vote in federal elections—for President and for Congress. They were assured this right last year by the U.S. Supreme Court. But the minimum age for voting in state and local elections in California—as in most states—is 21.

Proponents of lowering the voting age to 18 in all elections have pointed out that it would cost an extra $5 million for California next year to print separate ballots.

Each legislative house also has approved a state constitutional amendment to lower the California voting age to 18 in all elections. But final legislative approval is awaiting a decision on whether to place the issue before voters in June or November next year. California voters must approve any amendment to the state Constitution.

Reagan told a news conference after Congress passed the U.S. constitutional amendment on March 23 that "it is just another one of those instances where the federal government has imposed on what I think is a state's right—the right to determine its own voting qualifications."

The Senate's action Monday was a routine concurrence in technical amendments added to the ratification resolution when it cleared the Assembly last Thursday on a 52-14 vote. The measure was approved by the Senate the first time on a 22-12 vote.

Nineteen Democrats and six Republicans voted for the measure Monday. One Democrat and nine Republicans voted against it.

Among the Republicans voting no were Sen. Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, immediate past chairman of the GOP State Central Committee, and Senate Republican Floor Leader Fred L. Marler Jr. of Redding.

The U.S. Census Bureau says approximately 8 per cent of the nation's population is 18 to 20.

The other states which have ratified the amendment are Alaska, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Tennessee, Vermont and Washington.

GAS TAX BILLS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Separate legislative committees have approved differing versions of bills extending the statewide sales tax to gasoline for public transit financing.

One measure by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, was approved by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee on a split voice vote and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

The Senate Public Utilities Committee approved a separate bill by Senate leader James Mills, D-San Diego, and sent it to the Finance Committee.

The five-cent-on-the-dollar sales tax would be extended to gasoline purchases under terms of both measures. Passage of the plan would mean the present $1 worth of gasoline would cost $1.05.

Under present law, the state general fund gets four cents of the sales tax while one cent is returned to the counties and cities where it was raised.

MEDI-CAL ISSUE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A proposal to drop false teeth from Medi-Cal has brought Gov. Ronald Reagan's program to revamp health care services for the needy up against bipartisan opposition.

The manager of the administration-sponsored bill, Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, commented Monday after the bill's first hearing, before the Assembly Health Committee, that he feared the bill would be killed unless dentures were restored.

"It is my feeling that this bill wouldn't get out of this committee without false teeth," he said.

Campbell, chairman of the committee, said another hearing would be held next week. He added he would probably put off calling for a vote on the measure until even later.

It would cost another $25 million to continue including dentures in the list of Medi-Cal services, newsmen were told by Dr. Earl Brian, state Medi-Cal chief.

Whether or not he would accept an amendment restoring false teeth depended both on Campbell and the governor's office, Brian said.

Present law allows payment for dentures, but the administration as part of its economy cutbacks has restricted payment to just the repair of false teeth.

Bruce's Tenure Was Stormy One

By MARY LEYDECKER

Alan Bruce, a soft-spoken but plain-talking man, once said, "If I felt at any time that the majority of the board had lost confidence in me" he would resign immediately.

Today Bruce made good that promise given when he was appointed in 1960 by the board of supervisors to a job that seemed about to be abolished.

In his 10 years as county administrator, Bruce has been at the center of a long series of controversies that have, one after another, filled the newspapers' columns.

The latest furor was over his demand that longtime county health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht be fired.

After the supervisors exonerated Dr. Albrecht and chided Bruce last week, it still seemed as if the county administrator would weather this storm as he has many others.

Today, however, to the surprise of most observers, he quit the longtime job which he started with a salary of $12,900 a year rising to $29,410.

Bruce, a sandy-haired, pipe-smoking man of Scot descent, took office in November 1960 at a time when the majority of the supervisors didn't want a county administrator.

The following year three supervisors, William D. Fusselman, J. Walter Blair and George H. Ludy, voted, indeed, to have the county counsel prepare an ordinance doing away with the job.

(The post had been created in 1955 and was filled for five years by Donald A. Jensen, for whom Bruce served as an assistant for almost four years.)

The move to abolish the post was preceded by an abortive attempt by the same supervisors to stop work on Marin's Civic Center.

There was a popular uproar over the two issues and the board finally assigned the administrator issue to a referendum ballot with a vote set for June 1962, more than a year away.

Meanwhile Bruce and his staff were moved into cramped offices in the old courthouse — a period later called by Bruce as his "tenure in the broom closet."

However, in December 1961, Blair was recalled and Peter H. Behr elected supervisor, and the majority on the board was reversed.

Behr along with Supervisors William A. Gnoss and Walter J. Castro voted to call off the referendum, and Bruce was moved to more spacious quarters.

In the fall of 1962, however, Bruce faced another crisis, this over his firing of a secretary in his office.

After long hearings before the personnel commission and the board of supervisors, Bruce was backed up by a 3-to-1 vote of the supervisors.

Although the job of administrator was strengthened and Bruce was not again threatened with loss of his job until this year, he remained at the center of many controversies.

One was in 1966 when two supervisors blocked a proposal that his salary be increased to $25,000.

There was a long-running fuss over who was going to run the county's mental health facilities and last year another storm blew up when Bruce recommended that county Planning Director Paul C. Zucker be fired.

During the years, Bruce has repeatedly angered Marin judges and last year, he and Judge Samuel W. Gardiner finally reached a truce over the placement of juvenile wards of the court.

During the years Bruce was known, however, as a hard-working administrato who once estimated that he worked about 60 hours a week at his job.

A favorite quotation from Edmund Burke was used several years ago by Bruce to explain his outlook on his job:

"Those who would carry on great public schemes must be proof against the worst fatiguing delays; the most mortifying disappointments; the most shocking insults; and what is worst of all, the presumptious judgment of the ignorant upon their design."

Span Plan For Car Poolers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—In an effort to relieve commuter congestion on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, special toll plaza lanes will be reserved for autos carrying extra riders.

The plan to encourage car pools will go into effect next fall. It was announced here Monday by the Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

Two westbound lanes reserved for cars carrying three or more persons will enable these cars to bypass commute-hour jams at the toll plaza.

Case Referred To Juvenile Court

The case of Neil E. Kondratieff, 19, of Lagunitas, was referred to Marin Juvenile Court yesterday.

Kondratieff, charged with burglary, was arrested last Thursday driving away from Family Records in San Anselmo. In his car, police said, were $724 worth of records stolen from the store.

Mysterious Cut In Power Halts City's Trolleys

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mysterious power failures clogged downtown streets with stalled trolleys and trolley busses Monday during both the morning and evening rush hours.

Municipal railway investigators were unable to say Monday night what caused either failure.

Electricity to overhead lines for buses and trolleys was off from 8:04 a.m. until 9:41 a.m. and from 4:30 p.m. to 5 p.m., and thousands of commuters had to jog or walk.

Prosecution Of Bagpiper Is Ruled Out

A Nicasio bagpiper arrested and accused of panhandling Sunday as he piped passengers aboard the Sausalito ferry will not be prosecuted, Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales announced today.

The district attorney said he did not think piper George Joseph Dawson had violated the Penal Code section dealing with panhandling, the section under which he was booked by Sausalito police.

The professional violinist who took up piping last year was arrested by Sausalito police after passersby threw coins into an open carpetbag near his feet as he played the pipes.

Bales said a panhandler is "anyone who accosts others in a public place for the purpose of begging or soliciting alms" and added: "I interpret 'accost' to mean to ask people for money or stop them."

Although the district attorney said the 35-year-old Dawson may have violated a city ordinance which prohibits plying a trade in the streets without a license, he did not intend to pursue the matter further. "I have more pressing things to do," he explained.

Dawson, who is free on $35 bail and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow, was pleased at the district attorney's decision. He laughingly confessed he had played his pipes yesterday for one of the ferry's larger afternoon commute runs. "There were about 500 people on the boat and I just couldn't resist," he said. "I went down to the dock and played and played and many people smiled at me and flashed me the victory sign."

Spending From General Fund Exceeds Income

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Spending from California's general fund exceeded income by $640.9 million in the first nine months of the fiscal year, state Controller Houston I. Flournoy reports.

He said Monday that receipts were $2.847 billion, with disbursements reaching $3.488 billion.

Receipts for the July-March period exceeded those of the same period in 1969-70 by $65.1 million, a gain of 2.34 per cent. Spending topped the previous year's figure by $124.9 million, a growth of 3.72 per cent.

Major spending items included schools $1.1 billion; health care benefits $375.5 million; Aid to Families with Dependent Children $255.8 million and the University of California $246.4 million.

Big income sources included the sales tax $1.3 billion; personal income taxes $517 million and bank and corporation franchise and income taxes $355 million.

Tentative Nod To Smaller Lots

The Rohnert Park City Council last night gave tentative approval to a subdivision plan that would have lot sizes smaller than the minimum usually required by the City.

Developer Arthur Condiotti said he planned to develop single-family homes and townhouse condominiums on 80 acres at the northwest corner of the Rohnert Park Expressway and Snyder Lane. He said the overall density would be seven units per acre.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the concensus of the council was to permit the 6,000-square-foot lots under a planned community zone and not enforce the 6,500-square foot minimum. He said Condiotti indicated he would dedicate and improve a portion of a park site in the area.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

ROAD BIDS — Heard a report that Argonaut Constructors of Santa Rosa had submitted the low bid of $51,105 for improvement of Country Club Drive. The cost had been estimated at $60,237 and the total project estimated at $105,991.

APARTMENTS — Approved the plans of Horst Hanf of a 53-unit apartment complex on Avram Avenue near Commerce Boulevard.

CHURCH — Reviewed plans for the proposed Berean Baptist Church at Country Club Drive and the Rohnert Park Expressway and asked revisions be made in the landscaping plans and that the planned shingle roof be changed to shake.

BURNING — Introduced an ordinance that would ban outdoor burning in conformance with regulations of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

GOLF RATES — Agreed to permit Callinan and golf professional Robert Porter to set special green fees for golf tournaments.

ACCESS — Heard Donald B. Heard, Sonoma County Director of public works, and representatives of the state Division of Highways, reject plans by Paul Golis for a frontage road as access to the Rohnert Park Expressway. The men said the plan would create many traffic conflicts.

RECEPTION — Scheduled a reception for Sonoma State College president Thomas H. McGrath for May 16 at the Community Center. Details will be planned by the cultural arts commission.

Action Postponed On Completion of Center

The Novato Planning Commission last night postponed action on plans for completion of the Novak Square Shopping Center, Novato Boulevard and Wilson Avenue, until May 3.

Developer H.L. Bryan of Oakland plans to construct about a dozen shops and a theater at the center, now occupied by a supermarket and a gasoline service station.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said commissioners delayed action because they wanted to consider the applications for use permits at the same time as the plan.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

RENTAL BUSINESS — Approved plans by E. D. McGillicuddy for a general equipment rental business, adjacent to 6981 Redwood Hwghway, west of Highway 101.

MENDOCINO GARDENS — Postponed until 8 p.m. Monday at the community house consideration of a plan by Norman T. Gilroy and Associates for planned residential development at Mendocino Gardens at the southwest corner of Novato Boulevard and Eucalyptus Avenue.

HEARING — Set May 10 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on rezoning 6.44 acres northeast of Simmons and Leese lanes from limited agricultural to planned residentials requested by Allan and Helga Dougherty.

$103,000 Allotted For Overcrossing

The California Highway Commission has allocated $103,000 as its share of a pedestrian overcrossing south of the Washington Street interchange in Petaluma.

The City of Petaluma will pay $101,000 toward the total cost of $204,000 for the overcrossing of Highway 101 for Kenilworth Junior High School students.

Election Returns To Be Broadcast

Election returns will be broadcast from the Civic Center, as they become available, tonight on KTIM FM (100.9).

Early absentee ballots and partial lists will be broadcast when available, interrupting the San Diego vs. Oakland Athletic's, according to Hugh Turner, station manager. First complete returns are expected about 10:30 p.m.

Pleads Innocent To Morals Count

Michael Lino Paredes, 31, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to two charges of sex perversion stemming from an incident near Kent Lake last summer.

A jury trial was set for the week of May 17.

Paredes is accused of being one of several men seen performing sexual acts with a woman Aug. 2 before a crowd including children at the spillway area below the lake.

Fuss Over North Coast Plan Costs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Controversy arose yesterday among the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors over payment of the rough outline for the proposed North Coast area planning and development commission.

Supervisor Robert Theiller of Sebastopol, a supporter of the new five-county alliance, had said last week that the counties would probably share the cost of developing the plan.

Some of his fellow supervisors expressed concern that they had not been consulted about the preparation of the report and its financing, and asked Theiller for an explanation.

Theiller said he had not committed any Sonoma County funds to pay for the draft and said he did not know how the author, Crescent City Atty. James Hooper, would be paid. He said Hooper was directed to do the task by Humboldt County Supervisor Donald Peterson. No figure was given on the cost of the 34-page report setting up the new alliance as an alternative to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

State Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, reportedly rejected the Hooper report and introduced rather vague legislation that would establish the new regional association but would expand it to seven counties adding Trinity and Siskiyou to the list of Sonoma, Napa, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties.

Sonoma County residents were voting today on whether to withdraw from ABAG in favor of the new association.

Six Democratic Senators To Offer Rebuttal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien today named six U.S. senators —all announced or potential presidential candidates —to join him in a televised answer to President Nixon's recent statements on Indochina.

The 30-minute program will be shown at 9 p.m. EST Thursday over the American Broadcasting Company (ABC) television network. CBS and NBC rejected demands by the Democrats that they be given equal time to respond to Nixon's Indochina policy statements.

Joining O'Brien on the program will be Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., Henry M. Jackson, Wash., George S. McGovern, S.D., Birch Bayh, Ind., Harold E. Hughes, Iowa, and Edmund S. Muskie, Maine.

Dougherty Replaced On Plan Commission

Hugh Dougherty, Marin County planning commissioner for the past six years, will be replaced by George P. Leonard of Stinson Beach, a retired contractor and land owner.

Marin County Board of Supervisors today approved Leonard's appointment on a motion by Chairman Louis H. Baar. Dougherty was named to the planning commission in 1965 by former Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, whom Baar ousted in 1968.

Leonard is a native of Sillwater, Okla. He attended MacAlester College where he majored in geology. He retired after 38 years in the contracting business, building tunnels, roads, airports and dams.

In 1968, he and his wife gave a portion of their Stinson Beach property to the county to complete public ownership of the famed Dipsea Trail. The Leonards owned property in Marin since 1956 and moved to Stinson Beach for permanent residence in 1969.

The Leonards are active in conservation organizations. He is listed in Who's Who of the Mid-West and the West.

Quarantine On Mussels Will Start May 1

The annual quarantine on taking mussels in Marin and Sonoma counties will start May 1 and continue to Oct. 31, the Marin County Health Department has announced.

The quarantine will be posted in English and Spanish, according to M.B. Scott, Marin County supervising sanitarian.

All ocean beaches in Marin County will be posted in English this week and by May 1 in Spanish, which signs are yet to be printed.

The dual-language request came as a surprise yesterday to the Marin County Department of Environmental Health from Dr. Louis C. Saylor, state director of public health. It will be the first bilingual posting in Marin.

No shell fish poisoning has been reported since 1969 when most of it occurred among migrant farm workers in the Fort Bragg area, Saylor said. That poisoning inspired this year's Spanish posting, Saylor said. Quarantined waters include all bays opening from the ocean from Oregon to the Mexican border. These include Muir Beach, Bolinas Beach and Tomales Bay in Marin County and Bodega Bay in Sonoma County.

Suspect In Car Theft Arrested

Robin Allan Patterson, 20, of 1075 Cambridge Street, Novato who reportedly had someone else's car towed away, was arrested by Novato police yesterday on suspicion of car theft. Officers said Patterson had a tow truck remove an inoperable car owned by Dennis Gerald Chase of 1132 Third Street, Apt. 2, from in front of Chase's home Friday.

Patterson paid the $12.50 tow charge and was arrested yesteday when he returned to the service station at 5999 Redwood Highway, which handled the tow job, police said.

Patterson posted $1,200 bail and was set to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Innocent Plea To Possession Of Pot

Harry R. Cartwright, 22, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to charges of possession of marijuana for sale and possession of dangerous drugs.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon said a preliminary hearing would be set next Monday at 1:30 p.m. Cartwright was arrested April 8 after Petaluma police obtained a warrant to search his home at 808 Keokuk Street.

Detection Of Cavities By Radio?

That may be what children will say in the future after a visit to the dentist's office, the California Dental Association was told Monday.

Dr. Irvin Glickman of Boston said dentists can now put a radio and battery into a false tooth to record how the teeth work against each other.

"Recordings are made on an oscillograph which indicate where the teeth contact during chewing and swallowing," Glickman said.

About 1,200 dentists and dental assistants are registered for the meeting's scientific lectures and discussions.

A national health leader praised San Francisco as among the pioneer cities to initiate fluoridation of water, but said it was unfortunate the city's record was not matched by the rest of the state.

"Since 1952 when this Bay city commenced fluoridation, practically an entire generation has grown up receiving the benefits of this unprecedented health measure," said Dr. C. Gordon Watson, executive director of the American Dental Association.

Watson said the effectiveness of San Francisco's program was shown in statistics related to dental costs per child in the Head Start program.

The figures indicated that annual dental costs under the Head Start program were $6 in San Francisco, compared with $70 in Berkeley and $85 in San Joaquin County, neither of which has fluoridated water supplies.

The association's House of Delegates earlier adopted a set of guidelines for fluoridating a community's water supply. About 41 per cent of California cities now use fluoridated water.

Dr. R. Thomas Duncan of San Jose, co-author of the guidelines, said they are intended to give direction to association efforts "to provide the benefits of fluoridated communal water supplies to all the people of California."

Fired Senior Typist Blasts Superiors

A senior typist in the Marin County Health Department, who was fired on March 19, charged yesterday she was the victim of a "reign of terror" and "Gestapo tactics."

Frances I. Jennings, who was fired from the tuberculosis unit, appealed yesterday to the Marin County Personnel Commission.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, testified Mrs. Jennings was dismissed because of insubordination, quarreling with other employees and disrupting the office.

In his opening statement yesterday, Mrs. Jenning's attorney, Richard H. Breiner, declared that she has been an efficient and conscientious worker since April 1968. He said Dr. Albrecht and assistant Frank E. Kirby fired her because she began reporting to County Administrator Alan Bruce about alleged "padding" of health department statistics.

Breiner also charged that Kirby had tape-recorded telephone conversations with Mrs. Jennings, but this Kirby denied.

Dr. Albrecht testified that her former assistant, Dr. Patricia Hallinan, had complained about Mrs. Jennings, saying she was suffering from "delusions of persecution" and was a "paranoid schizophrenic."

Deputy County Counsel Thomas G. Hendricks, representing Dr. Albrecht, paraded a series of witnesses during yesterday's seven-hour hearing in an effort to show that Mrs. Jennings was quarrelsome and spent considerable time on conversations not connected with the job.

The hearing was to resume at the Civic Center this afternoon, when Breiner planned to call a long list of witnesses to back up his claim that Mrs. Jennings was the victim of harrassment. The attorney said Dr. Albrecht and her staff launched "a reign of terror" and "Gestapo tactics" to get rid of Mrs. Jennings.

Among Mrs. Jennings' supporters is Dr. Hallinan, who quit as assistant to Dr. Albrecht last October.

Attorney Breiner said that Dr. Hallinan's "paranoid schizophrenic" description of Mrs. Jennings was made in March of 1970 as an off-hand observation. Since then, Mrs. Jennings has proved to be an effective and dedicated employee, said Breiner.

Mother Of Player Sends Chou Red Roses

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The mother of Glenn Cowan, 19, a member of the American table tennis team that toured mainland China, sent Premier Chou En-lai a bouquet of roses Monday.

Mrs. Fran Cowan, 48, a widow, said in a message with the flowers:

"Thank you for the wonderful hospitality shown my son Glenn Cowan and his teammates. If you are ever in Los Angeles, please be my guest."

The long-haired Cowan said after the trip he could "very easily" mediate Sino-American problems between the Asian leader and President Nixon.

Mrs. Cowan sent her flower order by cable to a member of the Florists' Transworld Delivery Association in Hong Kong. However, a spokesman for the flower organization said it was not known if the order could be delivered in mainland China. delivered in mainland China.

Hearing Is Tonight On Park Plaza

William Spangle's controversial park plaza plan, a proposal to turn much of the heart of Sausalito's downtown area now largely a parking lot into a park will be the subject of a public hearing before the Sausalito City Council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The three-stage plan won approval from the Sausalito Planning Commission earlier this month.

The council will also consider proposals by City Manager Albert St. Cyr to raise parking fees in Municipal Lot. No. 1 from 50 to 75 cents an hour and to keep the lot open in the evenings during the tourist season from May to October. The city manager is also recommending the city hike parking fines and all three proposals are designed to provide Sausalito with additional revenue to finance a proposed $1,763,622 city budget for 1971-72.

London is building 1,600 new double-decker buses which will be operated by one person, eliminating conductors who collected fares.

JIM GILMARTIN

I'll Really Miss Russell Patrick

I cried last night.

I don't ordinarily weep, but a very dear friend of mine passed away last night. Please forgive me. But I loved him so very much. His name was Russell Patrick Hodges.

I had a date for dinner with Mr. Hodges the day after next. I had looked forward to it with enthusiasm. He and I were great needlers. He called me a "Big Harp" and I called him a "Black Irishman." I dearly hope Russell Patrick is looking down upon me as a "Big Harp" to this day because he was a Prince.

The first day I met Russ he was screaming in his own inimitible way, "Bye, Bye, Baby!" and I immediately fell in love with the expression. I guess I'm corny that way.

I'll never forget the day I hit him in the back with a quote that hurt him deeply. He had spent 10 or 15 minutes ridiculing me during an in-between doubleheader show, and I had come back in the next day's column — rapping him right back — but not really. For I respected him deeply. For Russell Patrick Hodges was a gentleman. And I'll never forget him.

I am going to a banquet Thursday night at which Mrs. Hodges was to be a guest speaker.

I hope you will all join me in a standing ovation and a rousing...."Job well, done, Russ" or, Russell Patrick, "...Bye, Bye, Baby."

MILL VALLEY'S Brink family is back in the news again.

This time it's the papa of the clan, big Larry Brink, who was honored last night as one of Northern Illinois University's all-time great athletes.

Now an auto dealer in southern Marin, Brink attended a banquet in DeKalb, Ill. to receive his award as selected by his alma mater's Alumni-Varsity Club.

Basic criteria for the award, according to Alumni-Varsity Club president Charles Raumond, is that the recipient must have earned an NIU varsity letter and made outstanding contributions to his chosen profession or occupation.

Brink went from Illinois Intercollegiate Athelic Conference All-Star fame to become an All-National Football League defensive end for three consecutive years, 1950-51-52, with the Los Angeles Rams. He stuck with the Rams for six years, including the 1952 world championship team, and wound up his career with the Chicago Bears in 1954.

He is still considered the best pro football player to come out of Northern Illinois.

Larry and Leath Brink's three sons appear destined to share dad's athletic glory. Barry, a 6-foot-2½-inch, 240 pound, 20-year-old graduate of Dartmouth, won all-star defensive end honors in the Ivy League as he helped the Indians to an undefeated championship season in 1970. He later played in the Hula Bowl in Honolulu and the East-West game and will join Montreal of the Canadian Football League this summer.

Jan, 18 year old and 6-3, 210 pounds, has been graduated from Phillips Academy in Exeter, Conn. after an outstanding career at Tamalpais High as a defensive end and linebacker. He says he will enroll at either Dartmouth or Cornell next fall.

JOE ANSELMO, well known in local semi-professional baseball circles up until two years ago when he moved his family to Eugene, Ore., is back in town today.

The occasion is for a reunion of the San Rafael Braves he managed to the championship of the Western Baseball Association a couple of years ago. The reunion is tonight at Litchfield's Bermuda Palms in San Rafael.

Anselmo, who owns the Valley Stationary in Eugene, has kept active in baseball since his departure. A former professional, Jovial Joe is now up to his ears helping organize semi-pro tems in Oregon. Any college ball players interested in spending the summer in our neighboring state to the north should contact Anselmo.

New Track Coaches For Redwood High

Russell Hill, an English teacher in his third year at Redwood High School, has been named to replace Stan Tobiason as the Larkspur school's head track coach, Principal Donald Kreps announced yesterday.

The appointments of Hill and social science teacher Don Shaver as assistant coach came less than a week after former head coach Stanley Tobiason and his assistant, Don Zile, announced their resignations because of irreconcilable differences with the administration on the school's athletic policies.

Hill, who served as assistant track coach and cross country coach at San Rafael High before coming to Redwood, said this morning he will take a neutral stand on the issues that led to the resignations — namely, long hair on student athletes, to which Tobiason and Athletic Director Bob Troppmann are staunchly opposed.

"I don't intend to take a hard line in any direction," he said. "We told the boys yesterday we're there to make sure everybody can compete."

Shaver was an assistant track coach last year at Novato High.

Different Giant Hero For Every Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Charlie Fox and his San Francisco Giants are writing a real victory script at Candlestick Park these days with a different hero in every game.

Monday, Fox ressurected Ron Bryant from oblivion in the bullpen where he had languished with only 2 1-3 innings of work since opening day. And as you might have guessed, Bryant wound up the day's hero by the time the Giants got through beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-2, for their ninth consecutive victory.

When the game started Bryant was in the San Francisco bullpen where he has reported every day this season. Frank Reberger was the Giants starter but he hit the first batter he faced and walked the second. That brought Fox to the mound in a hurry for a quick consultation.

"Reberger told me his arm and shoulder were tight and he couldn't throw the way he wanted to," Fox explained. "I motioned to the bullpen to get Bryant ready."

While Fox and the San Francisco infield killed time on the mound Bryant, a tough lefthander with limited talent, tuned up as quickly as he could.

The umpires gave Fox about three minutes to make up his mind and he did by bringing Bryant onto the scene.

Fox insisted Reberger hurt himself and he wasn't trying to outfox the Cardinals by switching to a lefthander in the middle of the first inning.

In any event, Bryant, with only one complete game under his belt last year, proceeded to limit St. Louis to a run in the first and another in the ninth while retiring 27 batters to pick up his first decision of the year.

He used his fastball at first, then switched to a big breaking curve in the fourth inning and between the two pitches held the cards to eight scattered ts.

"He really showed me something," Fox said. "His performance in this game earned him a spot in the starting rotation as my number five man. If he continues to pitch like this he could really pick us up because he's our only lefthanded starter."

It would appear at the moment that Fox has "promoted" Bryant to a phantom job since the way San Francisco's schedule reads for the next three weeks the Giants should be able to get by with just three starters, and those would be Juan Marichal, who pitches tonight's game against St. Louis, Gaylord Perry, who hooks up against Bob Gibson on Wednesday, and rookie Steve Stone.

Bryant wasn't immediately aware of the forthcoming schedule with its many off days, so naturally he was pleased to learn he had won a starting berth.

"That's always been my goal," said the curly haired youngster who has had opportunities before to win a steady job and failed all of them. "I've lost about 10 pounds from last year and I really feel I can do

TRAFFIC JAM — More than 1,000 runners in the 75th annual Boston Marathon jammed the streets to begin the 26-mile jaunt yesterday. The winner came all the way from California, Alvaro Majia, a resident of Colombia who has been living in Redwood City.

GOOD FORTUNE: LOSING JOB

Colombian Wins Marathon

BOSTON (UPI) —Most men don't like their jobs, but for Alvaro Mejia it turned out to be a stroke of good fortune.

Mejia, a 30-year-old Colombian, was employed as a metalworker in California until he was laid off five weeks ago. Undaunted by his ill fortune, Mejia decided to take advantage of the free time to train for the Boston Marathon.

It paid off Monday when he won the race —only his second marathon in the United States —in the most exciting finish in the 75-year history of the event.

The 5-foot-10, 145-pound Colombia matched the pre-race favorite, Pat McMahon of Ireland, stride for stride over the 26-mile course, then opened up in the last 200 yards to win by about 25 yards.

Mejia's winning time was two hours, 18 minutes, 45 seconds while McMahon was clocked in 2:18:50. The five-second spread was the tightest in history —eclipsing by one second the previous closest race in 1906.

Mejia, who is married to Terri Stickles, a member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic swim team, said he almost dropped out of the race about the midway point because of blisters on his feet.

"I got the blisters in the first two or three miles," the soft-spoken Colombian said afterward. "My feet hurt a lot and I thought about dropping out, but I decided just to keep going."

The blisters were so bad at one point Mejia ran trhough puddle "to try to cool my feet off."

Mejia, who lives in Redwood City, Calif. but will return shortly to Bogota, said he began training for the Boston Marathon when he lost his job.

"I wanted to run here because it was the biggest marathon in the country but I wouldn't have had the chance if I had been working."

Almost 900 marathoners started the race but by the first mile eight runners, including Mejia and McMahon, were setting the pace. The eight stayed together until the halfway point but by the three-quarter mark Mejia and McMahon pulled away.

John Halberstadt, 21, a South African attending Oklahoma State University, finished strong to capture third place in 2:22:23.

John Vitale, a recent graduate of the University of Connecticut, was the top American, finishing fourth in 2:22:45.

Four other Americans were in the top 10—Byron J. Lowery of San Francisco fifth, Art Coolidge of the sponsoring Boston A.A. sixth, Bill Speck of Providence College seventh and Bill Clark of San Jose, Calif., 10th.

The race, run in sunny weather with temperatures in the low 50s, attracted hundreds of joggers who trained all year to take part in America's most traditional road race. One of them was Erich Segal, Yale English professor and author of "Love Story." He finished 489th in a time of 3:23:14.

Several women ignored rules barring their official entry and ran anyway.

Marin '9' Is Back In First

The up-again, down-again College of Marin Tars are up again, tied for first place in the Camino Norte Conference baseball race.

After dropping to third place Saturday in a loss to Contra Costa J.C. of San Pablo, the Tars dumped Santa Rosa J.C. from the top spot yesterday by scoring eight times in the seventh inning to beat the Bear Cubs, 10-8 at Kentfield.

Marin and West Valley of Campbell are tied for first at 8-3, while Santa Rosa is now 6-3.

Goaltenders Stealing Show In NHL Playoffs

By United Press International

The National Hockey League Stanley Cup semifinals may come to be known as the goaltenders' series.

Defense is the name of the game for the four semifinalists and superb goaltending has carried the clubs thus far.

New York, which leads Chicago 1-0 in its best-of-seven series, has had some brilliant performances from Ed Giacomin, who teamed with Gilles Villemure to win the Vezina Trophy as the league's outstanding goalies.

And Montreal, which meets Minnesota in the opening game of its best-of-seven series tonight, stunned the Boston Bruins, the defending Cup champions, on the goalkeeping of rookie Ken Dryden.

Chicago, which won the Western title, qualified for the semifinals by ousting the Philadelphia Flyers in four games. New York, second to Boston in the East, stopped the Toronto Maple Leafs in six games. Montreal, third in the East, eliminated Boston in the upset of the playoffs and Minnesota, No. 3 in the West, stunned St. Louis.

UPSET KNICKS

Bullets Make NBA Finals

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Baltimore may be ruling the world before May is out.

The Colts won the pro football title, the Orioles captured the World Series and now it's the Bullets' turn.

It's in the cards, as far as Baltimore guard Fred Carter is concerned. Carter predicted in a fortune-type style of stud poker the exact outcome of the seven-game series with New York.

"Carter is a card sharp," said Earl Monroe, who scored 26 points for Baltimore, including the go ahead basket with 2:34 remaining, as Baltimore dethroned the defending National Basketball Association champions 93-91 Monday night.

"He picked it just right," Monroe added, "The two games the Knicks won in New York, the pair we took in Baltimore and the other results." Carter shrugs off his "good fortune" by calling the fall of the cards "sheer coincidence, although it nearly worked with Philadelphia, too, when I said we'd win four in a row and we only won three straight."

Coach Gene Shue says, with a smile: "Me, I pray to God. That's where I get my strength."

Shue did some tall praying during the last 11 seconds of the game when the Knicks called time out to plan their strategy for a tying basket.

"I reviewed the game with the team during the time out and told them we've worked darn hard all season to get where we are," Shue said. "I said 'we have a two-point lead, let's not lose it now.'"

The Knicks planned to have Willis Reed set up a pick for Dick Barnett or Walt Frazier, but Wes Unseld broke it up and partially blocked Bill Bradley's last shot.

Shue said the Bullets, trailing 47-43, had "to come out strong for the third quarter. Reed was doing a remarkable job despite playing with great pain and he was the cohesive factor in putting the Knicks ahead." A foul shot by Jack Marin, Wes Unseld's tap-in and Carter's unopposed layup down the middle gave Baltimore a 48-47 margin with 10:38 gone in the third quarter. A foul shot by Reed with 8:11 remaining gave New York a 53-52 edge, but Unseld got that back immediately with a turn-around over Reed's left side.

Baltimore retained the lead until Barnett drove down the lane for a layup that sent New York in front 88-87 with 2:44 remaining in the game. The lead lasted exactly 10 seconds before Monroe's soft jumper from the key put Baltimore in front for good at 89-88. Carter's 19-foot for a 93-89 lead proved to be the decisive basket as the Knicks could only muster Frazier's field goal that provided the final score.

Dave DeBusschere's shot with 33 seconds remaining and Bradley's off-balanced attempt were the Knicks' dying gasps.

"It was a heck of a struggle and it was remarkable we were able to win with Gus Johnson

Bruce's Tenure Was Stormy One

By MARY LEYDECKER

Alan Bruce, a soft-spoken but plain-talking man, once said, "If I felt at any time that the majority of the board had lost confidence in me" he would resign immediately.

Today Bruce made good that promise given when he was appointed in 1960 by the board of supervisors to a job that seemed about to be abolished.

In his 10 years as county administrator, Bruce has been at the center of a long series of controversies that have, one after another, filled the newspapers' columns.

The latest furor was over his demand that longtime county health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht be fired.

After the supervisors exonerated Dr. Albrecht and chided Bruce last week, it still seemed as if the county administrator would weather this storm as he has many others.

Today, however, to the surprise of most observers, he quit the longtime job which he started with a salary of $12,900 a year rising to $29,410.

Bruce, a sandy-haired, pipe-smoking man of Scot descent, took office in November 1960 at a time when the majority of the supervisors didn't want a county administrator.

The following year three supervisors, William D. Fusselman, J. Walter Blair and George H. Ludy, voted, indeed, to have the county counsel prepare an ordinance doing away with the job.

(The post had been created in 1955 and was filled for five years by Donald A. Jensen, for whom Bruce served as an assistant for almost four years.)

The move to abolish the post was preceded by an abortive attempt by the same supervisors to stop work on Marin's Civic Center.

There was a popular uproar over the two issues and the board finally assigned the administrator issue to a referendum ballot with a vote set for June 1962, more than a year away.

Meanwhile Bruce and his staff were moved into cramped offices in the old courthouse — a period later called by Bruce as his "tenure in the broom closet."

However, in December 1961, Blair was recalled and Peter H. Behr elected supervisor, and the majority on the board was reversed.

Behr along with Supervisors William A. Gnoss and Walter J. Castro voted to call off the referendum, and Bruce was moved to more spacious quarters.

In the fall of 1962, however, Bruce faced another crisis, this over his firing of a secretary in his office.

After long hearings before the personnel commission and the board of supervisors, Bruce was backed up by a 3-to-1 vote of the supervisors.

Although the job of administrator was strengthened and Bruce was not again threatened with loss of his job until this year, he remained at the center of many controversies.

One was in 1966 when two supervisors blocked a proposal that his salary be increased to $25,000.

There was a long-running fuss over who was going to run the county's mental health facilities and last year another storm blew up when Bruce recommended that county Planning Director Paul C. Zucker be fired.

During the years, Bruce has repeatedly angered Marin judges and last year, he and Judge Samuel W. Gardiner finally reached a truce over the placement of juvenile wards of the court.

During the years Bruce was known, however, as a hard-working administrato who once estimated that he worked about 60 hours a week at his job.

A favorite quotation from Edmund Burke was used several years ago by Bruce to explain his outlook on his job:

"Those who would carry on great public schemes must be proof against the worst fatiguing delays; the most mortifying disappointments; the most shocking insults; and what is worst of all, the presumptious judgment of the ignorant upon their design."

Span Plan For Car Poolers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—In an effort to relieve commuter congestion on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, special toll plaza lanes will be reserved for autos carrying extra riders.

The plan to encourage car pools will go into effect next fall. It was announced here Monday by the Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

Two westbound lanes reserved for cars carrying three or more persons will enable these cars to bypass commute-hour jams at the toll plaza.

Case Referred To Juvenile Court

The case of Neil E. Kondratieff, 19, of Lagunitas, was referred to Marin Juvenile Court yesterday.

Kondratieff, charged with burglary, was arrested last Thursday driving away from Family Records in San Anselmo. In his car, police said, were $724 worth of records stolen from the store.

Mysterious Cut In Power Halts City's Trolleys

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mysterious power failures clogged downtown streets with stalled trolleys and trolley buses Monday during both the morning and evening rush hours.

Municipal railway investigators were unable to say Monday night what caused either failure.

Electricity to overhead lines for buses and trolleys was off from 8:04 a.m. until 9:41 a.m. and from 4:30 p.m. to 5 p.m., and thousands of commuters had to jog or walk.

Prosecution Of Bagpiper Is Ruled Out

A Nicasio bagpiper arrested and accused of panhandling Sunday as he piped passengers aboard the Sausalito ferry will not be prosecuted, Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales announced today.

The district attorney said he did not think piper George Joseph Dawson had violated the Penal Code section dealing with panhandling, the section under which he was booked by Sausalito police.

The professional violinist who took up piping last year was arrested by Sausalito police after passersby threw coins into an open carpetbag near his feet as he played the pipes.

Bales said a panhandler is "anyone who accosts others in a public place for the purpose of begging or soliciting alms" and added: "I interpret 'accost' to mean to ask people for money or stop them."

Although the district attorney said the 35-year-old Dawson may have violated a city ordinance which prohibits plying a trade in the streets without a license, he did not intend to pursue the matter further. "I have more pressing things to do," he explained.

Dawson, who is free on $35 bail and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow, was pleased at the district attorney's decision. He laughingly confessed he had played his pipes yesterday for one of the ferry's larger afternoon commute runs. "There were about 500 people on the boat and I just couldn't resist," he said. "I went down to the dock and played and played and many people smiled at me and flashed me the victory sign."

Spending From General Fund Exceeds Income

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Spending from California's general fund exceeded income by $640.9 million in the first nine months of the fiscal year, state Controller Houston I. Flournoy reports.

He said Monday that receipts were $2.847 billion, with disbursements reaching $3.488 billion.

Receipts for the July-March period exceeded those of the same period in 1969-70 by $65.1 million, a gain of 2.34 per cent. Spending topped the previous year's figure by $124.9 million, a growth of 3.72 per cent.

Major spending items included schools $1.1 billion; health care benefits $375.5 million; Aid to Families with Dependent Children $255.8 million and the University of California $246.4 million.

Big income sources included the sales tax $1.3 billion; personal income taxes $517 million and bank and corporation franchise and income taxes $355 million.

Tentative Nod To Smaller Lots

The Rohnert Park City Council last night gave tentative approval to a subdivision plan that would have lot sizes smaller than the minimum usually required by the City.

Developer Arthur Condiotti said he planned to develop single-family homes and town-house condominiums on 80 acres at the northwest corner of the Rohnert Park Expressway and Snyder Lane. He said the overall density would be seven units per acre.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the concensus of the council was to permit the 6,000-square-foot lots under a planned community zone and not enforce the 6,500-square foot minimum. He said Condiotti indicated he would dedicate and improve a portion of a park site in the area.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

ROAD BIDS — Heard a report that Argonaut Constructors of Santa Rosa had submitted the low bid of $51,105 for improvement of Country Club Drive. The cost had been estimated at $60,237 and the total project estimated at $105,991.

APARTMENTS — Approved the plans of Horst Hanf of a 53-unit apartment complex on Avram Avenue near Commerce Boulevard.

CHURCH — Reviewed plans for the proposed Berean Baptist Church at Country Club Drive and the Rohnert Park Expressway and asked revisions be made in the landscaping plans and that the planned shingle roof be changed to shake.

BURNING — Introduced an ordinance that would ban outdoor burning in conformance with regulations of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

GOLF RATES — Agreed to permit Callinan and golf professional Robert Porter to set special green fees for golf tournaments.

ACCESS — Heard Donald B. Heard, Sonoma County Director of public works, and representatives of the state Division of Highways, reject plans by Paul Golis for a frontage road as access to the Rohnert Park Expressway. The men said the plan would create many traffic conflicts.

RECEPTION — Scheduled a reception for Sonoma State College president Thomas H. McGrath for May 16 at the Community Center. Details will be planned by the cultural arts commission.

Action Postponed On Completion of Center

The Novato Planning Commission last night postponed action on plans for completion of the Novak Square Shopping Center, Novato Boulevard and Wilson Avenue, until May 3.

Developer H.L. Bryan of Oakland plans to construct about a dozen shops and a theater at the center, now occupied by a supermarket and a gasoline service station.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said commissioners delayed action because they wanted to consider the applications for use permits at the same time as the plan.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

RENTAL BUSINESS — Approved plans by E. D. McGillicuddy for a general equipment rental business, adjacent to 6981 Redwood Hwghway, west of Highway 101.

MENDOCINO GARDENS — Postponed until 8 p.m. Monday at the community house consideration of a plan by Norman T. Gilroy and Associates for planned residential development at Mendocino Gardens at the southwest corner of Novato Boulevard and Eucalyptus Avenue.

HEARING — Set May 10 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on rezoning 6.44 acres northeast of Simmons and Leese lanes from limited agricultural to planned residentials requested by Allan and Helga Dougherty.

$103,000 Allotted For Overcrossing

The California Highway Commission has allocated $103,000 as its share of a pedestrian overcrossing south of the Washington Street interchange in Petaluma.

The City of Petaluma will pay $101,000 toward the total cost of $204,000 for the overcrossing of Highway 101 for Kenilworth Junior High School students.

Election Returns To Be Broadcast

Election returns will be broadcast from the Civic Center, as they become available, tonight on KTIM FM (100.9).

Early absentee ballots and partial lists will be broadcast when available, interrupting the San Diego vs. Oakland Athletic's, according to Hugh Turner, station manager. First complete returns are expected about 10:30 p.m.

Pleads Innocent To Morals Count

Michael Lino Paredes, 31, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to two charges of sex perversion stemming from an incident near Kent Lake last summer.

A jury trial was set for the week of May 17.

Paredes is accused of being one of several men seen performing sexual acts with a woman Aug. 2 before a crowd including children at the spillway area below the lake.

Fuss Over North Coast Plan Costs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Controversy arose yesterday among the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors over payment of the rough outline for the proposed North Coast area planning and development commission.

Supervisor Robert Theiller of Sebastopol, a supporter of the new five-county alliance, had said last week that the counties would probably share the cost of developing the plan.

Some of his fellow supervisors expressed concern that they had not been consulted about the preparation of the report and its financing, and asked Theiller for an explanation.

Theiller said he had not committed any Sonoma County funds to pay for the draft and said he did not know how the author, Crescent City Atty. James Hooper, would be paid. He said Hooper was directed to do the task by Humboldt County Supervisor Donald Peterson. No figure was given on the cost of the 34-page report setting up the new alliance as an alternative to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

State Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, reportedly rejected the Hooper report and introduced rather vague legislation that would establish the new regional association but would expand it to seven counties adding Trinity and Siskiyou to the list of Sonoma, Napa, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties.

Sonoma County residents were voting today on whether to withdraw from ABAG in favor of the new association.

Six Democratic Senators To Offer Rebuttal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien today named six U.S. senators —all announced or potential presidential candidates —to join him in a televised answer to President Nixon's recent statements on Indochina.

The 30-minute program will be shown at 9 p.m. EST Thursday over the American Broadcasting Company (ABC) television network. CBS and NBC rejected demands by the Democrats that they be given equal time to respond to Nixon's Indochina policy statements.

Joining O'Brien on the program will be Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., Henry M. Jackson, Wash., George S. McGovern, S.D., Birch Bayh, Ind., Harold E. Hughes, Iowa, and Edmund S. Muskie, Maine.

Dougherty Replaced On Plan Commission

Hugh Dougherty, Marin County planning commissioner for the past six years, will be replaced by George P. Leonard of Stinson Beach, a retired contractor and land owner.

Marin County Board of Supervisors today approved Leonard's appointment on a motion by Chairman Louis H. Baar. Dougherty was named to the planning commission in 1965 by former Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, whom Baar ousted in 1968.

Leonard is a native of Sillwater, Okla. He attended MacAlester College where he majored in geology. He retired after 38 years in the contracting business, building tunnels, roads, airports and dams.

In 1968, he and his wife gave a portion of their Stinson Beach property to the county to complete public ownership of the famed Dipsea Trail. The Leonards owned property in Marin since 1956 and moved to Stinson Beach for permanent residence in 1969.

The Leonards are active in conservation organizations. He is listed in Who's Who of the Mid-West and the West.

Quarantine On Mussels Will Start May 1

The annual quarantine on taking mussels in Marin and Sonoma counties will start May 1 and continue to Oct. 31, the Marin County Health Department has announced.

The quarantine will be posted in English and Spanish, according to M.B. Scott, Marin County supervising sanitarian.

All ocean beaches in Marin County will be posted in English this week and by May 1 in Spanish, which signs are yet to be printed.

The dual-language request came as a surprise yesterday to the Marin County Department of Environmental Health from Dr. Louis C. Saylor, state director of public health. It will be the first bilingual posting in Marin.

No shell fish poisoning has been reported since 1969 when most of it occurred among migrant farm workers in the Fort Bragg area, Saylor said. That poisoning inspired this year's Spanish posting, Saylor said. Quarantined waters include all bays opening from the ocean from Oregon to the Mexican border. These include Muir Beach, Bolinas Beach and Tomales Bay in Marin County and Bodega Bay in Sonoma County.

Suspect In Car Theft Arrested

Robin Allan Patterson, 20, of 1075 Cambridge Street, Novato who reportedly had someone else's car towed away, was arrested by Novato police yesterday on suspicion of car theft. Officers said Patterson had a tow truck remove an inoperable car owned by Dennis Gerald Chase of 1132 Third Street, Apt. 2, from in front of Chase's home Friday.

Patterson paid the $12.50 tow charge and was arrested yesteday when he returned to the service station at 5999 Redwood Highway, which handled the tow job, police said.

Patterson posted $1,200 bail and was set to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Innocent Plea To Possession Of Pot

Harry R. Cartwright, 22, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to charges of possession of marijuana for sale and possession of dangerous drugs.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon said a preliminary hearing would be set next Monday at 1:30 p.m. Cartwright was arrested April 8 after Petaluma police obtained a warrant to search his home at 808 Keokuk Street.

Farm System Key To Giant Success

Garry Schumacher is the kind of press agent newspapermen admire. Schumacher never bothers reporters with silly ideas to puff his clients.

Without Schumacher his clients, the Giants, would get their share of space in the sports pages. With him they get more than their just due. The reason is that Schumacher thoroughly understands a feature when he sees one.

SCHUMACHER WAS a newspaperman for 25 years before Horace Stoneham hired him away from the old New York Journal. That was in 1945. Schumacher was the best baseball writer in New York and now he is the best press agent in the major leagues.

It would seem that after half a century in baseball, 25 as a writer and 25 as a press agent, Schumacher might run out of story ideas. But at 70 he actually is sharper at spotting features.

Take, for example, opening day in Candlestick Park. Schumacher was sitting between a couple of writers in the press box when the Giants got Gaylord Perry five runs in the second inning.

"THAT'S MORE than enough for Perry," said Schumacher. "See you later. I got an idea. If the record books bear it out, I'll be back."

While Perry was shutting out the Padres 5-0 on a three-hitter, Schumacher checked the records and returned to the press box at the end of the game with a neatly typed release entitled:

"A bow to Carl Hubbell, Jack Schwarz and their scouts in the Giants' Farm System."

Hubbell, director of the Giants' farm clubs, and Schwarz, the executive secretary who directs Giants' scouts, were, indeed, entitled to take a bow.

EVERY YEAR since the Giants moved to the Golden Gate in 1958, their Farm System has produced one or more players for the big club. And Schumacher not only documented that fact in his release but pointed out that every Giant in the 1971 opening day lineup was a Farm System graduate — Bobby Bonds, Chris Speier, Willie Mays, Willie McCovey, Ken MXNDERSON, Dick Dietz, Alan Gallagher, Hal Lanier and Perry.

Here is a list of the Giants' Farm System graduates:

1966 — Dick Dietz and Rich Robertson; 1967 — Dave Marshall; 1968 — Bobby Bonds, Frank Johnson and Don Mason; 1969 — Ron Bryant; 1970 — Alan Gallagher and Skip Pitlock; 1971 — Chris Speier, Steve Stone, George Foster and Jim Rosario.

SCHUMACHER DIDN'T stop there. He even researched the records for a list of Giants' Farm System graduates now populating both American and National Leagues:

Ron Herbel, Atlanta; Orlando Cepeda, Atlanta; Bill Hands, Cubs; Randy Hundley, Cubs; Jay Alou, Houston; Tom Haller, Dodgers; Manny Mota, Dodgers; Dave Marshall, Mets; Jose Pagan, Pirates; Matty Alou, Cardinals; Frank Linzy, Cardinals; Jose Cardenal, Cardinals; Bob Burda, Cardinals; Bob Barton, Padres; Don Mason, Padres; Ollie Brown, Padres; Felipe Alou, Yankees; Cesar Gutierrez, Tigers.

Yes, Schumacher is the kind of press agent newspapermen, especially columnists, admire. When he retires baseball writers covering the Giants will have to go to work.

Virginia Takes Lead In ABA Playoff Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Virginia Squires had one Scott too many for the Kentucky Colonels Monday night.

Charlie Scott, the Squires' brilliant rookie, and veteran Ray Scott each tallied 30 points to help Virginia beat Kentucky 150-137 and give the Squires a 2-1 lead in their American Basketball Association Eastern Division final playoff.

The Western Division final playoff continues tonight at Salt Lake City where the Stars entertain the Indiana Pacers. Utah currently holds a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The Virginia-Kentucky contest produced an ABA record for most personal fouls in one game as the officials whistled a total of 79 infractions. Seven players fouled out of the game, including Kentucky's Dan Issel who led the Colonels with 27 points.

Charlie Scott pumped in seven of his points during a nine-point Squire streak that saw Virginia break away from a 120-120 tie in the final quarter.

The series resumes Wednesday night at Louisville with the fifth game scheduled for Hampton, Va., Friday night.

New Cage Coach

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States Military Academy Monday ended its search for a basketball coach to replace Bobby Knight by hiring Dan Dougherty, an assistant at Villanova since 1966. Knight resigned last month to accept the head coaching job at Indiana.

TARS

The Tars had a chance to deal the Bear Cubs another blow when they met this afternoon in Santa Rosa.

Vic Petreshen's boys staged their uprising in the seventh with the benefit of only three hits. Doubles by Jim Peters and Bob Sutherland netted three runs, and Dee Fedrick singled home Roger Offenbach with the tie breaker. Fedrick scored the eventual winning run on a delayed double steal, with Mike Parnow going to second and drawing a throw.

Santa Rosa fell apart completely that inning, contributing three errors, two walks, a hit batter and a passed ball.

Chris Roland and Stu Kneeland pitched the last four innings in relief of Marin starter Dennis Bueler, and Kneeland got credit for the win. Both relievers had seen little work this season and were successful in shutting the door on the Bear Cubs, who had gotten to Bueler for five runs through the fifth.

Home Run Costs Lee The Game

I-J Special Report

Former Terra Linda High School star Bill Lee got his first decision of the year for the Boston Red Sox yesterday, but it was one he'd rather forget.

The tall southpaw served up a home run pitch to Cleveland's Roy Foster in the 13th inning that produced two runs and gave the Indians a 5-4 victory.

Lee, the fifth Boston pitcher, had yielded a walk to Graig Nettles prior to Foster's blow. It was the only walk he issued while striking out four in two innings work.

In the only other American League game yesterday, Minnesota edged Kansas City, 9-8. Meanwhile in the National League, San Francisco downed St. Louis, 4-2, and Los Angeles edged San Diego, 3-2.

Billy Grabarkewitz' bases-loaded double in the eighth inning drove in two runs to give Los Angeles the victory over San Diego. Willie Davis and Wes Parker singled and, after a sacrifice by Richie Allen and an intentional walk, Grabarkewitz unloaded his game-winning double off reliever Al Severinsen.

Boston outfielder Reggie Smith injured his knee before the game when he banged it against the stands while trying to prevent an unidentified girl —about 10 or 11—from being hit with a flyball. He had to leave the game in the eighth because of the injury and his replacement, George Thomas, went 0-for-3 and stranded the tying run on third in the last of the 13th.

Harmon Killebrew drove in six runs with a homer, single and an infield out as Minnesota built up a 9-0 lead and then held on for the one-run victory over Kansas City. The loss broke a six-game Twins losing streak.

"I think we've been hitting the ball well," Killebrew said, "but before today, we just haven't been getting the hits in the right spots."

Jim Kaat was staked to the 9-0 lead but he failed to survive the fifth inning when the Royals scored seven runs, four on Bob Oliver's grand slam. Steve Barber got the victory in relief and Ron Perranoski finished up.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arnold Palmer continued to hold down first place in earnings among professional golfers Monday as the top five spots in the standings were unaffected by last weekend's Monsanto open.

Palmer, with $100,828, held onto his lead over Miller Barber, who has $89,884 for second place. Gary Player of South Africa is third in the standings with $82,015.

Shue told Monroe to take charge and "that we were going with him right down to the buzzer." Monroe responded with his recently acquired "Gung Ho" attitude that first destroyed Philadelphia's playoff hopes and then vanquished the Knicks. He expects to continue in the same fashion against Milwaukee.

it this year. All I want is another chance."

Dick Dietz, Bryant's batterymate Monday, and Bobby Bonds took care of getting the Giants the runs they needed for their 12th victory of the season against only two losses—the best record in the majors this year.

Dietz, a big slugger last year, hasn't had much of a start this year. In Monday's game he drove in single runs in the first and third with singles for a two-for-three day while Bonds, who has been whacking away without restraint, drilled his fifth homer. San Francisco's other run came on a bases-loaded walk to George Foster.

After concluding their work against the Cards on Wednesday the Giants will embark on their first long road trip of the year, playing nine games in 13 days before they return to Candlestick on May 4.

Cowens, Petrie Tie For Rookie Of Year Honors

New York (UPI)—Dave Cowens of Boston and Geoff Petrie of Portland, two players who didn't make the All-America college team but became surprise stars in the pros, finished in a tie for the National Basketball Association Rookie of the Year award.

In the balloting announced today, Cowens and Petrie each received 36 votes from sportswriters and sportscasters in the 17 league cities.

Pete Maravich, who had problems adjusting to the pro style of play after being the leading scorer in college at Louisiana State for three straight years, finished third with 21 votes. Calvin Murphy of San Diego got four votes and Bob Lanier of Detroit had just one.

Cowens and Petrie were the first players ever to tie for the award which was inaugurated in 1953 and has been won by such stars as Elgin Baylor (1959), Wilt Chamberlain (1960, Oscar Robertson (1961), Willis Reed (1965), Rick Barry (1966), Earl Monroe (1968), Wes Unseld (1969) and Lew Alcindor (1970).

Petrie was a college star at Princeton but seldom got much recognition outside of Ivy League ranks. He also had the disadvatange of playing for Portland, an expansion team. But he became the seventh rookie in NBA history to score more than 2,000 points as his 2,031 ranked him seventh in the league with a 24.8 average.

"The whole year was unbelievable," Petrie said, "I couldn't have dreamed it any better."

He admitted he was "surprised, really surprised" that he tied for the rookie award. "I thought Cowens might get it because he got off to such a great start."

Cowens played his college ball at Florida State and he had the sizeable task of playing the center spot that was occupied on the Celtics for 13 years by Bill Russell. At 6-foot-8 1-2, he also gives away many inches to most of the other centers in the league but he made up for his lack of height with hustle.

And his spirited play was one of the main reasons why the Celts improved by 10 games this season. They were 44-38 this year compared to 34-48 last year when they first had to adjust to Russell's absence.

Athletics To Open Series With Angels

ANAHEIM (UPI) — A key American League West series opens tonight when the second place Oakland Athletics take on the front-running California Angels.

The Oakland club is 9-5 on the season while the Angels are 8-4. Only 24 percentage points separate the two teams. Tom Murphy (1-1) is scheduled to pitch for the Angels against the A's Jim "Catfish" Hunter, (0-2).

The A's tried to strengthen their chances Monday be recalling pitcher Marchel Lachemann from Iowa of the American Association and sending down rookie Jim Panther, who had pitched in relief three times.

A's pilot Dick Williams said that he wanted Panther to get regular pitching assignments while the veteran Lachemann would be more effective in spot assignments.

"There are three teams picked in our division, he says in reference to the Twins, Angels and A's. "We've already beaten one — the Twins. We think we are better than the other," he said.

I'll Really Miss Russell Patrick

I cried last night.

I don't ordinarily weep, but a very dear friend of mine passed away last night. Please forgive me. But I loved him so very much. His name was Russell Patrick Hodges.

I had a date for dinner with Mr. Hodges the day after next. I had looked forward to it with enthusiasm. He and I were great needlers. He called me a "Big Harp" and I called him a "Black Irishman." I dearly hope Russell Patrick is looking down upon me as a "Big Harp" to this day because he was a Prince.

The first day I met Russ he was screaming in his own inimitible way, "Bye, Bye, Baby!" and I immediately fell in love with the expression. I guess I'm corny that way.

I'll never forget the day I hit him in the back with a quote that hurt him deeply. He had spent 10 or 15 minutes ridiculing me during an in-between doubleheader show, and I had come back in the next day's column — rapping him right back — but not really. For I respected him deeply. For Russell Patrick Hodges was a gentleman. And I'll never forget him.

I am going to a banquet Thursday night at which Mrs. Hodges was to be a guest speaker.

I hope you will all join me in a standing ovation and a rousing...."Job well, done, Russ" or, Russell Patrick, "...Bye, Bye, Baby."

MILL VALLEY'S Brink family is back in the news again.

This time it's the papa of the clan, big Larry Brink, who was honored last night as one of Northern Illinois University's all-time great athletes.

Now an auto dealer in southern Marin, Brink attended a banquet in DeKalb, Ill. to receive his award as selected by his alma mater's Alumni-Varsity Club.

Basic criteria for the award, according to Alumni-Varsity Club president Charles Raumond, is that the recipient must have earned an NIU varsity letter and made outstanding contributions to his chosen profession or occupation.

Brink went from Illinois Intercollegiate Athelic Conference All-Star fame to become an All-National Football League defensive end for three consecutive years, 1950-51-52, with the Los Angeles Rams. He stuck with the Rams for six years, including the 1952 world championship team, and wound up his career with the Chicago Bears in 1954.

He is still considered the best pro football player to come out of Northern Illinois.

Larry and Leath Brink's three sons appear destined to share dad's athletic glory. Barry, a 6-foot-2½-inch, 240 pound, 20-year-old graduate of Dartmouth, won all-star defensive end honors in the Ivy League as he helped the Indians to an undefeated championship season in 1970. He later played in the Hula Bowl in Honolulu and the East-West game and will join Montreal of the Canadian Football League this summer.

Jan, 18 year old and 6-3, 210 pounds, has been graduated from Phillips Academy in Exeter, Conn. after an outstanding career at Tamalpais High as a defensive end and linebacker. He says he will enroll at either Dartmouth or Cornell next fall.

JOE ANSELMO, well known in local semi-professional baseball circles up until two years ago when he moved his family to Eugene, Ore., is back in town today.

The occasion is for a reunion of the San Rafael Braves he managed to the championship of the Western Baseball Association a couple of years ago. The reunion is tonight at Litchfield's Bermuda Palms in San Rafael.

Anselmo, who owns the Valley Stationary in Eugene, has kept active in baseball since his departure. A former professional, Jovial Joe is now up to his ears helping organize semi-pro tems in Oregon. Any college ball players interested in spending the summer in our neighboring state to the north should contact Anselmo.

New Track Coaches For Redwood High

Russell Hill, an English teacher in his third year at Redwood High School, has been named to replace Stan Tobiason as the Larkspur school's head track coach, Principal Donald Kreps announced yesterday.

The appointments of Hill and social science teacher Don Shaver as assistant coach came less than a week after former head coach Stanley Tobiason and his assistant, Don Zile, announced their resignations because of irreconcilable differences with the administration on the school's athletic policies.

Hill, who served as assistant track coach and cross country coach at San Rafael High before coming to Redwood, said this morning he will take a neutral stand on the issues that led to the resignations — namely, long hair on student athletes, to which Tobiason and Athletic Director Bob Troppmann are staunchly opposed.

"I don't intend to take a hard line in any direction," he said. "We told the boys yesterday we're there to make sure everybody can compete."

Shaver was an assistant track coach last year at Novato High.

Different Giant Hero For Every Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Charlie Fox and his San Francisco Giants are writing a real victory script at Candlestick Park these days with a different hero in every game.

Monday, Fox ressurected Ron Bryant from oblivion in the bullpen where he had languished with only 2 1-3 innings of work since opening day. And as you might have guessed, Bryant wound up the day's hero by the time the Giants got through beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-2, for their ninth consecutive victory.

When the game started Bryant was in the San Francisco bullpen where he has reported every day this season. Frank Reberger was the Giants starter but he hit the first batter he faced and walked the second. That brought Fox to the mound in a hurry for a quick consultation.

"Reberger told me his arm and shoulder were tight and he couldn't throw the way he wanted to," Fox explained. "I motioned to the bullpen to get Bryant ready."

While Fox and the San Francisco infield killed time on the mound Bryant, a tough lefthander with limited talent, tuned up as quickly as he could.

The umpires gave Fox about three minutes to make up his mind and he did by bringing Bryant onto the scene.

Fox insisted Reberger hurt himself and he wasn't trying to outfox the Cardinals by switching to a lefthander in the middle of the first inning.

In any event, Bryant, with only one complete game under his belt last year, proceeded to limit St. Louis to a run in the first and another in the ninth while retiring 27 batters to pick up his first decision of the year.

He used his fastball at first, then switched to a big breaking curve in the fourth inning and between the two pitches held the cards to eight scattered ts.

"He really showed me something," Fox said. "His performance in this game earned him a spot in the starting rotation as my number five man. If he continues to pitch like this he could really pick us up because he's our only lefthanded starter."

It would appear at the moment that Fox has "promoted" Bryant to a phantom job since the way San Francisco's schedule reads for the next three weeks the Giants should be able to get by with just three starters, and those would be Juan Marichal, who pitches tonight's game against St. Louis, Gaylord Perry, who hooks up against Bob Gibson on Wednesday, and rookie Steve Stone.

Bryant wasn't immediately aware of the forthcoming schedule with its many off days, so naturally he was pleased to learn he had won a starting berth.

"That's always been my goal," said the curly haired youngster who has had opportunities before to win a steady job and failed all of them. "I've lost about 10 pounds from last year and I really feel I can do

TRAFFIC JAM — More than 1,000 runners in the 75th annual Boston Marathon jammed the streets to begin the 26-mile jaunt yesterday. The winner came all the way from California, Alvaro Majia, a resident of Colombia who has been living in Redwood City.

GOOD FORTUNE: LOSING JOB

Colombian Wins Marathon

BOSTON (UPI) —Most men don't like their jobs, but for Alvaro Mejia it turned out to be a stroke of good fortune.

Mejia, a 30-year-old Colombian, was employed as a metalworker in California until he was laid off five weeks ago. Undaunted by his ill fortune, Mejia decided to take advantage of the free time to train for the Boston Marathon.

It paid off Monday when he won the race —only his second marathon in the United States —in the most exciting finish in the 75-year history of the event.

The 5-foot-10, 145-pound Colombia matched the pre-race favorite, Pat McMahon of Ireland, stride for stride over the 26-mile course, then opened up in the last 200 yards to win by about 25 yards.

Mejia's winning time was two hours, 18 minutes, 45 seconds while McMahon was clocked in 2:18:50. The five-second spread was the tightest in history —eclipsing by one second the previous closest race in 1906.

Mejia, who is married to Terri Stickles, a member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic swim team, said he almost dropped out of the race about the midway point because of blisters on his feet.

"I got the blisters in the first two or three miles," the soft-spoken Colombian said afterward. "My feet hurt a lot and I thought about dropping out, but I decided just to keep going."

The blisters were so bad at one point Mejia ran trhough puddle "to try to cool my feet off."

Mejia, who lives in Redwood City, Calif. but will return shortly to Bogota, said he began training for the Boston Marathon when he lost his job.

"I wanted to run here because it was the biggest marathon in the country but I wouldn't have had the chance if I had been working."

Almost 900 marathoners started the race but by the first mile eight runners, including Mejia and McMahon, were setting the pace. The eight stayed together until the halfway point but by the three-quarter mark Mejia and McMahon pulled away.

John Halberstadt, 21, a South African attending Oklahoma State University, finished strong to capture third place in 2:22:23.

John Vitale, a recent graduate of the University of Connecticut, was the top American, finishing fourth in 2:22:45.

Four other Americans were in the top 10—Byron J. Lowery of San Francisco fifth, Art Coolidge of the sponsoring Boston A.A. sixth, Bill Speck of Providence College seventh and Bill Clark of San Jose, Calif., 10th.

The race, run in sunny weather with temperatures in the low 50s, attracted hundreds of joggers who trained all year to take part in America's most traditional road race. One of them was Erich Segal, Yale English professor and author of "Love Story." He finished 489th in a time of 3:23:14.

Several women ignored rules barring their official entry and ran anyway.

Marin '9' Is Back In First

The up-again, down-again College of Marin Tars are up again, tied for first place in the Camino Norte Conference baseball race.

After dropping to third place Saturday in a loss to Contra Costa J.C. of San Pablo, the Tars dumped Santa Rosa J.C. from the top spot yesterday by scoring eight times in the seventh inning to beat the Bear Cubs, 10-8 at Kentfield.

Marin and West Valley of Campbell are tied for first at 8-3, while Santa Rosa is now 6-3.

Goaltenders Stealing Show In NHL Playoffs

By United Press International

The National Hockey League Stanley Cup semifinals may come to be known as the goaltenders' series.

Defense is the name of the game for the four semifinalists and superb goaltending has carried the clubs thus far.

New York, which leads Chicago 1-0 in its best-of-seven series, has had some brilliant performances from Ed Giacomin, who teamed with Gilles Villemure to win the Vezina Trophy as the league's outstanding goalies.

And Montreal, which meets Minnesota in the opening game of its best-of-seven series tonight, stunned the Boston Bruins, the defending Cup champions, on the goalkeeping of rookie Ken Dryden.

Chicago, which won the Western title, qualified for the semifinals by ousting the Philadelphia Flyers in four games. New York, second to Boston in the East, stopped the Toronto Maple Leafs in six games. Montreal, third in the East, eliminated Boston in the upset of the playoffs and Minnesota, No. 3 in the West, stunned St. Louis.

UPSET KNICKS

Bullets Make NBA Finals

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Baltimore may be ruling the world before May is out.

The Colts won the pro football title, the Orioles captured the World Series and now it's the Bullets' turn.

It's in the cards, as far as Baltimore guard Fred Carter is concerned. Carter predicted in a fortune-type style of stud poker the exact outcome of the seven-game series with New York.

"Carter is a card sharp," said Earl Monroe, who scored 26 points for Baltimore, including the go ahead basket with 2:34 remaining, as Baltimore dethroned the defending National Basketball Association champions 93-91 Monday night.

"He picked it just right," Monroe added, "The two games the Knicks won in New York, the pair we took in Baltimore and the other results." Carter shrugs off his "good fortune" by calling the fall of the cards "sheer coincidence, although it nearly worked with Philadelphia, too, when I said we'd win four in a row and we only won three straight."

Coach Gene Shue says, with a smile: "Me, I pray to God. That's where I get my strength."

Shue did some tall praying during the last 11 seconds of the game when the Knicks called time out to plan their strategy for a tying basket.

"I reviewed the game with the team during the time out and told them we've worked darn hard all season to get where we are," Shue said. "I said 'we have a two-point lead, let's not lose it now.'"

The Knicks planned to have Willis Reed set up a pick for Dick Barnett or Walt Frazier, but Wes Unseld broke it up and partially blocked Bill Bradley's last shot.

Shue said the Bullets, trailing 47-43, had "to come out strong for the third quarter. Reed was doing a remarkable job despite playing with great pain and he was the cohesive factor in putting the Knicks ahead." A foul shot by Jack Marin, Wes Unseld's tap-in and Carter's unopposed layup down the middle gave Baltimore a 48-47 margin with 10:38 gone in the third quarter. A foul shot by Reed with 8:11 remaining gave New York a 53-52 edge, but Unseld got that back immediately with a turn-around over Reed's left side.

Baltimore retained the lead until Barnett drove down the lane for a layup that sent New York in front 88-87 with 2:44 remaining in the game. The lead lasted exactly 10 seconds before Monroe's soft jumper from the key put Baltimore in front for good at 89-88. Carter's 19-foot for a 93-89 lead proved to be the decisive basket as the Knicks could only muster Frazier's field goal that provided the final score.

Dave DeBusschere's shot with 33 seconds remaining and Bradley's off-balanced attempt were the Knicks' dying gasps.

"It was a heck of a struggle and it was remarkable we were able to win with Gus Johnson

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Not too long ago, I gave a fellow a citation for using two rods while fishing in San Pablo Bay.. Let's say his name is "Paul" just to protect the innocent. At the time, I noticed that he gave his occupation as "restaurant owner."

He questioned me about the penalties for this type of violation, but all I could tell him was that the minimum fine was $25. A few days later, one of the waiters from his restaurant stopped to see Mary, my wife, at the Woodacre Post Office where she's the postmaster. He was relaying a message, so he said, from his boss, Paul, to both Mary and me! The message was that Paul was serving some excellent martinis at the restaurant, using the best beefeater's Gin, at the nominal price of $25 per drink, and that Mary and I should drop by! (The price wasn't right, so we stayed home!)

A few days later, I was coming into one of San Rafael's harbors in a patrol boat (unmarked) to a new berth, when suddenly there's Paul who readily assists in docking the boat. I said, "Hello, Paul." For a minute, he was uncertain as to who I was, but then suddenly recognition hit home! He just said, "Oh, no!" The new berth was right next to his! After recovering his composure, he remarked that the price of the martinis had dropped to $15 per, which I correctly guessed had been the amount of his fine. He asked me about this, but I said I had recommended the $25! (The $15.00 fine is a minor mystery as yet unsolved!) We dropped the thing there.

A couple of days ago, it was Mary's birthday — her 38th. I asked her about going out for dinner, and of course, she wanted to go to "you-know-who's" restaurant! I called Norm and Georgia Quadros of Mill Valley and away the four of us went. No reservations, and Paul (who met us at the door) almost wouldn't let us in! I finally waved my finger at him, which he evidently took as a warning so we got in. The dinner was excellent, and Dave, the waiter, came along with a bottle of wine on the house from the boss, Paul. Dave, who is a devil, wanted me to taste the wine, pound the table, and then reject the stuff!

Mary and Georgia said they would spend the rest of the night in the ladies room if we did that, so to keep the peace, we just laughed. Paul, who misses nothing, immediately wanted to know what we were up to with his waiter. For a laugh I told him what we had been contemplating. He suggested then, that we walk out without tipping Dave if we really wanted some fun. And that's the way the night went. Before leaving, I told Paul that it was Mary's birthday. You know what he said to Mary? "You look very good for 38, but if you were married to a Frenchman, you would look even better." (I think he's looking for another Fish and Game chit!)

But then, here comes the waiter with a nice cake and their one-man orchestra playing "Happy Birthday." What can one say? Well, finally all of this had to come to an end, so I asked for the tab. As I pulled a few bills out to make payment, Paul says "It's really nice to see your money!"

Of course, you should be able to guess by now just how much the bill was for Mary and me. Yep, just $15. Do you think this was some kind of a message?

HAVE YOU seen the May Playboy Magazine? There's an article called "Scuba-Do" with some excellent underwater photography, all taken by my son, Al. I have oftentimes felt that I was in the wrong business. Never has it been brought so close to home before!

DON'T FORGET to get your tickets for the Ducks Unlimited (of Marin) annual spring dinner dance at the Marin Country Club in Novato, April 24. No host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 8 o'clock. The host, Walter Freitas, would like your R.S.V.P. at the Western Sports Shop, San Rafael, or call Mrs. Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael.

You'll have to fish by instinct this week for I have nothing further to say.

Philly Salutes Frazier

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Joe Frazier learned his first boxing lessons at a Police Athletic League ring in the heart of the North Philadelphia poverty pocket.

Frazier learned the lessons well and went on to win the undisputed world heavyweight crown March 8 in a Madison Square Garden bout with Cassius Clay.

The nation's fourth largest city took time out Monday to honor Frazier, an adopted son.

The fighter, a native of Beaufort, S.C., received a city hall salute and was the star of the show in a downtown motorcade to mark his heavyweight championship.

Mayor James H.J. Tate proclaimed it "Joe Frazier Day."

Frazier, wearing a light brown suit, gold shirt, brown tie and tan boots, fought his way through a traffic jam, sparked by a citywide transit strike, to arrive for the city hall ceremony 30 minutes late. His wife, Florence, and four of their five children, accompanied the champ.

The boxer received a plaque from Tate and a life membership in the Police Athletic League. Tate recalled the city first honored Frazier when he won the Olympic championship in 1964 and broke his hand.

"I can recall that at the time Joe was a rather shy champion and he was very self-conscious of the big cast he carried on his broken left hand," Tate said.

FIVE AMONG TOP 10 BATTERS

Novato Nine Dominating League

By David Einstein

A quick glance at the Marin County Athletic League's list of top 10 batters through the first two weeks of the baseball season testifies to what is also obvious from the team standings: Novato High School is closing the door on the rest of the league.

The Hornets, undefeated in four games, claim half the top 10 spots, with junior outfielder Bill Busher leading the way. He leads the league in runs scored with six, and has seven hits in 12 trips to the plate for a .583 mark.

The MCAL's leading hitter is Drake's Alan Curtiss, a transfer shortstop from Santa Monica. Although he has played in one game fewer than anyone else on the list, he has six hits, which in 10 at bats puts him at .600. Like Busher, he is a junior.

San Rafael has three players among the top 10, and Terra Linda has one, Bill Sherbert. That completes the list with only half of the league's eight teams represented.

THE LAW of averages suggests that if one team has all the hitters, there must be another team with no hitters. That would be the San Marin Mustangs. In four games, they have a total of 11 hits, and only one player, Rich Burden, has two hits in a game.

IT DIDN'T have any adverse effect on their performance, but the Novato squad underwent a quiet change of coaching last week. Principal Stanley Onderdonk fired head coach Bob Aune, and replaced him with assistant Bob Acoune. Aune currently is teaching at Santa Rosa Junior College, and since going there at the beginning of this semester has been listed at Novato as an assistant coach. So, according to Onderdonk, Acoune has been the head man all season. It was Aune, however, who ran the team up until last week.

SOMEBODY UP there doesn't like Marin Catholic coach Gary Hughes. He has seen his last two games rained out, and the one last Friday night against Drake really hit him where it hurts - right in the pocketbook. That's because the proceeds from Marin's night games at Albert Park are being used in part to help pay for the team's spiffy new uniforms (the road rags are robin-egg blue).

IF THE TERM "class" can be applied to high school ball, the MCAL is overflowing with it, as evidenced by the league's newest inovation - bat girls. These picturesque additions to the diamond perform all sorts of sundry activities, some related to the game. They retrieve bats of course, but they also sweep off the bases and kiss the umpires. Now, that's the way to fix a game!

Redwood and Drake started using girls this year, and the novelty has caught on. Marin Catholic will probably be the next team to dress up the dugout with something warmer than a warmup jacket.

JUNE 18 has been set as the date for the second annual MCAL, North-South all star game, to be played at Albert Park. Last year the Knights of Columbus - sponsored game drew more than 2,000 fans, who personally established a college scholarship fund as the North (Terra Linda, Novato, San Rafael and San Marin), edged the South (Redwood, Tamalpais, Drake and Marin Catholic), 3-2. The players for this year's game, i.e. the top seniors in the league, will be nominated by the coaches, headed by Marin Catholic's Hughes.

Final Entrants For Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The field for the 1971 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race apparently is complete at 76 cars.

Eight entries with postmarks prior to the April 15 midnight deadline arrived Monday, and a spokesman for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway said those probably would be the last. Only 33 cars will be allowed to start in the May 29 classic.

Farm System Key To Giant Success

Garry Schumacher is the kind of press agent newspapermen admire. Schumacher never bothers reporters with silly ideas to puff his clients.

Without Schumacher his clients, the Giants, would get their share of space in the sports pages. With him they get more than their just due. The reason is that Schumacher thoroughly understands a feature when he sees one.

SCHUMACHER WAS a newspaperman for 25 years before Horace Stoneham hired him away from the old New York Journal. That was in 1945. Schumacher was the best baseball writer in New York and now he is the best press agent in the major leagues.

It would seem that after half a century in baseball, 25 as a writer and 25 as a press agent, Schumacher might run out of story ideas. But at 70 he actually is sharper at spotting features.

Take, for example, opening day in Candlestick Park. Schumacher was sitting between a couple of writers in the press box when the Giants got Gaylord Perry five runs in the second inning.

"THAT'S MORE than enough for Perry," said Schumacher. "See you later. I got an idea. If the record books bear it out, I'll be back."

While Perry was shutting out the Padres 5-0 on a three-hitter, Schumacher checked the records and returned to the press box at the end of the game with a neatly typed release entitled:

"A bow to Carl Hubbell, Jack Schwarz and their scouts in the Giants' Farm System."

Hubbell, director of the Giants' farm clubs, and Schwarz, the executive secretary who directs Giants' scouts, were, indeed, entitled to take a bow.

EVERY YEAR since the Giants moved to the Golden Gate in 1958, their Farm System has produced one or more players for the big club. And Schumacher not only documented that fact in his release but pointed out that every Giant in the 1971 opening day lineup was a Farm System graduate — Bobby Bonds, Chris Speier, Willie Mays, Willie McCovey, Ken MXNDERSON, Dick Dietz, Alan Gallagher, Hal Lanier and Perry.

Here is a list of the Giants' Farm System graduates:

SCHUMACHER DIDN'T stop there. He even researched the records for a list of Giants' Farm System graduates now populating both American and National Leagues:

Ron Herbel, Atlanta; Orlando Cepeda, Atlanta; Bill Hands, Cubs; Randy Hundley, Cubs; Jay Alou, Houston; Tom Haller, Dodgers; Manny Mota, Dodgers; Dave Marshall, Mets; Jose Pagan, Pirates; Matty Alou, Cardinals; Frank Linzy, Cardinals; Jose Cardenal, Cardinals; Bob Burda, Cardinals; Bob Barton, Padres; Don Mason, Padres; Ollie Brown, Padres; Felipe Alou, Yankees; Cesar Gutierrez, Tigers.

Yes, Schumacher is the kind of press agent newspapermen, especially columnists, admire. When he retires baseball writers covering the Giants will have to go to work.

Virginia Takes Lead In ABA Playoff Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Virginia Squires had one Scott too many for the Kentucky Colonels Monday night.

Charlie Scott, the Squires' brilliant rookie, and veteran Ray Scott each tallied 30 points to help Virginia beat Kentucky 150-137 and give the Squires a 2-1 lead in their American Basketball Association Eastern Division final playoff.

The Western Division final playoff continues tonight at Salt Lake City where the Stars entertain the Indiana Pacers. Utah currently holds a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The Virginia-Kentucky contest produced an ABA record for most personal fouls in one game as the officials whistled a total of 79 infractions. Seven players fouled out of the game, including Kentucky's Dan Issel who led the Colonels with 27 points.

Charlie Scott pumped in seven of his points during a nine-point Squire streak that saw Virginia break away from a 120-120 tie in the final quarter.

The series resumes Wednesday night at Louisville with the fifth game scheduled for Hampton, Va., Friday night.

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States Military Academy Monday ended its search for a basketball coach to replace Bobby Knight by hiring Dan Dougherty, an assistant at Villanova since 1966. Knight resigned last month to accept the head coaching job at Indiana.

The Tars had a chance to deal the Bear Cubs another blow when they met this afternoon in Santa Rosa.

Vic Petreshen's boys staged their uprising in the seventh with the benefit of only three hits. Doubles by Jim Peters and Bob Sutherland netted three runs, and Dee Fedrick singled home Roger Offenbach with the tie breaker. Fedrick scored the eventual winning run on a delayed double steal, with Mike Parnow going to second and drawing a throw.

Santa Rosa fell apart completely that inning, contributing three errors, two walks, a hit batter and a passed ball.

Chris Roland and Stu Kneeland pitched the last four innings in relief of Marin starter Dennis Bueler, and Kneeland got credit for the win. Both relievers had seen little work this season and were successful in shutting the door on the Bear Cubs, who had gotten to Bueler for five runs through the fifth.

MAJOR LEAGUES

Home Run Costs Lee The Game

I-J Special Report

Former Terra Linda High School star Bill Lee got his first decision of the year for the Boston Red Sox yesterday, but it was one he'd rather forget.

The tall southpaw served up a home run pitch to Cleveland's Roy Foster in the 13th inning that produced two runs and gave the Indians a 5-4 victory.

Lee, the fifth Boston pitcher, had yielded a walk to Graig Nettles prior to Foster's blow. It was the only walk he issued while striking out four in two innings work.

In the only other American League game yesterday, Minnesota edged Kansas City, 9-8. Meanwhile in the National League, San Francisco downed St. Louis, 4-2, and Los Angeles edged San Diego, 3-2.

Billy Grabarkewitz' bases-loaded double in the eighth inning drove in two runs to give Los Angeles the victory over San Diego. Willie Davis and Wes Parker singled and, after a sacrifice by Richie Allen and an intentional walk, Grabarkewitz unloaded his game-winning double off reliever Al Severinsen.

Boston outfielder Reggie Smith injured his knee before the game when he banged it against the stands while trying to prevent an unidentified girl —about 10 or 11—from being hit with a flyball. He had to leave the game in the eighth because of the injury and his replacement, George Thomas, went 0-for-3 and stranded the tying run on third in the last of the 13th.

Harmon Killebrew drove in six runs with a homer, single and an infield out as Minnesota built up a 9-0 lead and then held on for the one-run victory over Kansas City. The loss broke a six-game Twins losing streak.

"I think we've been hitting the ball well," Killebrew said, "but before today, we just haven't been getting the hits in the right spots."

Jim Kaat was staked to the 9-0 lead but he failed to survive the fifth inning when the Royals scored seven runs, four on Bob Oliver's grand slam. Steve Barber got the victory in relief and Ron Perranoski finished up.

Shue told Monroe to take charge and "that we were going with him right down to the buzzer." Monroe responded with his recently acquired "Gung Ho" attitude that first destroyed Philadelphia's playoff hopes and then vanquished the Knicks. He expects to continue in the same fashion against Milwaukee.

it this year. All I want is another chance."

Dick Dietz, Bryant's batterymate Monday, and Bobby Bonds took care of getting the Giants the runs they needed for their 12th victory of the season against only two losses—the best record in the majors this year.

Dietz, a big slugger last year, hasn't had much of a start this year. In Monday's game he drove in single runs in the first and third with singles for a two-for-three day while Bonds, who has been whacking away without restraint, drilled his fifth homer. San Francisco's other run came on a bases-loaded walk to George Foster.

After concluding their work against the Cards on Wednesday the Giants will embark on their first long road trip of the year, playing nine games in 13 days before they return to Candlestick on May 4.

Cowens, Petrie Tie For Rookie Of Year Honors

New York (UPI)—Dave Cowens of Boston and Geoff Petrie of Portland, two players who didn't make the All-America college team but became surprise stars in the pros, finished in a tie for the National Basketball Association Rookie of the Year award.

In the balloting announced today, Cowens and Petrie each received 36 votes from sportswriters and sportscasters in the 17 league cities.

Pete Maravich, who had problems adjusting to the pro style of play after being the leading scorer in college at Louisiana State for three straight years, finished third with 21 votes. Calvin Murphy of San Diego got four votes and Bob Lanier of Detroit had just one.

Cowens and Petrie were the first players ever to tie for the award which was inaugurated in 1953 and has been won by such stars as Elgin Baylor (1959), Wilt Chamberlain (1960, Oscar Robertson (1961), Willis Reed (1965), Rick Barry (1966), Earl Monroe (1968), Wes Unseld (1969) and Lew Alcindor (1970).

Petrie was a college star at Princeton but seldom got much recognition outside of Ivy League ranks. He also had the disadvatange of playing for Portland, an expansion team. But he became the seventh rookie in NBA history to score more than 2,000 points as his 2,031 ranked him seventh in the league with a 24.8 average.

"The whole year was unbelievable," Petrie said, "I couldn't have dreamed it any better."

He admitted he was "surprised, really surprised" that he tied for the rookie award. "I thought Cowens might get it because he got off to such a great start."

Cowens played his college ball at Florida State and he had the sizeable task of playing the center spot that was occupied on the Celtics for 13 years by Bill Russell. At 6-foot-8 1-2, he also gives away many inches to most of the other centers in the league but he made up for his lack of height with hustle.

And his spirited play was one of the main reasons why the Celts improved by 10 games this season. They were 44-38 this year compared to 34-48 last year when they first had to adjust to Russell's absence.

Athletics To Open Series With Angels

ANAHEIM (UPI) — A key American League West series opens tonight when the second place Oakland Athletics take on the front-running California Angels.

The Oakland club is 9-5 on the season while the Angels are 8-4. Only 24 percentage points separate the two teams. Tom Murphy (1-1) is scheduled to pitch for the Angels against the A's Jim "Catfish" Hunter, (0-2).

The A's tried to strengthen their chances Monday be recalling pitcher Marchel Lachemann from Iowa of the American Association and sending down rookie Jim Panther, who had pitched in relief three times.

A's pilot Dick Williams said that he wanted Panther to get regular pitching assignments while the veteran Lachemann would be more effective in spot assignments.

"There are three teams picked in our division, he says in reference to the Twins, Angels and A's. "We've already beaten one — the Twins. We think we are better than the other," he said.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

How Institutions Affect The Market

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. A while back you mentioned a study being made of the effects of institutional trading on the stock market. Has that report been finished and if so what were the conclusions? — G.C.

A. This 3,400-page report was sent to Congress for study last month. The writers concluded that although institutions controlled assets of $714 billion — 44 per cent in common stock — there appeared to be no strong evidence that stock prices were being unduly influenced.

Institutions studied, in order of assets controlled, included: employee benefit plans, insurance companies, personal trusts, mutual funds and investment companies, personal advisory accounts, foundations and endowment funds. Trading by these groups was not associated with major market swings nor has it "impaired price stability in the market."

While the study contended that market domination is not a present threat, institutions are increasing their share of equity ownership. Thus the SEC report recommended that rules covering disclosure be tightened. It was suggested that money managers be required to report transactions if aggregate holdings under their supervision represent 5 per cent of a company's outstanding stock.

Other major recommendations included: elimination of fixed commission rates on portions of transactions exceeding $500,000; rules requiring that "offshore funds" be subject to SEC regulation; require standardized periodic reports by financial institutions and revise incentive plans for money managers to penalize poor performances in addition to rewarding success.

Q...I hold 100 shares of Commercial Solvents and 50 Tool Research and need income. Should I sell and invest in certificates of deposit? — M. G.

A. My advice would be to sell Commercial Solvents and hold Tool Research. The former has reported consistently lower earnings over the last 6 years whereas the latter has been in an operating uptrend.

Funds realized from the sale of Commercial Solvents would return — depending on your geographic location — 5½ to 6 per cent if invested in two-year certificates of deposit.

Climb Ends, Stocks Dip On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — Profit taking leaned on the stock market Tuesday after two weeks of sharp advances. Turnover was fairly heavy.

Of the 1,688 issues crossing the tape, 928 declined and 484 advanced.

Despite the generally constructive news background, one Wall Street analyst said "the possibilities of a corrective or consolidation phase seem to outweigh the likelihood of a significant extension of the recent advance."

Much of the long term optimism in the investment community stems from expectations of a better economy and belief that corporate earnings will show marked improvement in the second half of the year.

Electronics and oils traded in both directions, while steels, motors and chemicals moved narrowly.

Windy city? It's a breeze.

At 8:40 a.m. United takes off. Nonstop to Chicago. At 9:00 a.m., TWA takes off. Nonstop to Chicago. And United takes off again at 11:30 a.m. a.m. Nonstop to Chicago.

And they bring you back the same way. Nonstop. What's more, you'll save a lot of time driving, and parking, and getting to your plane after you park. Because Oakland is the closest airport to most North Bay cities. Ask your travel agent. Or call the Fly Oakland Girl, ENterprise 1-2422 for reservations and information.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Not too long ago, I gave a fellow a citation for using two rods while fishing in San Pablo Bay. Let's say his name is "Paul" just to protect the innocent. At the time, I noticed that he gave his occupation as "restaurant owner."

He questioned me about the penalties for this type of violation, but all I could tell him was that the minimum fine was $25. A few days later, one of the waiters from his restaurant stopped to see Mary, my wife, at the Woodacre Post Office where she's the postmaster. He was relaying a message, so he said, from his boss, Paul, to both Mary and me! The message was that Paul was serving some excellent martinis at the restaurant, using the best beefeater's Gin, at the nominal price of $25 per drink, and that Mary and I should drop by! (The price wasn't right, so we stayed home!)

A few days later, I was coming into one of San Rafael's harbors in a patrol boat (unmarked) to a new berth, when suddenly there's Paul who readily assists in docking the boat. I said, "Hello, Paul." For a minute, he was uncertain as to who I was, but then suddenly recognition hit home! He just said, "Oh, no!" The new berth was right next to his! After recovering his composure, he remarked that the price of the martinis had dropped to $15 per, which I correctly guessed had been the amount of his fine. He asked me about this, but I said I had recommended the $25! (The $15.00 fine is a minor mystery as yet unsolved!) We dropped the thing there.

A couple of days ago, it was Mary's birthday — her 38th. I asked her about going out for dinner, and of course, she wanted to go to "you-know-who's" restaurant! I called Norm and Georgia Quadros of Mill Valley and away the four of us went. No reservations, and Paul (who met us at the door) almost wouldn't let us in! I finally waved my finger at him, which he evidently took as a warning so we got in. The dinner was excellent, and Dave, the waiter, came along with a bottle of wine on the house from the boss, Paul. Dave, who is a devil, wanted me to taste the wine, pound the table, and then reject the stuff!

Mary and Georgia said they would spend the rest of the night in the ladies room if we did that, so to keep the peace, we just laughed. Paul, who misses nothing, immediately wanted to know what we were up to with his waiter. For a laugh I told him what we had been contemplating. He suggested then, that we walk out without tipping Dave if we really wanted some fun. And that's the way the night went. Before leaving, I told Paul that it was Mary's birthday. You know what he said to Mary? "You look very good for 38, but if you were married to a Frenchman, you would look even better." (I think he's looking for another Fish and Game chit!)

But then, here comes the waiter with a nice cake and their one-man orchestra playing "Happy Birthday." What can one say? Well, finally all of this had to come to an end, so I asked for the tab. As I pulled a few bills out to make payment, Paul says "It's really nice to see your money!"

Of course, you should be able to guess by now just how much the bill was for Mary and me. Yep, just $15. Do you think this was some kind of a message?

HAVE YOU seen the May Playboy Magazine? There's an article called "Scuba-Do" with some excellent underwater photography, all taken by my son, Al. I have oftentimes felt that I was in the wrong business. Never has it been brought so close to home before!

DON'T FORGET to get your tickets for the Ducks Unlimited (of Marin) annual spring dinner dance at the Marin Country Club in Novato, April 24. No host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 8 o'clock. The host, Walter Freitas, would like your R.S.V.P. at the Western Sports Shop, San Rafael, or call Mrs. Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael.

You'll have to fish by instinct this week for I have nothing further to say.

Philly Salutes Frazier

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Joe Frazier learned his first boxing lessons at a Police Athletic League ring in the heart of the North Philadelphia poverty pocket.

Frazier learned the lessons well and went on to win the undisputed world heavyweight crown March 8 in a Madison Square Garden bout with Cassius Clay.

The nation's fourth largest city took time out Monday to honor Frazier, an adopted son.

The fighter, a native of Beaufort, S.C., received a city hall salute and was the star of the show in a downtown motorcade to mark his heavyweight championship.

Frazier, wearing a light brown suit, gold shirt, brown tie and tan boots, fought his way through a traffic jam, sparked by a citywide transit strike, to arrive for the city hall ceremony 30 minutes late. His wife, Florence, and four of their five children, accompanied the champ.

The boxer received a plaque from Tate and a life membership in the Police Athletic League. Tate recalled the city first honored Frazier when he won the Olympic championship in 1964 and broke his hand.

"I can recall that at the time Joe was a rather shy champion and he was very self-conscious of the big cast he carried on his broken left hand," Tate said.

FIVE AMONG TOP 10 BATTERS

Novato Nine Dominating League

By David Einstein

A quick glance at the Marin County Athletic League's list of top 10 batters through the first two weeks of the baseball season testifies to what is also obvious from the team standings: Novato High School is closing the door on the rest of the league.

The Hornets, undefeated in four games, claim half the top 10 spots, with junior outfielder Bill Busher leading the way. He leads the league in runs scored with six, and has seven hits in 12 trips to the plate for a .583 mark.

The MCAL's leading hitter is Drake's Alan Curtiss, a transfer shortstop from Santa Monica. Although he has played in one game fewer than anyone else on the list, he has six hits, which in 10 at bats puts him at .600. Like Busher, he is a junior.

San Rafael has three players among the top 10, and Terra Linda has one, Bill Sherbert. That completes the list with only half of the league's eight teams represented.

THE LAW of averages suggests that if one team has all the hitters, there must be another team with no hitters. That would be the San Marin Mustangs. In four games, they have a total of 11 hits, and only one player, Rich Burden, has two hits in a game.

IT DIDN'T have any adverse effect on their performance, but the Novato squad underwent a quiet change of coaching last week. Principal Stanley Onderdonk fired head coach Bob Aune, and replaced him with assistant Bob Acoune. Aune currently is teaching at Santa Rosa Junior College, and since going there at the beginning of this semester has been listed at Novato as an assistant coach. So, according to Onderdonk, Acoune has been the head man all season. It was Aune, however, who ran the team up until last week.

SOMEBODY UP there doesn't like Marin Catholic coach Gary Hughes. He has seen his last two games rained out, and the one last Friday night against Drake really hit him where it hurts - right in the pocketbook. That's because the proceeds from Marin's night games at Albert Park are being used in part to help pay for the team's spiffy new uniforms (the road rags are robin-egg blue).

IF THE TERM "class" can be applied to high school ball, the MCAL is overflowing with it, as evidenced by the league's newest inovation - bat girls. These picturesque additions to the diamond perform all sorts of sundry activities, some related to the game. They retrieve bats of course, but they also sweep off the bases and kiss the umpires. Now, that's the way to fix a game!

Redwood and Drake started using girls this year, and the novelty has caught on. Marin Catholic will probably be the next team to dress up the dugout with something warmer than a warmup jacket.

JUNE 18 has been set as the date for the second annual MCAL, North-South all star game, to be played at Albert Park. Last year the Knights of Columbus - sponsored game drew more than 2,000 fans, who personally established a college scholarship fund as the North (Terra Linda, Novato, San Rafael and San Marin), edged the South (Redwood, Tamalpais, Drake and Marin Catholic), 3-2. The players for this year's game, i.e. the top seniors in the league, will be nominated by the coaches, headed by Marin Catholic's Hughes.

Final Entrants For Indy 500

Eight entries with postmarks prior to the April 15 midnight deadline arrived Monday, and a spokesman for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway said those probably would be the last. Only 33 cars will be allowed to start in the May 29 classic.

Three Marinites Score In Contest

Three Marin County men have been named winners in the 12th Annual Bay Counties Carpenter-Mill Cabinet-Millwright Apprentice Competition in San Francisco.

Winning first place Saturday in the carpenters' category was Sam Krummes of 821 Sweetser Avenue, Novato, employed at H.S. Meinberger and Sons of San Rafael.

Krummes, a member of San Rafael Carpenters Union Local 35, is the fourth apprentice from the San Rafael local to win top honors in the last five years.

Douglas Waterhouse of Novato won in 1969; Kenneth Becker of San Rafael, who served as a judge this year, won in 1968, and Robert Ruzick of Novato won in 1967.

Second place in carpenters' competition was awarded to William Morris of Point Reyes Station, an employee of Plant Brothers of San Francisco.

Both men were required to build a dog house, lay out and cut a series of intricate rafters and display other skills in the eight hour contest.

First place in cabinetmaking was awarded to Jack E. Miller of 29 Brookdale Avenue, San Rafael.

Miller, a fourth year apprentice, is employed at Hardwood Design of Northgate Industrial Park, San Rafael.

He won for his freestanding cabinet with adjustable shelves.

The competition, staged at the Stonestown Shopping Center Mall and the arts and industrial building at San Francisco State College, was entered by 16 apprentice finalists from around the Bay Area.

It was sponsored by the San Francisco Carpenters Joint Apprentice Committee and was coordinated by Jimps Wilcox of 224 Ridgeway Avenue, Fairfax.

The competition leads to the state finals later this year in San Diego. All three Marinites will compete there with winners traveling to Detroit in August for international competition.

Pair Held, In Burglary, Pot Cases

A 19-year-old Forest Knolls youth was arrested yesterday on suspicion of burglary, possession of stolen property, possession of marijuana and cultivating the weed. A 17-year-old companion was arrested on suspicion of possessing and growing pot.

Sheriff's deputies said Robert Scott Morey and Nancy Jane Hayden, both of 6850 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, were arrested after drug abuse agents and San Anselmo police went to the home with a warrant alleging that Morey burglarized a garage in San Anselmo earlier this month.

Once inside the home, officers said, they noticed a marijuana plant growing in a bedroom. Further investigation discovered a suspected lid of marijuana, 50 suspected marijuana cigarette butts in a bottle and stereo equipment believed stolen.

Morey's arrest stems from the April 9 burglary of the garage at the home of Robert D. Dawson, 128 Alder Avenue. An auto seen leaving the scene was traced to Morey, officers said.

Morey remained in Marin County Jail in lieu of $1,875 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Miss Hayden was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall.

First Lady Tells Of Movie Days In Old Hollywood

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pat Nixon helped pay her way through college by working as a Hollywood extra in the 1930s, but she turned down a movie career because she wanted to finish her schooling.

The First Lady spoke of her work in movies and the contract offers she received in an interview in McCall's magazine released Monday.

"I wanted to finish my education," Mrs. Nixon said. "This meant more to me than quick money, and I didn't think I could go very far."

Mrs. Nixon said she worked in the movies "Becky Sharp," "The Great Ziegfeld," and "Small Town Girl," the last with Robert Taylor.

Mrs. Nixon said she had a secret crush on Taylor—"I really eyed him"—and about 25 years later she and her husband met Taylor in California.

"I told him this, and we had a good laugh," she said.

Cambodia's Lon Nol, Cabinet Quit

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian Prime Minister Lon Nol, who helped lead the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk and then suffered a disabling stroke, resigned today along with his entire cabinet.

Lon Nol's brother, Col. Lon Non, said the resignation was little more than a formality and probably would not be accepted.

Political sources said Lon Nol and his cabinet submitted their resignations at the office of chief of state Chen Heng today. However, there was no immediate official announcement.

Lon Nol and Cheng Heng led the bloodless coup of neutralist Prince Norodom Sihanouk March 18, 1970. Sihanouk was out of the country at the time and has since set up a government in exile in Communist China.

On Feb. 8 Lon Nol suffered a stroke. He later went to a U.S. military hospital in Hawaii for treatment and returned to Cambodia several weeks ago. But he never fully recovered from the effects of the stroke.

Col. Lon Non told UPI "the majority of his (Lon Nol's) friends, including military men, civilians, youth and religious personalities do not wish him to resign. They have submitted a motion to the chief of state asking him not to accept the resignations and to request Lon Nol and Ge, Sirik Matak to stay on and form another government."

Gen. Sisowath Sirik Matak, who served as deputy prime minister under Lon Nol, took over administration of the government following the prime minister's illness.

Lon Nol said it would not be known until Wednesday or possibly even Thursday what Cheng Heng would do about the resignation, but there was every expectation that he would not accept it and would ask Lon Nol and Sirik Matak to stay on.

Lon Non said the reason for the resignation of the government lay solely in the requirements of the Cambodian constitution and there was no question of his health involved.

Auto Taken

Someone took his 1957 Chevrolet, license COE-550, between 11:30 a.m. and 1:40 p.m. yesterday from where he had parked it in front of 745 Second Street, San Rafael, Ray O. Fields of Santa Rosa, reported to police.

Hopes For Financing Park Projects Fade

Novato Parks and Recreation Commission's hopes for a 30-cent override tax rate to finance parks faded last night and a bond issue loomed.

City councilmen and commissioners, in joint session, looked at a proposed five-year $1 million capital improvement program for parks, which would add 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation to the tax rate, and saw a money problem.

Commissioners pushed for an aggressive program by the city to purchase and develop park land, but Councilmen J. Wayne Womack and Wayne Sartain balked at the tax bite.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said in view of council comments he would propose a capital improvements program for one year and a bond issue "to go to the voters within one year."

Voters rejected two bond proposals last year, $2,365,000 for parks and $600,000 for a community recreation center.

Womack said the council had to consider the tax levy for parks and recreation in relationship with the entire city budget. The current rate for parks and recreation is now 26 cents per $100 assessed valuation, and adding 30 cents would bring it to the point where it would represent about 40 per cent of the entire city tax levy, he said.

Commissioners agreed that large land purchases or major developments such as a community recreation center would have to be financed by a bond issue.

Commission chairman Martin C. White said the $276,000 in the program, earmarked for purchase of the San Marin Club, since sold to a private group, could be used for land acquisition.

Councilmen and commissioners, looked toward the proposed bedroom tax on new development as an aid toward financing park and recreation activities.

Adams estimated the proposed tax, $75 for the first bedroom and $15 for each additional bedroom, would bring in from $60,000 to $90,000 a year.

Another financial help would be if the Novato Unified School District levied its full community services tax override rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation and participated in development of school grounds, Adams said.

The council adjourned to a closed session at 9 a.m. Saturday at Novato Community House to review the applications of nine persons for the vacant seat on the council.

Commissioner Dr. John Kassenbrock was absent.

3,000 Can Expect Returns To Be Audited

Approximately 3,000 Marin County taxpayers can expect to have their 1970 income tax returns audited by the Internal Revenue Service.

These returns are not picked at random from the approximately 78,000 returns but are those which do not meet all the checks, said Frank A. Busalacchi public information officer for the service.

The first screening looks for all the necessary information. Mathematics are checked next on a computer. The computer spots most of the trouble in the return, Busalacchi said.

A team of employees then goes over these returns to decide whether or not to give them further scrutiny. The Internal Revenue Service may want to check receipts to support exemption claims.

In auditing returns, the Internal Revenue Service has the most trouble with persons throwing away their receipts. These should be kept for three years, he said.

Boys Held In Purse Theft Probe

Two runaway Sacramento boys were arrested yesterday on suspicion of stealing a Corte Madera woman's purse from a laundry at the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Corte Madera police said today Michael Allen Mullenix and Michael Andrew Nolan, both 15 and of Mather Air Force Base, were picked up at 10:20 a.m. by Larkspur police an hour after the theft.

Bertha Lopez of 439 Manzanita Avenue told officers she saw the youths take her purse containing $80 from a table at the laundry and gave chase.

Officers said Mrs. Lopez caught the two in a nearby parking lot, recovered her handbag, and then let them go. Not until she returned to the laundry did she discover a smaller purse containing the $80 was missing from the handbog.

The two youths, when picked up in Larkspur, were carrying about $35 each and led police to the small purse containing another $9 hidden near Neil Cummins School.

The two youths were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall.

SYMPATHETIC RESCUE

A Day In The Life Of Your Friendly Fireman

If a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, what are two birds in the window worth?

To the Sausalito Fire Department, they're worth one man and 15 minutes.

Firemen received a call at 6:32 a.m. today from a distraught woman that a bird was caught between the glass and the screen of her front window.

Fireman Jerry Roxberg responed to the home of Christina Olsen at 38 Water Street, where he found not one, but two trapped sparrows.

After calming Miss Olsen, Roxberg spent the next 15 minutes catching the elusive creatures.

"It was a big window," said another fireman, "and the birds kept flying to the top and then back down again."

Finally, Roxberg accomplished the seemingly impossible mission and released the sparrows.

"We don't usually respond like this," said a fireman, "but when they come early in the morning or late at night we try our best. People get upset more easily at times like that."

The Bank of America officers who were re-elected are Samuel B. Stewart, senior vice chairman of Bank of America; Kenneth W. Larkin, senior vice president; John A. Dillon, vice president; Jerry G. South, vice president-office of the president, and Donald R. McBride, president of Bankamerica Service Corp.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

How Institutions Affect The Market

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. A while back you mentioned a study being made of the effects of institutional trading on the stock market. Has that report been finished and if so what were the conclusions? — G.C.

A. This 3,400-page report was sent to Congress for study last month. The writers concluded that although institutions controlled assets of $714 billion — 44 per cent in common stock — there appeared to be no strong evidence that stock prices were being unduly influenced.

Institutions studied, in order of assets controlled, included: employee benefit plans, insurance companies, personal trusts, mutual funds and investment companies, personal advisory accounts, foundations and endowment funds. Trading by these groups was not associated with major market swings nor has it "impaired price stability in the market."

While the study contended that market domination is not a present threat, institutions are increasing their share of equity ownership. Thus the SEC report recommended that rules covering disclosure be tightened. It was suggested that money managers be required to report transactions if aggregate holdings under their supervision represent 5 per cent of a company's outstanding stock.

Other major recommendations included: elimination of fixed commission rates on portions of transactions exceeding $500,000; rules requiring that "offshore funds" be subject to SEC regulation; require standardized periodic reports by financial institutions and revise incentive plans for money managers to penalize poor performances in addition to rewarding success.

Q...I hold 100 shares of Commercial Solvents and 50 Tool Research and need income. Should I sell and invest in certificates of deposit? — M. G.

A. My advice would be to sell Commercial Solvents and hold Tool Research. The former has reported consistently lower earnings over the last 6 years whereas the latter has been in an operating uptrend.

Funds realized from the sale of Commercial Solvents would return — depending on your geographic location — 5½ to 6 per cent if invested in two-year certificates of deposit.

Climb Ends, Stocks Dip On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — Profit taking leaned on the stock market Tuesday after two weeks of sharp advances. Turnover was fairly heavy.

Of the 1,688 issues crossing the tape, 928 declined and 484 advanced.

Despite the generally constructive news background, one Wall Street analyst said "the possibilities of a corrective or consolidation phase seem to outweigh the likelihood of a significant extension of the recent advance."

Much of the long term optimism in the investment community stems from expectations of a better economy and belief that corporate earnings will show marked improvement in the second half of the year.

Electronics and oils traded in both directions, while steels, motors and chemicals moved narrowly.

Windy city? It's a breeze.

At 8:40 a.m. United takes off. Nonstop to Chicago. At 9:00 a.m., TWA takes off. Nonstop to Chicago. And United takes off again at 11:30 a.m. a.m. Nonstop to Chicago.

And they bring you back the same way. Nonstop. What's more, you'll save a lot of time driving, and parking, and getting to your plane after you park. Because Oakland is the closest airport to most North Bay cities. Ask your travel agent. Or call the Fly Oakland Girl, ENterprise 1-2422 for reservations and information.

Rocking The Boat Sometimes Does Good

The "boat rocker" sometimes serves a good purpose. It seems that rather often, somebody has to rock the boat before the captain will correct the course or patch the leaks.

Of course, there are boat rockers and boat rockers. There are those who like to rock the boat just to make waves, not being interested in having the sails set right or the leaks patched. But there are other who rock the boat for a purpose.

One of these who has done considerable good for a lot of us by his boat-rocking is Ralph Nader. Consumers (and we're all consumers) have a lot for which to thank the man whose "Nader's Raiders" have made boat rocking their business.

A MORE RECENT boat rocker whose wave-making may do some good is Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, San Mateo County's maverick Republican. McCloskey is a bitter critic of the United States' role in Southeast Asia. He is no draft-dodging dove; he served with distinction in the Marine Corps during the Korean War. But he sees little or no reason for the continued U.S. involvement in Indochina.

McCloskey really gave the boat a shake when he suggested to an audience of Stanford University students that it should be possible to discuss impeachment of President Nixon over theVietnam issue. He didn't suggest the President should be impeached; he just said it might be discussed. But that was enough.

He followed that up by saying that Republicans should be given a choice for President: that renomination of the incumbent should not be a foregone conclusion.

Someone, said McCloskey, should run against Nixon in next year's Republican primaries. And if no one else would, he would.

We don't think "Pete" McCloskey believes he has much chance to take the nomination away from Mr. Nixon. But this bit of boat-rocking accomplishes a purpose: It points up that just because a man is in office does not mean he is the best candidate his party can field.

ANOTHER BOAT ROCKER did some rocking last Friday that should set people thinking.

Ferney H. Stark Jr., president of Security National Bank of Walnut Creek, who is as much a maverick among bankers as McCloskey is among Republican politicians, suggested that heads of businesses should be jailed for failing to do anything about pollution.

"Throw a few chairmen of the board in jail for polluting the air and water, and you'll see pollution disappear quite rapidly," Stark told a meeting of the California Environmental Health Association in Oakland. "You'd also probably see some pretty drastic prison reforms."

Stark's thesis is that industry has the know-how to correct much of the pollution, and the obligation to use that know-how. And the responsibility, he holds, must be put on the heads of companies.

We think there is even less likelihood of board chairmen being jailed for polluting the air and water than there is of "Pete" McCloskey being nominated for President. But Stark's proposal may do some good. It may make some heads of industrial companies think a little harder about their responsibilities — just as Ralph Nader's boat rocking has done.

Controversy Abuilding

At an archaeological digging site in the Calico Mountains on the Mojave Desert, the biggest controversy about man's prehistory to surface in several decades is building steam.

If as some believe, it can be establihsed that the crudely chipped rocks found at this excavation site are primitive man-made implements, then the length of time man has been on this continent will have to be reassessed. How old the layers of the dig are is the subject of a second controversy. Some say over half a million years old.

Eminent scientists are lining up on both sides. We are likely to be hearing much about the Calico site as discussion becomes more heated. Next to a woman scorned, Hell hath no fury like a scientist whose theories and works are disputed.

Alternative To More Subsidies For Railroads: Public Ownership

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Having unloaded their passenger deficits on the public, the railroads are now back at the doors of Congress asking for annual subsidies, guaranteed loans and a few minor fringe benefits such as freedom from regulation. If you don't give us the money, they say, the railroads will collapse; and if that happens the government will have to take them over, and isn't that a frightful thought?

Well, we don't find it frightful, and we think public ownership should be calmly and rationally discussed as a possible alternative to public subsidy of private profits. If the railroads have reached a point where they must be bailed out by the taxpayers, then it is a legitimate question to ask why the beneficiary should not be the public instead of the bankers, stock brokers and managements that have brought the rails to their present pass.

Nationalization, we are told, would be the worst solution because among other things it would cost so much. But if the rails were bought out at their true uninflated value as measured by their own prophecies of imminent doom, the cost would not be excessive, and in any case would be financed by bonds to be paid off out of earnings. What is the difference between paying interest to the holders of private railroad bonds, and paying it to the holders of a public railroad corporation's bonds?

Or we are told that nearly all government-owned railroads — which is to say the railroads of every major industrial country except this one — operate at a deficit, as if there were something inherently shameful about them. But what is the difference between subsidizing rail transportation through a deficit, and subsidizing it through grants and loans and tax write-offs in order to squeeze out of it profits for private owners?

Or we are presented with the ancient myth that publicly owned enterprise is inevitably less efficient than private enterprise — an assumption not borne out by railroad experience in Europe and Japan, or by 25 years of impressive performance on the part of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Certainly converting the rails from a private to a public bureaucracy would not guarantee better performance; but neither would it guarantee bad performance. The line between private and public enterprise in our decidedly mixed economy is already so thin that stepping across it in one distressed sector of the economy can be fearlessly faced without ideological bias.

The railroads blame their troubles on excessive regulation. With somewhat different emphasis, we would say that the Interstate Commerce Commission has developed serious shortcomings as a mechanism for protecting the public interest. The answer, however, is not to abandon any protection at all but to strengthen it by other means.

The fundamental question is one of principle. If the railroads can be saved only by public subsidy and investment, why should not the public in exchange take ownership and control? . . . If the railroads cannot make it in the private sector, what is wrong with moving them unambiguously into the public sector, and operating them for public service rather than profit?

Marin Alternative Not Leftist Cult

I read with interest the "Vomit Squad" letter from R. C. Kesner in Wednesday's I-J. No doubt he is the same R. C. Kesner whose ballot argument against the Peace Referendum (Proposition A) last November led off with "Color this referendum red!" and went downhill from there.

To set the record straight the Marin Alternative, far from being a part of a "leftist cult", is a non-partisan political group aimed at improving local government at all levels. Over 600 Marin voters have joined Marin Alternative since it was founded last year.

The Marin Alternative has endorsed not two, but three candidates for the College of Marin Board — Frances Compton, Richard Beban, and James Kimo Campbell — because they were among the most articulate and knowledgeable candidates and would, together, provide a needed balance on the board.

In any event the Marin Alternative urges all I-J readers to go to the polls and vote for the candidates of their choice on Tuesday.

No Shouting Match, Says Councilman

I wish to compliment your young reporter, whose name I do not know, for generally accurate reporting of the Fairfax Council meeting of April 12. I believe it was the first time she has covered what is probably the most volatile city council in Marin. However, I take issue with one observation made.

This was the description of a "shouting match" between Councilman (Francis J.) O'Connell and myself which was front-page news on April 13. I don't shout and a review of the tapes of last Monday will reveal that I did not lose control of myself. I dislike being classed with an individual whose intolerance of others' opinions causes him to regularly shout his disagreements. The present Fairfax City Council can expect to be permanently "broken up" if these one-man tirades are permitted to continue.

I would like to add that the "strong audience support" for O'Connell during his verbal onslaught came from a pro-Festival group who, earlier in the evening, were unsuccessful in obtaining an affirmative vote for this year's planned event. As a long and consistent critic of some of the goings-on at the last Fairfax Festival (1969), I'm not surprised that I lack some popularity with its proponents.

Strip Mining Calls For Federal Control

Strip-mining has become the number one threat to our attempts to save a little beauty in the natural scene. Ernest Furgurson's column in your April 16 paper should be "must" reading for everyone. Suddenly, strip mining is spreading across our land and is no longer "something they do back in West Virginia and Kentucky." Twenty-six states have coal deposits which invite this practice, which is increasing alarmingly because of more stringent (and expensive) safety regulations for underground mining. The desolation this mining leaves behind turns peaceful beauty into barren moonscapes, causes mud slides and acid run-off that kill streams and lakes, tears whole mountains open, leaving irreparable brown gashes, causing ruination that should be unthinkable in this Age of Ecology.

We must write to the federal government, since the problem crosses state lines, and the mining interests have too strong a strangle-hold on state legislatures to permit regulations, so let Senators Alan Cranston and John Tunney, and Representatives Don Clausen and William Mailliard know how you feel about this.

Procedural Error Not 'Legal Nicety'

Regarding your article "Charges From Motel Drug Raid Booted", April 14, I wish to comment on your unfair editorializing (in what appears to be a news report) that the charges were dismissed because narcotic agents failed to carry out "a legal nicety". As a newspaper which has taken a strong interest in "law and order," you should know that the "nicety" you refer to is the law of the State of California. Section 844 of our Penal Code, the law which the agents failed to comply with, was enacted by our legislature, and sets forth certain procedures that must be followed by the police when they are making an arrest. This law has been upheld by our Supreme Court which has often explained the policies behind the statute, one of which is the protection of the lives of the officers making the arrest.

This slanted reporting causes many people to misunderstand and lose respect for our judicial system. In addition, it is unfair to our judges, all of whom are hard working, conscientious, and have undertaken one of society's most difficult and thankless jobs — the fair and impartial administration of justice.

One accurate way of reporting this story would have been to say that the charges were dismissed by the court because the agents "failed to obey the law." If you wish to report it your way, perhaps you should also be willing to report that certain young people have been arrested because they ignored a legal nicety, in that they were caught smoking marijuana.

It's All There In Memory Bank After You File Your Tax Return

WASHINGTON — It might have come out of one of the surrealists, Kafka or Beckert — that vast computer operation in Martinsburg, W. Va., is a memory bank embracing at least half the citizens in the United States.

When the federal income tax return is complete and dropped in the mail on the fateful deadline, it goes through a preliminary processing before it ends up at Martinsburg; or rather, the pertinent information on magnetic tape becomes part of the Martinsburg memory bank.

Last year 77 million returns, the majority joint returns of husband and wife, were stored in the bank. Corporate returns brought the total to well over 100 million. That so much information can be stored in a building said to be equivalent to a medium-sized warehouse is on the weird side. The explanation is that the information on an individual return can be put on an inch of magnetic tape.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE Service conducts what must surely be the most efficient collection service in the world. At this particular moment it seems all too hideously efficient. No other income tax system can compare with it unless it is that of Great Britain, which casts a net with an even narrower mesh.

With computerization taking over, it is not human error but the automatic response of the machine that angers many taxpayers. The system operates as follows: The individual's return goes to one of seven service centers. A computer operator starts punching buttons, the return is coded, the mathematics verified.

Then what is known as the audit selection system gets into gear. The computer works out the ratio of deductions to income and the return is given a certain score. It is then "eyeballed" by experienced classifiers who examine the print-out.

Several million returns are popped out of the computers to be audited for potential errors. The computerized formula prescribes an audit which means hours of the time of the taxpayer, or his tax lawyer whose fees are deductible, and the international revenue agent. Tax lawyers say the number of audits has doubled or tripled in recent years by reason of this computerization.

IN MANY INSTANCES it is waste motion, since the conclusion is no change in what the taxpayers owe. For the 1969 fiscal year 41 per cent of audits were "no change;" for the following fiscal year it was 36 per cent; and this dropped to 34 in the first seven months of the current year. The IRS rates that as progress. A small proportion of the several million returns that pop out of the computers with potential error are audited if only because the number of revenue agents is limited.

IRS says that the vast fund of information in the Martinsburg memory bank is protected by law from prying eyes. Three committees of Congress — House Ways and Means, Senate Finance and the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation — can get information they require. The Department of Justice can, on a showing of need in connection with a prosecution, get information about any return. So can the governor of a state. After three years the tapes are erased to make way for new returns.

A BITTER FIGHT preceded the adoption in 1912 of the 16th Amendment to the Constitution giving Congress the power to tax incomes, "from whatever sources derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration." It was socialism, the doom of honestly acquired means, the end of free enterprise and incentive to work.

Whatever else it has done, the income tax has not spelled the end of private wealth. Those taxpayers with incomes of over a million dollars a year who pay little or no tax is proof of that. A proliferation of tax lawyers has come into being to translate IRS regulations that fill a thick telephone-size book.

The system contains grave inequities, not the least of which is the scale of tax imposed on a single person as against husband and wife filing a joint return. While there was a minor change, it remains a serious discrimination.

When the new Congress first met there were noises about a value-added tax — in effect, a sales tax —to supplement if not substitute for the income levy. But the income tax promises to be with us for a long time. The Bureau of Internal Revenue has 60,000 permanent employees, with many added at filing time. That is more than the entire federal payroll in Washington in 1912.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

The Story Of Kate Webb: She Had To See For Herself

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Kate Webb is a slender girl with dark brown hair, a shy smile, a great warmth and a great determination. In her spare time she likes to paint in oils.

What really makes her stand out is that she is a war correspondent. In a tough field she is better than able to hold her own.

Last March she put this lead on a story from Phnom Penh:

"The worst time of the day for newsmen in Cambodia is nearly evening when the silent roll call is taken. All present, and faces relax. One missing, and the alert is sounded. Someone riding the roads— perhaps highway 4, 7, 3 or 2—is not back ..."

ON APRIL 7, this alert went up for Kate — missing on Highway 4 after an ambush.

A Cambodian soldier said he saw three Communist soldiers grab her and drag her toward the jungle. She had abandoned the shelter of a ditch to try to get pictures of the action.

Highway 4 runs southwest from Phnom Penh to the port of Kampong Som. Highway 2 runs directly south from Phnom Penh toward the Mekong River Delta of South Vietnam. It was on Highway 2 that UPI men Frank Frosch and Kyoichi Sawada were killed last October. Kate Webb had succeeded Frosch as UPI's Phnom Penh manager.

A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S business is a risky one at best, and Cambodia has been especially costly, nine known dead and 23 missing in a year. International journalists' organizations and their own organizations are pressing the search for the missing through all known channels.

Even among fellow newsmen the war correspondent stands as a man apart. Among the older ones, who may have been there themselves, it is both a recognition of the risks involved and admiration for the sheer endurance it often requires. Among the younger ones it is the glamor, a feeling quickly rubbed off after a few days in the field.

KATE WEBB
Had to see for herself

For the job often is more grime than glamor.

There is little of glamor, for instance, in hunching for hours beneath a pancho in a monsoon rain waiting for a helicopter that may or may not come, the warning shout of "incoming" for the mortar barrages which the Communists throw around like confetti, or in the chill unknown of night sounds.

EDITORS DON'T assign Kate and the others to these missions, in fact the home office usually tries to hold them back. But within them is the same compulsion that is a part of any good reporter, the need to see for themselves.

Kyoichi Sawada, a Pulitzer Prize winner, was one of this correspondent's close friends. I remember the time an American general reprimanded him for walking backward through a mine field to photograph advancing troops. He told Sawada he could get killed that way.

"It's my job," Sawada told him.

Kate Webb also knew the score long before she went out on Highway 4. She had worked through the flames of the Communist Tet offensive in South Vietnam in 1968.

But like the others, she had to see it for herself.

Three Marinites Score In Contest

Three Marin County men have been named winners in the 12th Annual Bay Counties Carpenter-Mill Cabinet-Millwright Apprentice Competition in San Francisco.

Winning first place Saturday in the carpenters' category was Sam Krummes of 821 Sweetser Avenue, Novato, employed at H.S. Meinberger and Sons of San Rafael.

Krummes, a member of San Rafael Carpenters Union Local 35, is the fourth apprentice from the San Rafael local to win top honors in the last five years.

Douglas Waterhouse of Novato won in 1969; Kenneth Becker of San Rafael, who served as a judge this year, won in 1968, and Robert Ruzick of Novato won in 1967.

Second place in carpenters' competition was awarded to William Morris of Point Reyes Station, an employee of Plant Brothers of San Francisco.

Both men were required to build a dog house, lay out and cut a series of intricate rafters and display other skills in the eight hour contest.

First place in cabinetmaking was awarded to Jack E. Miller of 29 Brookdale Avenue, San Rafael.

Miller, a fourth year apprentice, is employed at Hardwood Design of Northgate Industrial Park, San Rafael.

He won for his freestanding cabinet with adjustable shelves.

The competition, staged at the Stonestown Shopping Center Mall and the arts and industrial building at San Francisco State College, was entered by 16 apprentice finalists from around the Bay Area.

It was sponsored by the San Francisco Carpenters Joint Apprentice Committee and was coordinated by Jimps Wilcox of 224 Ridgeway Avenue, Fairfax.

The competition leads to the state finals later this year in San Diego. All three Marinites will compete there with winners traveling to Detroit in August for international competition.

Pair Held, In Burglary, Pot Cases

A 19-year-old Forest Knolls youth was arrested yesterday on suspicion of burglary, possession of stolen property, possession of marijuana and cultivating the weed. A 17-year-old companion was arrested on suspicion of possessing and growing pot.

Sheriff's deputies said Robert Scott Morey and Nancy Jane Hayden, both of 6850 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, were arrested after drug abuse agents and San Anselmo police went to the home with a warrant alleging that Morey burglarized a garage in San Anselmo earlier this month.

Once inside the home, officers said, they noticed a marijuana plant growing in a bedroom. Further investigation discovered a suspected lid of marijuana, 50 suspected marijuana cigarette butts in a bottle and stereo equipment believed stolen.

Morey's arrest stems from the April 9 burglary of the garage at the home of Robert D. Dawson, 128 Alder Avenue. An auto seen leaving the scene was traced to Morey, officers said.

Morey remained in Marin County Jail in lieu of $1,875 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Miss Hayden was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall.

First Lady Tells Of Movie Days In Old Hollywood

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pat Nixon helped pay her way through college by working as a Hollywood extra in the 1930s, but she turned down a movie career because she wanted to finish her schooling.

The First Lady spoke of her work in movies and the contract offers she received in an interview in McCall's magazine released Monday.

"I wanted to finish my education," Mrs. Nixon said. "This meant more to me than quick money, and I didn't think I could go very far."

Mrs. Nixon said she worked in the movies "Becky Sharp," "The Great Ziegfeld," and "Small Town Girl," the last with Robert Taylor.

Mrs. Nixon said she had a secret crush on Taylor—"I really eyed him"—and about 25 years later she and her husband met Taylor in California.

"I told him this, and we had a good laugh," she said.

Cambodia's Lon Nol, Cabinet Quit

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian Prime Minister Lon Nol, who helped lead the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk and then suffered a disabling stroke, resigned today along with his entire cabinet.

Lon Nol's brother, Col. Lon Non, said the resignation was little more than a formality and probably would not be accepted.

Political sources said Lon Nol and his cabinet submitted their resignations at the office of chief of state Chen Heng today. However, there was no immediate official announcement.

Lon Nol and Cheng Heng led the bloodless coup of neutralist Prince Norodom Sihanouk March 18, 1970. Sihanouk was out of the country at the time and has since set up a government in exile in Communist China.

On Feb. 8 Lon Nol suffered a stroke. He later went to a U.S. military hospital in Hawaii for treatment and returned to Cambodia several weeks ago. But he never fully recovered from the effects of the stroke.

Col. Lon Non told UPI "the majority of his (Lon Nol's) friends, including military men, civilians, youth and religious personalities do not wish him to resign. They have submitted a motion to the chief of state asking him not to accept the resignations and to request Lon Nol and Ge, Sirik Matak to stay on and form another government."

Gen. Sisowath Sirik Matak, who served as deputy prime minister under Lon Nol, took over administration of the government following the prime minister's illness.

Lon Nol said it would not be known until Wednesday or possibly even Thursday what Cheng Heng would do about the resignation, but there was every expectation that he would not accept it and would ask Lon Nol and Sirik Matak to stay on.

Lon Non said the reason for the resignation of the government lay solely in the requirements of the Cambodian constitution and there was no question of his health involved.

Auto Taken

Someone took his 1957 Chevrolet, license COE-550, between 11:30 a.m. and 1:40 p.m. yesterday from where he had parked it in front of 745 Second Street, San Rafael, Ray O. Fields of Santa Rosa, reported to police.

Hopes For Financing Park Projects Fade

Novato Parks and Recreation Commission's hopes for a 30-cent override tax rate to finance parks faded last night and a bond issue loomed.

City councilmen and commissioners, in joint session, looked at a proposed five-year $1 million capital improvement program for parks, which would add 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation to the tax rate, and saw a money problem.

Commissioners pushed for an aggressive program by the city to purchase and develop park land, but Councilmen J. Wayne Womack and Wayne Sartain balked at the tax bite.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said in view of council comments he would propose a capital improvements program for one year and a bond issue "to go to the voters within one year."

Voters rejected two bond proposals last year, $2,365,000 for parks and $600,000 for a community recreation center.

Womack said the council had to consider the tax levy for parks and recreation in relationship with the entire city budget. The current rate for parks and recreation is now 26 cents per $100 assessed valuation, and adding 30 cents would bring it to the point where it would represent about 40 per cent of the entire city tax levy, he said.

Commissioners agreed that large land purchases or major developments such as a community recreation center would have to be financed by a bond issue.

Commission chairman Martin C. White said the $276,000 in the program, earmarked for purchase of the San Marin Club, since sold to a private group, could be used for land acquisition.

Councilmen and commissioners, looked toward the proposed bedroom tax on new development as an aid toward financing park and recreation activities.

Adams estimated the proposed tax, $75 for the first bedroom and $15 for each additional bedroom, would bring in from $60,000 to $90,000 a year.

Another financial help would be if the Novato Unified School District levied its full community services tax override rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation and participated in development of school grounds, Adams said.

The council adjourned to a closed session at 9 a.m. Saturday at Novato Community House to review the applications of nine persons for the vacant seat on the council.

Commissioner Dr. John Kassenbrock was absent.

3,000 Can Expect Returns To Be Audited

Approximately 3,000 Marin County taxpayers can expect to have their 1970 income tax returns audited by the Internal Revenue Service.

These returns are not picked at random from the approximately 78,000 returns but are those which do not meet all the checks, said Frank A. Busalacchi public information officer for the service.

The first screening looks for all the necessary information. Mathematics are checked next on a computer. The computer spots most of the trouble in the return, Busalacchi said.

A team of employees then goes over these returns to decide whether or not to give them further scrutiny. The Internal Revenue Service may want to check receipts to support exemption claims.

In auditing returns, the Internal Revenue Service has the most trouble with persons throwing away their receipts. These should be kept for three years, he said.

Boys Held In Purse Theft Probe

Two runaway Sacramento boys were arrested yesterday on suspicion of stealing a Corte Madera woman's purse from a laundry at the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Corte Madera police said today Michael Allen Mullenix and Michael Andrew Nolan, both 15 and of Mather Air Force Base, were picked up at 10:20 a.m. by Larkspur police an hour after the theft.

Bertha Lopez of 439 Manzanita Avenue told officers she saw the youths take her purse containing $80 from a table at the laundry and gave chase.

Officers said Mrs. Lopez caught the two in a nearby parking lot, recovered her handbag, and then let them go. Not until she returned to the laundry did she discover a smaller purse containing the $80 was missing from the handbog.

The two youths, when picked up in Larkspur, were carrying about $35 each and led police to the small purse containing another $9 hidden near Neil Cummins School.

The two youths were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall.

SYMPATHETIC RESCUE

A Day In The Life Of Your Friendly Fireman

If a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, what are two birds in the window worth?

To the Sausalito Fire Department, they're worth one man and 15 minutes.

Firemen received a call at 6:32 a.m. today from a distraught woman that a bird was caught between the glass and the screen of her front window.

Fireman Jerry Roxberg responed to the home of Christina Olsen at 38 Water Street, where he found not one, but two trapped sparrows.

After calming Miss Olsen, Roxberg spent the next 15 minutes catching the elusive creatures.

"It was a big window," said another fireman, "and the birds kept flying to the top and then back down again."

Finally, Roxberg accomplished the seemingly impossible mission and released the sparrows.

"We don't usually respond like this," said a fireman, "but when they come early in the morning or late at night we try our best. People get upset more easily at times like that."

TV News Editor Killed In Crash

NAPA (UPI) —A headon automobile collision five miles south of Napa has killed a television news editor and injured four other persons.

Michael Barnhart, 31, of Alameda was dead on arrival at Queen of the Valley Hospital after the accident. He had been an editor for station KTVU in Oakland.

Gary Park, 35, of Oakland, a KTVU newsman, was treated for injuries and released.

Injured in the other car were Paul Merrian, 54, Fairfield, treated and released; Celia Merriam, Fairfield, 58, treated and released; Gladys Bolton, 61, Fairfield, taken to Travis Air Force Base Hospital with a broken leg.

The accident was late Sunday.

To record the proceedings of the 91st Congress, a total of 65,475 pages were printed in the Congressional Record.

East Side Vs West Side Shows Up In Petaluma Survey

Responses to the Petaluma opinion survey showed many differences in opinions between longtime residents of the west side and largely newcomers on the east side.

While there was agreement in favor of greenbelts, the answers varied greatly on what improvements are needed.

Fifty-nine per cent of those on the west side said more jobs are needed in the city, while only 45 per cent of those on the east side did. Those figures correspond with information that 61 per cent of the west side works locally while 75 per cent of the east side commutes south to jobs in Marin or other sections of the Bay Area.

As was expected, east side residents listed neighborhood parks (59 per cent) and school facilities (41 per cent) as the largest problems. Only 30 per cent of the west side residents saw park problems and only 20 per cent saw a lack in school facilities.

Fifty-four per cent of eastern residents said the moderate price in housing attracted them to Petaluma, while only 18 per cent felt likewise on the west side.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST surprises of the survey completed by 2,400 residents was that the west side voted by 62 per cent to limit Petaluma's population to 40,000 or less while only 46 per cent east of the freeway felt that way.

In most instances, it has been east side residents appearing at city council meetings to urge that growth be slowed until school, park and traffic facilities can be improved to meet current needs.

Another surprising factor showed that less than half (48 per cent) favored improving the Petaluma River and another 40 per cent thought that improvements would be nice, but that the city has more pressing problems.

THE QUESTIONNAIRES are still under study by city officials and have not been released for public scrutiny, but when they are it will be interesting to read comments that were attached.

A portion of the survey form was left blank for written comments, but some residents attached long letters directed to public officials, giving detailed comments about the operation of the city and its problems.

Mayor Helen Putnam realizes that disparaging comments will always be made about public officials in anonymous questionnaire responses, but admits that some of the comments about her administration have been surprisingly nasty.

City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer reportedly also came in for some abuse in the comments, with some suggesting that many of Petaluma's problems are his fault and could be eased if someone else were to take his place.

Back Strain

Beauford Chapman, 40, of 65 Estates Drive, San Anselmo, was treated at 4:45 p.m. Sunday at Marin General Hospital for back strain suffered in an auto accident, the hospital reported yesterday. No additional information was available.

Prospective Disciplinary Officers

A panel of prospective hearing officers for disciplinary cases at Sonoma State College has been named by the Marin County Bar Association.

Under new disciplinary procedures adopted by the State College Board of Trustees, students, faculty members and administrators who have been charged with infractions of college rules will be permitted a hearing before a member of the panel.

In the case of a faculty member, college President Thomas H. McGrath said the hearing officer will gather evidence and report his findings to a faculty committee, which would in turn make a recommendation for judgement to the college president. In the case of students and administrators, the findings would be turned over directly to the president for judgement.

Named to the hearing panel were attorneys Colin C. Claxon, Robert W. Corlett, Michael B. Dufficy, Leland H. Jordan, Robert B. McCreadie and Warren R. Perry. Appointed as alternate officers were Richard R. Breiner and Herbert G. Hawkins.

McGrath said the Sonoma County Bar Association has also been asked to name prospective hearing officers, but has not acted yet.

Correct Occupation

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that Sandra Marshall, a candidate for the Sausalito School District board, is a television director for KTVU, Channel 2. Mrs. Marshall was formerly publicity director for the station, but is now broadcast director for Boisford-Ketchum advertising agency in San Francisco.

Second Audit Asked On Reed Grant Issue

Reed School District trustees decided last night to continue the probe into possible misuse of special grant funds by authorizing a completely new audit of the three grant accounts.

The trustees voted unanimously to call for the new audit after several members of the audience said the district's reputation was at stake because of the questions raised by the auditing firm of Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin.

The firm, in a recent audit, said a lack of internal control over grant monies left in question whether there was improper travel and credit card spending by district officials between 1964 and 1969.

Acting Supt. Lester Dunn told the trustees he would find another outside auditing firm by the May 4 meeting and have someone from the firm on hand that night to receive explicit instructions from the board.

Trustee Leo Souza called for using a firm other than Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin so that the entire problem could be given a "fresh look."

The Reed School District Trustees Also:

CALENDAR — Held over a final decision on a school calendar for next year until the Tamalpais High School District completes its. Dunn, however, said he was proposing that school open Sept. 13 and end on June 15, a total of 177 days of instruction.

DENTAL CARE — Trustees were told that their recently adopted dental care program would cost the district $7.12 per employee per month under a proposed two-year contract.

ANNEXATION — Voted unanimously to send a letter to Corte Madera informing that city that the district had not yet approved annexing 71 acres of land — now proposed for apartment units — into the Reed School District. The land, now in the Mill Valley School District, was allowed to be developed by Corte Madera on the condition that it be annexed to Reed because it is too far from Mill Valley district schools. The area, known as the Boyd Tract, is currently planned for 650 apartment units.

ENROLLMENT — Was told that the district expects a minimum 2 per cent drop in enrollment next year and that this will leave the district overstaffed by four teachers.

Marine Station Summer Program

The University of the Pacific Marine Station at Dillon Beach is offering a summer program in marine science research for college students, Richard Doty, news bureau director, reported today.

Applications are being accepted for two five-week courses, the first from June 21-July 23 and the second, July 26-Aug. 27. and enrollment will be limited because of small classes, Doty said.

Interested students can get further information from the station at Dillon Beach.

Hardware Store Safe Is Looted

The safe at Rex Hardware, 313 B Street, Petaluma, was looted of $650, police reported today.

Officers said the store office had been looted and that the burglars had used tools from the store to pry open the safe.

REA Files Suit Against Union Over Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Railway Express Agency plans to file a $5 million damage suit against the striking clerks union and says it will increase the suit by $1 million per day until the walkout is settled.

About 25,000 employes were involved in the strike Monday by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks (BRAC) over a dispute involving 17 new highway runs in the northeastern United States.

REA President Tom Kole said the strike was illegal and said the BRAC refused to "participate in good-faith bargaining."

The union, which called the walkout at 12:01 a.m. Monday, said REA violated the contract by "arbitrarily lowering wages without negotiating new changes in the rates of pay." Pickets were posted at major airports across the nation.

Peripheral Canal Opponents Rapped

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—State Water Resources Director William Gianelli yesterday likened opponents of the proposed Peripheral Canal to "lemmings" plunging into the sea and took a gentle poke at the news media.

Gianelli warned that conservationist attempts to block the canal through the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta will "create more havoc and environmental damage to the Delta than it has ever before experienced."

In a speech prepared for the power and water committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the state's water chief struck out again at conservationists.

In his prepared text, he didn't identify any by name but last Thursday he denounced the Sierra Club as "publicity seekers" and criticized the conservationist Friends of the Earth.

The Sierra Club opposes the proposed Peripheral Canal which would divert Sacramento River water around the Delta.

Gianelli said the canal won't be needed for 10 years to supply water but is "needed right now" to protect fish, navigational waterways and to aid the sportsman, recreationist and Delta farmer.

Turning to the press, he said it "is unfortunate that so many times we ignore what is right in front of our faces and evaluate water projects only on the basis of what we read in the newspapers and the magazines or what we see on television or hear on radio."

Rocking The Boat Sometimes Does Good

The "boat rocker" sometimes serves a good purpose. It seems that rather often, somebody has to rock the boat before the captain will correct the course or patch the leaks.

Of course, there are boat rockers and boat rockers. There are those who like to rock the boat just to make waves, not being interested in having the sails set right or the leaks patched. But there are other who rock the boat for a purpose.

One of these who has done considerable good for a lot of us by his boat-rocking is Ralph Nader. Consumers (and we're all consumers) have a lot for which to thank the man whose "Nader's Raiders" have made boat rocking their business.

A MORE RECENT boat rocker whose wave-making may do some good is Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, San Mateo County's maverick Republican. McCloskey is a bitter critic of the United States' role in Southeast Asia. He is no draft-dodging dove; he served with distinction in the Marine Corps during the Korean War. But he sees little or no reason for the continued U.S. involvement in Indochina.

McCloskey really gave the boat a shake when he suggested to an audience of Stanford University students that it should be possible to discuss impeachment of President Nixon over theVietnam issue. He didn't suggest the President should be impeached; he just said it might be discussed. But that was enough.

He followed that up by saying that Republicans should be given a choice for President: that renomination of the incumbent should not be a foregone conclusion.

Someone, said McCloskey, should run against Nixon in next year's Republican primaries. And if no one else would, he would.

We don't think "Pete" McCloskey believes he has much chance to take the nomination away from Mr. Nixon. But this bit of boat-rocking accomplishes a purpose: It points up that just because a man is in office does not mean he is the best candidate his party can field.

ANOTHER BOAT ROCKER did some rocking last Friday that should set people thinking.

Ferney H. Stark Jr., president of Security National Bank of Walnut Creek, who is as much a maverick among bankers as McCloskey is among Republican politicians, suggested that heads of businesses should be jailed for failing to do anything about pollution.

"Throw a few chairmen of the board in jail for polluting the air and water, and you'll see pollution disappear quite rapidly," Stark told a meeting of the California Environmental Health Association in Oakland. "You'd also probably see some pretty drastic prison reforms."

Stark's thesis is that industry has the know-how to correct much of the pollution, and the obligation to use that know-how. And the responsibility, he holds, must be put on the heads of companies.

We think there is even less likelihood of board chairmen being jailed for polluting the air and water than there is of "Pete" McCloskey being nominated for President. But Stark's proposal may do some good. It may make some heads of industrial companies think a little harder about their responsibilities — just as Ralph Nader's boat rocking has done.

Controversy Abuilding

At an archaeological digging site in the Calico Mountains on the Mojave Desert, the biggest controversy about man's prehistory to surface in several decades is building steam.

If as some believe, it can be establihsed that the crudely chipped rocks found at this excavation site are primitive man-made implements, then the length of time man has been on this continent will have to be reassessed. How old the layers of the dig are is the subject of a second controversy. Some say over half a million years old.

Eminent scientists are lining up on both sides. We are likely to be hearing much about the Calico site as discussion becomes more heated. Next to a woman scorned, Hell hath no fury like a scientist whose theories and works are disputed.

Alternative To More Subsidies For Railroads: Public Ownership

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Having unloaded their passenger deficits on the public, the railroads are now back at the doors of Congress asking for annual subsidies, guaranteed loans and a few minor fringe benefits such as freedom from regulation. If you don't give us the money, they say, the railroads will collapse; and if that happens the government will have to take them over, and isn't that a frightful thought?

Well, we don't find it frightful, and we think public ownership should be calmly and rationally discussed as a possible alternative to public subsidy of private profits. If the railroads have reached a point where they must be bailed out by the taxpayers, then it is a legitimate question to ask why the beneficiary should not be the public instead of the bankers, stock brokers and managements that have brought the rails to their present pass.

Nationalization, we are told, would be the worst solution because among other things it would cost so much. But if the rails were bought out at their true uninflated value as measured by their own prophecies of imminent doom, the cost would not be excessive, and in any case would be financed by bonds to be paid off out of earnings. What is the difference between paying interest to the holders of private railroad bonds, and paying it to the holders of a public railroad corporation's bonds?

Or we are told that nearly all government-owned railroads — which is to say the railroads of every major industrial country except this one — operate at a deficit, as if there were something inherently shameful about them. But what is the difference between subsidizing rail transportation through a deficit, and subsidizing it through grants and loans and tax write-offs in order to squeeze out of it profits for private owners?

Or we are presented with the ancient myth that publicly owned enterprise is inevitably less efficient than private enterprise — an assumption not borne out by railroad experience in Europe and Japan, or by 25 years of impressive performance on the part of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Certainly converting the rails from a private to a public bureaucracy would not guarantee better performance; but neither would it guarantee bad performance. The line between private and public enterprise in our decidedly mixed economy is already so thin that stepping across it in one distressed sector of the economy can be fearlessly faced without ideological bias.

The railroads blame their troubles on excessive regulation. With somewhat different emphasis, we would say that the Interstate Commerce Commission has developed serious shortcomings as a mechanism for protecting the public interest. The answer, however, is not to abandon any protection at all but to strengthen it by other means.

The fundamental question is one of principle. If the railroads can be saved only by public subsidy and investment, why should not the public in exchange take ownership and control? . . . If the railroads cannot make it in the private sector, what is wrong with moving them unambiguously into the public sector, and operating them for public service rather than profit?

Marin Alternative Not Leftist Cult

I read with interest the "Vomit Squad" letter from R. C. Kesner in Wednesday's I-J. No doubt he is the same R. C. Kesner whose ballot argument against the Peace Referendum (Proposition A) last November led off with "Color this referendum red!" and went downhill from there.

To set the record straight the Marin Alternative, far from being a part of a "leftist cult", is a non-partisan political group aimed at improving local government at all levels. Over 600 Marin voters have joined Marin Alternative since it was founded last year.

The Marin Alternative has endorsed not two, but three candidates for the College of Marin Board — Frances Compton, Richard Beban, and James Kimo Campbell — because they were among the most articulate and knowledgeable candidates and would, together, provide a needed balance on the board.

In any event the Marin Alternative urges all I-J readers to go to the polls and vote for the candidates of their choice on Tuesday.

No Shouting Match, Says Councilman

I wish to compliment your young reporter, whose name I do not know, for generally accurate reporting of the Fairfax Council meeting of April 12. I believe it was the first time she has covered what is probably the most volatile city council in Marin. However, I take issue with one observation made.

This was the description of a "shouting match" between Councilman (Francis J.) O'Connell and myself which was front-page news on April 13. I don't shout and a review of the tapes of last Monday will reveal that I did not lose control of myself. I dislike being classed with an individual whose intolerance of others' opinions causes him to regularly shout his disagreements. The present Fairfax City Council can expect to be permanently "broken up" if these one-man tirades are permitted to continue.

I would like to add that the "strong audience support" for O'Connell during his verbal onslaught came from a pro-Festival group who, earlier in the evening, were unsuccessful in obtaining an affirmative vote for this year's planned event. As a long and consistent critic of some of the goings-on at the last Fairfax Festival (1969), I'm not surprised that I lack some popularity with its proponents.

Strip Mining Calls For Federal Control

Strip-mining has become the number one threat to our attempts to save a little beauty in the natural scene. Ernest Furgurson's column in your April 16 paper should be "must" reading for everyone. Suddenly, strip mining is spreading across our land and is no longer "something they do back in West Virginia and Kentucky." Twenty-six states have coal deposits which invite this practice, which is increasing alarmingly because of more stringent (and expensive) safety regulations for underground mining. The desolation this mining leaves behind turns peaceful beauty into barren moonscapes, causes mud slides and acid run-off that kill streams and lakes, tears whole mountains open, leaving irreparable brown gashes, causing ruination that should be unthinkable in this Age of Ecology.

We must write to the federal government, since the problem crosses state lines, and the mining interests have too strong a strangle-hold on state legislatures to permit regulations, so let Senators Alan Cranston and John Tunney, and Representatives Don Clausen and William Mailliard know how you feel about this.

JEAN S. BARNARD

Procedural Error Not 'Legal Nicety'

Regarding your article "Charges From Motel Drug Raid Booted", April 14, I wish to comment on your unfair editorializing (in what appears to be a news report) that the charges were dismissed because narcotic agents failed to carry out "a legal nicety". As a newspaper which has taken a strong interest in "law and order," you should know that the "nicety" you refer to is the law of the State of California. Section 844 of our Penal Code, the law which the agents failed to comply with, was enacted by our legislature, and sets forth certain procedures that must be followed by the police when they are making an arrest. This law has been upheld by our Supreme Court which has often explained the policies behind the statute, one of which is the protection of the lives of the officers making the arrest.

This slanted reporting causes many people to misunderstand and lose respect for our judicial system. In addition, it is unfair to our judges, all of whom are hard working, conscientious, and have undertaken one of society's most difficult and thankless jobs — the fair and impartial administration of justice.

One accurate way of reporting this story would have been to say that the charges were dismissed by the court because the agents "failed to obey the law." If you wish to report it your way, perhaps you should also be willing to report that certain young people have been arrested because they ignored a legal nicety, in that they were caught smoking marijuana.

It's All There In Memory Bank After You File Your Tax Return

WASHINGTON — It might have come out of one of the surrealists, Kafka or Beckert — that vast computer operation in Martinsburg, W. Va., is a memory bank embracing at least half the citizens in the United States.

When the federal income tax return is complete and dropped in the mail on the fateful deadline, it goes through a preliminary processing before it ends up at Martinsburg; or rather, the pertinent information on magnetic tape becomes part of the Martinsburg memory bank.

Last year 77 million returns, the majority joint returns of husband and wife, were stored in the bank. Corporate returns brought the total to well over 100 million. That so much information can be stored in a building said to be equivalent to a medium-sized warehouse is on the weird side. The explanation is that the information on an individual return can be put on an inch of magnetic tape.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE Service conducts what must surely be the most efficient collection service in the world. At this particular moment it seems all too hideously efficient. No other income tax system can compare with it unless it is that of Great Britain, which casts a net with an even narrower mesh.

With computerization taking over, it is not human error but the automatic response of the machine that angers many taxpayers. The system operates as follows: The individual's return goes to one of seven service centers. A computer operator starts punching buttons, the return is coded, the mathematics verified.

Then what is known as the audit selection system gets into gear. The computer works out the ratio of deductions to income and the return is given a certain score. It is then "eyeballed" by experienced classifiers who examine the print-out.

Several million returns are popped out of the computers to be audited for potential errors. The computerized formula prescribes an audit which means hours of the time of the taxpayer, or his tax lawyer whose fees are deductible, and the international revenue agent. Tax lawyers say the number of audits has doubled or tripled in recent years by reason of this computerization.

IN MANY INSTANCES it is waste motion, since the conclusion is no change in what the taxpayers owe. For the 1969 fiscal year 41 per cent of audits were "no change;" for the following fiscal year it was 36 per cent; and this dropped to 34 in the first seven months of the current year. The IRS rates that as progress. A small proportion of the several million returns that pop out of the computers with potential error are audited if only because the number of revenue agents is limited.

IRS says that the vast fund of information in the Martinsburg memory bank is protected by law from prying eyes. Three committees of Congress — House Ways and Means, Senate Finance and the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation — can get information they require. The Department of Justice can, on a showing of need in connection with a prosecution, get information about any return. So can the governor of a state. After three years the tapes are erased to make way for new returns.

A BITTER FIGHT preceded the adoption in 1912 of the 16th Amendment to the Constitution giving Congress the power to tax incomes, "from whatever sources derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration." It was socialism, the doom of honestly acquired means, the end of free enterprise and incentive to work.

Whatever else it has done, the income tax has not spelled the end of private wealth. Those taxpayers with incomes of over a million dollars a year who pay little or no tax is proof of that. A proliferation of tax lawyers has come into being to translate IRS regulations that fill a thick telephone-size book.

The system contains grave inequities, not the least of which is the scale of tax imposed on a single person as against husband and wife filing a joint return. While there was a minor change, it remains a serious discrimination.

When the new Congress first met there were noises about a value-added tax — in effect, a sales tax —to supplement if not substitute for the income levy. But the income tax promises to be with us for a long time. The Bureau of Internal Revenue has 60,000 permanent employees, with many added at filing time. That is more than the entire federal payroll in Washington in 1912.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

The Story Of Kate Webb: She Had To See For Herself

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Kate Webb is a slender girl with dark brown hair, a shy smile, a great warmth and a great determination. In her spare time she likes to paint in oils.

What really makes her stand out is that she is a war correspondent. In a tough field she is better than able to hold her own.

Last March she put this lead on a story from Phnom Penh:

"The worst time of the day for newsmen in Cambodia is nearly evening when the silent roll call is taken. All present, and faces relax. One missing, and the alert is sounded. Someone riding the roads— perhaps highway 4, 7, 3 or 2—is not back ..."

ON APRIL 7, this alert went up for Kate — missing on Highway 4 after an ambush.

A Cambodian soldier said he saw three Communist soldiers grab her and drag her toward the jungle. She had abandoned the shelter of a ditch to try to get pictures of the action.

Highway 4 runs southwest from Phnom Penh to the port of Kampong Som. Highway 2 runs directly south from Phnom Penh toward the Mekong River Delta of South Vietnam. It was on Highway 2 that UPI men Frank Frosch and Kyoichi Sawada were killed last October. Kate Webb had succeeded Frosch as UPI's Phnom Penh manager.

A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S business is a risky one at best, and Cambodia has been especially costly, nine known dead and 23 missing in a year. International journalists' organizations and their own organizations are pressing the search for the missing through all known channels.

Even among fellow newsmen the war correspondent stands as a man apart. Among the older ones, who may have been there themselves, it is both a recognition of the risks involved and admiration for the sheer endurance it often requires. Among the younger ones it is the glamor, a feeling quickly rubbed off after a few days in the field.

KATE WEBB
Had to see for herself

For the job often is more grime than glamor.

There is little of glamor, for instance, in hunching for hours beneath a pancho in a monsoon rain waiting for a helicopter that may or may not come, the warning shout of "incoming" for the mortar barrages which the Communists throw around like confetti, or in the chill unknown of night sounds.

EDITORS DON'T assign Kate and the others to these missions, in fact the home office usually tries to hold them back. But within them is the same compulsion that is a part of any good reporter, the need to see for themselves.

Kyoichi Sawada, a Pulitzer Prize winner, was one of this correspondent's close friends. I remember the time an American general reprimanded him for walking backward through a mine field to photograph advancing troops. He told Sawada he could get killed that way.

"It's my job," Sawada told him.

Kate Webb also knew the score long before she went out on Highway 4. She had worked through the flames of the Communist Tet offensive in South Vietnam in 1968.

But like the others, she had to see it for herself.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BONNIE BARD

East Side Vs West Side Shows Up In Petaluma Survey

Responses to the Petaluma opinion survey showed many differences in opinions between longtime residents of the west side and largely newcomers on the east side.

While there was agreement in favor of greenbelts, the answers varied greatly on what improvements are needed.

Fifty-nine per cent of those on the west side said more jobs are needed in the city, while only 45 per cent of those on the east side did. Those figures correspond with information that 61 per cent of the west side works locally while 75 per cent of the east side commutes south to jobs in Marin or other sections of the Bay Area.

As was expected, east side residents listed neighborhood parks (59 per cent) and school facilities (41 per cent) as the largest problems. Only 30 per cent of the west side residents saw park problems and only 20 per cent saw a lack in school facilities.

Fifty-four per cent of eastern residents said the moderate price in housing attracted them to Petaluma, while only 18 per cent felt likewise on the west side.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST surprises of the survey completed by 2,400 residents was that the west side voted by 62 per cent to limit Petaluma's population to 40,000 or less while only 46 per cent east of the freeway felt that way.

In most instances, it has been east side residents appearing at city council meetings to urge that growth be slowed until school, park and traffic facilities can be improved to meet current needs.

Another surprising factor showed that less than half (48 per cent) favored improving the Petaluma River and another 40 per cent thought that improvements would be nice, but that the city has more pressing problems.

THE QUESTIONNAIRES are still under study by city officials and have not been released for public scrutiny, but when they are it will be interesting to read comments that were attached.

A portion of the survey form was left blank for written comments, but some residents attached long letters directed to public officials, giving detailed comments about the operation of the city and its problems.

Mayor Helen Putnam realizes that disparaging comments will always be made about public officials in anonymous questionnaire responses, but admits that some of the comments about her administration have been surprisingly nasty.

City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer reportedly also came in for some abuse in the comments, with some suggesting that many of Petaluma's problems are his fault and could be eased if someone else were to take his place.

Back Strain

Beauford Chapman, 40, of 65 Estates Drive, San Anselmo, was treated at 4:45 p.m. Sunday at Marin General Hospital for back strain suffered in an auto accident, the hospital reported yesterday. No additional information was available.

Prospective Disciplinary Officers

A panel of prospective hearing officers for disciplinary cases at Sonoma State College has been named by the Marin County Bar Association.

Under new disciplinary procedures adopted by the State College Board of Trustees, students, faculty members and administrators who have been charged with infractions of college rules will be permitted a hearing before a member of the panel.

In the case of a faculty member, college President Thomas H. McGrath said the hearing officer will gather evidence and report his findings to a faculty committee, which would in turn make a recommendation for judgement to the college president. In the case of students and administrators, the findings would be turned over directly to the president for judgement.

Named to the hearing panel were attorneys Colin C. Claxon, Robert W. Corlett, Michael B. Dufficy, Leland H. Jordan, Robert B. McCreadie and Warren R. Perry. Appointed as alternate officers were Richard R. Breiner and Herbert G. Hawkins.

McGrath said the Sonoma County Bar Association has also been asked to name prospective hearing officers, but has not acted yet.

Correct Occupation

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that Sandra Marshall, a candidate for the Sausalito School District board, is a television director for KTVU, Channel 2. Mrs. Marshall was formerly publicity director for the station, but is now broadcast director for Boisford-Ketchum advertising agency in San Francisco.

Second Audit Asked On Reed Grant Issue

Reed School District trustees decided last night to continue the probe into possible misuse of special grant funds by authorizing a completely new audit of the three grant accounts.

The trustees voted unanimously to call for the new audit after several members of the audience said the district's reputation was at stake because of the questions raised by the auditing firm of Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin.

The firm, in a recent audit, said a lack of internal control over grant monies left in question whether there was improper travel and credit card spending by district officials between 1964 and 1969.

Acting Supt. Lester Dunn told the trustees he would find another outside auditing firm by the May 4 meeting and have someone from the firm on hand that night to receive explicit instructions from the board.

Trustee Leo Souza called for using a firm other than Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin so that the entire problem could be given a "fresh look."

The Reed School District Trustees Also:

CALENDAR — Held over a final decision on a school calendar for next year until the Tamalpais High School District completes its. Dunn, however, said he was proposing that school open Sept. 13 and end on June 15, a total of 177 days of instruction.

DENTAL CARE — Trustees were told that their recently adopted dental care program would cost the district $7.12 per employee per month under a proposed two-year contract.

ANNEXATION — Voted unanimously to send a letter to Corte Madera informing that city that the district had not yet approved annexing 71 acres of land — now proposed for apartment units — into the Reed School District. The land, now in the Mill Valley School District, was allowed to be developed by Corte Madera on the condition that it be annexed to Reed because it is too far from Mill Valley district schools. The area, known as the Boyd Tract, is currently planned for 650 apartment units.

ENROLLMENT — Was told that the district expects a minimum 2 per cent drop in enrollment next year and that this will leave the district overstaffed by four teachers.

Marine Station Summer Program

The University of the Pacific Marine Station at Dillon Beach is offering a summer program in marine science research for college students, Richard Doty, news bureau director, reported today.

Applications are being accepted for two five-week courses, the first from June 21-July 23 and the second, July 26-Aug. 27. and enrollment will be limited because of small classes, Doty said.

Interested students can get further information from the station at Dillon Beach.

Hardware Store Safe Is Looted

The safe at Rex Hardware, 313 B Street, Petaluma, was looted of $650, police reported today.

Officers said the store office had been looted and that the burglars had used tools from the store to pry open the safe.

REA Files Suit Against Union Over Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Railway Express Agency plans to file a $5 million damage suit against the striking clerks union and says it will increase the suit by $1 million per day until the walkout is settled.

About 25,000 employes were involved in the strike Monday by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks (BRAC) over a dispute involving 17 new highway runs in the northeastern United States.

REA President Tom Kole said the strike was illegal and said the BRAC refused to "participate in good-faith bargaining."

The union, which called the walkout at 12:01 a.m. Monday, said REA violated the contract by "arbitrarily lowering wages without negotiating new changes in the rates of pay." Pickets were posted at major airports across the nation.

Peripheral Canal Opponents Rapped

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—State Water Resources Director William Gianelli yesterday likened opponents of the proposed Peripheral Canal to "lemmings" plunging into the sea and took a gentle poke at the news media.

Gianelli warned that conservationist attempts to block the canal through the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta will "create more havoc and environmental damage to the Delta than it has ever before experienced."

In a speech prepared for the power and water committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the state's water chief struck out again at conservationists.

In his prepared text, he didn't identify any by name but last Thursday he denounced the Sierra Club as "publicity seekers" and criticized the conservationist Friends of the Earth.

The Sierra Club opposes the proposed Peripheral Canal which would divert Sacramento River water around the Delta.

Gianelli said the canal won't be needed for 10 years to supply water but is "needed right now" to protect fish, navigational waterways and to aid the sportsman, recreationist and Delta farmer.

Turning to the press, he said it "is unfortunate that so many times we ignore what is right in front of our faces and evaluate water projects only on the basis of what we read in the newspapers and the magazines or what we see on television or hear on radio."

More than 20 isles form the Bikini Atoll in the Pacific.

Administrator Bruce Quits Job Under Fire

Indicates Pressure In His Statement

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin County Administrator Alan Bruce re- gned under fire today with a salvo of his own at variety of targets, including a government he aid seeks to hire the "lowest common denomina- or" and a judicial system he said unwisely keeps ngela Y. Davis jailed.

Bruce, who turned 48 yester- y, announced he would quit s $29,410-per-year post on ly 1, after this year's budget earings are over. He has been unty administrator for the st 10 years and was assistant former administrator Donald nsen for four years before at. (See story on page 22 for uce's career.)

Bruce indicated he had been essured into resigning in the ake of his own demand for the signation of Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, whom he charged with inept administration of the county health department.

Last week, the board of supervisors cleared Dr. Albrecht of the charges, expressing dismay at Bruce's conduct of the Albrecht affair, then called him into closed session.

In a prepared statement of resignation Bruce said:

"It is obvious now that I have been provoking your board into forcing me to turn in my uniform (before it turned into a strait-jacket). Having reached this conclusion, I feel a great happy sense of relief, freedom, light heartedness and opening of new horizons."

On Miss Davis, Bruce had this comment: "I must say that I am happy to remove myself from an establishment of which the judicial branch has not yet found a way to release Angela Davis on bail. What more obvious step could there be to lay the groundwork for a fair trial and incidentally permit some relaxation of onerous and costly security measures?"

On local government, Bruce warned that jealousies among the various small districts and local agencies with overlapping boundaries and responsibilities are leading to inefficiency and may force a regional, multipurpose agency to take over. "All unknowingly, they (local elected officials) may be about to preside over the demise of local government," said Bruce.

He criticized the supervisors for "non-reocgnition and even demeaning of outstanding performance by key county officers." He said that "at times, the movement towards the lowest common denominator seems to be encouraged, rather than striving for excellence."

Bruce said the supervisors have recognized the need to protect environment but he exhorted them to do more to preserve the coastline for public use. He warned against concentration of population in West Marin along the San Andreas Fault.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste moved to accept the resignation, and John F. McInnis seconded the motion. The supervisors accepted the resignation almost routinely by a 4-to-0 vote. Michael Wornum was in Sacramento on Golden Gate Bridge District business.

McInnis acknowledged that Bruce had exceptional ability in budget matters but said that Bruce failed to accept gracefully the policy decision of the board of supervisors.

Chairman Louis H. Baar said public confidence in Bruce has been diminishing.

Baptiste, however, maintained the right of the administrator to speak up instead of being a rubber stamp for the supervisors. "I hope that any chief administrative officer we have will be as strong a person as Alan Bruce has been," said Baptiste.

Bruce said he has no immediate plans after July 1. "My wife and I are seriously discussing taking an extended trip to Europe for six or nine months, unless some absolutely fabulous job offer comes up." He said he would prefer to roam in Europe for a while before getting back to work. He and his wife plan to continue living in San Anselmo.

A Landmark Bus Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The preme Court issued four ajor decisions today uphold- g bussing to achieve school egration and establishing up-date new guidelines for the urts to follow.

The decisions were unani- ous. All were written by Chief stice Warren E. Burger.

The key opinion came in a rth Carolina case where the te had challenged a federal strict judge's order that ssing be increased in the arlotte-Mecklenburg area to ing about racially balanced hools.

Burger said transfers were integral part of many segregation plans and "to be ective such a transfer rangement must grant the nsferring student free trans- rtation."

The court also upheld zone irings and a certain amount deliberately imposed "racial lance" if needed to eliminate l vestiges of state-imposed" gregation.

"School authorities have wide discretion in formulating school policy," Burger wrote, "and, as a matter of educational policy school authorities may well conclude that some kind of racial balance in the schools is desirable quite apart from any constitutional requirements."

"However," Burger said, "if a state-imposed limitation on a school authority's discretion operates to inhibit or obstruct the operation of a unitary school system or impede the disestablishing of a dual school system, it must fall."

"State policy must give way when it operates to hinder vindication of federal constitutional guarantees," Burger ruled.

The court discarded the administration's assertion that school assignment plans should be "color blind."

"That requirement, against the background of segregation, would render illusory the promise of the original school 1954 desegregation decision."

Appeal Judge To Study Prejudice

Justice Winslow Christian of the State Court of Appeal has set a hearing for 9 a.m. tomorrow to determine whether the latest judge in the Angela Y. Davis-Ruchell Magee case is prejudiced.

Justice Christian, 45, was appointed yesterday by Chief Justice Donald R. Wright of the State Supreme Court after attorneys in the case failed to agree on a judge to decide whether Judge Alan A. Lindsay should be disqualified.

Attorneys for Miss Davis had challenged Judge Lindsay on April 1 saying he was a white racist and could not give the 27-year-old black Communist a fair hearing.

Lindsay had been appointed by Chief Justice Wright to hear motions made by Miss Davis's attorneys asking that she be released on bail and that charges against her be dismissed.

Miss Davis and Magee are charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy, stemming from the August shoot-out at the Civic Center in which Judge Harold J. Haley and three other people died.

Lindsay was the fourth judge assigned to the case. Two Marin jurists, E. Warren McGuire and Joseph G. Wilson, earlier handled preliminary matters, but later they and the other three Marin Superior Court judges withdrew because of their friendship with the late Judge Haley.

An Inyo County judge, John P. McMurray also withdrew when Magee claimed he was prejudiced.

Lindsay, an Alameda County Superior Court judge, refused to follow McMurray's path, however, saying he could give Miss Davis and Magee a fair hearing.

Justice Christian said in an order filed today that he will listen only to legal arguments tomorrow in a Marin Hall of Justice courtroom and will not take evidence unless he deems it necessary.

He further said that he will listen to only one attorney for

New Corte Madera Mayor: H. S. Norville

Norville, 45, succeeds Edward W. Colthurst who resigned the mayor's post to take over as executive director of the Marin Property Owners Association on May 1. He will remain a member of the council, however.

The new mayor and his wife, Alta, have been residents of Corte Madera for 13 years. They residen at 126 Granada Drive.

Prior to his election to the town council, Norville served as president of the Marin Estates Homeowners Association. He is the elected representative of the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Moderate Turnout In Voting

A light to moderate turnout was reported late this morning by Marin and Southern Sonoma county precincts except on the Tiburon Penninsula where voter turnout in the Reed School District was termed heavy by poll workers.

The Reedelection, sparked by a bitter campaign to recall Chairman Gordon C. Wright, showed 119 out of 700 voters had cast ballots at Reed School and 158 out of 720 had voted at the Kimball S. Palm Residence on West Shore Road.

Besides the recall, Reed voters will elect trustees to fill two board seats.

In San Rafael, where voters were asked to elect a mayor from two candidates; two councilmen from a slate of six and unopposed city clerk, attorney and treasurer, the vote was termed light.

The San Rafael City Hall precinct reported 79 voters out of

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Envoy Request

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Pakistani government asked India today to oust rebel Bengali diplomats from its mission in Calcutta. It said failure to do so would be interpreted as an "unfriendly act."

Pakistani High Commissioner (Ambassador) Sajia Hyder delivered the request to the External Affairs Ministry in New Delhi. The note said Pakistan's deputy high commissioner (consul) in New Delhi, Mahdi Masud, was being assigned to take over the Calcutta mission.

A spokesman for the Indian External Affairs Ministry said the request "will be given due consideration." He had no other comment.

The appeal was Pakistan's first public reaction since about 50 Bengali staff members, headed by mission chief Mohammed Hossain Ali, declared their loyalty to the secessionist Bengalis of East Pakistan last Sunday.

Death Sentences

Manson, 36, rocked slowly back and forth on his heels staring straight ahead and the three young women stood in silence with their hands clasped Monday as they were sentenced formally to death for the Tate-Labianca murders.

"I accept this court as my father," Manson, who has spent 23 of his 36 years in jails or reform schools, told Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older.

"I have always done the best in my life to uphold the law of my father," the cult leader said. "I accept the judgment of my father."

Older ordered Manson removed to San Quentin and the three women to the California Institute of Women at Frontera, Calif., pending appeals expected to last from three to five years.

Manson and Miss Atkins, however, will be returned here shortly for another trial in the slayings of musician Gary Hinman and Hollywood stuntman Donald "Shorty" Shea.

Nixon Goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon said Monday night his goal in Indochina is to leave behind a South Vietnam capable of defending itself.

Nixon told the 80th Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution "the verdict of history will hinge upon how we stop" the war.

"Shall we move now in a way that ends the death toll only for Americans and only for a brief time?" Nixon said. "Or shall we act in a more difficult but wiser way, to leave behind a South Vietnam able to defend itself against Communist aggression and a Southeast Asia where peace is possible over the long term?

"I believe that Americans will support the wiser course, so that our grandchildren can remember the 1970s just as we remember thE 1770 —as a decade of honor, of hope, of new birth for America."

Nixon was the first president to address the DAR in 17 years.

Teachers Barred

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Parents still embittered by the recently settled 11-week teachers strike stood outside schools Monday and barred entrance to about 100 teachers.

Mrs. Carole A. Graves, black president of the predominantly white Newark Teachers Union (NTU) said: "We are insisting that they be let in. The whole purpose of this strike was the right to work without job interference."

About 4,000 of the city's 4,400 teachers showed up for work Monday. All schools officially remained open during the strike, but half the teachers and half the 78,000 students stayed away.

Most of the teachers turned away were strikers returning to schools in predominantly black areas where sentiment ran strongest against the strike.

IRS Warns On Withholding Under Payment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Many taxpayers may find next April that taxes withheld from their pay will not cover their actual bills, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Those running the risk, the IRS said Monday, should ask their employers to increase withholding.

IRS spokesmen said underwithholding can occur because rates have been adjusted to allow for the 13 per cent standard deduction taken by those who can gain nothing by itemizing their deductions. The ceiling on the standard deduction is $1,500, and since the withholding is spread out over the entire year, the total can prove to be considerably less than the individual will wind up having to pay.

The IRS said those who anticipate itemizing deductions in excess of 13 per cent of their salaries do not have to worry about being underwithheld.

Under-withholding would be most likely to occur for persons earning $11,500 a year or more, the IRS said.

Harris Keynoter For Earth Day

David Harris, a national symbol of draft resistance, will give the keynote address at Sonoma State College's Earth Day observance Thursday at noon.

Harris, husband of folk singer Joan Baez and former Stanford University student body president, was paroled March 15 after serving 20 months in prison for refusal to be inducted into the Armed Forces. His appearance will be sponsored by the World Peace Organism.

In addition to Harris' speech in front of The Commons, the Earth Day celebration will include displays, films, lectures and discussions dealing with the need for positive environmental action.

Egypt Warning

GENEVA (UPI) — Egypt warned the United States and the Soviet Union today that their failure to agree on a comprehensive test ban treaty on nuclear weapons may force some non-nuclear countries to acquire atomic weapons of their own.

Cairo's negotiator at the Geneva disarmament conference, Hussein Khallaf, said an increasing number of such states "are or will be reaching the stage of nuclear proficiency." Whether they will turn into nuclear powers, he said, depends only on political decision."

Khallaf said it is becoming increasingly clear that on-site inspections to monitor a complete test ban no longer are necessary because of advances in long-range seismological detection of underground explosions. The United States insists on such inspections, the Soviet Union opposes them.

Mock Attack

TOKYO (UPI)—The Soviet destroyer steamed serenely through the Tsushima Strait between Japan and South Korea. Suddenly, three Japanese F86F fighter jets swooped down, buzzed the unsuspecting Russians at about 500 feet and snapped away with their cameras in a mock attack.

The incident occurred on March 10, during a war game conducted by the Japanese Self Defense Air Force and the Naval Defense Force. The defense ministry had said nothing about it until today, when the report appeared in the Tokyo Shimbun Newspaper.

Defense Agency Director Yasuhiro Nakasone said today the mock attack on the Soviet vessel was "a mistake on our part." He said the Japanese government apologized to the Russians the next day, and the Russians had chalked it off to human error.

Castro View

MIAMI (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro said Monday night President Nixon wants to patch up U.S. relations with Cuba but "there's not a chance" this will happen.

In a speech marking the 10th anniversary of his government's victory over the American-supported Bay of Pigs invasion by Cuban exiles, Castro rejected any U.S. overtures for stabilizing relations.

He also repeated his stand that Cuba would rather stay out of the Organization of American States (OAS) than be readmitted and declared that Cuba will continue supporting revolutionary movements in Latin America.

"A revolutionary wave is sweeping over the continent and seriously threatening imperialist domination," Castro said in remarks broadcast by Radio Havana and monitored in Miami.

Body Found; Is Believed Kate Webb's

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A body believed to be that of Catherine M. (Kate) Webb, United Press International bureau manager in Phnom Penh, has been found in a battle area 55 miles southwest of the capital.

Miss Webb, 28, and five other persons have been officially listed as missing since April 7. They were covering a battle on Highway 4 when Cambodian paratroop positions were overrun by Communist forces.

Advancing Cambodian troops found several bodies in the area last Friday. In accordance with Cambodian military procedure, all the bodies were burned on the spot but a Cambodian officer who had previously seen Miss Webb said she was among the dead.

Missing with Miss Webb were Toshiihi Suzuki, correspondent for the Japanese newsreel agency Nihon Denpa news; Chhim Sarath, UPI translator-driver in Phnom Penh; Cambodian freelance photographer Tea Kim Hieng and two Cambodian interpreters. Their fate was not known.

Two Cambodian army officer who found the body conferred at length with UPI representatives today and identified it as that of Miss Webb. One of the officers, Capt. Ouk Chan, said he had seen Miss Webb during an action about three months ago in the same general area.

Ouk Chan said the body bore a bullet wound in the chest. He said he and Lt. Ny Vanty cremated the body on the scene in accordance with Cambodian military custom.

Several other correspondents, including Robin Mannock of the Associated Press, escaped during the April 7 battle. Mannock, who was wounded in the assault, said Miss Webb told him when they reached the Cambodian positions along the road "I'm just going up to have a look. And then I'm going back to Phnom Penh."

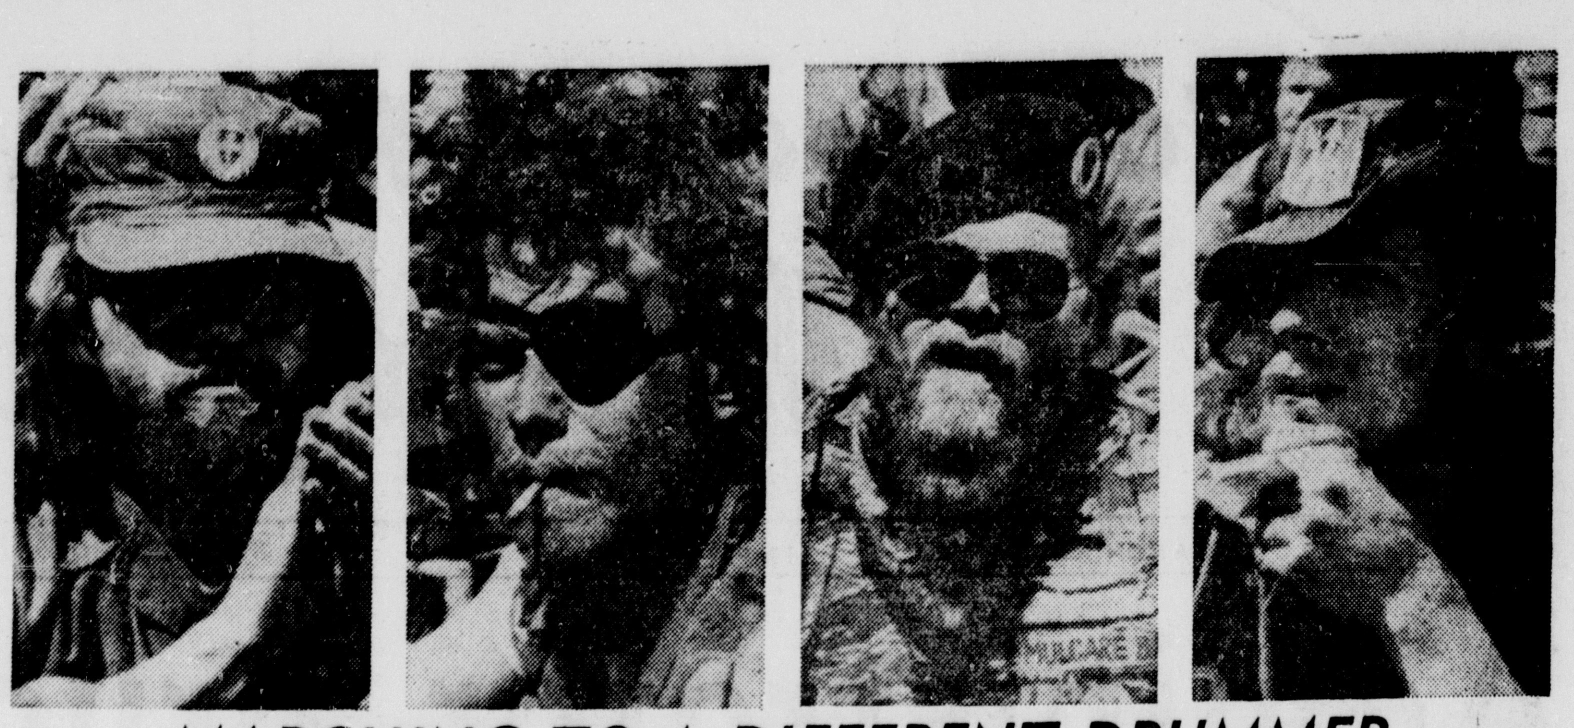
He said she moved forward several hundred yards and then the Communists opened fire on the Cambodian positions and minutes later overran the area.

Some other witnesses to the battle said they believed Miss Webb was captured by troops wearing North Vietnamese uniforms. However, all attempts to find if she was taken captive had proven fruitless.

Nine other correspondents have been killed in Cambodia and 17 previously have been reported missing.

Kate Webb —she insisted on being called Kate, not Catherine — was a gentle girl, feminine and quiet-spoken. But she also was brave, firm of action and was accepted in the man's world of reporting the war as a fine journalist.

As one of her competitors put it a few weeks ago, Kate was "a girl who looks as if she might lead the war cry for some girl's boarding school. But there it is. Kate is a murmur. But listen carefully. She knows what she's talking about."



MARCHING TO A DIFFERENT DRUMMER

Four faces in a crowd of Vietnam veterans protesting the war's continuation in Washington yesterday told the story of their dissent. As one vet, James Pursewell, 22, put it, "I lost my youth in Vietnam, and that's why I'm against this war." He was among 1,000 veterans against the war who began a weeklong vigil encamped at the foot of the Capitol. The demonstrators were largely peaceful though some were bitter over being denied entrance to Arlington National Cemetery to pay homage to fallen comrades.

Units Pose For A Shau Valley Push

SAIGON (UPI) —American helicopters killed 12 North Vietnamese troops and spotted the bodies of another 18 Communists killed in U.S. air strikes in probing operations preparatory to the Allied drive into the A Shau Valley, military spokesmen said today.

Military sources said the main force of South Vietnamese units were maneuvering outside the 35-mile-long valley waiting for orders to move in. Thousands of U.S. and South Vietnamese troops were set for the offensive but no large units had gone in as yet.

Reconnaissance teams from both the South Vietnamese and U.S. armies kept up hit and run strikes into the valley Monday, probing for Communist weak points in preparation for the main invasion force, officers said.

Helicopter units of the 101st Airborne Division Monday attacked 18 miles southwest of the former imperial capital of Hue. The area is 12 miles east of the main part of the valley.

The helicopter crewmen reported no casualties in their air-to-ground battle in which 12 Communist troops were killed. Military sources said the 18 dead North Vietnamese spotted by the same chopper crews had been killed by jet fighterbomber strikes, 51 of which were called in over the past week.

Far to the south, Communist gunners shot down a U.S. UH1 Huey helicopter Monday at a point 24 miles northwest of Saigon.

U.S.-Israeli Talks In Critical Stage

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said today Israel was asking the United States for guarantees that Russian and Egyptian troops would not cross the Suez Canal if Israel makes a partial withdrawal in an effort to defuse the newest Mideast crisis.

The Israeli reports said the U.S.-Israeli talks had reached the "make or break" point.

The new crisis blew up when Egypt, Syria and Libya formed an Arab Federation to consolidate their strength against Israel and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat announced there would be no more negotiations with Israel, no abandoning of one inch of Arab territory and no relinquishing of bargaining on the Palestine question.

It began growing last week when the United States disclosed that the Soviet Union had begun supplying Egypt with new MIG23 planes said to be able to outperform the American F4 Phantom, Israeli military sources said today Soviet technicians have begun building a naval base at Mersa Matruh, 170 miles west of Alexandria, Egypt.

The New York Times reported today the United States is in the process of delivering 12 .943 F4s to Israel and is considering Tel Aviv's requests for more. It said the decision was taken by the Nixon administration to maintain Israel's balance of power and convince Israeli leaders that differences of opinion would not halt the flow of advanced arms to Israel.

At the same time the Soviet news agency Tass accused the United States of building up its military potentials in the Mediterranean in direct proximity of the seats of tension in the Middle East. It cited reports the U.S. Navy was sending in the aircraft carrier Itrepid, plus antisubmarine forces and a helicopter unit with the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Israeli diplomatic sources said Israel's terms for reopening the Suez Canal were taken to Washington by deputy Premier Yiegal Allon for discussion with U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers at a working luncheon today.

The terms were said to call for a limited Israeli withdrawal and not abandonment of the entire Sinai Desert, plus Israeli representation on any international patrols overseeing demilitarization of the Canal Zone. They also were said to be outside the mediation mission of U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

U.N. Secretary General Thant took note of the growing crisis Monday and warned that "now is the last chance for peace in the Middle East."

Soviet Air Base Action In Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI)—The Soviet Union has begun setting up a jet fighter base in Ceylon at the request of the government of Prime Minster Siramavo Bandaranaike, diplomatic sources said today. The base would be the first Soviet military installation in non-Communist Asia.

The sources said Soviet crews arrived in secret the past weekend and are staying in a remote hotel five miles from Colombo's military and civil airport where the MIG17 base will be located.

The first of the Soviet jets were expected to arrive immediately, the sources said. Diplomatic circles were uncertain of the details of the Moscow-Colombo agreement and whether the base was permanent or temporary.

Nor was it immediately clear what role the Soviets would play in the Ceylon's student uprising which Mrs. Bandaranaike's government was struggling against. Several other foreign countries have already sent arms and equipment to Ceylon to help put down the rebellion.

But it was known that one of Ceylon's most pressing needs was air support for the island nation's ground forces. Air support so far against the two-week-old rebellion has been limited.

Sonoma Water Agency Plans Round On Aqueduct Financing

By M. STREET BROOKS

Sonoma Water Agency directors voted yesterday to set up a tri-district meeting May 12 in Novato to review financing for the proposed $47.7 million Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct.

Gordon Miller, chief engineer of the Sonoma agency, said he would contact directors of the Marin Municipal Water District and the North Marin Water District to arrange the conference.

Miller was responsible Thursday for introduction in the Assembly of legislation to permit Marin Municipal to finance its $21.6 million share of the project without voter approval of bond issues.

The first bill would allow the Marin district to borrow $18 million from the Sonoma agency. The district would then repay the agency from revenue over a 20-to-30-year period.

If the first bill failed to pass, a second would allow creation of a special district, incorporating Marin Municipal, the Sonoma agency and the North Marin district. Voters in the consolidated district would then be asked to approve a $47.7 million bond issue.

Marin Municipal directors have undertaken a reassessment of the project aimed at determining if an aqueduct is really wanted. Other methods of satisfying future water needs are under consideration, as are the consequences of any abandonment of the project.

The bills enabling Marin Municipal directors to bypass the voters in funding the project was introduced Thursday by Assemblyman Frank P. Belotti, R-Eureka, after Robert Beckus, a lobbyist for the Association of Bay Area Governments and other organizations, carried them to Belotti's office from the office of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Bagley had refused earlier to introduce the bills on the ground they appeared to violate a pledge by the water district to finance the project in a series of bond elections.

Beckus was chosen as messenger, Miller said, because he was acquainted with a member of the Sonoma Water Agency's board of directors.

There is now opposition to the proposed methods of financing among members of the Marin Municipal board and director Eugene A. Miller said he will make a motion at the board's April 28 meeting to oppose the bills in favor of local approval — or rejection — at a proposed November bond election and subsequent bond votes.

"I had to keep the door open," Gordon Miller said yesterday of the introduction of the bills. "I felt that we had to stay together until we got a chance to meet and decide what to do. We've got a project here that has to keep moving."

Miller said the legislation would be the only way to guarantee financing for the project.

"Our board favors the revenue bonding approach," he said.

Miller said water use projections in Sonoma indicate water rationing might be necessary in 1972 and would be "almost certain" in 1973.

The project is scheduled for completion in 1974, and Miller said that if the bills were not introduced during the current legislative session, it would set work back one year.

Fine, Probation In Pot Case

Jack Martin Kelly, 22, and Ruth M. Herr, 30, both of Tamalpais Valley, were fined $250 each yesterday in Marin Superior Court for a misdemeanor conviction of possessing marijuana.

Judge E. Warren McGuire also placed Kelly on probation for two years and Mrs. Herr for one year.

The pair earlier had pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to felony charges of cultivating the weed, but their attorneys and Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales stipulated yesterday that they had pleaded to possession charges, which were then declared misdemeanors by Judge McGuire.

They were arrested Feb. 2 when drug agents raided their residence with a search warrant obtained after marijuana plants were seen growing near a door of the house.

Bill To Give ABAG Teeth Is Introduced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to transform the Association of Bay Area Governments into a regional planning district — with power to enforce its plans — has been introduced for ABAG by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek.

The measure was ABAG's legislative counter to a bill previously introduced by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, to create a new regional planning agency in the Bay Area. Knox's agency would be run by a directly elected board, contrary to ABAG's insistence that it run any new regional agency.

The association, a voluntary group of city councilmen and county supervisors, now has no power to enforce its plans and no power to force local governments to belong to it. In Sonoma County, for example, voters today are balloting on a measure to withdraw from ABAG.

Nejedly also introduced a bill to give ABAG power over regional planning for water quality controls. This also was a counter to a separate bill by Knox creating a new regional sewerage planning agency.

Nejedly told the Independent-Journal that he had not read the bills yet. He siad he had introduced them at ABAG's request on ⅛riday —the last day to introduce bills this session.

Transformation of ABAG into a regional planning district under a 1963 law would require approval by two-thirds of the region's 91 city councils and by two-thirds of the nine boards of supervisors.

Reconstituted as a statutory agency, ABAG then could finance itself with a maximum property tax of one-half cent per $100 assessed valuation.

Creek Sweep Supported By Mill Valley Council

A citywide cleanup of Mill Valley's four creeks received an endorsement and a promise of help from the Mill Valley City Council last night.

Councilmen said they heartily endorsed the foot-by-foot cleanup, planned for May 22, and said a city truck could be used by the work crew.

Pat Briggs, representing the environmental task force of the Marin Alternative, said several service groups have pledged to supply volunteer workers for the 10 a.m. to noon creek sweep.

Trash collected would be recycled if possible, she said, through Whole Systems, Inc., which plans to begin door-to-door collection of refuse in Mill Valley and Alto next month.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

REZONING — Instructed staff to prepare an ordinance rezoning two acres owned by J. C. Novak at 477 Cascade Drive from planned residential to single-family residential, one-acre lots.

PLAN — Approved a general development plan for a 188-unit apartment development on Richardson Bay near Sabella's restaurant. Applicant Sanford N. Diller now must receive final approval from the city planning commission for his 14.95-acre development.

DUPLEX — Asked the city attorney to investigate the building of a garage and studio at 10 Manor Terrace to see if it violates the city zoning ordinance. Some neighbors have complained that a legal nonconforming duplex on the property is being expanded by construction of the studio.

POND — Approved the concept of a pond in a park to be built and given to the city in connection with Peter Heywood's 68-unit apartment project at Sycamore Avenue and La Goma Street.

METERS — Postponed for further study a plan to eliminate four parking meters in the city hall parking lot to allow for more employee parking.

BOND ISSUE — Adopted an ordinance setting June 29 for a $1.8 million capital improvements bond issue.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the public library to consider items from last night's agenda.

Surplus Car Sale By City Of Novato

The City of Novato will sell six surplus sedans at public auction at 10 a.m. Saturday at the city hall parking lot, Sherman Street and De Long Avenue.

The cars will be available for inspection Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and from 8 a.m. until auction time Saturday, the city reported.

Hearing Set On Check Fraud

Valerie Dray, 18, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent to a charge of check fraud yesterday in Marin Municipal Court after it was reported that her case was not acceptable to juvenile court.

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Miss Dray, who is also known as Valerie Sheele, was arrested Feb. 3 when she attempted to cash a $50 money order at a San Rafael Tavern. Police said the check had been stolen from Payless Drug Store in San Rafael the day before.

Sewer Work Rate Hikes Criticized

Two irate property owners and two trade organizations last night complained to the Mill Valley City Council about recent increases in sewer connection fees but won no reduction.

The council said it was sympathetic to their plight but refused to reconsider a March 15 emergency ordinance raising sewer connection fees for homes from $235 to $335 and for businesses from $365 to $500.

NO NOTICE

One homeowner, John E. Nicholson, of 57 Sycamore Avenue, complained that no notice was given of an impending fee increase.

He said he understood the council passed the ordinance so the increased fees would apply to the Shelter Ridge apartments, which were almost ready to apply for building permits.

About $20,000 was collected by the city as a result of the new fees, most of it from the Shelter Ridge project, said councilman Jerome C. Hauke.

Nicholson said he thought "a lot of little fish were caught with the big one (Shelter Ridge). I resent this."

Kent O. Seymour, a real estate agent representing Maybelle M. Dore, owner of an office building at 448 Miller Avenue, said his client understood there would be a $15 fee to add a bathroom for one of her tenants.

When a permit and an inspection were requested, however, the contractor was informed of the $500 fee, Seymour said.

"Since the bathroom only cost $725, I doubt very much if Mrs. Dore will go ahead with it," Seymour said.

ALSO OBJECTING

Also objecting to the fee increase, were David G. Greenlee, executive manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, and Samuel H. De Lisle, executive director of the Plumbing, Heating and cooling contractors association.

Mayor George E. Wickham, however, said the fees were under consideration four or five months ago and a hearing on the council's March 15 action was advertised to the public.

Nicholson said he objected to the ethics in adopting the new fee schedule with little warning and councilman Hauke agreed.

"I concur that you were treated unethically and in a hurried fashion," he said. "But we needed that money. All we can do is apologize."

"You can do more than that," Nicholson retorted. "You can change your policies so this doesn't happen again."

Silent Protest Wins In Subdivision Case

A silent majority got its message across to the San Rafael City Council last night.

A group of about 40 residents of the Makin Grade area attended the council's meeting in opposition to a proposed five-lot subdivision on Lower Toyon Drive.

An attorney spoke for them, and the group remained silent through the meeting and exited silently when the council rejected the subdivision proposal.

At issue was an appeal of planning commission disapproval of the subdivision plan.

The owner of the property proposed for subdivision, Gibraltar Savings and Loan Association of Northern California, argued that its subdivision plan was essentially the same as one approved by the council in 1965.

That approval expired when the previous owners of the property failed to submit a detailed master plan of the subdivision to the city's planning commission within a year.

San Francisco attorney W. M. Pinney Jr., representing Gibraltar, urged the council to overrule the planning commission, saying there was no substantial change from the subdivision approved in 1965.

But San Rafael attorney Herbert K. Walton Jr., representing the silent residents of Upper Toyon Drive and Estates Court, noted that the 1965 approval was given nine months before adoption of the city's slope ordinance, which set width requirements based on the percentage of slope of the property.

Each of the five lots in the propsoed subdivision was less than the minimum width required by the slope ordinance.

Pinney said he had no answer when Councilman John A. Miskimen asked what the hardship was that required five lots.

The council denied the appeal unanimously.

The San Rafael City Council also:

BIDS — Awarded a contract for resurfacing tennis courts at Boyd and Gerstle parks to Malott and Peterson-Grundy of San Francisco for $3,454, lowest of five bids, and a contract for grading at Boyd Park to the only bidder, Piombo Brothers of San Rafael, for 69 cents a cubic yard, up to the $5,000 budgeted for the project.

APPEAL — Reversed planning commission denial of a use permit for construction of three buildings by Holiday Magic Inc. at 529 Jacoby Street. The council conditioned its approval of the use permit with the requirement that the property be included in a drainage assessment district, plans for which should be completed this summer.

ZONING — Rezoned property at 100 Channing Way from high rise to planned community to permit development of a 254-unit apartment complex, and approved revised planned community master plans at 4040 Civic Center Drive;replacing previously proposed movie theater, furniture store, retail shop and service station with a motel, restaurant, office building and service station, and at 4050-4100 Redwood Highway, replacing a previously planned service station and commercial-apartment building with a restaurant and parking area, as well as previously approved residential buildings, a commercial building and commercial building with apartments above.

FIRE ZONE — On the recommendation of building inspector Jack Coates, moved eastern boundary of fire zone 1 from Irwin Street to Hetherton Street, with the other boundaries, roughly Second, E and Fourth Streets, remaining unchanged. Miskimen voted against the move, saying the entire fire zone, which requires higher construction standards, should be eliminated. The other councilmen agreed with Coates that elimination of the zone should not be considered until after discussions with fire insurance underwriters.

ROAD — Agreed to a two-year extension, until June 30, 1974, of a joint powers agreement with Marin County for improvements to South San Pedro Road.

FIRE TRUCK — Approved specifications and called for bids to be opened May 26 for a new fire department pumping engine. Estimated cost of the truck is $40,000.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for May 3 on an ordinance designed to protect San Rafael shorelines and waterways.

BOARD — Announced three positions on the San Rafael Library Board will be filled at the council's next meeting, May 3. City Mgr. James H. McCown said James H. Mayer and Bryce W. Anderson, whose terms are expiring, have expressed interest in being reappointed. Chairman Eleanor G. Murray has retired.

BONDS — Adjourned to 7 p.m. today to open bids for the sale of $1,105,000 worth of sewer bonds.

Nixon War Policy Called 'Morally Impoverished'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., charged today that President Nixon's Indochina policy is "morally impoverished." He said Congress should change that policy and force an end to the war by Dec. 31 of this year.

"The assumption is that if we can support the Thieu-Ky regime's continuing the war, but have fewer Americans die while Asian blood continues to be spilled, then this war is somehow less wrong, and more tolerable," Hatfield testified at new Senate hearings on the war.

"I believe such a policy is morally impoverished ... In order to end the fighting, we must set the withdrawal date (of U. S. forces) and seek the establishment of a cease-fire."

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S. D., who is jointly sponsoring with Hatfield a proposal calling for a Dec. 31 total pullout, received cheers and shouts of approval when he appeared and testified in behalf of the end-of-the-year disengagement.

McGovern was leadoff witness at the start of three days of hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on proposals to end the war.

Shouts of "right on!" and other remarks came from an estimated 100 vets in the audience as McGovern said that the United States was guilty of "crimes against humanity" every day the war continued.

But the veterans hissed and booed Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., when Case—a member of the committee—questioned McGovern.

He received boos when he told McGovern he questioned the statement by the South Dakotan that the United States should admit it made a mistake in Vietnam.

Pounding his fist on the table, Case shouted to Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to "keep order here."

McGovern refused to alter his statement "We have been in error," he said. "We can't go on telling the American people this is a great venture ... and the honor of the United States is at stake there."

The veterans stood up and cheered, whistled and shouted as McGovern entered the room.

"I submit that America will be a greater, more self confident, and more respected nation if ... we exercise our constitutional responsibilities to terminate support for a war that we know is wrong," McGovern testified in calling for a Dec. 31 cutoff.

"Mr. Nixon's Vietnamization policy virtually guarantees that our prisoners will remain in their cells, that our troops will remain in danger, that the negotiations will be stalled, and that the killing will continue."

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., who proposes disengagement within 30 days, underscored arguments of McGovern, saying that only by setting a firm date for total withdrawal could negotiations proceed on a ceasefire and on return of war prisoners.

Five Indicted In Giant Stock Scheme

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A former president of a New Jersey bank was indicted today along with four stockbrokers in connection with an alleged scheme involving the purchase—partly with bank funds—of more than $200 million worth of stocks.

The former bank president named in an indictment by a federal grand jury was Douglas James Schotte, 39, Lincroft, N.J. He formerly was head of the Eatontown (N.J.) National Bank. He was accused of illegal use of more than $10 million in bank funds to purchase stock in 26 corporations.

According to the 177-page indictment, returned at Newark, N.J., and announced by Attorney General John N. Mitchell, the scheme involved the purchase of more than $200 million worth of common stocks over a 13-month period from July 1, 1969, to August 7, 1970.

The Eatontown National Bank was closed Aug. 8, 1970, by federal bank examiners.

The stockbrokers indicted were:

—William A. Certilman, 35, Scarsdale, N.Y., formerly employed by the brokerage firm of T. P. O. Inc., New York City, as its supervisor of branch operations.

—Bertram E. Cutler, 44, Bricktown, N.J., and James Perry, 30, Paramus, N.J., both former employees of T.P.O. Inc.

—Emmett W. Cox, Jr., 49, Oakhurst, N.J., employed by the brokerage firm of Thompson, McKinnon and Auchincloss of Asbury Park, N.J. Cox was an under sheriff of Monmouth County in 1946 and 1965.

All five defendents were charged with conspiracy and with 168 counts of misapplication of funds.

The grand jury charged that they conspired to misapply $10,260,999 in funds of the Eatontown bank by having Schotte purchase common stocks in the name of the bank and then issue cashiers' checks to pay for them.

The indictment also charged that illegal bank loans totalling more than $1 million were made to the brokers. Certilman was alleged to have received $568,698, Cox $345,590, Perry $150,764, and Cutler $69,632.

The brokers received more than $400,000 in commissions from misapplied bank funds in return for handling Schotte's stock transactions, the grand jury charged.

the Court upheld in its entirety the district judge's orders requiring the bussing of 23,000 more children than had been transported the previous year. He had been reversed on bussing younger pupils by the 4th U.C. Circuit Court of Appeals.

"The remedial techniques used in the district court's order were within that court's power to provide equitable relief," Burger said. "implementation of the decree is well within the capacity of the school authority."

The opinion noted: "an objection to transportation of students may have validity when the time or distance of travel is so great as to risk either the health of the children or significantly impinge on the educational process."

District courts, it added, "must weigh the soundness of any transportation plan" in light of today's guidelines.

Besides the cases involving Charlotte-Mecklenburg and the North Carolina bussing law, the Court decided two cases from Georgia and Alabama.

The Georgia Supreme Court struck down on June 15 a plan by the Clarke County, Ga., Board of Education for corss-bussing of white and black children. School authorities in the district, which includes Athens, were working for a 20 to 40 per cent white-black ratio in each school.

Burger, reversing the state supreme court, held that the school board "as part of its affirmative duty to disestablish the dual school system, properly took into account the race of its elementary school children in drawing attendance lines."

The Alabama case was appealed by Negro parents of Mobile County, after the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals approved a desegregation plan under which about 25 per cent of the 71,000 students would attend all-black schools. The plan supposedly embodied the neighborhood school concept.

Burger said the record showed the circuit court "felt constrained to treat the eastern part of metropolitan Mobile in isolation from the rest of the school system and that inadequate consideration was given to the possible use of bus transportation and split zoning."

The decision of the 5th Circuit was therefore reversed.

Antiwar March Wins Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Board of Supervisors by a 5-3 vote, gave approval Monday to a resolution recognizing an anti-war march in San Francisco.

The resolution reaffirmed the city policy in favor of an immediate cease fire and the withdrawal of American troops from Southeast Asia.

Saturday, the day the Peace Action Coalition is holding the march, was designated in the resolution as a "day of public determination to end the war in Vietnam."

Hearing Set On Unity Plan

A public hearing on amendments to the state-approved unification plan for the San Rafael and Dixie school districts will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the San Rafael High School auditorium, the Marin County Committee on School District Organization announced.

Amendments to the plan, which was rejected by voters several years ago, include increasing Dixie teachers' pay to bring it into line with San Rafael teachers and a proposal to cut the proposed unified school board from seven members to five.

Under state law, the two districts must hold a unification election in June 1972.

Korean Pullout

WASHINGTON (UPI) —South Korea plans to withdraw soon up to 15,000 of the approximately 50,000 troops it has in South Vietnam, it was disclosed Tuesday.

two minutes afterward, Hdges screamed into the microphone, "The Giants win the pennant! The Giants win the pennant!"

It was also in New York that Hodges's trademark phrase "Bye, Bye, Baby" came into being. He brought it with him when the Giants moved to San Francisco in 1958, and used it everytime a Giant hit a home run.

Hodges was one of the last of the "old school" of sportscasters capable of broadcasting several sports. Even after joining the Giants in 1949, he continued to call fights, basketball games and football games.

His greatest love by far, however, was baseball, and the major league teams he announced for included the Yankees, the Cincinatti Reds and the Chicago Red Sox. One of his proudest accomplishments was that he had seen every one of Willie May's 628 career home runs prior to this season.

Horace Stoneham, owner and president of the Giants, said, "I was associated with Russ for more than 20 years and always found him to be a gentleman and a fine sportscaster." He said the announcer's death was "a great personal loss."

Lon Simmons, who began his broadcasting career under Hodges and became the No. 1 Giants announcer when he retired, was obviously shaken. "I've missed Russ since he decided to retire as an active broadcaster. Now I'll miss him even more," he said. "We had one argument in 13 years, and Russ just told me to meet him in the bar in five minutes. I did and it was forgotten."

National League president Charles Feeney said it was "a tremendous loss to me, to the city and to baseball. He was one of the finest men I knew."

Hodges is survived by his wife, Gay; a son Pat, of Burlingame, and a daughter, Judy, now living in Florida.

Services will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley. The family prefers contributions to a favorite charity.

others that all are traded equally."

Justice Christian, who was appointed to the appellate court in 1966 by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, was also called to Marin County in December when San Quentin convict Magee challenged Judge Wilson.

Justice Christian ruled that no evidence had been presented to substantiate Magee's claim, but Judge Wilson later voluntarily withdrew.

Christian, a Stanford Law School graduate, is a former Sierra County Superior Court judge and was once district attorney in that county.

Scott's Oscar In A Locked Cabinet

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George C. Scott's unwanted Oscar sits in a locked cabinet and it will stay there until the actor or a bonafide representative signs for it, a spokesman for the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences said today.

The producer of "Patton," Frank McCarthy, accepted the award at the presentations last Thursday, but returned the award to the Academy immediately after the presentation, on Scott's request.

of the Tiburon commuter ferry and bay cruises.

The district's teeterboard day in Sacramento had its brighter moment, however, as its transit plans were endorsed by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. His warm endorsement of the plans came in a hearing on them by the Senate Public Utilities and Corporations Committee.

Behr's endorsement was seen as significant because he was the only one of the committee's seven members whose senatorial district includes the bridge district.

Senate protocol generally provides that the fate of local matters are up to senators whose districts are involved. Behr's endorsement thus was expected to assure committee endorsement of the transit plans.

The chairman of the committee, Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, told the Independent-Journal that he expected the committee to endorse the plans. The district probably will need new legislation in future years to finance the plans, he said.

The plans envision a $331 million system of conventional buses and ferries in the immediate future, followed by addition of a bus rapid transit system using tunnels in downtown San Francisco and a second deck on the bridge.

Nejedly's bill, however, would bar the district for one year from acquiring, constructing or improving "any mode of transportation" except bus transit.

The urgency measure would become effective immediately upon passage by two-thirds votes in each house and signature by the governor.

The committee hearing on the transit plans failed to evoke expected criticism of the plans. Both Mills and the committee's staff had objected in recent weeks that the plans failed to consider rail transit fairly.

Mills was the only one of the committee's seven members absent. He left as district officials began presenting their plan, and he did not return.

The district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins of San Francisco, noted that Marin's population was too low to support a rail system. "You have to solve today's problem today," Jenkins said of the interim bus and ferry system.

Behr said the interim system was "the most sensible and early solution" to traffic congestion. "It will do the job, and in fact is the only system that can do the job in the time it has to be done," Behr declared.

He said that "the vast majority of the public has confidence in it (the bridge district)."

Alquist quizzed district officials on where they expected to raise almost $100 million they will need for the bus transit plan. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said "we have to make a positive assumption and try to get it."

Alquist observed that "one of our problems is always to regard capital outlay as a 'cost,' but when business does it, it's an 'investment.' " He noted that the bridge had cost $35 million, but had yielded "tremendous returns."

Alquist said his committee may make a field trip to inspect the bridge, but set no date for a further hearing on the district's plans.

The 1969 law that ordered the plans drawn required their submission to the 1971 Legislature. The law provided that the district would be free to pursue its plans if the Legislature did not act on them within 120 days.

buildings and sealed off the area. Mueller claimed to have 66 pounds of explosives and 75 gallons of gasoline, police said.

They said he also claimed to have an assault rifle and ammunition and threatened to shoot anyone on the street in the area after noon today.

Police said Mueller apparently had suffered a mental breakdown. He made his demand for cash as "compensation for all of the injustice, loss of freedom and defamation he has had to suffer over the past 30 years at the hands of Zurich, Swiss and military officials," police said.

OBITUARIES

Elizabeth C. Jaros Dies At 94

Elizabeth Caldwell Jaros, 94, died Sunday at the Tamalpais Retirement Home in Greenbrae following a short illness. No funeral is planned.

The daughter of a Confederate soldier who fought under the command of Gen. Jeb Stuart, Mrs. Jaros was born in 1877 in Arlington, Va.

She was a personnel director for 72 nurses in a Red Cross hospital unit during World War I, caring for the Allied wounded in Germany, France and Poland. In Podgoritza, she met Dr. Joseph F. Jaros, a captain. They were married in 1921.

Mrs. Jaros wrote books when she found time from her church work and helped establish a public library in the Chicago suburb of Riverside. One of her works, her family reports, a treatise on parent-child relationships, was quoted on radio by Eleanor Roosevelt and admired by Bertrand Russell.

Following the death of her husband, she moved in 1953 to a house near the Greenbrae home of her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Duval Jaros.

She kept house for herself until she was 87, was active in St. Mary's Guild of St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross, and was never known to turn down a bridge game.

Beside her son and two grandchildren, Mrs. Jaros is survived by a sister, Jane Ranson, Virginia's first female attorney.

Inurnment will be in Arlington, Va.

Key Factors In Approach Crash

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The death of 10 persons in a single collision on the San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge was cited today as justification for limiting the maximum speed capability of all cars to 80 miles an hour.

The National Transportation Safety Board, in a detailed analysis of the July 1970 collision of two cars on the approach, concluded that fewer would have died if one of the cars — going at least 100 miles an hour — had been going 20 miles an hour slower. There would then have been more time for evasive action, according to the analysis.

The board also recommended immediate closing to intracity traffic of the 19th Avenue interchange on the approach, at least until it is widened to freeway standards.

The board's recommendation on speed controls said that the limit should be "a speed no greater than the highest fixed legal speed limits of any state," which it added was 80.

Its report said that the accident may have been caused by a combination of high speed, alcohol, overloading one of the vehicles and an unexpected merger of a third vehicle at 19th Avenue.

The southbound speeding car skidded 321 feet into the northbound lanes. Its engine was found 272 feet beyond the point of impact.

Citing the approach roadway's narrow lanes and lack of a median barrier, the board noted that it had not been improved since it opened in 1937.

State highway officials stalled widening it for 15 years in an unsuccessful attempt to tie the project to a new freeway in San Francisco, but after the accident agreed to schedule the project next year.

The board said that 409 accidents occurred on the roadway during the past five years.

Official In Bribe Acquitted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A jury in U. S. District Court has acquitted Harold Gilbert Ellis, a former Hamilton Air Force Base building contracts official, of taking a bribe.

The jury returned the innocent verdict to charges of soliciting and receiving a bribe Friday in Judge Robert F. Peckhan's courtroom.

Ellis, 42, of 655 Midway Boulevard, Novato, was arrested last June by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents who said that they had watched him accept $175 from a Santa Rosa businessman in a Novato shopping center parking lot.

The Santa Rosan had tipped off the FBI that Ellis had offered to certify that his firm had installed $3,600 worth of pipe at Hamilton, when the work had not been done.

Humorist Nash Is Reported Critical

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Poet and humorist Ogden Nash, who once claimed the couplet "Candy is dandy but liquor is quicker" would be his only lines to survive him, remains near death today at the Johns Hopkins hospital.

Admitted to a hospital here March 13th for abdominal surgery, Nash, 68, took a turn for the worse over the weekend. He was transferred to Hopkins yesterday for treatment with a machine designed to take over the work of his kidneys—which a hospital spokesman said temporarily had failed. His condition still was listed as critical.

Special Items Cut By Education Board

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Board of Education last night lopped about $56,000 from the local taxpayers' $1.5 million share of the county schools office's $4 million budget proposed for fiscal 1971-72.

The meeting, which began with some board members announcing their intention to keep the tax rate at this year's level of 21 cents per $100 assessed valuation, ended with expressions of disbelief at the meagerness of the cuts.

With employee salary requests and smaller budget items still to be considered, the county schools office tax rate estimated for Next year now stands at 23.7 cents.

That figure, Asst. Supt. Byron W. Mauzy told the board, would produce county revenues totaling about $1,492,000 which will be added to state and federal funds of $2,452,000. This year's 21 cent figure raised $1,216,862 in a total budget of $3,669,327.

Teachers have requested a 5 per cent cost-of-living hike plus salary schedule changes which if approved would add a combined total of $58,000 to the budget or about one cent on the tax rate.)

In trimming the special education terms last night, the board scotched staff requests for a part-time psychologist, physical education teacher, teacher's aide for the trainable mentally retarded program, a part-time nutritionist, a rain shelter at Marindale School and $5,000 to be cut from the Magnolia Park School program.

The cuts also included one existing teaching position at the Marin County Juvenile Hall.

The remaining budget items to be considered by the board at its May 3 meeting include the headstart, children's center and preschool programs which have a combined total of about $460,000 — of which $150,000 is local money.

Left untouched by the board was a staff proposal to increase the county schools' vocational training program from $194,211 this year to $257,628 next year.

The program, called the Regional Occupational Program, offers training in a wide range of occupations to provide basic job skills.

The $63,000 increase is slated for a new business office training course in Marin City at a cost of $25,000, a reserve of about $18,000 and expanded programs in the original seven courses which range from auto mechanics to plastics technology.

Flournoy Named To Workmen's Appeals Board

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — James L. Flournoy, unsuccessful Republican candidate for secretary of state last year, has been appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan to a $33,396 seat on the State Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board.

Flournoy, 55, a Los Angeles attorney long active in Republican politics, will succeed George A. Jackson of Los Angeles, whose term expired.

Flournoy was defeated in his election bid last November by Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr. Flournoy was the first Negro ever to be nominated by a major political party for statewide office in California.

Horseshoe Combat For Twin Cities

The Corte Madera Town Council and the Larkspur City Council will engage in "ancient and honorable, nonviolent and nonlethal combat" by competing in a horseshoe contest during the Twin Cities Fourth of July celebration.

The Corte Madera Town Council last night accepted "with enthusiasm" the formal challenge issued by the celebration committee. Each council will provide 2 two-man teams July 3 at Corte Madera Town Park.

The challenge was read at the town council meeting last night and plans for arduous practice sessions were outlined. Town Manager Ronald E. Bartels offered to serve as "towel boy."

It was not determined which of the five councilman will act as a substitute during the contest, but preliminary competition among the Town's Councilmen is anticipated.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

MEMBERS — Appointed Grant E. Waggoner of Tiburon to the Sanitary Commission; reappointed Jack Hauser and C.W. Thomas to the Planning Commission. Their terms would have expired May 1.

NOISE — Put over to May 3 a proposed ordinance regulating sound transmission in apartment units.

TAMALPAIS DRIVE — Set a special meeting of all town commissions May 4 to meet with the architect on the landscape criteria for Tamalpais Drive reconstruction.

HANDI-KUP — Agreed to a 90-day extension to allow the Handi-Kup Co. time to reevaluate the existing cooling system. The plant has been emitting steam near Highway 101 due to an inefficient cooling tower which the company hopes to revise.

ASSESSMENT DISTRICT — Unanimously approved resolutions forming and beginning work on a special assessment district for Hawthorne Lane residents and appointing Arthur N. Morrison and Sherrod S. Davis as engineer and attorney. Work is estimated to cost the town $3,300 and the residents $13,000 for paving, culverts and a fireline.

SAN QUENTIN — Approved a resolution urging tighter security measures at the prison and transfer of the "disproportionate fiscal burden" of related costs from the county to the state.

YOUTH WEEK — Proclaimed the first week of May as Youth Week in Corte Madera, in accordance with a request from the Elks Club.

BILLS — Opposed an assembly bill which would limit town's control over development through use permits and zoning variances; opposed an assembly bill that would authorize strikes by public employees; opposed a Senate bill that would require building inspectors to be licensed; and opposed an assembly bill that would put the cost of printing and handling candidates' statements on public agencies rather than the candidates.

Land Prezoning Plan Moves Ahead

The Corte Madera Town Council last night gave preliminary approval — amid public warnings that it watch its step — to prezoning for residential use 73 acres of unincorporated land in the eastern portion of town. (Another Corte Madera council story, page 1.)

A 642-unit housing development has been proposed for the land south of the Koch Luggage plant. Annexation of the area to the town was approved last week by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission.

A standing-room-only audience of approximately 65 persons crowded the council's meeting room at town hall to hear details of the proposal. Highlighting the session were remarks by:

A geologist, Earl W. Hart of 6 Vista Court, Corte Madera, who called the area "a can of worms geologically" and said he was "concerned about the stability" of parts of the land.

Another resident, Reg MacDonough of 25 Sonora Way, who referred to the prezoning as "a shotgun wedding" because "we want the land so we can develop it the way we want, but we don't really want what we have to have to get it."

Worried residents who voiced concern about overcrowding schools and overloading highway arteries with additional traffic from the proposed development.

Speakers from the audience repeatedly admonished councilmen to handle the planning of the development with care.

After listening to the hour-long public discussion of the prezoning, councilmen unanimously approved initiation of a general plan amendment to prezone the land R-2, (medium density residential use). The amendment is expected to be adopted at the meeting May 3.

Residents expressed frustration that more specific details concerning the development were not available. The developers, E. C. Harter and Odenthal Investment Co. of Orinda, have presented only conceptual plans for the housing units.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst sketched a general picture of the development which will be built over a 10-year period. It will consist of apartments, clusters of townhouses and a large number of condominiums in the moderate-income housing price range, Colthurst said.

He said the key to development lies in obtaining acquisition of an abandoned railroad right-of-way so access can be provided from Paradise Drive to the development, tentatively called Madera Del Presidio.

When asked what the advantage of annexation would be to Corte Madera, James W. McClintock, chairman of the planning commission, said, "Basically, the only advantage is that we will have some control over what goes in there." The Planning Commission approved the prezoning last month.

Presently, the unincorporated land comes under the county's jurisdiction.

Under existing zoning, McClintock said, it would be possible for the county to allow approximately 3,100 units to be built on the land. (The proposed development would cluster 642 units on the same amount of land).

"I'm not going to insult your intelligence by saying we're going to gain a tax base from this development. We're not," McClintock said. "I do not anticipate that this type of development will be a burden to the taxpayers, but it's not going to cut your taxes back either."

He repeated that annexation would give the town control over development of the land, adding, "If it's developed in the county, it could be most anything — flea markets or what have you."

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels told the gathering Corte Madera has "extremely tight design review standards" and "we wouldn't have this kind of control with the county."

One suggestion from the audience was to prezone the land R-1 which has a lower density ratio than the proposed R-2. However, Colthurst said existing town ordinances make no provision for design review control in R-1.

The next suggestion, to revise the ordinances, went unheeded.

Councilman Robert P. Simmons did not take part in the discussion or vote. He earlier disqualified himself from participation in proceedings because of a conflict of interest; he is the accountant for the developer.

Bomb Blasts Bank's Facade In Berkeley

BERKELEY (UPI) —The Ashby Ave. branch of the Bank of America was shaken by an explosion which was almost a carbon copy of one there about six weeks ago.

There were no injuries reported and a police spokesman said there were no suspects.

As was the case with the March 3 blast, about 10 windows were broken in the front of the bank and 4 in a Chinese restaurant across the street. Wooden facing also was blown off the front facade of the bank.

"I think they got the same damn boards," the spokesman said.

Police sealed off the area while they investigated the 3:30 a.m. PST blast.

BUICK BARGAIN DAYS ARE HERE

Buick Bargain Days are saving days.™

A bargain price on a stripped-down car is no bargain.
But a Buick or Opel at a bargain is something else again.
Because we're not selling some special stripped-down model.
We're selling Buicks and Opels, the same great cars we've sold all year.

With one difference. The deals have never been better.
Which means that you can move out in a new Buick or Opel at a price that's hard to believe.
When Buick talks about a bargain, we give you something to believe in.

Opel 1900 Sport Coupe. With a 1.9 liter engine that operates efficiently on low-lead or no-lead gasolines, hydraulic valve lifters for quiet engine operation, power front disc brakes and more.

Skylark Custom. With Buick's exclusive nickel-plated engine exhaust valves for smoother operation on today's cleaner fuels, Comfort-Flo ventilation system and more.

GM MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Your Buick-Opel dealer will give you better reasons to buy a new car now than anybody else.

The business of auto safety.

Auto safety is everyone's concern. But it's our business.

And we think the attention that's being paid to auto safety now is a good thing. Because it will result in better driving for everyone.

And, frankly, better driving for everyone means better business for us.

We say Buick is something to believe in. That's why we're trying to make it easy to be safe by putting in safety features that work by themselves. You don't have to do anything to make them work.

Like side guard beams. And the energy absorbing steering column. And the cargo guard between the trunk and back seat. They start "working" even before you get in the car.

But two safety features, two of the most vital, are worthless unless you do something first.

Seat and shoulder belts.

Unfastened they do nothing. And you've seen enough statistics to know what a difference they can make. So use them.

But that's not all you can do. Because the most effective safety feature of all can't be added to our cars or anybody else's.

That feature is you. And the way you drive.

Which should be defensively. And rested. And sober.

We're all in this together. And together we can solve the auto safety problem once and for all.

And the time is now.

'Earth Week' At San Marin High

Students at San Marin High School, Novato, will observe "Earth Week" with two days of activity, Thursday and Friday, including talks and special events.

The schedule for both days will be devoted to ecology with Thursday designated "problem day" and Friday "solution day", according to the Ecology Action Club, sponsor of the events.

Richard L. Harriman, executive assistant to Paul R. Ehrlich, Stanford biology professor, will open activity at 8:30 a.m. Thursday with a talk about "the population crisis and eco-politics" at the school gymnasium.

The roster of speakers for the two days includes State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, and two Marin supervisors, Arnold M. Baptiste and Michael Wornum.

There will be a series of special events at noon Thursday including eating of a meal representing one person's share of the world's food supply, and a funeral for birds who died in the San Francisco Bay oil spill.

There will be a "pollution solution bike race" at 11:45 a.m. Friday and the club is urging students to walk, ride a bicycle, jog or run to school each day, rather than travel by car.

The club suggested students get sponsors for their Friday walk who will pay from 10 to 25 cents for each mile they cover, with the funds to go for the sprinkler system and landscaping around the flagpole.

An ecology art contest, can smashing and aluminum collecting contests will be judged at noon Thursday. There will be sale of health foods and ecology buttons, posters and SR sticker, each day.

Speakers at Thursday's sessions and their topics will be Milton Feldstein, executive director of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, air pollution; D. D. Olander, University of California at Berkeley, and Robert Peterson, Atomic Energy Commission, power; Peter Rogers, assistant director State Water Resources Control Board, and William Nelson, North Marin County Water District, water pollution.

Rudolph Platzek, planning director, Association of Bay Area Governments, Baptiste, and Roger Strawick, Standard Growth Properties, land use; Novato Planning Commissioner Beverly Ehreth and Albert J. Solnit, Marin County Planning Department, local problems; and Albert Hall, wildlife biologist, U.S. Forest Service, wildlife.

Speakers at Friday's sessions and their topics will be: Thomas A. Knight, executive director, Planned Parenthood, Marin County, overpopulation; Sen. Behr, water pollution; Roger Bockrath and Dennis Baldwin, organizers and directors of Survival Inc., and Peter Giddings, television weather forecaster, solid waste; Dr. William Kortum and Bruce Wolf, regional western representative, Nature Conservancy, land use.

Draft Violation Conviction Found 'Without Basis'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal court reversed the Selective Service Act convictions of actor Sterling Hayden's son Monday and criticized the way he was denied standing as a conscientious objector.

Christian Hayden, 23, had been convicted of failure to report for a pre-induction physical examination and failure to report for induction.

The U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals found he had applied for conscientious objector status when he registered in 1964 and that the denial of his claim was "without basis in fact."

The actor's son has said since that he will not accept the two years of "alternate service" required of objectors.

Mortuaries Hit By Union Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—All of San Francisco's mortuaries were closed today because of a labor contract dispute involving the 77-member Mortuary Employes Union.

The union struck 24 large funeral homes Monday and the others shut down.

J. Richard Thesing, attorney for the owners, declared: "A strike against one is a strike against all."

Union members first asked $245 more a month, but have scaled that down. Owners have offered a contract calling for $50 more a month this year, another $50 the next year and $60 more for the pact's final year.

Existing wage scales were not available.

Thesing raised the possibility that funeral firms in nearby counties may care for bodies during the walkout.

Nine Die In Try To Defuse Shell

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nine school children were killed and four injured when they tried to defuse a World War II artillery shell they found last week.

The children discovered the unexploded shell April 15 during a playtime recess near the yard of the Minkovsky Elementary School in the Ukraine, according to the provincial newspaper Komsomolskaya Znamya (Youth League Banner).

Boys, 7 and 10, Held In Tot's Brutal Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Homicide inspectors have turned two young boys over to the juvenile division in connection with the "crucifixion" death of a 20-month-old boy whose bruised body was found tied to a makeshift cross.

The nude, sheet-draped body of Noah Alba, who had disappeared from a city park six days ago, was found Monday in a dark, cluttered basement by officers who were led to the scene by the two suspects, ages 7 and 10.

One officer called it "the most gruesome crime scene I have ever met. There were horrible bruises and something resembling scrape marks all over the body."

Homicide Lt. Charles Ellis said it appeared the child had been dead since last Wednesday. He said he had been bound hand and foot to the makeshift cross and the body was covered with bruises and scratches.

Ellis would not release the identities nor permit pictures of the two youngsters being held. As he spoke to newsmen, the ruddy-faced, touseled haired pair read a picture book in another room.

"They have admitted their part in the killing of Noah Alba," Ellis said, but added officers have determined no motive.

A massive police search began after the toddler walked away from Alta Vista Park where he had gone for an outing with his mother, Mrs. Lawrence Alba, 21. Police checked dozens of tips before a woman in the park neighborhood called Monday and said she knew two youngsters who might know of the child's whereabouts

Officers contacted the boys, who in turn led them to the suspects. They in turn led to the basement of a three-story apartment building several blocks from where Noah disappeared.

Sound Director For Tam Play

William J. Carter of Tiburon has been named sound director for the 54th annual Mountain Play, "Playboy of the Western World", by J. M. Synge.

The play will be performed at 2 p.m., May 23 and 30.

Carter of 3330 Paradise Drive, is vice president of the Mountain Play's board. He has been associated with the company for the past nine years.

Broadcast quality sound equipment will use live Irish country music for the play. Carter constructed similar professional equipment for the Tiburon Cove Players.

Robin Jackson of Mill Valley directs the play which is now being rehearsed.

Council Agrees To Limit Each Home To 4 Dogs

An ordinance that would limit four dogs to a home was agreed upon last night by the Petaluma City Council after receiving complaints of residents keeping veritable kennels.

Police Chief Larry D. Higgins and Animal Control Officer William Matthews said they had received a complaint from Joe Duisman 325 Coronado Drive, that a neighbor at 321 Coronado Drive was keeping 14 dogs.

Matthews said he was powerless to correct the situation since the city has no ordinance regarding animals other than requiring licensing. Higgins recommended the four-dog limitation such as has been enacted in Rohnert Park and Santa Rosa.

Matthews said he found the home and yard to be very clean and the dogs noiseless on his visits, but Duisman complained the animals are noisy at feeding times and that he feared they would draw flies during the summer.

The council directed City Atty. Edouard E. Robert to prepare the necessary ordinance, but rejected his suggestion that cats also be included in the restrictions.

The Petaluma City Council Also:

WATER POLLUTION — Heard Arthur Cerini of the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery ask that the council request the regional water quality corol board to permit the use and discharge of salt water from the Petaluma River on an emergency basis when machinery fails at the plant. City Engineer David A. Young said he felt the request would be rejected since only rain water can legally be dumped directly into the river, but said he would pose the question to district engineers.

TAXES — Accepted a tax rate statement to be sent to voters prior to the $2 million sewer bond election June 8. Financial consultants reported the tax rate for the bonds would be 9 cents per $100 assessed valuation in 1972-73 and be at a maximum of 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation in 1977-78.

ROOF — Approved the installation of a corrugated aluminum roof over outdoor kennels at the animal control center at a cost of $140.

PUMP STATION — Awarded the construction contract for the Magnolia Avenue Pump Station to the low bidder, Knudsen and Richardson of Calistoga, at $61,324. It had been estimated to cost $58,000.

POPULATION — Received official notice that Petaluma's population was 26,850 on March 1, 1971.

SUMMER PLAN — Approved the reduction of the summer playground program from 10 to nine weeks since interest wanes in the latter part of the summer andagreed to establish an additional supervised playground at La Tercera School.

PARK PLAN — Authorized Councilman Fred V. Mattei to work with Donald Campbell, landscape architect and member of the Petaluma Valley Hmeowners Association, in planning the development of La Tercera Park. Mattei said the association has volunteered to supply free labor to build the park.

COMPUTERS — Heard Finance Director Cecil G. Gealta recommend against further consideration of joining the Sonoma County Data Processing Center, saying it would be too costly and an inconvenience in travel. He said he was studying other possible methods of computerizing city operations.

LITTLE JANETTA Joy Nix shows her happiness when her toy Snoopy is given to her mother, Mrs. Norman Nix of Novato. A racially-mixed child, Janetta Joy was adopted by the Nix family through the Children's Home Society of California, which is concentrating on the adoption of racially-mixed and older children, who are harder to place than Caucasian youngsters.

Adoption Of Janetta Joy Thrills The Entire Family

By DOROTHY NEWELL

A happy racially-mixed 10-month-old girl is living in the family of S. Sgt. and Mrs. Norman Nix in Novato as a result of their adoptiong of her through the Children's Home society of California.

This is Bay Area Adoption Week, and the Children's Home Society is stressing the need for adoptive homes for children 3 years or older, children with medical problems and black or racially mixed children, according to Mrs. Susan Deininger, social worker who assisted the Nix family with their adoption.

She said there are no rigid requirements, but they try to understand each family for what they have to offer as a unique unit. Important is a stable marriage and that the parents are emotionally healthy individuals.

The Nixes asked the Children's Home Society for a racially mixed girl, and nine months later Janetta Joy, then two weeks old was taken into their home. When the baby arrived, they were asked not to make an immediate decision, but the entire family was so thrilled, Mrs. Nix said, they took her immediately.

THE FAMILY is not a typical one. They have two other children, Glen, 11 years old, and Ynasmin Elaine, 7, both born in England when the Nixes lived there where Sergeant Nix was stationed with the Air Force. Their family also includes a nephew, 15 year old Garyl Graham of Texas, who is living with them for the third year, and a foster son, Greg Jones, 19, whom they have had since he was 17.

Her feeling for children left alone is shown when Elayne Nix speaks of Greg. An ad in a newspaper said, "17 year old black boy needs home. Call the Marin County Civic Center." She said she just could not think of a black boy homeless and alone and called immediately without asking her husband. Informed that the boy was not a delinquent but did not have a foster home, she then told her husband and asked that they take him on a trial basis. Their expectations were met, and he has proved to be a very fine boy, she related. Now when he works he still comes "home" to see them.

Sergeant and Mrs. Nix grew up in the same neighborhood in Texas where their mothers were friends. Ruth Elayne Woodson married Sergeant Nix and when he went into the Air Force, she went to Huston-Tillotson College in Austin, Tex., where she received her teaching credential. This busy mother, who is a sixth grade teacher at Pacheco School, says all she has time for now is teaching and taking care of her family.

Her husband is stationed in Hartford, Conn., and will retire when he returns to Hamilton Air Force Base this fall. She praised her husband highly and noted that Sergeant Nix, contract administrator for the Air Force has been involved with youth for many years. He was president of the Pacheco Parent-Teacher Association, worked with the Little League for Hamilton and Loma Verde and was on the Novato Citizen's Committee. He had been stationed at Hamilton since 1966, but is spending this last year in the Air Force in Connecticut. He has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal for Meritorious service.

Her husband and his family are very pleased that Janetta Joy resembles her father, Mrs. Nix said.

Ynasmin and Glen are both students at Pacheco school. Glen, a sixth grader, says it's not so great having a mother teach in his school as she can watch everything he does but he is not in her class and has been tested for the gifted children program. Proudly she says, he wants to go on to become a lawyer and says she will have to work for quite some time in order to get the children through college, as retirement salary for a sergeant is not enough.

A TYPICAL morning at the Nix home finds Glen fixing the baby bottles, to be taken with her to the baby sitter for the day and his own lunch, Ynasmin makes lunch for herself and her mother and Garyl, a student at Novato High School, sets the table and fixes breakfast. "I like to do the cooking, but the youngsters wash the dishes," Mrs. Nix said, referring to the other meals.

As in any family, there is the continual driving of youngsters somewhere. But with the help of friends and neighbors, they get the youngsters to their various activities — Garyl to a track meet, Glen to a little league practice, and Ynasmin to a swimming lesson.

Does she have any baby sitting problems? Mrs. Nix says she never forces the youngsters to baby sit; they do so only if they volunteer. But Garyl baby sits for the neighbors to earn extra spending money.

A FEW TOYS on the floor kept the baby happy and busy while Mrs. Nix told of the concern and love of the baby by the other youngsters. As an example, she said one day the baby had a temper tantrum and she threatened to spank her. Ynasmin informed her mother that "If you think it's going to get to that, you take her back to the home."

Mrs. Nix feels that white families should not adopt black or racially-mixed children. She said she feels that the white

ADOPTION WEEK in the Bay Area, Sunday through Saturday, has a special meaning for the family of S/Sgt. and Mrs. Norman Nix of Novato. They have an adopted daughter, Janetta Joy, 10 months old, who was placed in their home when she was two weeks old. Mrs. Nix and Garyl, holding the baby, watch as Glen and Ynasmin fill the bottles with milk. Mrs. Nix, a busy mother who also teaches sixth grade at Pacheco School, gets plenty of help at home from the family.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

DEAR HELEN:

My girl uses the daily horoscopes to run my life. She reads them in the morning and evening papers, gets a "telephone-scope," and also listens to a different one on radio. So she's got four going for her every day, and one usually works on another so I come up looking like a bum.

Like yesterday, I was supposed to 1. Watch my temper. 2. Treat loved ones with more consideration. 3. Strive for success and 4. Forget business for fun in the evening.

Well, I didn't take her out, having to study for a test instead, so she said that proved I have no consideration, which made me mad, so she brought up "temper." How can you "strive for success" with all this against you?

Will you please tell her, Helen, that "horrorscopes" are not to take seriously? — STAR-CROSSED

DEAR GIRL FRIEND OF S.C.:

Those brief generalized "star-tracts" are for entertainment only. When you take them so seriously they cause fights, it's time to "abhor-a-score," or at least limit yourself to one a day, and read with a smile. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm the original goof-up. Every decision I make becomes a total disaster.

Last year I did drugs because I couldn't seem to do anything right.

Well, my parents found out. Mom cried and wondered where she had failed, and finally left the room bawling.

Three months later my boy friend asked me to run away to Mexico and marry him. We kept it secret, and I sneaked out and met him as much as possible, but it was no good, what with my folks suspecting "the worst," and trying to ground me, so I finally told my husband I was cutting loose. He's furious, but probably won't tell anyone because it would get him in trouble, me being underage.

Now I've met another boy who is real nice, but I've only just begun to be free and don't want anything permanent. The other day he said he'd picked out an apartment and he expects me to marry him as soon as I graduate in June. I don't know how I got myself in this third mess before I was out of the second.

Anyway, I'm off drugs. What do I do now? — "17"

DEAR 17:

First things first: You're off drugs. Why? Though you don't give your parents much credit, they must have done something right, for after they found out, you quit.

How about giving them another go at straightening up your life? You need adult help for an annulment and mature advice on avoiding another entanglement. A giant step in growing up is to admit mistakes and concede friends are necessary. (And parents can be the best friends of all, if you let them.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My family had to move in with my sister and brother-in-law because of money reasons. We share the bills.

The problem is my sister's smoking. She can smoke a whole pack in one sitting. There's a dense fog in the house every day. Our eyes water, our lungs clog, we lose our appetites and feel nauseous. She says, "It's my life," but Helen, it's ours too. How can we live with a chain smoker? — H.M.B.

DEAR H:

It's not only your sister's life, but her house. If she wants to shorten one and fog up the other, family disapproval won't change her (though a good scare from her doctor might). Start house-hunting. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

It's Countdown To Charity Ball

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —Eventually it happens to you if you work with a charitable or similar organization. You're asked to serve on a committee for a fund-raising event. And you accept, figuring you owe it to the community, to your conscience, and besides it won't be all THAT much work.

How wrong you are. Ask Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., or Mrs. Alan Jay Lerner. But then, consider too the good feeling after say a whole year of telephoning, the seemingly endless strategy meetings, the interruptions in the household,- when the culmination is a sizeable net profit for a cause.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Lerner are among the many volunteers now at the countdown stage of one of New York's major fund-raising events, a dinner dance Wednesday to raise funds for Irvington House, a privately supported institute for research into rheumatic fever and allied diseases.

Mrs. Roosevelt, the honorary chairman, has been involved with fund-raising for this institute, affiliated with the New York Medical Center, for 20-some years. Irvington House is now in its 50th year.

Mrs. Lerner, petite brunette wife of the author-lyricist-producer, is one of her committee women and commentator for the hair fashion show that will be part of the entertainment at the Hilton Hotel event.

"I CANNOT tell you the many hours you will spend on the telephone," said Mrs. Roosevelt, telling what it's like. She and Mrs. Lerner, former newspaper and magazine reporter-writer, were discussing final details of the ball as they sat in the library of the Roosevelt apartment on Park Avenue.

The two would be interviewed only in the name of charity. They said they wanted no personal publicity, although both agreed that some socially prominent and wealthy women "flit" from charity to charity just to get their names in the paper.

"I realize the image some people have," said Mrs. Roosevelt, a petite blonde formerly married to Robert Sarnoff, chairman of the board and president of RCA. "I can tell you I wouldn't be idle anyway. I've got plenty to do with two houses and the children. I assure you it's only to raise money.

"THE ALTERNATIVE is to work with children and I'm not equipped to do taht as well as our many unsung volunteers. This is my way of contributing. The $75,000 we hops to raise — in other years the dance has raised that much — is not to be sneezed at."

"If a woman is 'idle' you won't find her working on a charity," said Mrs. Lerner. "It's the old saying about ask a busy woman if you want something done."

The two agreed you can't just decide to have a dinner dance, hire a ballroom, call all your friends to buy tickets and have a successful event. There's got to be a gimmick, something that even husbands will get into black tie for —"one of the biggest problems is getting husbands to go, especially if it's a 'forced' evening. Men like to move around."

To make the Irvington House event different, the fund-raisers decided to have a "bal rouge et noir", with the models drawn from the social world, agreeing to get their hair toned either red or black or variations of the two. That gave them a chance to ask Roux, the hair color manufacturers, to help finance the event. The firm also is giving some advanced medical equipment to aid in rheumatic fever research.

THE DANCE also will feature buffet-style dinner and a casino, which ought to help get the men moving around.

Putting her energies to work for other is ingrained in Felicia Roosevelt. One of her ancestors was Jacob Schiff, the philanthropist. Her father was Paul Felix Warburg, financier and Philanthropist also. And in addition to Irvington House, she's active with Project Hope.

Some other suggestions the women made for successful fund-raising:

—Select committee women who will work, not just lend their names.

—If you possibly can, find a sponsor who'll pay the basic costs.

—Have an executive secretary who really can run the office and knows the people involved in the event.

—Start an event on time. "You can't expect many over 35 to stick around after 11 o'clock," said Mrs. Roosevelt," but the older people are your financial supporters."

Single Sex College Role

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite the co-educational trend of recent years, the "single sex" college has a vital role in American education, particularly for women, according to an Ohio educator.

"To be a successfully educated person in America today does not necessarily mean the same thing for men and women," says Dr. Paul Weaver, president of Lake Erie College, Painesville, Ohio.

"The fact is that most of our college and university programs have been designed to educate men for their role in life. I believe it is better for women to attend institutions organized for their own unique needs."

Weaver, who pioneered such collegiate innovations at all-women Lake Erie College as sending a class abroad for an entire semester of study, said the co-ed often finds herself in what is still basically a male environment.

This contrasts, he said, with an education designed solely to prepare her for her feminine role in later life, either as homemaker or career woman.

Wash Synthetic Hair Wisely

NEW YORK (UPI)—A wig made of synthetic "hair" can sometimes go for as long as three months without washing. But when you do wash it, according to authorities in the wig industry, use cool water for sudsing and for rinsing. Other instructions:

Wash the wig with a mild soap —baby shampoo or one of the cold water soaps will do.

Racially Mixed Placed After Careful Study

family does not give enough pride in a black child's own self and the identity is not there.

The Children's Home Society believes simple generalizations about this subject are not possible; it's very individual. They place racially mixed children with Caucasian families after a careful study has revealed that they can help the child know and live with both of his races.

There are 22 Children's Home Society offices within California. The three local ones are Oakland, San Francisco and Santa Rosa. Three auxiliary chapters in Marin and one in Petaluma are active supporters of the Children's Home Society.

THE SOCIETY is supported by private donations, the auxiliaries and fees not exceeding $750 from adoptive parents used to help pay foster families, medical personnel and counseling to the adoptive parents and biological parents.

Even though there is a great demand for adoptive parents for the older children, children with medical problems and black and racially-mixed children, there are sufficient homes and a parent waiting list for healthy, Caucasian infants, Mrs. Deininger said.

Dior Midis Have Vanished Fall Collection At The Knee

By ALINE MOSBY

"Yes it's a retreat," cheerfully admitted one of the Dior assistant designers who worked on the show, not even bothering to use any cover-up phrases such as "withdrawal." "The midi-maxi is finished."

If the knee-hovering dresses and coats and array of hot pants in the "Miss Dior" and "Dior Boutique" lines are any preview of what will be in July's Dior winter high fashion show, then this famous fashion house will have made the quickest pullback from a style in the history of women's clothing since Eve. Last January, the Paris designers had insisted they shorten skirts only for spring as a bow to the warm weather

DIOR AND a few other high fashion houses and French manufacturers of both deluxe and inexpensive ready-to-wear are displaying their 1971-72 winter wares to buyers from around the world for a week beginning today. Whether the majority of the manufacturers will return to mid-knee styles remained to be seen.

Jacques Rouet, director of Dior, refused to say whether the house buried its midi-maxi styles in view of its U.S. market. The long look met resistance in America although it was, and still is, popular in Europe.

THE SECOND noticeable point of the Dior ready-to-wear show was that it was full of shorts, confouncing some fashion critics who insisted hot pants would be a summer craze only. The Dior show had knitted shorts almost hidden by knitted or leather tunics. For evening there was a parade of one-piece crepe and printed satin shorts "dresses" with long sleeves, high necks and belts.

The only leg-covering dress in the Dior ready-to-wear collection was a leather maxi-skirt buttoned up the front. Even the coats bared half of the knee to winter winds and did not even meet the top of the mannequins' boots.

The midi look also vanished for evening with lame narrow belted dresses hitting mid-knee. Long gowns were shown only for formal affairs.

Cape Capers

The cape caper - with a short story underneath - was Erika Elias' contribution to the Design America collection for Hooker Chemical's Rucaire fabrics. The cape and short shorts jumper suit were done in bright yellows, blues and greens. The print was hearts and flowers.

The couple plan to be married May 17.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Be Merciful If Your Partner Sometimes Short Of Perfection

The trouble with human beings is that we don't know what's good for us. This is a limitation that does not affect bridge columnists, but then whoever said that bridge columnists are human beings? I couldn't make such strong statements, of course, if I didn't have a bridge hand to prove it all.

LOW FROM DUMMY

West led the jack of hearts, and declarer played low from the dummy. East was delighted with the lead and played the eight of hearts to encourage a continuation. It is clear that East was only human. West obediently continued with the ten of hearts, and South ruffed. Declarer drew a round of trumps with the ace, cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond in dummy and ruffed another low heart.

South next ruffed his last diamond in dummy and returned the king of hearts. East covered with the ace of hearts, and South shrewdly discarded a club.

NO WAY OUT

There was no way out for East. If East returned a diamond, dummy would ruff while South discarded another club; and if East returned a club, dummy's king would win a trick. Either way South was sure to make his contract.

Now let us all assume the superhuman superiority of the bridge columnist by returning to the first trick. If East knew what was good for him he would play his lowest heart to discourage a heart continuation. West would shift to a low club, and East would win with the jack.

WITH A SPADE

East could then get out safely with a spade or a diamond, and South would be doomed. With their two tricks safely stashed away, the defenders cannot be caught in an end play.

The point of this little discussion is that it's much easier to find the perfect defense when you can see all 52 cards than when you're actually playing a hand. If your partner sometimes drops a trick short of perfection, be merciful.

Today is Tuesday, April 20, the 110th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

Movie comedian Harold Lloyd was born April 20, 1894.

On this day in history: In 1903 Andrew Carnegie gave $1.5 million for construction of the Hague Peace Palace in The Netherlands.

In 1926 a picturegram of a bank check sent from London to New York by RCA was honored and cashed. It marked the first time a bank honored a check not actually in its possession.

In 1959 Cuban Premier Fidel Castro was given a red-carpet greeting in New York City.

In 1968 a South African Airways jetliner crashed in Southwest Africa, killing 122 persons.

A thought for today: Novelist Thomas Wolfe said, "There is no spectacle on earth more appealing than that of a beautiful woman in the act of cooking dinner for someone she loves."

Roles Double Cast For Britten Opera

"The Turn of the Screw," the Benjamin Britten opera to be presented by the Sonoma State College Opera Workshop, will have several of the six roles double cast, according to director Peggy Donovan-Jeffrey.

Performances in the Fred Warren Memorial Auditorium on Rohnert Park campus are scheduled at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, with a 2:30 p.m. matinee Friday.

The leading role of the governess will be sung by Bonnie Landfield of Mill Valley and Victoria Kincaid of Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Landfield attended the Juilliard School of Music in New York City and was soloist with the Temple University Concert Choir. Her professional experience includes appearances with the Rittenhouse Opera Company in Pennsylvania, the Lake George Opera Festival and Princeton Opera Club. The Britten opera will mark her local debut.

A graduate in music from Stanford University, Miss Kincaid is a graduate student at Sonoma State and has sung previously with the Opera Workshop.

The key roles of the two children, Flora and Miles, will be sung by a brother and sister, Elisabeth Engen, 13, and Charles Engen, 12. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Engen of Tiburon. Both have sung six years with the Winifred Baker Children's Chorus.

Also cast as Flora is Mara Finerty, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Finerty of Terra Linda. She has sung five years with the Winifred Baker Children's Chorus.

Double cast in the role of Mrs. Grose are Lorie Kutsko of Sausalito and Mary Harmon Beard of Cotati, wife of the assistant professor of German at Sonoma State.

Mrs. Kutsko sang two years with the San Francisco Opera chorus and was a Bay Area finalist in Metropolitan Opera auditions in 1969. She has appeared in musical comedy in Boston, New York, Chicago, Bermuda and in summer stock.

A graduate in music from Stanford University, Mrs. Beard studied voice in Stuttgart, Germany. She was one of 25 singers selected from throughout the U.S. for the Boris Goldovsky Opera Institute at Sonoma State last summer.

The role of Miss Jessel will be sung by Linda Sommer of San Rafael. Mrs. Sommer studied music one year at La Sierra College near Los Angeles and five years at the Musik Akadamie Vienna. She has appeared on Austrian television and sang operettas two years with the Biel Stadtheater Switzerland.

The role of Quint will be sung by Victor Parker, a Petaluma school teacher and graduate of Chico State College. He also was a member of the Goldovsky Opera Institute last summer. He has traveled in 22 countries with the Choir of the Seven Seas and has appeared professionally with the Oakland Symphony. As an apprentice singer, he will be heard in five operas with the Santa Fe Opera Company this summer.

OPERA LEADS — Bonnie Landfield (left) as the governess and Elisabeth Engen as Flora will be heard this week at Sonoma State College in Britten's Gothic-Victorian opera "The Turn of the Screw."

City Hears Delay On Special Vote Is Unavoidable

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—City Attorney Thomas O'Connor told the Board of Supervisors Monday that it will be impossible to hold a special election in June on the question of a height limit for San Francisco buildings.

A special election has been called for in a 45,000-signature petition circulated by dress manufacturer Alvin Duskin, who believes high-rise buildings spoil the skyline. The petition calls for a vote on imposing a 72-foot limit.

O'Connor said all the necessary legal steps to arrange a special election cannot be completed any earlier than Aug. 3.

The supervisors have yet to decide whether to call a special election on the issue.

Scalp Cuts

Sarah Wirt, 7, of 50 Monte Vista, Mill Valley was treated at 3:45 p.m. Sunday at Marin General Hospital for scalp cuts suffered in an auto accident, the hospital reported yesterday. No additional information was available.

New Standards Of Safety Urged For High Rises

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Attempts to evacuate modern high rise office buildings or apartments in case of fire frequently are little more than open invitations to panic, injury and death, according to federal safety experts.

Arthur F. Sampson, commissioner of public building safety, told newsmen Monday that new safety procedures are needed for buildings higher than 15 stories. He suggested selective evacuation of endangered parts of buildings, either to the outside or safe areas inside, and said persons in relatively safe areas should stay put to avoid overcrowding stairs.

Sampson said new buildings often pose greater danger from fire, heat and smoke than pre-World War II skyscrapers because the windows fit tighter, they are fully air conditioned and most offices are loaded with foam rubber that produces a black smoke when it burns.

Spanish Organist To Play

Spanish organist Julio M. Garcia Llovera, organist at the Church of St. Marine in Hamburg, Germany, will present his second concert in the United States on April 30 at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo. It will be open to the public without charge.

He will present his first concert in this country in Washington, D.C. and will perform on May 2 at St. Ignatius Church in San Francisco.

Born in 1923 in Madrid, Llovera was organist of the Metropolitan Cathedral of El Pilar in Zaragoa, Spain, until 1961, when he left to study for his doctorate in musicology at the University of Heidelberg.

He is an authority on early music of Spain and won the highest prizes in organ as a master scholar of Muset, baroque authority, at the University of Barcelona and Madrid.

The organist has performed in every major European city, has made recordings and is one of the few European organists who have played extensively behind the Iron Curtain.

Program For New Students

Santa Rosa Junior College will host and information program for prospective students Friday at 6 p.m.

Campus tours including the recently completed Plover Library will be conducted first with group discussions scheduled for 7:45 p.m. at the Doyle Student Center.

Information will be given on entrance and graduation requirements, scholarships and financial aids. A question and answer period has been planned and the evening will conclude with folk music entertainment in the student center.

Harold Messenger Novato Candidate

Harold A. Messenger, 39, former Novato deputy finance officer, has confirmed reports that he has applied for the vacant seat on the Novato City Council.

Nine residents are seeking the seat vacated by Douglas M. Merrill, only five of them identified, because the Novato City Council has withheld their names.

Messenger, purchasing agent for the Novato Unified School District, worked as deputy finance officer for the city from June, 1967, until last fall. He said his experience as a city employee would be helpful on the council, because "I worked for the city, know the employees and inner workings."

He said he was prompted to seek the job because "I feel I have more to contribute than I can as a private citizen. I would like to be in a position to do it."

Messenger, who has never been a candidate for public office, felt the council could "just as soon" have revealed the names of applicants as not.

"But I respect the councilmen's privilege of making their decision, leaving it up to the individual," he said. "I suppose they did it for the benefit of those who were unsuccessful, but if you're in the public light, you have to be in position to accept embarrassment."

Messenger, of 1512 Park Court, and his wife, Carole, have two children, Yvette and Yvonne.

Candidates previously identified, are: Betty J. Machado, former candidate; Lee C. Wise, manager of Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s Novato branch; planning commissioner John E. Schoonover, and attorney David Price Jones.

The council is scheduled to name the new council member April 27. If it fails to make a choice within 30 days of Merrill's resignation, there will have to be an election.

Campus Forum Set Thursday

Sonoma State College will host its second campus-community forum Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

A panel of college and community representatives will discuss the topic, "Who Needs a Liberal Education?"

Panel members will be Jane Faust, Rohnert Park resident and member of several civic commissions; Dr. George McCabe, professor of psychology; Helen Rudee, Santa Rosa representative of the Sonoma County Board of Education; Ignazio A. Vella, chairman of the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors; and Dr. Yvette Fallandy, dean of the college faculty.

The program is sponsored by the college's student lectures and concerts committee.

TRUE ECONOMY ISN'T MORE MILES TO THE GALLON. IT'S MORE YEARS TO THE CAR.

These days, a lot of people think the way to save a little money is to buy a small cheap car.

We agree. That is the way to save a little money.

To save a lot of money, buy a Volvo.

Volvos are built to last. While we can't guarantee how long, we do know Volvos hold up an average of eleven years in Sweden. So once you get your Volvo paid for, you should be able to hang on to it for a few years.

Then you can bank the money you'd normally spend on car payme

Not counting interest, that's almost $1000 a year.

This is the basic difference between a Volvo and an economy car.

Economy cars are for people who are interested in economy. Volvos are for people who are interested in money.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Prostate Gland Enlargement Affects Men As They Grow Older

The prostate is part of the sexual apparatus of a man. It consists of a network of branching glands that contract to eject the sperm. The structure is found at the outlet of the urinary bladder where the secretions easily pass thru many openings into the urethra — the tube that leads to the outside. At birth, the gland is the size of an eraser on a pencil. During puberty it enlarges, and by adulthood, it is the size and shape of a horse chestnut. After the age of 40, it again begins to enlarge in one of 10 males. With advancing years, more and more men are affected so that by the age of 80 the incidence is one out of every two. But prostatic enlargement does not necessarily mean trouble. We are referring to a benign process and not that which is due to inflammation or malignancy.

PROSTATE TROUBLE starts with urinary manifestations. This is understandable because the gland is located at the outlet of the bladder and the enlarged parts may extend into the urethra and block the flow of urine.

At first, the urinary stream lacks force and the bladder does not feel completely emptied. The victim strains to void and this becomes a problem when the urge to urinate comes more frequently. By this time, the man may find it necessary to get up one or more times during the night.

AS THE STRUCTURE gets larger and larger, there is a possibility of a complete shut off of urine — a painful emergency. Most men suspect trouble long before this occurs and consult their physician.

There is a standard procedure for diagnosing prostate trouble. Only half of those with difficulties require surgery. Many medicines and hormones have been advocated to shrink the gland, but none have been too successful.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal).

NERVOUSNESS AND BREATHING

V.S. writes: Can nervous tension cause shortness of breath on exertion?

REPLY

Yes, and even more so when sitting quietly. The individual feels he cannot take a deep breath, which differs from the panting associated with heart and lung disorders. This symptom is common in many different neuroses, such as psychoneurosis and neurocirculatory asthenia.

GAGS ON VITAMIN

J.D.W. writes: Our 3-year-old daughter has geographic tongue. She is not able to swallow a vitamin capsule because it makes her gag. Is there any other way of getting vitamins into her?

REPLY

Make sure she receives a well-balanced diet and she will not need a vitamin supplement. The geographic tongue should not interfere with swallowing.

TIRED, BUT CAN'T SLEEP

A.L. writes: Why does a person who is overtired have trouble getting to sleep?

REPLY

In many instances, he is overtired because he did something exciting or of great importance. It takes time to unwind after such episodes. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on insomnia.

NITPICKER CAN'T SLEEP

J.E.M. writes: Does the inability to sleep and being overly critical of acquaintances constitute a neurotic personality?

REPLY

Yes, inasmuch as a neurotic personality covers a multitude of "sins."

Recovery Of Frozen Infant: A 'Miracle'

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)—Little Charla Johnson may need some surgery on her left hand but her doctors consider it remarkable that the 7-month-old child is even alive after being frozen in temperatures of 50 below zero.

Charla was found wrapped in insulated bunting under a pine tree near Fairbanks three months ago, apparently left there by her mother, Mrs. Wilma Johnson, who had collapsed while trying to crawl to a nearby house. Mrs. Johnson, who was being treated for a nervous breakdown, died the same day the child was abandoned.

The baby's body was frozen rigid. Her heartbeat was down to 40 and her temperature was too low to measure.

Dr. W. H. James and Dr. William H. Doolittle held out very little hope for her survival. They doused her in 100-degree water to thaw her and at one point during treatment, she stopped breathing but was revived by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Charla's father, Joe Johnson, a civil service employee with the Army, said Monday it had been "a lifelong dream to come to Alaska," and he added, "we finally got up the courage to come."

The Johnsons, who had only been in Alaska a year, came from Bel Air, Md., about 20 miles north of Baltimore.

The first winter, according to Johnson, was the worst on record for cold and snow during the month of January.

Johnson said his neighbors had been "wonderful" during the ordeal. Typical was the check for $161 from inmates of the state jail in Fairbanks with a note saying, "We know how it is to lose loved ones."

Johnson, who has a 3-year-old daughter and sons aged 11, 13, and 17, said he expects that surgery will be required on Charla's left hand, which has had a partial amputation of two fingers.

"We are still not real sure how her hands are going to turn out," he said. He described Charla as "very alert."

"The doctors told me it was a miracle," he said. "I had a lot of prayers behind me."

Tribunal Stays Execution Of William Archerd

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California's Supreme Court has stayed the execution of a convicted triple murderer pending rulings by the U. S. Supreme Court.

The decision on Monday affected William Archerd, 58, who was scheduled to die Wednesday in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber for killing two wives and a nephew with insulin injections.

In question is what the federal court will rule on a contention that California law violates the U.S. Constitution's 14th Amendment by not giving juries standards on how to decide death sentences and life imprisonment. Another case before the U.S. court questions whether the death penalty is cruel and unusual punishment.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

State Ratifies Vote Amendment

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California, over the mild objections of Gov. Ronald Reagan, has become the 20th state to ratify a proposed constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 in all elections.

Another 18 states—38 in all—must ratify the measure before it can become the 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The California Senate voted final legislative approval Monday to a ratification resolution, acting quickly and dramatically as two dozen teen-age spectators sat silently in the back of the chamber.

The vote was 25-10.

The resolution was sponsored by Senate Democratic Caucus Chairman Mervyn M. Dymally, who represents the Watts community of Los Angeles.

"I don't think there is any need to belabor the point," Dymally said. "Ten years ago I proposed such a measure. I'm pleased that after 10 years we're moving in that direction."

Now, 18-year-olds can vote in federal elections—for President and for Congress. They were assured this right last year by the U.S. Supreme Court. But the minimum age for voting in state and local elections in California—as in most states—is 21.

Proponents of lowering the voting age to 18 in all elections have pointed out that it would cost an extra $5 million for California next year to print separate ballots.

Each legislative house also has approved a state constitutional amendment to lower the California voting age to 18 in all elections. But final legislative approval is awaiting a decision on whether to place the issue before voters in June or November next year. California voters must approve any amendment to the state Constitution.

Reagan told a news conference after Congress passed the U.S. constitutional amendment on March 23 that "it is just another one of those instances where the federal government has imposed on what I think is a state's right—the right to determine its own voting qualifications."

The Senate's action Monday was a routine concurrence in technical amendments added to the ratification resolution when it cleared the Assembly last Thursday on a 52-14 vote. The measure was approved by the Senate the first time on a 22-12 vote.

Nineteen Democrats and six Republicans voted for the measure Monday. One Democrat and nine Republicans voted against it.

Only one Democrat in the legislature voted against the amendment. He was Sen. Lawrence E. Walsh of Huntington Park.

Among the Republicans voting no were Sen. Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, immediate past chairman of the GOP State Central Committee, and Senate Republican Floor Leader Fred L. Marler Jr. of Redding.

The U.S. Census Bureau says approximately 8 per cent of the nation's population is 18 to 20.

The other states which have ratified the amendment are Alaska, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Tennessee, Vermont and Washington.

GAS TAX BILLS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Separate legislative committees have approved differing versions of bills extending the statewide sales tax to gasoline for public transit financing.

One measure by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, was approved by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee on a split voice vote and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

The Senate Public Utilities Committee approved a separate bill by Senate leader James Mills, D-San Diego, and sent it to the Finance Committee.

The five-cent-on-the-dollar sales tax would be extended to gasoline purchases under terms of both measures. Passage of the plan would mean the present $1 worth of gasoline would cost $1.05.

Under present law, the state general fund gets four cents of the sales tax while one cent is returned to the counties and cities where it was raised.

MEDI-CAL ISSUE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A proposal to drop false teeth from Medi-Cal has brought Gov. Ronald Reagan's program to revamp health care services for the needy up against bipartisan opposition.

The manager of the administration-sponsored bill, Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, commented Monday after the bill's first hearing, before the Assembly Health Committee, that he feared the bill would be killed unless dentures were restored.

"It is my feeling that this bill wouldn't get out of this committee without false teeth," he said.

Campbell, chairman of the committee, said another hearing would be held next week. He added he would probably put off calling for a vote on the measure until even later.

It would cost another $25 million to continue including dentures in the list of Medi-Cal services, newsmen were told by Dr. Earl Brian, state Medi-Cal chief.

Whether or not he would accept an amendment restoring false teeth depended both on Campbell and the governor's office, Brian said.

Present law allows payment for dentures, but the administration as part of its economy cutbacks has restricted payment to just the repair of false teeth.

Detection Of Cavities By Radio?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Look, Mom, no cavities. But I got a radio in my mouth."

That may be what children will say in the future after a visit to the dentist's office, the California Dental Association was told Monday.

Dr. Irvin Glickman of Boston said dentists can now put a radio and battery into a false tooth to record how the teeth work against each other.

"Recordings are made on an oscillograph which indicate where the teeth contact during chewing and swallowing," Glickman said.

About 1,200 dentists and dental assistants are registered for the meeting's scientific lectures and discussions.

A national health leader praised San Francisco as among the pioneer cities to initiate fluoridation of water, but said it was unfortunate the city's record was not matched by the rest of the state.

"Since 1952 when this Bay city commenced fluoridation, practically an entire generation has grown up receiving the benefits of this unprecedented health measure," said Dr. C. Gordon Watson, executive director of the American Dental Association.

Watson said the effectiveness of San Francisco's program was shown in statistics related to dental costs per child in the Head Start program.

The figures indicated that annual dental costs under the Head Start program were $6 in San Francisco, compared with $70 in Berkeley and $85 in San Joaquin County, neither of which has fluoridated water supplies.

The association's House of Delegates earlier adopted a set of guidelines for fluoridating a community's water supply. About 41 per cent of California cities now use fluoridated water.

Dr. R. Thomas Duncan of San Jose, co-author of the guidelines, said they are intended to give direction to association efforts "to provide the benefits of fluoridated communal water supplies to all the people of California."

Fired Senior Typist Blasts Superiors

A senior typist in the Marin County Health Department, who was fired on March 19, charged yesterday she was the victim of a "reign of terror" and "Gestapo tactics."

Frances I. Jennings, who was fired from the tuberculosis unit, appealed yesterday to the Marin County Personnel Commission.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, testified Mrs. Jennings was dismissed because of insubordination, quarreling with other employees and disrupting the office.

In his opening statement yesterday, Mrs. Jenning's attorney, Richard H. Breiner, declared that she has been an efficient and conscientious worker since April 1968. He said Dr. Albrecht and assistant Frank E. Kirby fired her because she began reporting to County Administrator Alan Bruce about alleged "padding" of health department statistics.

Breiner also charged that Kirby had tape-recorded telephone conversations with Mrs. Jennings, but this Kirby denied.

Dr. Albrecht testified that her former assistant, Dr. Patricia Hallinan, had complained about Mrs. Jennings, saying she was suffering from "delusions of persecution" and was a "paranoid schizophrenic."

Deputy County Counsel Thomas G. Hendricks, representing Dr. Albrecht, paraded a series of witnesses during yesterday's seven-hour hearing in an effort to show that Mrs. Jennings was quarrelsome and spent considerable time on conversations not connected with the job.

The hearing was to resume at the Civic Center this afternoon, when Breiner planned to call a long list of witnesses to back up his claim that Mrs. Jennings was the victim of harrassment. The attorney said Dr. Albrecht and her staff launched "a reign of terror" and "Gestapo tactics" to get rid of Mrs. Jennings.

Among Mrs. Jennings' supporters is Dr. Hallinan, who quit as assistant to Dr. Albrecht last October.

Attorney Breiner said that Dr. Hallinan's "paranoid schizophrenic" description of Mrs. Jennings was made in March of 1970 as an off-hand observation. Since then, Mrs. Jennings has proved to be an effective and dedicated employee, said Breiner.

Hearing Is Tonight On Park Plaza

William Spangle's controversial park plaza plan, a proposal to turn much of the heart of Sausalito's downtown area now largely a parking lot into a park will be the subject of a public hearing before the Sausalito City Council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The three-stage plan won approval from the Sausalito Planning Commission earlier this month.

The council will also consider proposals by City Manager Albert St. Cyr to raise parking fees in Municipal Lot. No. 1 from 50 to 75 cents an hour and to keep the lot open in the evenings during the tourist season from May to October. The city manager is also recommending the city hike parking fines and all three proposals are designed to provide Sausalito with additional revenue to finance a proposed $1,763,622 city budget for 1971-72.

London is building 1,600 new double-decker buses which will be operated by one person, eliminating conductors who collected fares.

Bruce's Tenure Was Stormy One

By MARY LEYDECKER

Alan Bruce, a soft-spoken but plain-talking man, once said, "If I felt at any time that the majority of the board had lost confidence in me" he would resign immediately.

Today Bruce made good that promise given when he was appointed in 1960 by the board of supervisors to a job that seemed about to be abolished.

In his 10 years as county administrator, Bruce has been at the center of a long series of controversies that have, one after another, filled the newspapers' columns.

The latest furor was over his demand that longtime county health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht be fired.

After the supervisors exonerated Dr. Albrecht and chided Bruce last week, it still seemed as if the county administrator would weather this storm as he has many others.

Today, however, to the surprise of most observers, he quit the longtime job which he started with a salary of $12,900 a year rising to $29,410.

Bruce, a sandy-haired, pipe-smoking man of Scot descent, took office in November 1960 at a time when the majority of the supervisors didn't want a county administrator.

The following year three supervisors, William D. Fusselman, J. Walter Blair and George H. Ludy, voted, indeed, to have the county counsel prepare an ordinance doing away with the job.

(The post had been created in 1955 and was filled for five years by Donald A. Jensen, for whom Bruce served as an assistant for almost four years.)

The move to abolish the post was preceded by an abortive attempt by the same supervisors to stop work on Marin's Civic Center.

There was a popular uproar over the two issues and the board finally assigned the administrator issue to a referendum ballot with a vote set for June 1962, more than a year away.

Meanwhile Bruce and his staff were moved into cramped offices in the old courthouse — a period later called by Bruce as his "tenure in the broom closet."

However, in December 1961, Blair was recalled and Peter H. Behr elected supervisor, and the majority on the board was reversed.

Behr along with Supervisors William A. Gnoss and Walter J. Castro voted to call off the referendum, and Bruce was moved to more spacious quarters.

In the fall of 1962, however, Bruce faced another crisis, this over his firing of a secretary in his office.

After long hearings before the personnel commission and the board of supervisors, Bruce was backed up by a 3-to-1 vote of the supervisors.

Although the job of administrator was strengthened and Bruce was not again threatened with loss of his job until this year, he remained at the center of many controversies.

One was in 1966 when two supervisors blocked a proposal that his salary be increased to $25,000.

There was a long-running fuss over who was going to run the county's mental health facilities and last year another storm blew up when Bruce recommended that county Planning Director Paul C. Zucker be fired.

During the years, Bruce has repeatedly angered Marin judges and last year, he and Judge Samuel W. Gardiner finally reached a truce over the placement of juvenile wards of the court.

During the years Bruce was known, however, as a hard-working administrato who once estimated that he worked about 60 hours a week at his job.

A favorite quotation from Edmund Burke was used several years ago by Bruce to explain his outlook on his job:

"Those who would carry on great public schemes must be proof against the worst fatiguing delays; the most mortifying disappointments; the most shocking insults; and what is worst of all, the presumptious judgment of the ignorant upon their design."

Span Plan For Car Poolers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—In an effort to relieve commuter congestion on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, special toll plaza lanes will be reserved for autos carrying extra riders.

The plan to encourage car pools will go into effect next fall. It was announced here Monday by the Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

Two westbound lanes reserved for cars carrying three or more persons will enable these cars to bypass commute-hour jams at the toll plaza.

Case Referred To Juvenile Court

The case of Neil E. Kondratieff, 19, of Lagunitas, was referred to Marin Juvenile Court yesterday.

Kondratieff, charged with burglary, was arrested last Thursday driving away from Family Records in San Anselmo. In his car, police said, were $724 worth of records stolen from the store.

Mysterious Cut In Power Halts City's Trolleys

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mysterious power failures clogged downtown streets with stalled trolleys and trolley buses Monday during both the morning and evening rush hours.

Municipal railway investigators were unable to say Monday night what caused either failure.

Electricity to overhead lines for buses and trolleys was off from 8:04 a.m. until 9:41 a.m. and from 4:30 p.m. to 5 p.m., and thousands of commuters had to jog or walk.

Prosecution Of Bagpiper Is Ruled Out

A Nicasio bagpiper arrested and accused of panhandling Sunday as he piped passengers aboard the Sausalito ferry will not be prosecuted, Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales announced today.

The district attorney said he did not think piper George Joseph Dawson had violated the Penal Code section dealing with panhandling, the section under which he was booked by Sausalito police.

The professional violinist who took up piping last year was arrested by Sausalito police after passersby threw coins into an open carpetbag near his feet as he played the pipes.

Bales said a panhandler is "anyone who accosts others in a public place for the purpose of begging or soliciting alms" and added: "I interpret 'accost' to mean to ask people for money or stop them."

Although the district attorney said the 35-year-old Dawson may have violated a city ordinance which prohibits plying a trade in the streets without a license, he did not intend to pursue the matter further. "I have more pressing things to do," he explained.

Dawson, who is free on $35 bail and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow, was pleased at the district attorney's decision. He laughingly confessed he had played his pipes yesterday for one of the ferry's larger afternoon commute runs. "There were about 500 people on the boat and I just couldn't resist," he said. "I went down to the dock and played and played and many people smiled at me and flashed me the victory sign."

Spending From General Fund Exceeds Income

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Spending from California's general fund exceeded income by $640.9 million in the first nine months of the fiscal year, state Controller Houston I. Flournoy reports.

He said Monday that receipts were $2.847 billion, with disbursements reaching $3.488 billion.

Receipts for the July-March period exceeded those of the same period in 1969-70 by $65.1 million, a gain of 2.34 per cent. Spending topped the previous year's figure by $124.9 million, a growth of 3.72 per cent.

Major spending items included schools $1.1 billion; health care benefits $375.5 million; Aid to Families with Dependent Children $255.8 million and the University of California $246.4 million.

Big income sources included the sales tax $1.3 billion; personal income taxes $517 million and bank and corporation franchise and income taxes $355 million.

Tentative Nod To Smaller Lots

The Rohnert Park City Council last night gave tentative approval to a subdivision plan that would have lot sizes smaller than the minimum usually required by the City.

Developer Arthur Condiotti said he planned to develop single-family homes and townhouse condominiums on 80 acres at the northwest corner of the Rohnert Park Expressway and Snyder Lane. He said the overall density would be seven units per acre.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the concensus of the council was to permit the 6,000-square-foot lots under a planned community zone and not enforce the 6,500-square foot minimum. He said Condiotti indicated he would dedicate and improve a portion of a park site in the area.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

ROAD BIDS — Heard a report that Argonaut Constructors of Santa Rosa had submitted the low bid of $51,105 for improvement of Country Club Drive. The cost had been estimated at $60,237 and the total project estimated at $105,991.

APARTMENTS — Approved the plans of Horst Hanf of a 53-unit apartment complex on Avram Avenue near Commerce Boulevard.

CHURCH — Reviewed plans for the proposed Berean Baptist Church at Country Club Drive and the Rohnert Park Expressway and asked revisions be made in the landscaping plans and that the planned shingle roof be changed to shake.

BURNING — Introduced an ordinance that would ban outdoor burning in conformance with regulations of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

GOLF RATES — Agreed to permit Callinan and golf professional Robert Porter to set special green fees for golf tournaments.

ACCESS — Heard Donald B. Heard, Sonoma County Director of public works, and representatives of the state Division of Highways, reject plans by Paul Golis for a frontage road as access to the Rohnert Park Expressway. The men said the plan would create many traffic conflicts.

PARK FUNDS — Directed recreation director James Pekkain to file an application for federal funds for a regional park.

RECEPTION — Scheduled a reception for Sonoma State College president Thomas H. McGrath for May 16 at the Community Center. Details will be planned by the cultural arts commission.

Action Postponed On Completion of Center

The Novato Planning Commission last night postponed action on plans for completion of the Novak Square Shopping Center, Novato Boulevard and Wilson Avenue, until May 3.

Developer H.L. Bryan of Oakland plans to construct about a dozen shops and a theater at the center, now occupied by a supermarket and a gasoline service station.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said commissioners delayed action because they wanted to consider the applications for use permits at the same time as the plan.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

RENTAL BUSINESS — Approved plans by E. D. McGillicuddy for a general equipment rental business, adjacent to 6981 Redwood Hwghway, west of Highway 101.

MENDOCINO GARDENS — Postponed until 8 p.m. Monday at the community house consideration of a plan by Norman T. Gilroy and Associates for planned residential development at Mendocino Gardens at the southwest corner of Novato Boulevard and Eucalyptus Avenue.

HEARING — Set May 10 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on rezoning 6.44 acres northeast of Simmons and Leese lanes from limited agricultural to planned residentials requested by Allan and Helga Dougherty.

$103,000 Allotted For Overcrossing

The California Highway Commission has allocated $103,000 as its share of a pedestrian overcrossing south of the Washington Street interchange in Petaluma.

The City of Petaluma will pay $101,000 toward the total cost of $204,000 for the overcrossing of Highway 101 for Kenilworth Junior High School students.

Election Returns To Be Broadcast

Election returns will be broadcast from the Civic Center, as they become available, tonight on KTIM FM (100.9).

Early absentee ballots and partial lists will be broadcast when available, interrupting the San Diego vs. Oakland Athletic's, according to Hugh Turner, station manager. First complete returns are expected about 10:30 p.m.

Pleads Innocent To Morals Count

Michael Lino Paredes, 31, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to two charges of sex perversion stemming from an incident near Kent Lake last summer.

A jury trial was set for the week of May 17.

Paredes is accused of being one of several men seen performing sexual acts with a woman Aug. 2 before a crowd including children at the spillway area below the lake.

Fuss Over North Coast Plan Costs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Controversy arose yesterday among the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors over payment of the rough outline for the proposed North Coast area planning and development commission.

Supervisor Robert Theiller of Sebastopol, a supporter of the new five-county alliance, had said last week that the counties would probably share the cost of developing the plan.

Some of his fellow supervisors expressed concern that they had not been consulted about the preparation of the report and its financing, and asked Theiller for an explanation.

Theiller said he had not committed any Sonoma County funds to pay for the draft and said he did not know how the author, Crescent City Atty. James Hooper, would be paid. He said Hooper was directed to do the task by Humboldt County Supervisor Donald Peterson. No figure was given on the cost of the 34-page report setting up the new alliance as an alternative to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

State Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, reportedly rejected the Hooper report and introduced rather vague legislation that would establish the new regional association but would expand it to seven counties adding Trinity and Siskiyou to the list of Sonoma, Napa, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties.

Sonoma County residents were voting today on whether to withdraw from ABAG in favor of the new association.

Six Democratic Senators To Offer Rebuttal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien today named six U.S. senators —all announced or potential presidential candidates —to join him in a televised answer to President Nixon's recent statements on Indochina.

The 30-minute program will be shown at 9 p.m. EST Thursday over the American Broadcasting Company (ABC) television network. CBS and NBC rejected demands by the Democrats that they be given equal time to respond to Nixon's Indochina policy statements.

Joining O'Brien on the program will be Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., Henry M. Jackson, Wash., George S. McGovern, S.D., Birch Bayh, Ind., Harold E. Hughes, Iowa, and Edmund S. Muskie, Maine.

Dougherty Replaced On Plan Commission

Hugh Dougherty, Marin County planning commissioner for the past six years, will be replaced by George P. Leonard of Stinson Beach, a retired contractor and land owner.

Marin County Board of Supervisors today approved Leonard's appointment on a motion by Chairman Louis H. Baar. Dougherty was named to the planning commission in 1965 by former Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, whom Baar ousted in 1968.

Leonard is a native of Sillwater, Okla. He attended MacAlester College where he majored in geology. He retired after 38 years in the contracting business, building tunnels, roads, airports and dams.

In 1968, he and his wife gave a portion of their Stinson Beach property to the county to complete public ownership of the famed Dipsea Trail. The Leonards owned property in Marin since 1956 and moved to Stinson Beach for permanent residence in 1969.

The Leonards are active in conservation organizations. He is listed in Who's Who of the Mid-West and the West.

Quarantine On Mussels Will Start May 1

The annual quarantine on taking mussels in Marin and Sonoma counties will start May 1 and continue to Oct. 31, the Marin County Health Department has announced.

The quarantine will be posted in English and Spanish, according to M.B. Scott, Marin County supervising sanitarian.

All ocean beaches in Marin County will be posted in English this week and by May 1 in Spanish, which signs are yet to be printed.

The dual language request came as a surprise yesterday to the Marin County Department of Environmental Health from Dr. Louis C. Saylor, state director of public health. It will be the first bilingual posting in Marin.

No shell fish poisoning has been reported since 1969 when most of it occurred among migrant farm workers in the Fort Bragg area, Saylor said. That poisoning inspired this year's Spanish posting, Saylor said. Quarantined waters include all bays opening from the ocean from Oregon to the Mexican border. These include Muir Beach, Bolinas Beach and Tomales Bay in Marin County and Bodega Bay in Sonoma County.

Suspect In Car Theft Arrested

Robin Allan Patterson, 20, of 1075 Cambridge Street, Novato who reportedly had someone else's car towed away, was arrested by Novato police yesterday on suspicion of car theft. Officers said Patterson had a tow truck remove an inoperable car owned by Dennis Gerald Chase of 1132 Third Street, Apt. 2, from in front of Chase's home Friday.

Patterson paid the $12.50 tow charge and was arrested yesteday when he returned to the service station at 5999 Redwood Highway, which handled the tow job, police said.

Patterson posted $1,200 bail and was set to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Innocent Plea To Possession Of Pot

Harry R. Cartwright, 22, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to charges of possession of marijuana for sale and possession of dangerous drugs.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon said a preliminary hearing would be set next Monday at 1:30 p.m. Cartwright was arrested April 8 after Petaluma police obtained a warrant to search his home at 808 Keokuk Street.

I'll Really Miss Russell Patrick

I cried last night.

I don't ordinarily weep, but a very dear friend of mine passed away last night. Please forgive me. But I loved him so very much. His name was Russell Patrick Hodges.

I had a date for dinner with Mr. Hodges the day after next. I had looked forward to it with enthusiasm. He and I were great needlers. He called me a "Big Harp" and I called him a "Black Irishman." I dearly hope Russell Patrick is looking down upon me as a "Big Harp" to this day because he was a Prince.

The first day I met Russ he was screaming in his own inimitible way, "Bye, Bye, Baby!" and I immediately fell in love with the expression. I guess I'm corny that way.

I'll never forget the day I hit him in the back with a quote that hurt him deeply. He had spent 10 or 15 minutes ridiculing me during an in-between doubleheader show, and I had come back in the next day's column — rapping him right back — but not really. For I respected him deeply. For Russell Patrick Hodges was a gentleman. And I'll never forget him.

I am going to a banquet Thursday night at which Mrs. Hodges was to be a guest speaker.

I hope you will all join me in a standing ovation and a rousing...."Job well, done, Russ" or, Russell Patrick, "...Bye, Bye, Baby."

MILL VALLEY'S Brink family is back in the news again.

This time it's the papa of the clan, big Larry Brink, who was honored last night as one of Northern Illinois University's all-time great athletes.

Now an auto dealer in southern Marin, Brink attended a banquet in DeKalb, Ill. to receive his award as selected by his alma mater's Alumni-Varsity Club.

Basic criteria for the award, according to Alumni-Varsity Club president Charles Raumond, is that the recipient must have earned an NIU varsity letter and made outstanding contributions to his chosen profession or occupation.

Brink went from Illinois Intercollegiate Athelic Conference All-Star fame to become an All-National Football League defensive end for three consecutive years, 1950-51-52, with the Los Angeles Rams. He stuck with the Rams for six years, including the 1952 world championship team, and wound up his career with the Chicago Bears in 1954.

He is still considered the best pro football player to come out of Northern Illinois.

Larry and Leath Brink's three sons appear destined to share dad's athletic glory. Barry, a 6-foot-2½-inch, 240 pound, 20-year-old graduate of Dartmouth, won all-star defensive end honors in the Ivy League as he helped the Indians to an undefeated championship season in 1970. He later played in the Hula Bowl in Honolulu and the East-West game and will join Montreal of the Canadian Football League this summer.

Jan, 18 year old and 6-3, 210 pounds, has been graduated from Phillips Academy in Exeter, Conn. after an outstanding career at Tamalpais High as a defensive end and linebacker. He says he will enroll at either Dartmouth or Cornell next fall.

And finally, Kevin, 16, is a junior at Tam, pitching and outfielding for the Indian varsity.

JOE ANSELMO, well known in local semi-professional baseball circles up until two years ago when he moved his family to Eugene, Ore., is back in town today.

The occasion is for a reunion of the San Rafael Braves he managed to the championship of the Western Baseball Association a couple of years ago. The reunion is tonight at Litchfield's Bermuda Palms in San Rafael.

Anselmo, who owns the Valley Stationary in Eugene, has kept active in baseball since his departure. A former professional, Jovial Joe is now up to his ears helping organize semi-pro tems in Oregon. Any college ball players interested in spending the summer in our neighboring state to the north should contact Anselmo.

Different Giant Hero For Every Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Charlie Fox and his San Francisco Giants are writing a real victory script at Candlestick Park these days with a different hero in every game.

Monday, Fox ressurected Ron Bryant from oblivion in the bullpen where he had languished with only 2 1-3 innings of work since opening day. And as you might have guessed, Bryant wound up the day's hero by the time the Giants got through beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-2, for their ninth consecutive victory.

When the game started Bryant was in the San Francisco bullpen where he has reported every day this season. Frank Reberger was the Giants starter but he hit the first batter he faced and walked the second. That brought Fox to the mound in a hurry for a quick consultation.

"Reberger told me his arm and shoulder were tight and he couldn't throw the way he wanted to," Fox explained. "I motioned to the bullpen to get Bryant ready."

While Fox and the San Francisco infield killed time on the mound Bryant, a tough lefthander with limited talent, tuned up as quickly as he could.

The umpires gave Fox about three minutes to make up his mind and he did by bringing Bryant onto the scene.

The Cardinals, of course, suspected some hanky-panky on Fox's part since they had started the game with their left-handed lineup against the righthanded Reberger.

Fox insisted Reberger hurt himself and he wasn't trying to outfox the Cardinals by switching to a lefthander in the middle of the first inning.

In any event, Bryant, with only one complete game under his belt last year, proceeded to limit St. Louis to a run in the first and another in the ninth while retiring 27 batters to pick up his first decision of the year.

He used his fastball at first, then switched to a big breaking curve in the fourth inning and between the two pitches held the cards to eight scattered ts.

"He really showed me something," Fox said. "His performance in this game earned him a spot in the starting rotation as my number five man. If he continues to pitch like this he could really pick us up because he's our only lefthanded starter."

It would appear at the moment that Fox has "promoted" Bryant to a phantom job since the way San Francisco's schedule reads for the next three weeks the Giants should be able to get by with just three starters, and those would be Juan Marichal, who pitches tonight's game against St. Louis, Gaylord Perry, who hooks up against Bob Gibson on Wednesday, and rookie Steve Stone.

Bryant wasn't immediately aware of the forthcoming schedule with its many off days, so naturally he was pleased to learn he had won a starting berth.

"That's always been my goal," said the curly haired youngster who has had opportunities before to win a steady job and failed all of them. "I've lost about 10 pounds from last year and I really feel I can do

TRAFFIC JAM — More than 1,000 runners in the 75th annual Boston Marathon jammed the streets to begin the 26-mile jaunt yesterday. The winner came all the way from California, Alvaro Majia, a resident of Colombia who has been living in Redwood City.

GOOD FORTUNE: LOSING JOB

Colombian Wins Marathon

BOSTON (UPI) —Most men don't like their jobs, but for Alvaro Mejia it turned out to be a stroke of good fortune.

Mejia, a 30-year-old Colombian, was employed as a metalworker in California until he was laid off five weeks ago. Undaunted by his ill fortune, Mejia decided to take advantage of the free time to train for the Boston Marathon.

It paid off Monday when he won the race —only his second marathon in the United States —in the most exciting finish in the 75-year history of the event.

The 5-foot-10, 145-pound Colombia matched the pre-race favorite, Pat McMahon of Ireland, stride for stride over the 26-mile course, then opened up in the last 200 yards to win by about 25 yards.

Mejia's winning time was two hours, 18 minutes, 45 seconds while McMahon was clocked in 2:18:50. The five-second spread was the tightest in history —eclipsing by one second the previous closest race in 1906.

Mejia, who is married to Terri Stickles, a member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic swim team, said he almost dropped out of the race about the midway point because of blisters on his feet.

"I got the blisters in the first two or three miles," the soft-spoken Colombian said afterward. "My feet hurt a lot and I thought about dropping out, but I decided just to keep going."

The blisters were so bad at one point Mejia ran trhough puddle "to try to cool my feet off."

Mejia, who lives in Redwood City, Calif. but will return shortly to Bogota, said he began training for the Boston Marathon when he lost his job.

"I wanted to run here because it was the biggest marathon in the country but I wouldn't have had the chance if I had been working."

Almost 900 marathoners started the race but by the first mile eight runners, including Mejia and McMahon, were setting the pace. The eight stayed together until the halfway point but by the three-quarter mark Mejia and McMahon pulled away.

John Halberstadt, 21, a South African attending Oklahoma State University, finished strong to capture third place in 2:22:23.

John Vitale, a recent graduate of the University of Connecticut, was the top American, finishing fourth in 2:22:45.

Four other Americans were in the top 10—Byron J. Lowery of San Francisco fifth, Art Coolidge of the sponsoring Boston A.A. sixth, Bill Speck of Providence College seventh and Bill Clark of San Jose, Calif., 10th.

The race, run in sunny weather with temperatures in the low 50s, attracted hundreds of joggers who trained all year to take part in America's most traditional road race. One of them was Erich Segal, Yale English professor and author of "Love Story." He finished 489th in a time of 3:23:14.

Several women ignored rules barring their official entry and ran anyway.

New Track Coaches For Redwood High

Russell Hill, an English teacher in his third year at Redwood High School, has been named to replace Stan Tobiason as the Larkspur school's head track coach, Principal Donald Kreps announced yesterday.

The appointments of Hill and social science teacher Don Shaver as assistant coach came less than a week after former head coach Stanley Tobiason and his assistant, Don Zile, announced their resignations because of irreconcilable differences with the administration on the school's athletic policies.

Hill, who served as assistant track coach and cross country coach at San Rafael High before coming to Redwood, said this morning he will take a neutral stand on the issues that led to the resignations — namely, long hair on student athletes, to which Tobiason and Athletic Director Bob Troppmann are staunchly opposed.

"I don't intend to take a hard line in any direction," he said. "We told the boys yesterday we're there to make sure everybody can compete."

Shaver was an assistant track coach last year at Novato High.

Marin '9' Is Back In First

The up-again, down-again College of Marin Tars are up again, tied for first place in the Camino Norte Conference baseball race.

After dropping to third place Saturday in a loss to Contra Costa J.C. of San Pablo, the Tars dumped Santa Rosa J.C. from the top spot yesterday by scoring eight times in the seventh inning to beat the Bear Cubs, 10-8 at Kentfield.

Marin and West Valley of Campbell are tied for first at 8-3, while Santa Rosa is now 6-3.

Goaltenders Stealing Show In NHL Playoffs

By United Press International

The National Hockey League Stanley Cup semifinals may come to be known as the goaltenders' series.

Defense is the name of the game for the four semifinalists and superb goaltending has carried the clubs thus far.

New York, which leads Chicago 1-0 in its best-of-seven series, has had some brilliant performances from Ed Giacomin, who teamed with Gilles Villemure to win the Vezina Trophy as the league's outstanding goalies.

And Montreal, which meets Minnesota in the opening game of its best-of-seven series tonight, stunned the Boston Bruins, the defending Cup champions, on the goalkeeping of rookie Ken Dryden.

Chicago, which won the Western title, qualified for the semifinals by ousting the Philadelphia Flyers in four games. New York, second to Boston in the East, stopped the Toronto Maple Leafs in six games. Montreal, third in the East, eliminated Boston in the upset of the playoffs and Minnesota, No. 3 in the West, stunned St. Louis.

UPSET KNICKS

Bullets Make NBA Finals

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Baltimore may be ruling the world before May is out.

The Colts won the pro football title, the Orioles captured the World Series and now it's the Bullets' turn.

It's in the cards, as far as Baltimore guard Fred Carter is concerned. Carter predicted in a fortune-type style of stud poker the exact outcome of the seven-game series with New York.

"Carter is a card sharp," said Earl Monroe, who scored 26 points for Baltimore, including the go ahead basket with 2:34 remaining, as Baltimore dethroned the defending National Basketball Association champions 93-91 Monday night.

"He picked it just right," Monroe added, "The two games the Knicks won in New York, the pair we took in Baltimore and the other results." Carter shrugs off his "good fortune" by calling the fall of the cards "sheer coincidence, although it nearly worked with Philadelphia, too, when I said we'd win four in a row and we only won three straight."

Coach Gene Shue says, with a smile: "Me, I pray to God. That's where I get my strength."

Shue did some tall praying during the last 11 seconds of the game when the Knicks called time out to plan their strategy for a tying basket.

"I reviewed the game with the team during the time out and told them we've worked darn hard all season to get where we are," Shue said. "I said 'we have a two-point lead, let's not lose it now.'"

The Knicks planned to have Willis Reed set up a pick for Dick Barnett or Walt Frazier, but Wes Unseld broke it up and partially blocked Bill Bradley's last shot.

Shue said the Bullets, trailing 47-43, had "to come out strong for the third quarter. Reed was doing a remarkable job despite playing with great pain and he was the cohesive factor in putting the Knicks ahead." A foul shot by Jack Marin, Wes Unseld's tap-in and Carter's unopposed layup down the middle gave Baltimore a 48-47 margin with 10:38 gone in the third quarter. A foul shot by Reed with 8:11 remaining gave New York a 53-52 edge, but Unseld got that back immediately with a turn-around over Reed's left side.

Baltimore retained the lead until Barnett drove down the lane for a layup that sent New York in front 88-87 with 2:44 remaining in the game. The lead lasted exactly 10 seconds before Monroe's soft jumper from the key put Baltimore in front for good at 89-88. Carter's 19-foot for a 93-89 lead proved to be the decisive basket as the Knicks could only muster Frazier's field goal that provided the final score.

Dave DeBusschere's shot with 33 seconds remaining and Bradley's off-balanced attempt were the Knicks' dying gasps.

"It was a heck of a struggle and it was remarkable we were able to win with Gus Johnson

Farm System Key To Giant Success

Garry Schumacher is the kind of press agent newspapermen admire. Schumacher never bothers reporters with silly ideas to puff his clients.

Without Schumacher his clients, the Giants, would get their share of space in the sports pages. With him they get more than their just due. The reason is that Schumacher thoroughly understands a feature when he sees one.

SCHUMACHER WAS a newspaperman for 25 years before Horace Stoneham hired him away from the old New York Journal. That was in 1945. Schumacher was the best baseball writer in New York and now he is the best press agent in the major leagues.

It would seem that after half a century in baseball, 25 as a writer and 25 as a press agent, Schumacher might run out of story ideas. But at 70 he actually is sharper at spotting features.

Take, for example, opening day in Candlestick Park. Schumacher was sitting between a couple of writers in the press box when the Giants got Gaylord Perry five runs in the second inning.

"THAT'S MORE than enough for Perry," said Schumacher. "See you later. I got an idea. If the record books bear it out, I'll be back."

While Perry was shutting out the Padres 5-0 on a three-hitter, Schumacher checked the records and returned to the press box at the end of the game with a neatly typed release entitled:

"A bow to Carl Hubbell, Jack Schwarz and their scouts in the Giants' Farm System."

Hubbell, director of the Giants' farm clubs, and Schwarz, the executive secretary who directs Giants' scouts, were, indeed, entitled to take a bow.

EVERY YEAR since the Giants moved to the Golden Gate in 1958, their Farm System has produced one or more players for the big club. And Schumacher not only documented that fact in his release but pointed out that every Giant in the 1971 opening day lineup was a Farm System graduate — Bobby Bonds, Chris Speier, Willie Mays, Willie McCovey, Ken MXNDERSON, Dick Dietz, Alan Gallagher, Hal Lanier and Perry.

Here is a list of the Giants' Farm System graduates:

1958 — Orlando Cepeda, Jimmy Davenport, Felipe Alou, Willie Kirkland and Bob Schmidt.

1959 — Jose Pagan, Ramon Monzant and Willie McCovey who came up in midseason.

1960 — Juan Marichal, Matty Alou and Eddie Fisher; 1961 — Tom Haller, Bob Bolin and Chuck Hiller; 1962 — Perry.

1966 — Dick Dietz and Rich Robertson; 1967 — Dave Marshall; 1968 — Bobby Bonds, Frank Johnson and Don Mason; 1969 — Ron Bryant; 1970 — Alan Gallagher and Skip Pitlock; 1971 — Chris Speier, Steve Stone, George Foster and Jim Rosario.

SCHUMACHER DIDN'T stop there. He even researched the records for a list of Giants' Farm System graduates now populating both American and National Leagues:

Ron Herbel, Atlanta; Orlando Cepeda, Atlanta; Bill Hands, Cubs; Randy Hundley, Cubs; Jay Alou, Houston; Tom Haller, Dodgers; Manny Mota, Dodgers; Dave Marshall, Mets; Jose Pagan, Pirates; Matty Alou, Cardinals; Frank Linzy, Cardinals; Jose Cardenal, Cardinals; Bob Burda, Cardinals; Bob Barton, Padres; Don Mason, Padres; Ollie Brown, Padres; Felipe Alou, Yankees; Cesar Gutierrez, Tigers.

Yes, Schumacher is the kind of press agent newspapermen, especially columnists, admire. When he retires baseball writers covering the Giants will have to go to work.

Virginia Takes Lead In ABA Playoff Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Virginia Squires had one Scott too many for the Kentucky Colonels Monday night.

Charlie Scott, the Squires' brilliant rookie, and veteran Ray Scott each tallied 30 points to help Virginia beat Kentucky 150-137 and give the Squires a 2-1 lead in their American Basketball Association Eastern Division final playoff.

The Western Division final playoff continues tonight at Salt Lake City where the Stars entertain the Indiana Pacers. Utah currently holds a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The Virginia-Kentucky contest produced an ABA record for most personal fouls in one game as the officials whistled a total of 79 infractions. Seven players fouled out of the game, including Kentucky's Dan Issel who led the Colonels with 27 points.

Charlie Scott pumped in seven of his points during a nine-point Squire streak that saw Virginia break away from a 120-120 tie in the final quarter.

The series resumes Wednesday night at Louisville with the fifth game scheduled for Hampton, Va., Friday night.

New Cage Coach

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States Military Academy Monday ended its search for a basketball coach to replace Bobby Knight by hiring Dan Dougherty, an assistant at Villanova since 1966. Knight resigned last month to accept the head coaching job at Indiana.

The Tars had a chance to deal the Bear Cubs another blow when they met this afternoon in Santa Rosa.

Vic Petreshen's boys staged their uprising in the seventh with the benefit of only three hits. Doubles by Jim Peters and Bob Sutherland netted three runs, and Dee Fedrick singled home Roger Offenbach with the tie breaker. Fedrick scored the eventual winning run on a delayed double steal, with Mike Parnow going to second and drawing a throw.

Santa Rosa fell apart completely that inning, contributing three errors, two walks, a hit batter and a passed ball.

Chris Roland and Stu Kneeland pitched the last four innings in relief of Marin starter Dennis Bueler, and Kneeland got credit for the win. Both relievers had seen little work this season and were successful in shutting the door on the Bear Cubs, who had gotten to Bueler for five runs through the fifth.

Home Run Costs Lee The Game

I-J Special Report

Former Terra Linda High School star Bill Lee got his first decision of the year for the Boston Red Sox yesterday, but it was one he'd rather forget.

The tall southpaw served up a home run pitch to Cleveland's Roy Foster in the 13th inning that produced two runs and gave the Indians a 5-4 victory.

Lee, the fifth Boston pitcher, had yielded a walk to Graig Nettles prior to Foster's blow. It was the only walk he issued while striking out four in two innings work.

In the only other American League game yesterday, Minnesota edged Kansas City, 9-8. Meanwhile in the National League, San Francisco downed St. Louis, 4-2, and Los Angeles edged San Diego, 3-2.

Billy Grabarkewitz' bases-loaded double in the eighth inning drove in two runs to give Los Angeles the victory over San Diego. Willie Davis and Wes Parker singled and, after a sacrifice by Richie Allen and an intentional walk, Grabarkewitz unloaded his game-winning double off reliever Al Severinsen.

Boston outfielder Reggie Smith injured his knee before the game when he banged it against the stands while trying to prevent an unidentified girl—about 10 or 11—from being hit with a flyball. He had to leave the game in the eighth because of the injury and his replacement, George Thomas, went 0-for-3 and stranded the tying run on third in the last of the 13th.

Harmon Killebrew drove in six runs with a homer, single and an infield out as Minnesota built up a 9-0 lead and then held on for the one-run victory over Kansas City. The loss broke a six-game Twins losing streak.

"I think we've been hitting the ball well," Killebrew said, "but before today, we just haven't been getting the hits in the right spots."

Jim Kaat was staked to the 9-0 lead but he failed to survive the fifth inning when the Royals scored seven runs, four on Bob Oliver's grand slam. Steve Barber got the victory in relief and Ron Perranoski finished up.

Shue told Monroe to take charge and "that we were going with him right down to the buzzer." Monroe responded with his recently acquired "Gung Ho" attitude that first destroyed Philadelphia's playoff hopes and then vanquished the Knicks. He expects to continue in the same fashion against Milwaukee.

it this year. All I want is another chance."

Dick Dietz, Bryant's batterymate Monday, and Bobby Bonds took care of getting the Giants the runs they needed for their 12th victory of the season against only two losses—the best record in the majors this year.

Dietz, a big slugger last year, hasn't had much of a start this year. In Monday's game he drove in single runs in the first and third with singles for a two-for-three day while Bonds, who has been whacking away without restraint, drilled his fifth homer. San Francisco's other run came on a bases-loaded walk to George Foster.

After concluding their work against the Cards on Wednesday the Giants will embark on their first long road trip of the year, playing nine games in 13 days before they return to Candlestick on May 4.

Cowens, Petrie Tie For Rookie Of Year Honors

New York (UPI)—Dave Cowens of Boston and Geoff Petrie of Portland, two players who didn't make the All-America college team but became surprise stars in the pros, finished in a tie for the National Basketball Association Rookie of the Year award.

In the balloting announced today, Cowens and Petrie each received 36 votes from sportswriters and sportscasters in the 17 league cities.

Pete Maravich, who had problems adjusting to the pro style of play after being the leading scorer in college at Louisiana State for three straight years, finished third with 21 votes. Calvin Murphy of San Diego got four votes and Bob Lanier of Detroit had just one.

Cowens and Petrie were the first players ever to tie for the award which was inaugurated in 1953 and has been won by such stars as Elgin Baylor (1959), Wilt Chamberlain (1960, Oscar Robertson (1961), Willis Reed (1965), Rick Barry (1966), Earl Monroe (1968), Wes Unseld (1969) and Lew Alcindor (1970).

Petrie was a college star at Princeton but seldom got much recognition outside of Ivy League ranks. He also had the disadvatange of playing for Portland, an expansion team. But he became the seventh rookie in NBA history to score more than 2,000 points as his 2,031 ranked him seventh in the league with a 24.8 average.

"The whole year was unbelievable," Petrie said, "I couldn't have dreamed it any better."

He admitted he was "surprised, really surprised" that he tied for the rookie award. "I thought Cowens might get it because he got off to such a great start."

Cowens played his college ball at Florida State and he had the sizeable task of playing the center spot that was occupied on the Celtics for 13 years by Bill Russell. At 6-foot-8 1-2, he also gives away many inches to most of the other centers in the league but he made up for his lack of height with hustle.

And his spirited play was one of the main reasons why the Celts improved by 10 games this season. They were 44-38 this year compared to 34-48 last year when they first had to adjust to Russell's absence.

Athletics To Open Series With Angels

ANAHEIM (UPI) — A key American League West series opens tonight when the second place Oakland Athletics take on the front-running California Angels.

The Oakland club is 9-5 on the season while the Angels are 8-4. Only 24 percentage points separate the two teams. Tom Murphy (1-1) is scheduled to pitch for the Angels against the A's Jim "Catfish" Hunter, (0-2).

The A's tried to strengthen their chances Monday be recalling pitcher Marchel Lachemann from Iowa of the American Association and sending down rookie Jim Panther, who had pitched in relief three times.

A's pilot Dick Williams said that he wanted Panther to get regular pitching assignments while the veteran Lachemann would be more effective in spot assignments.

"There are three teams picked in our division, he says in reference to the Twins, Angels and A's. "We've already beaten one — the Twins. We think we are better than the other," he said.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Not too long ago, I gave a fellow a citation for using two rods while fishing in San Pablo Bay. Let's say his name is "Paul" just to protect the innocent. At the time, I noticed that he gave his occupation as "restaurant owner."

He questioned me about the penalties for this type of violation, but all I could tell him was that the minimum fine was $25. A few days later, one of the waiters from his restaurant stopped to see Mary, my wife, at the Woodacre Post Office where she's the postmaster. He was relaying a message, so he said, from his boss, Paul, to both Mary and me! The message was that Paul was serving some excellent martinis at the restaurant, using the best beefeater's Gin, at the nominal price of $25 per drink, and that Mary and I should drop by! (The price wasn't right, so we stayed home!)

A few days later, I was coming into one of San Rafael's harbors in a patrol boat (unmarked) to a new berth, when suddenly there's Paul who readily assists in docking the boat. I said, "Hello, Paul." For a minute, he was uncertain as to who I was, but then suddenly recognition hit home! He just said, "Oh, no!" The new berth was right next to his! After recovering his composure, he remarked that the price of the martinis had dropped to $15 per, which I correctly guessed had been the amount of his fine. He asked me about this, but I said I had recommended the $25! (The $15.00 fine is a minor mystery as yet unsolved!) We dropped the thing there.

A couple of days ago, it was Mary's birthday — her 38th. I asked her about going out for dinner, and of course, she wanted to go to "you-know-who's" restaurant! I called Norm and Georgia Quadros of Mill Valley and away the four of us went. No reservations, and Paul (who met us at the door) almost wouldn't let us in! I finally waved my finger at him, which he evidently took as a warning so we got in. The dinner was excellent, and Dave, the waiter, came along with a bottle of wine on the house from the boss, Paul. Dave, who is a devil, wanted me to taste the wine, pound the table, and then reject the stuff!

Mary and Georgia said they would spend the rest of the night in the ladies room if we did that, so to keep the peace, we just laughed. Paul, who misses nothing, immediately wanted to know what we were up to with his waiter. For a laugh I told him what we had been contemplating. He suggested then, that we walk out without tipping Dave if we really wanted some fun. And that's the way the night went. Before leaving, I told Paul that it was Mary's birthday. You know what he said to Mary? "You look very good for 38, but if you were married to a Frenchman, you would look even better." (I think he's looking for another Fish and Game chit!)

But then, here comes the waiter with a nice cake and their one-man orchestra playing "Happy Birthday." What can one say? Well, finally all of this had to come to an end, so I asked for the tab. As I pulled a few bills out to make payment, Paul says "It's really nice to see your money!"

Of course, you should be able to guess by now just how much the bill was for Mary and me. Yep, just $15. Do you think this was some kind of a message?

HAVE YOU seen the May Playboy Magazine? There's an article called "Scuba-Do" with some excellent underwater photography, all taken by my son, Al. I have oftentimes felt that I was in the wrong business. Never has it been brought so close to home before!

DON'T FORGET to get your tickets for the Ducks Unlimited (of Marin) annual spring dinner dance at the Marin Country Club in Novato, April 24. No host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 8 o'clock. The host, Walter Freitas, would like your R.S.V.P. at the Western Sports Shop, San Rafael, or call Mrs. Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael.

You'll have to fish by instinct this week for I have nothing further to say.

Philly Salutes Frazier

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Joe Frazier learned his first boxing lessons at a Police Athletic League ring in the heart of the North Philadelphia poverty pocket.

Frazier learned the lessons well and went on to win the undisputed world heavyweight crown March 8 in a Madison Square Garden bout with Cassius Clay.

The nation's fourth largest city took time out Monday to honor Frazier, an adopted son.

The fighter, a native of Beaufort, S.C., received a city hall salute and was the star of the show in a downtown motorcade to mark his heavyweight championship.

Mayor James H.J. Tate proclaimed it "Joe Frazier Day."

Frazier, wearing a light brown suit, gold shirt, brown tie and tan boots, fought his way through a traffic jam, sparked by a citywide transit strike, to arrive for the city hall ceremony 30 minutes late. His wife, Florence, and four of their five children, accompanied the champ.

The boxer received a plaque from Tate and a life membership in the Police Athletic League. Tate recalled the city first honored Frazier when he won the Olympic championship in 1964 and broke his hand.

"I can recall that at the time Joe was a rather shy champion and he was very self-conscious of the big cast he carried on his broken left hand," Tate said.

Following the ceremony, Frazier rode through center city in the eight-vehicle motorcade with his family and the mayor.

FIVE AMONG TOP 10 BATTERS

Novato Nine Dominating League

By David Einstein

A quick glance at the Marin County Athletic League's list of top 10 batters through the first two weeks of the baseball season testifies to what is also obvious from the team standings: Novato High School is closing the door on the rest of the league.

The Hornets, undefeated in four games, claim half the top 10 spots, with junior outfielder Bill Busher leading the way. He leads the league in runs scored with six, and has seven hits in 12 trips to the plate for a .583 mark.

The MCAL's leading hitter is Drake's Alan Curtiss, a transfer shortstop from Santa Monica. Although he has played in one game fewer than anyone else on the list, he has six hits, which in 10 at bats puts him at .600. Like Busher, he is a junior.

San Rafael has three players among the top 10, and Terra Linda has one, Bill Sherbert. That completes the list with only half of the league's eight teams represented.

THE LAW of averages suggests that if one team has all the hitters, there must be another team with no hitters. That would be the San Marin Mustangs. In four games, they have a total of 11 hits, and only one player, Rich Burden, has two hits in a game.

IT DIDN'T have any adverse effect on their performance, but the Novato squad underwent a quiet change of coaching last week. Principal Stanley Onderdonk fired head coach Bob Aune, and replaced him with assistant Bob Acoune. Aune currently is teaching at Santa Rosa Junior College, and since going there at the beginning of this semester has been listed at Novato as an assistant coach. So, according to Onderdonk, Acoune has been the head man all season. It was Aune, however, who ran the team up until last week.

SOMEBODY UP there doesn't like Marin Catholic coach Gary Hughes. He has seen his last two games rained out, and the one last Friday night against Drake really hit him where it hurts - right in the pocketbook. That's because the proceeds from Marin's night games at Albert Park are being used in part to help pay for the team's spiffy new uniforms (the road rags are robin-egg blue).

IF THE TERM "class" can be applied to high school ball, the MCAL is overflowing with it, as evidenced by the league's newest inovation - bat girls. These picturesque additions to the diamond perform all sorts of sundry activities, some related to the game. They retrieve bats of course, but they also sweep off the bases and kiss the umpires. Now, that's the way to fix a game!

Redwood and Drake started using girls this year, and the novelty has caught on. Marin Catholic will probably be the next team to dress up the dugout with something warmer than a warmup jacket.

JUNE 18 has been set as the date for the second annual MCAL, North-South all star game, to be played at Albert Park. Last year the Knights of Columbus - sponsored game drew more than 2,000 fans, who personally established a college scholarship fund as the North (Terra Linda, Novato, San Rafael and San Marin), edged the South (Redwood, Tamalpais, Drake and Marin Catholic), 3-2. The players for this year's game, i.e. the top seniors in the league, will be nominated by the coaches, headed by Marin Catholic's Hughes.

Final Entrants For Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The field for the 1971 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race apparently is complete at 76 cars.

Eight entries with postmarks prior to the April 15 midnight deadline arrived Monday, and a spokesman for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway said those probably would be the last. Only 33 cars will be allowed to start in the May 29 classic.

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Five Bank of America officers have been reelected to the board of directors of National Bankamericard Inc., according to Dee W. Hock, president of NBI.

The organization, which is made up of Bankamericard-issuing banks throughout the U.S., also increased the number of its directors from 18 to 22. In line with its policy of broadening the representation of its member banks, including the smaller members who now are additionally represented by the special at-large directors.

The Bank of America officers who were re-elected are Samuel B. Stewart, senior vice chairman of Bank of America; Kenneth W. Larkin, senior vice president; John A. Dillon, vice president; Jerry G. South, vice president-office of the president, and Donald R. McBride, president of Bankamerica Service Corp.

Elected to the NBI board as regional directors were Melvin J. Roberts, chairman of Colorado National Bank, and Arthur A. Huber, executive vice president of First National Bank of Atlanta.

Elected as special at-large director was John W. Alford, president of the Park National Bank of Newark, Ohio.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

How Institutions Affect The Market

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. A while back you mentioned a study being made of the effects of institutional trading on the stock market. Has that report been finished and if so what were the conclusions? — G.C.

A. This 3,400-page report was sent to Congress for study last month. The writers concluded that although institutions controlled assets of $714 billion — 44 per cent in common stock — there appeared to be no strong evidence that stock prices were being unduly influenced.

Institutions studied, in order of assets controlled, included: employee benefit plans, insurance companies, personal trusts, mutual funds and investment companies, personal advisory accounts, foundations and endowment funds. Trading by these groups was not associated with major market swings nor has it "impaired price stability in the market."

While the study contended that market domination is not a present threat, institutions are increasing their share of equity ownership. Thus the SEC report recommended that rules covering disclosure be tightened. It was suggested that money managers be required to report transactions if aggregate holdings under their supervision represent 5 per cent of a company's outstanding stock.

Other major recommendations included: elimination of fixed commission rates on portions of transactions exceeding $500,000; rules requiring that "offshore funds" be subject to SEC regulation; require standardized periodic reports by financial institutions and revise incentive plans for money managers to penalize poor performances in addition to rewarding success.

Q...I hold 100 shares of Commercial Solvents and 50 Tool Research and need income. Should I sell and invest in certificates of deposit? — M. G.

A. My advice would be to sell Commercial Solvents and hold Tool Research. The former has reported consistently lower earnings over the last 6 years whereas the latter has been in an operating uptrend.

Funds realized from the sale of Commercial Solvents would return — depending on your geographic location — 5½ to 6 per cent if invested in two-year certificates of deposit.

Climb Ends, Stocks Dip On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — Profit taking leaned on the stock market Tuesday after two weeks of sharp advances. Turnover was fairly heavy.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock Index showed a loss of 0.31 at 103.70.

Of the 1,688 issues crossing the tape, 928 declined and 484 advanced.

A turnover of around 17,250,000 shares compared with 17,730,000 shares traded Monday.

Despite the generally constructive news background, one Wall Street analyst said "the possibilities of a corrective or consolidation phase seem to outweigh the likelihood of a significant extension of the recent advance."

Much of the long term optimism in the investment community stems from expectations of a better economy and belief that corporate earnings will show marked improvement in the second half of the year.

Electronics and oils traded in both directions, while steels, motors and chemicals moved narrowly.

Three Marinites Score In Contest

Three Marin County men have been named winners in the 12th Annual Bay Counties Carpenter-Mill Cabinet-Millwright Apprentice Competition in San Francisco.

Winning first place Saturday in the carpenters' category was Sam Krummes of 821 Sweetser Avenue, Novato, employed at H.S. Meinberger and Sons of San Rafael.

Krummes, a member of San Rafael Carpenters Union Local 35, is the fourth apprentice from the San Rafael local to win top honors in the last five years.

Douglas Waterhouse of Novato won in 1969; Kenneth Becker of San Rafael, who served as a judge this year, won in 1968, and Robert Ruzick of Novato won in 1967.

Second place in carpenters' competition was awarded to William Morris of Point Reyes Station, an employee of Plant Brothers of San Francisco.

Both men were required to build a dog house, lay out and cut a series of intricate rafters and display other skills in the eight hour contest.

First place in cabinetmaking was awarded to Jack E. Miller of 29 Brookdale Avenue, San Rafael.

Miller, a fourth year apprentice, is employed at Hardwood Design of Northgate Industrial Park, San Rafael.

He won for his freestanding cabinet with adjustable shelves.

The competition, staged at the Stonestown Shopping Center Mall and the arts and industrial building at San Francisco State College, was entered by 16 apprentice finalists from around the Bay Area.

It was sponsored by the San Francisco Carpenters Joint Apprentice Committee and was coordinated by Jimps Wilcox of 224 Ridgeway Avenue, Fairfax.

The competition leads to the state finals later this year in San Diego. All three Marinites will compete there with winners traveling to Detroit in August for international competition.

Pair Held, In Burglary, Pot Cases

A 19-year-old Forest Knolls youth was arrested yesterday on suspicion of burglary, possession of stolen property, possession of marijuana and cultivating the weed. A 17-year-old companion was arrested on suspicion of possessing and growing pot.

Sheriff's deputies said Robert Scott Morey and Nancy Jane Hayden, both of 6850 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, were arrested after drug abuse agents and San Anselmo police went to the home with a warrant alleging that Morey burglarized a garage in San Anselmo earlier this month.

Once inside the home, officers said, they noticed a marijuana plant growing in a bedroom. Further investigation discovered a suspected lid of marijuana, 50 suspected marijuana cigarette butts in a bottle and stereo equipment believed stolen.

Morey's arrest stems from the April 9 burglary of the garage at the home of Robert D. Dawson, 128 Alder Avenue. An auto seen leaving the scene was traced to Morey, officers said.

Morey remained in Marin County Jail in lieu of $1,875 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Miss Hayden was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall.

First Lady Tells Of Movie Days In Old Hollywood

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pat Nixon helped pay her way through college by working as a Hollywood extra in the 1930s, but she turned down a movie career because she wanted to finish her schooling.

The First Lady spoke of her work in movies and the contract offers she received in an interview in McCall's magazine released Monday.

"I wanted to finish my education," Mrs. Nixon said. "This meant more to me than quick money, and I didn't think I could go very far."

Mrs. Nixon said she worked in the movies "Becky Sharp," "The Great Ziegfeld," and "Small Town Girl," the last with Robert Taylor.

Mrs. Nixon said she had a secret crush on Taylor—"I really eyed him"—and about 25 years later she and her husband met Taylor in California.

"I told him this, and we had a good laugh," she said.

Cambodia's Lon Nol, Cabinet Quit

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian Prime Minister Lon Nol, who helped lead the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk and then suffered a disabling stroke, resigned today along with his entire cabinet.

Lon Nol's brother, Col. Lon Non, said the resignation was little more than a formality and probably would not be accepted.

Political sources said Lon Nol and his cabinet submitted their resignations at the office of chief of state Chen Heng today. However, there was no immediate official announcement.

Lon Nol and Cheng Heng led the bloodless coup of neutralist Prince Norodom Sihanouk March 18, 1970. Sihanouk was out of the country at the time and has since set up a government in exile in Communist China.

On Feb. 8 Lon Nol suffered a stroke. He later went to a U.S. military hospital in Hawaii for treatment and returned to Cambodia several weeks ago. But he never fully recovered from the effects of the stroke.

Col. Lon Non told UPI "the majority of his (Lon Nol's) friends, including military men, civilians, youth and religious personalities do not wish him to resign. They have submitted a motion to the chief of state asking him not to accept the resignations and to request Lon Nol and Ge, Sirik Matak to stay on and form another government."

Gen. Sisowath Sirik Matak, who served as deputy prime minister under Lon Nol, took over administration of the government following the prime minister's illness.

Lon Nol said it would not be known until Wednesday or possibly even Thursday what Cheng Heng would do about the resignation, but there was every expectation that he would not accept it and would ask Lon Nol and Sirik Matak to stay on.

Lon Non said the reason for the resignation of the government lay solely in the requirements of the Cambodian constitution and there was no question of his health involved.

Auto Taken

Someone took his 1957 Chevrolet, license COE-550, between 11:30 a.m. and 1:40 p.m. yesterday from where he had parked it in front of 745 Second Street, San Rafael, Ray O. Fields of Santa Rosa, reported to police.

Hopes For Financing Park Projects Fade

Novato Parks and Recreation Commission's hopes for a 30-cent override tax rate to finance parks faded last night and a bond issue loomed.

City councilmen and commissioners, in joint session, looked at a proposed five-year $1 million capital improvement program for parks, which would add 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation to the tax rate, and saw a money problem.

Commissioners pushed for an aggressive program by the city to purchase and develop park land, but Councilmen J. Wayne Womack and Wayne Sartain balked at the tax bite.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said in view of council comments he would propose a capital improvements program for one year and a bond issue "to go to the voters within one year."

Voters rejected two bond proposals last year, $2,365,000 for parks and $600,000 for a community recreation center.

Womack said the council had to consider the tax levy for parks and recreation in relationship with the entire city budget. The current rate for parks and recreation is now 26 cents per $100 assessed valuation, and adding 30 cents would bring it to the point where it would represent about 40 per cent of the entire city tax levy, he said.

Commissioners agreed that large land purchases or major developments such as a community recreation center would have to be financed by a bond issue.

Commission chairman Martin C. White said the $276,000 in the program, earmarked for purchase of the San Marin Club, since sold to a private group, could be used for land acquisition.

Councilmen and commissioners, looked toward the proposed bedroom tax on new development as an aid toward financing park and recreation activities.

Adams estimated the proposed tax, $75 for the first bedroom and $15 for each additional bedroom, would bring in from $60,000 to $90,000 a year.

Another financial help would be if the Novato Unified School District levied its full community services tax override rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation and participated in development of school grounds, Adams said.

The council adjourned to a closed session at 9 a.m. Saturday at Novato Community House to review the applications of nine persons for the vacant seat on the council.

Commissioner Dr. John Kassenbrock was absent.

3,000 Can Expect Returns To Be Audited

Approximately 3,000 Marin County taxpayers can expect to have their 1970 income tax returns audited by the Internal Revenue Service.

These returns are not picked at random from the approximately 78,000 returns but are those which do not meet all the checks, said Frank A. Busalacchi public information officer for the service.

The first screening looks for all the necessary information. Mathematics are checked next on a computer. The computer spots most of the trouble in the return, Busalacchi said.

A team of employees then goes over these returns to decide whether or not to give them further scrutiny. The Internal Revenue Service may want to check receipts to support exemption claims.

In auditing returns, the Internal Revenue Service has the most trouble with persons throwing away their receipts. These should be kept for three years, he said.

Boys Held In Purse Theft Probe

Two runaway Sacramento boys were arrested yesterday on suspicion of stealing a Corte Madera woman's purse from a laundry at the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Corte Madera police said today Michael Allen Mullenix and Michael Andrew Nolan, both 15 and of Mather Air Force Base, were picked up at 10:20 a.m. by Larkspur police an hour after the theft.

Bertha Lopez of 439 Manzanita Avenue told officers she saw the youths take her purse containing $80 from a table at the laundry and gave chase.

Officers said Mrs. Lopez caught the two in a nearby parking lot, recovered her handbag, and then let them go. Not until she returned to the laundry did she discover a smaller purse containing the $80 was missing from the handbog.

The two youths, when picked up in Larkspur, were carrying about $35 each and led police to the small purse containing another $9 hidden near Neil Cummins School.

The two youths were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall.

SYMPATHETIC RESCUE

A Day In The Life Of Your Friendly Fireman

If a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, what are two birds in the window worth?

To the Sausalito Fire Department, they're worth one man and 15 minutes.

Firemen received a call at 6:32 a.m. today from a distraught woman that a bird was caught between the glass and the screen of her front window.

Fireman Jerry Roxberg responed to the home of Christina Olsen at 38 Water Street, where he found not one, but two trapped sparrows.

After calming Miss Olsen, Roxberg spent the next 15 minutes catching the elusive creatures.

"It was a big window," said another fireman, "and the birds kept flying to the top and then back down again."

Finally, Roxberg accomplished the seemingly impossible mission and released the sparrows.

"We don't usually respond like this," said a fireman, "but when they come early in the morning or late at night we try our best. People get upset more easily at times like that."

Rocking The Boat Sometimes Does Good

The "boat rocker" sometimes serves a good purpose. It seems that rather often, somebody has to rock the boat before the captain will correct the course or patch the leaks.

Of course, there are boat rockers and boat rockers. There are those who like to rock the boat just to make waves, not being interested in having the sails set right or the leaks patched. But there are other who rock the boat for a purpose.

One of these who has done considerable good for a lot of us by his boat-rocking is Ralph Nader. Consumers (and we're all consumers) have a lot for which to thank the man whose "Nader's Raiders" have made boat rocking their business.

A MORE RECENT boat rocker whose wave-making may do some good is Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, San Mateo County's maverick Republican. McCloskey is a bitter critic of the United States' role in Southeast Asia. He is no draft-dodging dove; he served with distinction in the Marine Corps during the Korean War. But he sees little or no reason for the continued U.S. involvement in Indochina.

McCloskey really gave the boat a shake when he suggested to an audience of Stanford University students that it should be possible to discuss impeachment of President Nixon over theVietnam issue. He didn't suggest the President should be impeached; he just said it might be discussed. But that was enough.

He followed that up by saying that Republicans should be given a choice for President: that renomination of the incumbent should not be a foregone conclusion.

Someone, said McCloskey, should run against Nixon in next year's Republican primaries. And if no one else would, he would.

We don't think "Pete" McCloskey believes he has much chance to take the nomination away from Mr. Nixon. But this bit of boat-rocking accomplishes a purpose: It points up that just because a man is in office does not mean he is the best candidate his party can field.

ANOTHER BOAT ROCKER did some rocking last Friday that should set people thinking.

Ferney H. Stark Jr., president of Security National Bank of Walnut Creek, who is as much a maverick among bankers as McCloskey is among Republican politicians, suggested that heads of businesses should be jailed for failing to do anything about pollution.

"Throw a few chairmen of the board in jail for polluting the air and water, and you'll see pollution disappear quite rapidly," Stark told a meeting of the California Environmental Health Association in Oakland. "You'd also probably see some pretty drastic prison reforms."

Stark's thesis is that industry has the know-how to correct much of the pollution, and the obligation to use that know-how. And the responsibility, he holds, must be put on the heads of companies.

We think there is even less likelihood of board chairmen being jailed for polluting the air and water than there is of "Pete" McCloskey being nominated for President. But Stark's proposal may do some good. It may make some heads of industrial companies think a little harder about their responsibilities — just as Ralph Nader's boat rocking has done.

Controversy Abuilding

At an archaeological digging site in the Calico Mountains on the Mojave Desert, the biggest controversy about man's prehistory to surface in several decades is building steam.

If as some believe, it can be establihsed that the crudely chipped rocks found at this excavation site are primitive man-made implements, then the length of time man has been on this continent will have to be reassessed. How old the layers of the dig are is the subject of a second controversy. Some say over half a million years old.

Eminent scientists are lining up on both sides. We are likely to be hearing much about the Calico site as discussion becomes more heated. Next to a woman scorned, Hell hath no fury like a scientist whose theories and works are disputed.

Alternative To More Subsidies For Railroads: Public Ownership

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Having unloaded their passenger deficits on the public, the railroads are now back at the doors of Congress asking for annual subsidies, guaranteed loans and a few minor fringe benefits such as freedom from regulation. If you don't give us the money, they say, the railroads will collapse; and if that happens the government will have to take them over, and isn't that a frightful thought?

Well, we don't find it frightful, and we think public ownership should be calmly and rationally discussed as a possible alternative to public subsidy of private profits. If the railroads have reached a point where they must be bailed out by the taxpayers, then it is a legitimate question to ask why the beneficiary should not be the public instead of the bankers, stock brokers and managements that have brought the rails to their present pass.

Nationalization, we are told, would be the worst solution because among other things it would cost so much. But if the rails were bought out at their true uninflated value as measured by their own prophecies of imminent doom, the cost would not be excessive, and in any case would be financed by bonds to be paid off out of earnings. What is the difference between paying interest to the holders of private railroad bonds, and paying it to the holders of a public railroad corporation's bonds?

Or we are told that nearly all government-owned railroads — which is to say the railroads of every major industrial country except this one — operate at a deficit, as if there were something inherently shameful about them. But what is the difference between subsidizing rail transportation through a deficit, and subsidizing it through grants and loans and tax write-offs in order to squeeze out of it profits for private owners?

Or we are presented with the ancient myth that publicly owned enterprise is inevitably less efficient than private enterprise — an assumption not borne out by railroad experience in Europe and Japan, or by 25 years of impressive performance on the part of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Certainly converting the rails from a private to a public bureaucracy would not guarantee better performance; but neither would it guarantee bad performance. The line between private and public enterprise in our decidedly mixed economy is already so thin that stepping across it in one distressed sector of the economy can be fearlessly faced without ideological bias.

The railroads blame their troubles on excessive regulation. With somewhat different emphasis, we would say that the Interstate Commerce Commission has developed serious shortcomings as a mechanism for protecting the public interest. The answer, however, is not to abandon any protection at all but to strengthen it by other means.

The fundamental question is one of principle. If the railroads can be saved only by public subsidy and investment, why should not the public in exchange take ownership and control? . . . If the railroads cannot make it in the private sector, what is wrong with moving them unambiguously into the public sector, and operating them for public service rather than profit?

Marin Alternative Not Leftist Cult

I read with interest the "Vomit Squad" letter from R. C. Kesner in Wednesday's I-J. No doubt he is the same R. C. Kesner whose ballot argument against the Peace Referendum (Proposition A) last November led off with "Color this referendum red!" and went downhill from there.

To set the record straight the Marin Alternative, far from being a part of a "leftist cult", is a non-partisan political group aimed at improving local government at all levels. Over 600 Marin voters have joined Marin Alternative since it was founded last year.

The Marin Alternative has endorsed not two, but three candidates for the College of Marin Board — Frances Compton, Richard Beban, and James Kimo Campbell — because they were among the most articulate and knowledgeable candidates and would, together, provide a needed balance on the board.

In any event the Marin Alternative urges all I-J readers to go to the polls and vote for the candidates of their choice on Tuesday.

No Shouting Match, Says Councilman

I wish to compliment your young reporter, whose name I do not know, for generally accurate reporting of the Fairfax Council meeting of April 12. I believe it was the first time she has covered what is probably the most volatile city council in Marin. However, I take issue with one observation made.

This was the description of a "shouting match" between Councilman (Francis J.) O'Connell and myself which was front-page news on April 13. I don't shout and a review of the tapes of last Monday will reveal that I did not lose control of myself. I dislike being classed with an individual whose intolerance of others' opinions causes him to regularly shout his disagreements. The present Fairfax City Council can expect to be permanently "broken up" if these one-man tirades are permitted to continue.

I would like to add that the "strong audience support" for O'Connell during his verbal onslaught came from a pro-Festival group who, earlier in the evening, were unsuccessful in obtaining an affirmative vote for this year's planned event. As a long and consistent critic of some of the goings-on at the last Fairfax Festival (1969), I'm not surprised that I lack some popularity with its proponents.

Strip Mining Calls For Federal Control

Strip-mining has become the number one threat to our attempts to save a little beauty in the natural scene. Ernest Furgurson's column in your April 16 paper should be "must" reading for everyone. Suddenly, strip mining is spreading across our land and is no longer "something they do back in West Virginia and Kentucky." Twenty-six states have coal deposits which invite this practice, which is increasing alarmingly because of more stringent (and expensive) safety regulations for underground mining. The desolation this mining leaves behind turns peaceful beauty into barren moonscapes, causes mud slides and acid run-off that kill streams and lakes, tears whole mountains open, leaving irreparable brown gashes, causing ruination that should be unthinkable in this Age of Ecology.

We must write to the federal government, since the problem crosses state lines, and the mining interests have too strong a strangle-hold on state legislatures to permit regulations, so let Senators Alan Cranston and John Tunney, and Representatives Don Clausen and William Mailliard know how you feel about this.

Procedural Error Not 'Legal Nicety'

Regarding your article "Charges From Motel Drug Raid Booted", April 14, I wish to comment on your unfair editorializing (in what appears to be a news report) that the charges were dismissed because narcotic agents failed to carry out "a legal nicety". As a newspaper which has taken a strong interest in "law and order," you should know that the "nicety" you refer to is the law of the State of California. Section 844 of our Penal Code, the law which the agents failed to comply with, was enacted by our legislature, and sets forth certain procedures that must be followed by the police when they are making an arrest. This law has been upheld by our Supreme Court which has often explained the policies behind the statute, one of which is the protection of the lives of the officers making the arrest.

This slanted reporting causes many people to misunderstand and lose respect for our judicial system. In addition, it is unfair to our judges, all of whom are hard working, conscientious, and have undertaken one of society's most difficult and thankless jobs — the fair and impartial administration of justice.

One accurate way of reporting this story would have been to say that the charges were dismissed by the court because the agents "failed to obey the law." If you wish to report it your way, perhaps you should also be willing to report that certain young people have been arrested because they ignored a legal nicety, in that they were caught smoking marijuana.

It's All There In Memory Bank After You File Your Tax Return

WASHINGTON — It might have come out of one of the surrealists, Kafka or Beckert — that vast computer operation in Martinsburg, W. Va., is a memory bank embracing at least half the citizens in the United States.

When the federal income tax return is complete and dropped in the mail on the fateful deadline, it goes through a preliminary processing before it ends up at Martinsburg; or rather, the pertinent information on magnetic tape becomes part of the Martinsburg memory bank.

Last year 77 million returns, the majority joint returns of husband and wife, were stored in the bank. Corporate returns brought the total to well over 100 million. That so much information can be stored in a building said to be equivalent to a medium-sized warehouse is on the weird side. The explanation is that the information on an individual return can be put on an inch of magnetic tape.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE Service conducts what must surely be the most efficient collection service in the world. At this particular moment it seems all too hideously efficient. No other income tax system can compare with it unless it is that of Great Britain, which casts a net with an even narrower mesh.

With computerization taking over, it is not human error but the automatic response of the machine that angers many taxpayers. The system operates as follows: The individual's return goes to one of seven service centers. A computer operator starts punching buttons, the return is coded, the mathematics verified.

Then what is known as the audit selection system gets into gear. The computer works out the ratio of deductions to income and the return is given a certain score. It is then "eyeballed" by experienced classifiers who examine the print-out.

Several million returns are popped out of the computers to be audited for potential errors. The computerized formula prescribes an audit which means hours of the time of the taxpayer, or his tax lawyer whose fees are deductible, and the international revenue agent. Tax lawyers say the number of audits has doubled or tripled in recent years by reason of this computerization.

IN MANY INSTANCES it is waste motion, since the conclusion is no change in what the taxpayers owe. For the 1969 fiscal year 41 per cent of audits were "no change;" for the following fiscal year it was 36 per cent; and this dropped to 34 in the first seven months of the current year. The IRS rates that as progress. A small proportion of the several million returns that pop out of the computers with potential error are audited if only because the number of revenue agents is limited.

IRS says that the vast fund of information in the Martinsburg memory bank is protected by law from prying eyes. Three committees of Congress — House Ways and Means, Senate Finance and the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation — can get information they require. The Department of Justice can, on a showing of need in connection with a prosecution, get information about any return. So can the governor of a state. After three years the tapes are erased to make way for new returns.

A BITTER FIGHT preceded the adoption in 1912 of the 16th Amendment to the Constitution giving Congress the power to tax incomes, "from whatever sources derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration." It was socialism, the doom of honestly acquired means, the end of free enterprise and incentive to work.

Whatever else it has done, the income tax has not spelled the end of private wealth. Those taxpayers with incomes of over a million dollars a year who pay little or no tax is proof of that. A proliferation of tax lawyers has come into being to translate IRS regulations that fill a thick telephone-size book.

The system contains grave inequities, not the least of which is the scale of tax imposed on a single person as against husband and wife filing a joint return. While there was a minor change, it remains a serious discrimination.

When the new Congress first met there were noises about a value-added tax — in effect, a sales tax —to supplement if not substitute for the income levy. But the income tax promises to be with us for a long time. The Bureau of Internal Revenue has 60,000 permanent employees, with many added at filing time. That is more than the entire federal payroll in Washington in 1912.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

The Story Of Kate Webb: She Had To See For Herself

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Kate Webb is a slender girl with dark brown hair, a shy smile, a great warmth and a great determination. In her spare time she likes to paint in oils.

What really makes her stand out is that she is a war correspondent. In a tough field she is better than able to hold her own.

Last March she put this lead on a story from Phnom Penh:

"The worst time of the day for newsmen in Cambodia is nearly evening when the silent roll call is taken. All present, and faces relax. One missing, and the alert is sounded. Someone riding the roads— perhaps highway 4, 7, 3 or 2—is not back ..."

ON APRIL 7, this alert went up for Kate — missing on Highway 4 after an ambush.

Five others disappeared with her, three Cambodian free lance photographers and two interpreters.

A Cambodian soldier said he saw three Communist soldiers grab her and drag her toward the jungle. She had abandoned the shelter of a ditch to try to get pictures of the action.

Highway 4 runs southwest from Phnom Penh to the port of Kampong Som. Highway 2 runs directly south from Phnom Penh toward the Mekong River Delta of South Vietnam. It was on Highway 2 that UPI men Frank Frosch and Kyoichi Sawada were killed last October. Kate Webb had succeeded Frosch as UPI's Phnom Penh manager.

A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S business is a risky one at best, and Cambodia has been especially costly, nine known dead and 23 missing in a year. International journalists' organizations and their own organizations are pressing the search for the missing through all known channels.

Even among fellow newsmen the war correspondent stands as a man apart. Among the older ones, who may have been there themselves, it is both a recognition of the risks involved and admiration for the sheer endurance it often requires. Among the younger ones it is the glamor, a feeling quickly rubbed off after a few days in the field.

KATE WEBB
Had to see for herself

For the job often is more grime than glamor.

There is little of glamor, for instance, in hunching for hours beneath a pancho in a monsoon rain waiting for a helicopter that may or may not come, the warning shout of "incoming" for the mortar barrages which the Communists throw around like confetti, or in the chill unknown of night sounds.

EDITORS DON'T assign Kate and the others to these missions, in fact the home office usually tries to hold them back. But within them is the same compulsion that is a part of any good reporter, the need to see for themselves.

Kyoichi Sawada, a Pulitzer Prize winner, was one of this correspondent's close friends. I remember the time an American general reprimanded him for walking backward through a mine field to photograph advancing troops. He told Sawada he could get killed that way.

"It's my job," Sawada told him.

Kate Webb also knew the score long before she went out on Highway 4. She had worked through the flames of the Communist Tet offensive in South Vietnam in 1968.

But like the others, she had to see it for herself.

East Side Vs West Side Shows Up In Petaluma Survey

Responses to the Petaluma opinion survey showed many differences in opinions between longtime residents of the west side and largely newcomers on the east side.

While there was agreement in favor of greenbelts, the answers varied greatly on what improvements are needed.

Fifty-nine per cent of those on the west side said more jobs are needed in the city, while only 45 per cent of those on the east side did. Those figures correspond with information that 61 per cent of the west side works locally while 75 per cent of the east side commutes south to jobs in Marin or other sections of the Bay Area.

As was expected, east side residents listed neighborhood parks (59 per cent) and school facilities (41 per cent) as the largest problems. Only 30 per cent of the west side residents saw park problems and only 20 per cent saw a lack in school facilities.

Fifty-four per cent of eastern residents said the moderate price in housing attracted them to Petaluma, while only 18 per cent felt likewise on the west side.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST surprises of the survey completed by 2,400 residents was that the west side voted by 62 per cent to limit Petaluma's population to 40,000 or less while only 46 per cent east of the freeway felt that way.

In most instances, it has been east side residents appearing at city council meetings to urge that growth be slowed until school, park and traffic facilities can be improved to meet current needs.

Another surprising factor showed that less than half (48 per cent) favored improving the Petaluma River and another 40 per cent thought that improvements would be nice, but that the city has more pressing problems.

THE QUESTIONNAIRES are still under study by city officials and have not been released for public scrutiny, but when they are it will be interesting to read comments that were attached.

A portion of the survey form was left blank for written comments, but some residents attached long letters directed to public officials, giving detailed comments about the operation of the city and its problems.

Mayor Helen Putnam realizes that disparaging comments will always be made about public officials in anonymous questionnaire responses, but admits that some of the comments about her administration have been surprisingly nasty.

City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer reportedly also came in for some abuse in the comments, with some suggesting that many of Petaluma's problems are his fault and could be eased if someone else were to take his place.

Back Strain

Beauford Chapman, 40, of 65 Estates Drive, San Anselmo, was treated at 4:45 p.m. Sunday at Marin General Hospital for back strain suffered in an auto accident, the hospital reported yesterday. No additional information was available.

Prospective Disciplinary Officers

A panel of prospective hearing officers for disciplinary cases at Sonoma State College has been named by the Marin County Bar Association.

Under new disciplinary procedures adopted by the State College Board of Trustees, students, faculty members and administrators who have been charged with infractions of college rules will be permitted a hearing before a member of the panel.

In the case of a faculty member, college President Thomas H. McGrath said the hearing officer will gather evidence and report his findings to a faculty committee, which would in turn make a recommendation for judgement to the college president. In the case of students and administrators, the findings would be turned over directly to the president for judgement.

Named to the hearing panel were attorneys Colin C. Claxon, Robert W. Corlett, Michael B. Dufficy, Leland H. Jordan, Robert B. McCreadie and Warren R. Perry. Appointed as alternate officers were Richard R. Breiner and Herbert G. Hawkins.

McGrath said the Sonoma County Bar Association has also been asked to name prospective hearing officers, but has not acted yet.

Correct Occupation

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that Sandra Marshall, a candidate for the Sausalito School District board, is a television director for KTVU, Channel 2. Mrs. Marshall was formerly publicity director for the station, but is now broadcast director for Boisford-Ketchum advertising agency in San Francisco.

Second Audit Asked On Reed Grant Issue

Reed School District trustees decided last night to continue the probe into possible misuse of special grant funds by authorizing a completely new audit of the three grant accounts.

The trustees voted unanimously to call for the new audit after several members of the audience said the district's reputation was at stake because of the questions raised by the auditing firm of Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin.

The firm, in a recent audit, said a lack of internal control over grant monies left in question whether there was improper travel and credit card spending by district officials between 1964 and 1969.

Acting Supt. Lester Dunn told the trustees he would find another outside auditing firm by the May 4 meeting and have someone from the firm on hand that night to receive explicit instructions from the board.

Trustee Leo Souza called for using a firm other than Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin so that the entire problem could be given a "fresh look."

The Reed School District Trustees Also:

CALENDAR — Held over a final decision on a school calendar for next year until the Tamalpais High School District completes its. Dunn, however, said he was proposing that school open Sept. 13 and end on June 15, a total of 177 days of instruction.

DENTAL CARE — Trustees were told that their recently adopted dental care program would cost the district $7.12 per employee per month under a proposed two-year contract.

ANNEXATION — Voted unanimously to send a letter to Corte Madera informing that city that the district had not yet approved annexing 71 acres of land — now proposed for apartment units — into the Reed School District. The land, now in the Mill Valley School District, was allowed to be developed by Corte Madera on the condition that it be annexed to Reed because it is too far from Mill Valley district schools. The area, known as the Boyd Tract, is currently planned for 650 apartment units.

ENROLLMENT — Was told that the district expects a minimum 2 per cent drop in enrollment next year and that this will leave the district overstaffed by four teachers.

Marine Station Summer Program

The University of the Pacific Marine Station at Dillon Beach is offering a summer program in marine science research for college students, Richard Doty, news bureau director, reported today.

Applications are being accepted for two five-week courses, the first from June 21-July 23 and the second, July 26-Aug. 27. and enrollment will be limited because of small classes, Doty said.

Interested students can get further information from the station at Dillon Beach.

Hardware Store Safe Is Looted

The safe at Rex Hardware, 313 B Street, Petaluma, was looted of $650, police reported today.

Officers said the store office had been looted and that the burglars had used tools from the store to pry open the safe.

REA Files Suit Against Union Over Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Railway Express Agency plans to file a $5 million damage suit against the striking clerks union and says it will increase the suit by $1 million per day until the walkout is settled.

About 25,000 employes were involved in the strike Monday by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks (BRAC) over a dispute involving 17 new highway runs in the northeastern United States.

REA President Tom Kole said the strike was illegal and said the BRAC refused to "participate in good-faith bargaining."

The union, which called the walkout at 12:01 a.m. Monday, said REA violated the contract by "arbitrarily lowering wages without negotiating new changes in the rates of pay." Pickets were posted at major airports across the nation.

Peripheral Canal Opponents Rapped

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—State Water Resources Director William Gianelli yesterday likened opponents of the proposed Peripheral Canal to "lemmings" plunging into the sea and took a gentle poke at the news media.

Gianelli warned that conservationist attempts to block the canal through the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta will "create more havoc and environmental damage to the Delta than it has ever before experienced."

In a speech prepared for the power and water committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the state's water chief struck out again at conservationists.

In his prepared text, he didn't identify any by name but last Thursday he denounced the Sierra Club as "publicity seekers" and criticized the conservationist Friends of the Earth.

The Sierra Club opposes the proposed Peripheral Canal which would divert Sacramento River water around the Delta.

Gianelli said the canal won't be needed for 10 years to supply water but is "needed right now" to protect fish, navigational waterways and to aid the sportsman, recreationist and Delta farmer.

Turning to the press, he said it "is unfortunate that so many times we ignore what is right in front of our faces and evaluate water projects only on the basis of what we read in the newspapers and the magazines or what we see on television or hear on radio."
